It was pointed out, that an additional three weeks are now available for playing purposes, owing to the fact that but one team will represent the T.A.B.A. in the O. B. A. A. spring play-downs (ball fall. This decision was forwarded the league secretary, Drs. Walters and Flynn were named as the club physicians, while it was also decreed advisable to insure the players against accident on the field and while proceeding to and from baseball games. The executive are also placing season tickets on sale at the small sum of $1.00 each. At present the club executive has obtain itself to the extent of nearly $400.00 in insurance, paraphernalia and incidentals. The 1934 Belleville Nationals will at least be the best dressed and best equipped club in the circuit. New uniforms, cream and black with the usual black sox with white collars and black caps, have been ordered while each player will be given a red and navy-breaker, most likely dark blue, trimmed with white. All that remains to be done the players, in no way disgrace the new suites, and we aren't it in the spring of 1878 when the National's last purchased new uniforms!" Let's hope history repeats itself.

Apparently it does not take Knotty Lee long to pick out his team. After only two practices the Petersboro sport scribe all but names the starting Petersboro team for the season. He has Ash at the initial sack, Murray, the new comer at second, Kenapka, the import from Detroit, at short with that veteran Ike Batten leading all at the hot corner. At present Len Burton and Tofmy Folley are the only two outstanding performers with Cy Whalley and Cack Rogers doing the receiving. Coach Lee is pinning his hopes on Bill Cackett and Ray Hope for Kitchen for hurling duties. Naturally the usual number of intermediates are making their annual spring trek to Petersboro Memorial Park. Down in Kingston the sport scribe is trying to tell the folks the idea, that Tommy Dowd and Lefty Gee are equally as good as Mickey Cochrane and Vinny McCarthy, while the Nationals, who finished a bad third last season, have the pick of last year's material along with four or five new faces. On paper it looks as though the old C.O.B.J. has still in no way proves a walk-away for any particular club, which is as it should be in baseball circles.

Lou Lemaire, Eldorado Mills had a goodly number of diamond aspirants out to a pre-season work out, Owing to the cloudiness prevailing no batting practice was indulged in, but, a long fly ball and workout prevailed with Smith and Blaker covering first. Jimmy Green back at his old position at the keystone sack and Fred and Ernest Lehy dividing the short field duties. Johnnie Kerr was also present, covering a position at the hot corner, while a grist of outfielders shagged flies until darkness set in. Two pitchers and a catcher, aspirants, Cy Barrage and Bill Hynes were absentees. Dave Rimmer has these boys devoting their time to softball, which practically eliminates them from positions on the baseball diamond. Both of these kids seemed headed towards a promising future in the diamond game, but, no person can be a slave to two masters. Jack Williams, Bud Wilkins and Ernie Smith were seen warming up in the ball pen and were ready for duty most any day now.

Tommy McClure's wrestlers, surely gave the fans plenty to shout about at the Kiwanis show last night. After all a ball club effort is the main-raiser of Trepanski vs. Detton event, as the latter was the first to be staged the fastest and most thrilling bout we've witnessed locally. Matchmaker McClure intimated to us that he would endeavor to re-match these lads again on May 24th. Walter Stratton, the Chicago bedman, most has tired up to his original station, when he continually foiled the Black Panther of Harlem. While Jack Thomas won the applause of the fans to win the main go. Underhill, though opposed, proved no easy going grappler as he reverted to practically every known unorthodox means to win. In all the favorites all wins, much to the satisfaction of the fans present, but, as Referee McClure stated between bouts these showers deserve a better following. The wrestlers are planning to return to Belleville on May 24th, with Ted Travis, that well-known California bedman, as Jack Thomas' opponent. Without fear of contradiction we say, that last night's bouts were the speediest ever seen in a local ring and a return show should assert double the crowd.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

WNU Service

SO Hopsy started for Key-West. On the boat on which he travelled there was a Magistrate whose manners kept pointing from his eye to dangle on his waistcoat. With him was a Mrs. Simpkinson accompanied by her daughter Ethel, elegantly or sunk into a silence that was pronounced. They seemed to contrast oddly with the gay couples who were going home to keep up bargains in leas and fans or of their luck at speculation.

As Noyes studied the two men sat Aubrey was saying in his cool voice, "Of course, of all, of course, we must find this Angela."

The Judge whom he called Billings agreed. "That will be easy enough," he promised.

Sir Aubrey drew a sigh of relief. He began to think of introducing Pabllo at Lower Jurings. The boy's resemblance to the family might be marked. Sir Aubrey longed to meet the boy's father and hear his monocle which had dropped to the end on his tan, dark blue-breasted waistcoat. Then he inserted the monocle, the proper scene and murmured, "Charming weather! Quite refreshing, you know, after that dreadful heat."

It was the next day that they found Angela, sitting on the steps of the church steps. She heard their arrival through a window and for a few moments was silent. Then she served with a gasp that she had the boy and that he was as a hero to her.

At the moment, however, he was absent. He was fishing elsewhere; she did not know exactly where. She rose pallidly and stiffly from the steps, pressing her glory with many unnecessary words and unnecessary gestures.

"She's lying," said Billings as he watched her narrowly. "Either she wants to hide the boy from us or she doesn't know where he is. I'm going to find out about this!"

A few hours later Billings did find out about it. He learned from a woman who had been Angela's neighbour, but not her friend, that Angela had abused the boy frightfully and that years before had had to run away from it his mercy alone knew where!

It was said that the boy had been seen upon one of the Keys in company with a man, dark as Old Nassau's.

Sir Aubrey Angela's former lover repealed. Alas, Sanium had gone to his rest, or—as some said—his punishment. He had not been too good but then, old crone added hastily, who was? It was not Christian to speak ill of the dead nor was it lucky. Piously she crossed herself.

"I will take some work to track this down." Billings confided to Sir Aubrey "I've been out in a hell of league that was airless and hot. "It can't all be fun in a day," he added as he flicked the ashes from his cigar. He frowned as he spoke.

"Doubtless not." Sir Aubrey agreed.

"I'll have to find the name of the man who unofficially adopted the boy and where he is, if he's still alive. Every minute's time for me came brisk. "we still have hope!"

CHAPTER XXIV

Angela hobbled back to her shack and packed her belongings. There was scarcely more to do than to slip a bottle of gin in the front of her dress. This done, she hobbled forth again. If she would go to the swamp for a little while, she decided. She did not wish to encounter the inquisitive strangers again. Picturesquely she cursed them. If they coming should disturb the touristly remittance from Cuba for caring for Pablo what would become of her!

She wept, whining vituperation and curses as she went.

At the edge of the swamp she pulled her sagging skirts high and waded cautiously, a wary eye out for alligators and water moccasins. Again on land, she on his way, was called the "Slave's Way" because years before many slaves had followed this route, seeking freedom.

When she stepped into the first clearing she jumped so that a twinge of rheumatism made her wince. Someone else had sought the shelter of the swamp—a man.

"Good day, mother," he said easily. He, too, looked startled. He hoped she had not noticed this but she had seen it and smiled shyly.

"Quite, dear heart."

But her mother spoke slowly now with long pauses between her words and always there was the flash of the fan or other sudden classics and the brightness of it in her eyes.

Norma Field died in October. The day was Pablo's fifteenth birthday, a day when the mountains were lapped with pink and gold and purple and the air was like spring.

She had never seemed better. Pablo had laughed with her that morning over some birthday present long that had amused them both. Then Mrs. Field had said she wanted to rest and Estelle had gone to the garden to look at the mountains, the changes of which never failed to enhance her.

She returned at luncheon time to meet the day nurse. "Dear, don't come in now" the nurse ordered sharply. Estelle laid her down. The nurse did not stop to help her, she hurried back to her patient.

"Sis" Field came soon. Estelle had not cried until she met my uncle. So you're hurting orchids! Already the sun was at the trees had chased you 100 miles."

She spoke a stiff variety of Spanish and she concluded that he was a nuisance. She was always hiding.

"Sweet grant that you find your orchids!" she murmured. "Now, my child, you must have your lunch."

She was certain now. The man was from another province, or even one. And she would have her reward.

Above them the trees grew unusually high for swamp ground. Through the leaves they could see the roof. Now and again, a last shrivel of smoke. Pablo was cooking for Noyes. Norma had left and thick and gray over everything within the shack, the Cuban boy tattled to. Now, the shack looked as though it had been deserted for months.

"Hello still!" he repeated with a lift or the shoulders and outflung hands. "Pablo!" (Nobody there, nobody!")

And you went into the swamp!" Pablo added, his hard, muscles strained and tense as he faced for the third time the deserted table.

The boy hesitated a moment. Then he spoke. He had gone into the swamp, he reassured his conscience. Not far, to be sure, yet he had gone into the swamp.

"Senor gone, si, Senor!" He answered "(Surely yes!")

Then he wiped his brow although the day was not over-warm, behind and forehead by a cool breeze that had had its start in a late, northern thunderstorm. That wrung, the boy faced; he would never forget. The place had been as black as the inside of the devil's cauldron. Half way toward its darkest gloom he had come across a thick, wicked old woman who had seemed a witch. She was lying on a pallet with one leg twisted under her and she had screamed as he had never heard a woman scream.

He had backed away from her, asking haltingly, "Old woman, can I help you? May I send for anyone you from Key West?"

Setting he had decided that. sin or not, he could not touch her! And she had answered, shrieking, "No! Not from Key West! To have a daughter who will come to me!"

Ah, her troubles! Angela should disturb the pain that confused her. Help from Key West would deliver her! Not for power of the strangers who had inquired about the boy left in her care.

The orchid hunter would help her, she knew. He had the evil eyes which deny an enjoyment of torture.

"Go, stranger and with God" she repeated between her groans. He like Cabeza de Vaca had gone after one last glance toward the darkness of the shack to encounter and after crossing himself.

Pablito, in the house of Cerro, sank back in his chair, his brow furrowed. He had grown older in a very short time. He was still sure that some day, some how he would locate Noyes and that again they would dwell in that room he had thought of as close to Heaven.

He arose to pay the messenger and the boy, reassured him with the fact that he had been in the swamp, went on his way.

Lolita appeared then. "Too bad, honey," she said, laying a hand on Pablito's shoulder. He realized that the only sincere kindness he knew these days came from Lolita. He thought, "Some time, in some way, I must repay her."

And that way sprung from his sense of fairness, grew into a heavy sense of duty but his gratitude was to lie dormant then he could guess.

Norma Field and Estelle had settled in Tucson, Ariz, Norma, knowing that she could not live long, clutched the hours with Estelle jealously. Meanwhile she wore a brave pretense of feeling better.

Estelle sat by her mother's bed constantly, watching with tragic young eyes and smiling dutifully.

"Darling, you should go out more; you should get more exercise."

"But I'd rather be here."

"I'm afraid it must be rapid, oh you, dear, penned up with me."

"I want to be here, mother," Estelle insisted in a real fear during those days. She thought of the past and of what was ahead. She had begun to understand her father through his attitude about Pablito. He had been ruthless in refusing to listen to her defense of the boy. He would be kind, she realized, so long as he had his way and wholly cruel if antagonized. She feared the years when she must be alone with him.

"Are you comfortable, mother?" and cheer and depart declaring emphatically that it was never more beautifully dressed spot! was good.

"Juanito" and his opponent had met in a cozy place and the sunshine was usually stored. Lanterns appeared the only light and the cocktails were dark. Pablito, standing aged and waiting, saw a set of swarthy faces. Then Beau rose to his feet. Presently Beau rose to his feet again, as the boy who was the cause of the trouble left the room. Blood was on his face, streaming from a cut over his eye. Juanito followed him and Pablito grinned at him ardently. Then again the bell rang.

When at last the sailor was lying down to sleep, breathing heavily, Pablito crept to his corner and sank into his shack. The corners were screaming their approval. Money was coming hitch, for Pablito rose, spoke a few words, and the corners screamed mad. He spoke Spanish perfectly. He was one of themselves but he was a hero.

Soon afterward the proprietor of the athletic club heard of this new boxer, "Juanito," and benefited up Beau.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

While in the temple and palace of A-lur search went for the vanished ape-man, there entered the gorge of Kor-ul-ja a naked, giant stranger. Down the steep mountains he made his determined way, bearing an Enfield upon his broad back. Along the ancient trail at the gorge's bottom he moved with easy stride and as he rounded a sharp cliff the stranger came suddenly face to face with one who was ascending the gorge. It was Ta-den, hunting alone. Both men halted and surveyed one another. The pithecanthropus beheld the stranger with surprise but no wonder, since he recognized in him a member of the same race as his lost friend, Tarzan the Terrible. The stranger made the first sign of his intentions, the universal gesture of peace. With palm raised he advanced a few steps. Ta-den, assuming that one so like Tarzan must be his fellow tribesman, was glad to accept this overture of peace and came forward. "We are few," he said, for the naked giant only shook his head to signify that he did not understand

By signs he tried to carry to the Ho-don the fact he was following a trail that had led him many days from far away. At last Ta-den was convinced the newcomer sought Tarzan-jad-guru, but he wished he might discover whether as friend-or foe. The stranger sought to conceal his astonishment at the other's long tail, queer thumbs and great toes, but was relieved to find the creature friendly. Ta-den decided he would take the stranger to Om-at, the chief, and there possibly they would find means to learn the true intentions of this latest tailless man.

'Twas but a short distance to the cave village, Taden led the way aloft upon the wooden pegs. The stranger followed as easily as had Tarzan the Terrible before him, and presently the two stood in the presence of the great chieftain. Ta-den explained the circumstances of their meeting. "And I believe," he concluded, "that he seeks none other than Tarzan-jad-guru." At the sound of that name, the first word he had understood since coming among these creatures, the stranger sprang up, a startled expression on his face, and cried suddenly, "Tarzan! Tarzan, does he live?"

PICKED TYPES TOBACCO LEAF ADVOCATED

Selling of Top Price For Lower Grades is Proposed

MARION ON STAND

Cigar Manufacturer Charges Attempt to Run Him Out

OTTAWA, May 10.(CP)—Establishment of a top-price for mild-cured grades of tobacco together with a guaranteed market require growers to raise only certain types of leaf more advanced as a step to-ward improving the Tobacco growing industry, by Joseph Marion, Mayor of ex. Jacques L'Achigan, Que., before the Riverside Marketing Board established here today. Mr. Marion, who is both a grower and a tobacco man, gave his evidence in French with one of the official translators of the House of Commons acting as interpreter.

He told of petitions circulated around throughout the counties of L'Assomption, Montcalm and Joliette, by the large tobacco growers favoring the imposition of a 20-cent excise tax on leaf to-bacco sold to others than manufacturers. The excise a means was said for stabilizing. At the same time another petition opposing this tax was circulated, said Mr. Marion, and 75 per cent. of those who signed the first petition also signed the second one.

The effect of such a tax would have been to eliminate a large number of people handling the to-bacco, controlled by control by a few big manufacturing companies.

Hector Charlebois, a cigar manufacturer of L'Epiphanie, Que., told the commission the Imperial Tobacco Company of Montreal, tried to run him out of business. Some time ago a representative of the Montreal Company told him to quit and sell them his factory or they would build a factory near his. He refused to sell and completing the story was built and in the last five months prices dropped from 6,000,000 to 1,000,000 cigars "because of the influence of the Imperial Tobacco Company on dealers, retail-ers and jobbers".

The Imperial Company, Mr. Charlebois said, warned all jobbers not to buy his products and that representatives instructed merchants not to display his goods.

MISS PICKFORD IN OWN CITY

Mayor Stewart Calls Her "Most Beloved Star"

Toronto, May 10.—(CP)—Toronto today received a native daughter who wandered from a little brick home in down-town street to climb to the height of stardom in the moving picture world.

The crowds that welcomed Mary Pickford, "America's screen sweetheart" as the station today were undemonstrative in comparison with those which fought to see her across the border. No one asked for autographs. A wave of hand-clapping was heard as she stepped from the train but the crowd had dispersed before she had crossed to the Hotel.

At the civic reception for the Toronto-born actress at the city hall, Mayor William J. Stewart greeted her with: "I am indeed delighted to have the honor to extend to you, madam, the world's most popular and most beloved star of screen, stage, silence and song, hearty welcome on behalf of the city, upon the triumphant return to the city of your birth."

Mayor Stewart suggested it would be a gracious thing for some group to present a portrait of Mary Pickford to the corporation to hang in the city hall among the portraits of other famous men and daughters.

AT THE BELLE

Fannela In Quaint Role of Staid Wife

In Gay Night Club

Despite the fact that Louise Fazenda has never been the star in any important motion picture, she is better known and more popular today than many stars who loomed brighter for awhile and then waned.

She has made herself one of the real personalities of Hollywood and has friends scattered all over the four corners of the globe. All this is probably due to her sense of humor.

Louise accepted her roles and characterizations with a whimsical humor that has carried her much further than those who had nothing but beauty to offer the screen.

In the Warner Bros. all-star extravaganza "Wonder Bar" at the Belle tonight and Friday matinee and evening, Louise plays the role of a mid-west American tourist adrift in the whirl of Parisian night life.

Jack Conway Teams Tone Co-star

It was his work in "Success Story", one of the outstanding legitimate dramatic hits of 1932 that opened Hollywood's gates to Franchot Tone who co-stars with Constance Bennett in the dazzling of song and romance, "Moulin Rouge" that features Russ Columbo, the Revered Sisters, Georgia Carmichael and the Moulin Rouge Girls, coming to the Belle Saturday and Monday, starting at 10 a.m.

Tone is the second son of Frank J. Tone, President of the Carborundum Company, and was born in Niagara Falls, New York. He attended private schools in Niagara Falls, Kansas, Lake and Pasadena and in the states of Pennsylvania and Florida. Later he graduated with honors at Cornell and during his stay there became President of its Cornell Dramatic Club and later served as assistant professor of Romance languages. He also attended a summer session at the University of Rennes, in France.

Returning to America he secured an engagement with a theatrical stock company in Buffalo, New York, attracting favorable attention and progressing thence to New York where he appeared in "The Belle" and later in "The Age of Innocence" with Katherine Cornell.

His work in the latter brought him a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and his appearance in the Shopworn Angel, "Gentlemen Re-turn" and "Dancing Lady."

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE LOST PATROL"
Daringly Different—Intensely Dramatic

Grimly and magnificently realistic in background, powerful in drama, swift and dramatic in action, "The Lost Patrol," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is one of those pictures which come along once so often to bar screen entertainment out of any semblance of a rut.

Strikingly different is this epic of fighting men, pitted against nature in the desert. Played with tremendous virility by a great cast including Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, Wallace Ford, Reginald Denny, and a notable array of supporting artists, the production is directed with a masterful hand by John Ford.

RKO-Radio Pictures wisely decided to film this entire production on an actual desert locale, and the hardships endured by cast and company pay ample dividends in authenticity of mood, and rare-often savage—beauty of scenery.

The story is that of a patrol of British cavalrymen who are lost on the Mesopotamian desert and their officer is killed by Arabs. Under the command of the next in-nerved sergeant, they take refuge in an oasis, where they become the virtual prisoners of their invisible but ever vigilant enemies.

Lightened frequently by comedy, tinged with romance, and often touched by pathos, the record of the doomed patrol is mostly one of sheer drama, which reaches stirring heights in a surprising climax.

Standing out among the superbly portrayed characters are the heroic figure of the sergeant, played by Victor McLaglen, and the pathetic and somehow noble religious leader made to live and breathe by Karloff.

Based upon the novel "Patrol," by Philip McDonald, the screen play was by Dudley Nichols and Garrett Fort, and to this array of writing talent must go a generous share of the credit for a picture which audiences and critics will remember and praise long after most contemporary films are forgotten.

Together with this unusual feature will be shown an Andy Clyde comedy, "Prune Assets", "Football Work" a spotlight; Capitol News of World Events.

Matinee daily 2.30. Evening: 7.15, 9.00. Feature starts 3.10; 7.55 and 9.45.

Former Oil Promoter Consigned to Elements in Beggar's Coffin

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Shanghai, May 11—(CP)—C. C. Julian was consigned to the elements today in a beggar's coffin.

The body of the Manitoban promoter who died yesterday came ensconced to great heights in California and Oklahoma oil fields and ended in suicide here March 25 reached its final resting place in an obscure corner of Shanghai's foreign cemetery.

Miss Leonora Levy, the Spanish Jewess who sought to accompany Julian in death by taking the same kind of poison, but who recovered, was the sole mourner.

Dressed in a snow white ensemble, Miss Levy appeared at the cemetery as Julian's body began the last lap of its journey.

When the cheap, unadorned pine casket was lowered into the ground, the young woman wept bitterly. Then alone, she turned dejectedly away.

The Rev. Emory Luccock of Oak Park Ill., pastor of Shanghai American community church, who granted Julian a religious funeral service March 26, completed his task this afternoon.

In the brief commitment service, Mr. Loccock prayed, that Julian's "life eternal may be completed of experiences different than those making up his earthly career." . .

WHEAT PARLEY DISAGREES ON PRICE PACT

Adjournment Until June 17 When Argentine Fails to Support Pact

WILL CARRY ON

Sub-committee Appointed Will Try an Alternative Plan

(By George Hambleton)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 11—(CP Cable)—The World Wheat Conference today adjourned until June 27, failing to get agreement that would permit putting into effect a minimum wheat price agreement in the near future.

The break over the price pact, drawn up at Rome last month, came when Argentina refused to commit herself to the Canada, Australia, the United States and the Argentine group of international wheat exporters. The Argentine came not announced but assumed to be Argentina was unable to support the scheme.

Leading members of the Conference felt that in view of the lack of unanimity among the exporting countries, further consultations, of the plan in the next few days is unnecessary.

That means the Rome Pact for minimum prices for World Export Wheat, dumped in the lap of the Conference up to 10 per cent over present levels, is dead in its present form.

But the Conference appointed a sub-committee which will carry on the work. It will meet in London today to consider alternative plans.

Communique Issued

The following official communique was issued at the close of the meeting:—

"The Wheat Advisory Commission, reinforced by representatives of those countries signatory to the (London) Agreement but not members of the Export Group, resumed consideration at to-day's sitting of the minimum price plan recommended to the governments following the Rome meeting.

"At the previous sub-committee of the present session a number of important new details have been dealt with. At today's sitting representatives of the Governments stated their attitude regarding acceptance of the plan in principle.

"With one exception the exporting countries have given their approval. Others felt that lack of unanimity among the exporting countries rendered unnecessary any further consideration of the plan in its present form.

"The Wheat Advisory Commission appointed a sub-committee consisting of representatives of Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Canada and Australia to meet forthwith and consider fully possible alternative plans to stabilize the international wheat prices. The sub-committee will present recommendations to be forwarded to the governments prior to the next meeting of the Wheat Advisory Commission which meets in London on June 27.

Argentine Exceeds Quota

It was learned the Argentine delegates had been refused the suggestion that they be given export allowances by the other three big exporters. The latter felt that they reported complaining turning over 15,000,000 bushels their annual world limit to Argentine in this crop year in an effort to increase this year.

The Argentine, with a crop estimated already used up more than 96,000,000 bushels out of her 1933-34 quota of 180,000,000 bushels are that she will exceed her quota by 20,000,000 bushels before the year ends.

The Argentines all along have held the price scheme would not work in practice. Neither of their delegates, Tomple Le Brenton and A. Ferreyra Thompson, attended the final meeting, communicating detailed refusal of the plan through the Argentine Embassy.

In addition it was surmised that Britain might have expressed reservations in the statement in view of remarks about too much government control. Britain is represented outside the Conference by Sir Herbert Dixon, British delegate and head of the London Grain Exchange.

ITALY'S ROYALTY SHORN OF POWER

The voice of Premier Benito Mussolini (right foreground in circle), is destined to echo through the corridors of Italy's history, as he reads his speech at the opening of the last of the Italian parliaments. The camera was lucky enough to record some of the color of the scene. On the throne is King Victor Emmanuel, with the royal princess seated on the dais beside him. On the balcony above is the Queen and the Royal Princess. When this parliament adjourns there will be no other. In the future all legislative power will be vested in the Fascist grand council. Of great importance was the fact that Mussolini, when presenting the deputies in their allegiance to the king, omitted the customary phrase: "And to his royal successors."

INSULL GIVES CHALLENGE

Refuses to Admit Legality of Arrest at Istanbul

Chicago, May 11.—(AP)—Samuel Insull refused today to acknowledge the jurisdiction of the United States District Court and uttered no plea to the charge of violating the Bankruptcy Act and using the mails fraudulently in selling his company stocks.

Brought from the county jail for his formal arraignment before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, the 74-year-old utilities magnate silent and aloof while his counsel entered a plea challenging his seizure in the Harbor of Smyrna as illegal and refusing to plead him guilty or not guilty.

His fellow defendants on the bankruptcy charge, however, entered their pleas of not guilty, and Judge Sullivan, without discussing the value of Insull's contention, postponed the hearing until next Tuesday.

Insull immediately relayed to the Judge's Chambers and his Attorney, Floyd E. Thompson, announced that surety companies were scheduling the $500,000 bond which would make unnecessary his return to the county jail.

BRITISH DEBT AND SURPLUS

Sir John Simon Says Situation is Not Understood

London, May 11 (C. P. Cable)—The Chancellor that Britain is able to pay her huge war debt to the United States simply because she was inscribed as fallacious by Sir John Simon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

While London and other leading newspapers criticized as unfair any suggestion that the United States loan may be considered in default or her war debt payments, Sir John referred to the question during a speech at Manchester.

Sir John declared that he was not speaking for the government, but for himself he said world trade could not stand the transfer of huge sums of money without a corresponding balance.

It is an injury to world trade and world recovery, if we are to contemplate the transfer of enormous quantities, which we indeed receive in the form of goods, but which we are asked to pay back in the form of money," he said.

MAY AMEND GRAIN ACT

Garnet Wheat Would Be Given Separate Grading

Toronto, May —May and June are probably the two best months in which to visit the British West Indies, according to a bulletin issued today by Canadian National Steamships.

The information refutes a popular conception that the islands of the Caribbean and Bermuda are expensive resorts. Ocean breezes and cool nights make most of the Caribbean islands, which lie even in mid-summer, says the bulletin, delightful resorts. Cuba, which is in South America, is included in the Caribbean chain. The port of call, Georgetown, B.G., is usually no more "torrid" in summer than is Montreal, or Toronto.

DOG OWNERS MUST PAY TAX

Many Cases Are Dismissed as Owners Summoned Had Paid Tax

Charged with being the owner, possessor, or harborer of a dog, a number of local citizens appeared in police court this morning before Magistrate Millet for non-registering and evading the purchase of their 1934 dog tax. With one exception the cases were all dismissed as the defendants had paid the necessary tax since receiving their summons.

The sole case in which the owner of the dog could not raise the price of the tag, the dog was ordered destroyed. "I'm unemployed, sir, and can't pay the tax. We've had this dog for eleven years," stated the accused man.

"We don't make the city bylaws and I can't treat you any differently than others who have already paid the tax. Either pay the tax or have the dog destroyed," said the magistrate.

At conclusion of court Mr. Millet announced that more drastic stand would be taken in such cases hereafter, as it was pointed out by Chief Hind that a large number of dogs owned in the city were running about not registered and without the necessary tag. "The fine is $20 and costs for this offence, and then the owner has to purchase a tag just the same," declared the Chief Constable.

The registration of dogs is far in arrears of that of former years in the city, according to the police department.

Batoche Scrap is Recalled by Veterans

Forty-nine years ago tomorrow, May 12th, the battle of Batoche was fought and won, while Louis Bell, the leader of the rebels was captured the following day. Tomorrow three local citizens will recall these old days of the North-western Rebellion and perhaps meet once again to reminisce the last battle in which they appeated. The three men left in Belleville of "A" Company of the Midland Battalion under Col. Williams of Port Hope, which together marched away to the rebellion are William Arle, Jesse W. Barlow and Lou Soules.

The trio of local soldiers to still remain to tell the tale in this city all took part in that historical battle of Batoche, north Saskatchewan, when after defeating and routing the rebels, the rebellion was subsided. The battle of Batoche was fought May 12th, 1885.

ASKS COMPANY FOR DONATION IS ALLEGED

ADVANCE TIP-OFF

Claims One Company Knew of Budget Changes Before Announcement

Ottawa, May 11 (CP)—Political campaign funds and their alleged value in obtaining favours from governments have been injected into the parliamentary mass buying committee's probe of the tobacco industry.

They caused one of the liveliest sittings yet held by the committee yesterday, when Walter M. Stewart, President of the W. C. Macdonald Tobacco Company, of Montreal, took the stand and launched an attack against the government prior to being examined as to the position of the company and its tobacco buying policies.

Macdonald's was the second large tobacco firm to be questioned, for several days before this official of the Imperial Tobacco Company have been questioned by the committee.

Mr. Stewart started his testimony by asking leave to question three unnamed Ministers on "buying" for the government. When sold he was there to answer questions, not to ask them; he alleged he had been solicited for a contribution to the Conservative campaign funds in 1930 by one Ward, Private Secretary to Mr. Bennett, now to the present Prime Minister.

Alleges Advanced Information.

He then alleged a three per cent tomorrow had advanced information of the reduction in the excise duty on cigarettes made in the budget of 1932 and suggested this was the result of campaign fund contributions. He had learned, he said, the Imperial Tobacco Plant at Hamilton owned by the Imperial Tobacco Company had been idle on the eve of the budget anticipating the tax reduction.

The Macdonald Company got no such tips, he said, because they made no contribution and maintained no lobbies at Ottawa.

The tobacco magnate, however, proclaimed his independence of other companies as well as of governments and political parties.

"I am willing to discuss anything with competition," was his reply to a suggestion, that tobacco manufacturers join in a plan to raise prices paid the farmers.

The MacDonald Company, he explained, bought its tobacco direct from the growers but made its purchases through the Model Tobacco Company, a subsidiary, and other dealers.

Over Production Cause

Over-production was the cause of the 30 percent drop in tobacco prices since 1930, said Mr. Stewart. He said growers might be well-advised to pick up their fields.

The sole owner of the Macdonald Company, Mr. Stewart said he had been in the business by the founder, the late Sir William MacDonald, who died in 1917. Since then he had bought out his brother's interest. His own salary but since 1930 withdrew $5,000 a week, as accumulated profits of the firm of $4,500,000 had been drawn from the capital of the company. In 1930, "this company was not subject to income tax."

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES IN FIELD 53

Premier Henry Says Debt Caused by People Demanding Improvements

Hepburn Goes Farther With His "Toll Gate" Charges

Toronto, May 11.— Conservative candidates in the running for the Ontario general elections today reached 53 as the government supporters continued forming their ranks for voting day. Two more Conservatives were placed in the field last night with the Liberals selecting another candidate to bring their number to 78.

T. H. Lancaster was unanimously chosen Conservative candidate in Peterboro riding yesterday, where Premier George S. Henry addressed the convention. The other Conservative candidates to be nominated were A. Fred Singer, chosen by Toronto Bathurst's Conservatives. The Liberal candidate is Albert E. Lyon of Perth who will contest Lancaster.

Mr. Lancaster, editor of the Havelock Standard, at present represents Peterboro County riding in the legislature but he was selected for the new riding when G. F. Shiland, MP, nominated five other members withdrew. Mr. Singer also is the publisher of the Toronto St. Andrew's.

Although F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, addressed the Lanark convention, Premier Henry renewed his charges against the government regarding the sale of a "toll gate" system in the Ontario legislature. He challenged Premier Henry to ask Ray Price, Conservative candidate in West York, if Mr. Price had been or was still Ontario agent for Teachers' whiskey.

Uphold Gov't. Expenditures.

Ray Price's brother Harry is present member for West York but is not running in this election and has denied connection with Ontario distilleries that sold to the Ontario Liquor Commission. Mr. Hepburn alleges British distillers are forced to obtain agents before placing their liquor with the commission.

Premier Henry in his Peterboro address upheld government expenditures and declared that much of the provincial indebtedness included increases that would bring valuable returns. He said of the $50,000,000 required by the government, only $5,000,000 was obtained by direct taxation and declared the people suffered from municipal taxes levied for improvement they had demanded.

Toronto St. David's North Conservatives meet today to choose a candidate. Premier Henry speaks at Marmora while Mr. Hepburn will appear with Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King before the Toronto Women's Liberal meeting. South East Conservatives met in Kingsville to select a candidate and Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, will be the speaker.

CHOICE STEERS ARE MARKETED

Beatty Brothers of Fergus Make Record Sale

Another load of choice Manitoulin steers was marketed by Beatty Bros. Limited this week. Lyman D. Smith of Belwood bought this load at the highest price paid for any cattle bought at Fergus this season. There were twenty-nine head in the load without a cull. Mr. Walker, the Farm Manager, gives credit to the Manitoulin breeders for the splendid finish he was able to put on these steers. He says every one was an easy feeder.

Mr. William Hilliard of Kagawong selected these steers especially for Beatty Bros. from the following Manitoulin Farmers: Dougal Campbell, John Green, Kagawong, Hon. Wm. Wilson, Albert Wilson, H. W. Bule, James Haner, Providence Bay, Alfred Brandow, Robert Pickard, Ice Lake.

The feeder who ships in the steers this week will have good years as well as bad. Last year with Beatty Bros. and Beatty Bros. made a spread of only $450.00 on a load of Manitoulin steers, but this season, although they paid more than $1.00 per cwt. more for their cattle last Fall, they made a gross margin of over $1,000.00. Part of this extra margin was on account of increasing the number from 25 to 29 head.

These cattle were fed all home grown feed produced on the Beatty Farm,—good mixed hay, corn silage, Beatty Bros. own grain and amount of ground, mixed grain. Of course they had water before them continuously.

Beatty Bros. have proven that although it costs a little more to feed cattle more, they are easier to feed and finish, and the profit in finding a buyer for them at top market price.

WOMAN HELPS POLICE WORK

Shot by Gangsters Who Figured She "Knew too Much"

Philadelphia, May 11—(AP) — Mrs. Leonora Gooslyn Fontaine 21, Ottawa matron who was wounded in an alleged gang shooting in suburban Upper Darby several days ago, was removed from a hospital today and started back to Washington under convoy of three automobiles containing nine detectives and policemen and two policewomen.

Her release from the hospital was ordered by William J. McCarter, Jr., Delaware County District Attorney.

Police have ascribed Mrs. Fontaine's wounding in an Upper Darby apartment to gangsters, who feared she "knew too much."

Since the shooting, police have questioned her intermittently and they say she has helped them in a drive to round up a gang believed to be responsible for three slayings, a bank robbery and several holdups.

Police said today they believed she can give Washington authorities valuable information concerning the two men who shot her.

Police were called and are investigating this afternoon to learn whether the bones are animal or human.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

A New Type of Calendula

The All-American Sunshine or Chrysantha Calendula

A new calendula, with flowers of a type quite different from the old form of this flower, and a habit of growth more pleasing for garden use, was awarded a gold medal in the All-American trials of new varieties this year.

It is a Calendula Sunshine, and was originated in Australia. Its color is buttercup yellow, a delicate hue which blends most pleasingly with blues, and even pinks. Its botanical name is Calendula chrysanthus, or chrysanthemum-like. Instead of the petals being arranged in a closely overlapping rosette, they are more like those of a double aster, each petal growing directly from the centre, slightly incurving and relieved.

The foliage is much finer than the older type, and the stems more slender and graceful, making the plant as a whole more pleasing in the border. It grows two and a half feet high, and the flowers reach a diameter of four inches.

"The calendula is a hardy annual, which means that it may be sown out-doors as soon as the soil can be put into condition. It germinates quickly and grows rapidly, and if faded blooms are removed before seed can be formed, it will bear flowers until killing frosts arrive in the fall.

One of the ambitious flowers, the Calendula has responded with great willingness to the efforts of flower breeders. In recent years the old type has been improved so much in size and vigor that it has become one of the important cut flowers for green-house production. It was handicapped in the garden by large, somewhat coarse and greenish-like leaves, and stiffness of the stems and the formal regularity of its blossoms. The new type retains all these handicaps and may inaugurate another great advance in this flower family.

For Gardening Success!

Feed everything you grow with Vigoro, the complete, balanced plant food. It contains all of the elements plants need to grow the soil to produce rich, green, velvety lawns; beautiful flowers; full-filled shrubs and trees and tasty, delicious vegetables.

Vigoro is clean, odorless, and economical. It's the square meal for all plants.

MARY PICKFORD

Citizens of Belleville may be grateful to Mayor Tice for the effort he made to bring the noted Canadian screen star, Mary Pickford, here for a day during which time she would receive the freedom of the city. Unfortunately she cannot come on her present visit to Toronto.

But she has promised to make it a point to stop off here a day when she next comes to Canada.

Belleverillians whose knowledge of films have been associated with Miss Pickford will not forget that in the not too distant future they may see Mary face to face. With the progress of movies Miss Pickford remains one of the greatest names in connection with the film world.

Speaking of Mary Pickford as a screen heroine, one has only to remember the wonderful name she built up as an interpreter of child roles and to recall that in all the films in which she has appeared there has never been any criticism from the score of their unfitness for presentation as there is now being said about certain films. The films in which she made her way were good clean stories with the Christian virtues and institutions exalted.

DESTRUCTION OF SURPLUS

Destruction of surplus production to bring prosperity, it is said, is spreading to Europe. Barnia News Observer says that Holland is going to destroy one hundred thousand head of valuable dairy cattle to put the business on a paying basis.

In many places there is fear of the methods used in righting the problem due to overproduction. Man has not yet sufficient control of the weather, of the seasons and the crops to know whether or not famine may not strike. Depressions by restriction through the ages have surely could not equal in horror a worldwide famine.

Many odd cures have been suggested for the ills of the body politic and economic but this perhaps excels them all for sheer originality.

As the Canadian Observer points out these methods are contrary to all the principles of thrift which have been taught in the past."

EXERCISE AND DIET

Moderns have not the opportunity of full exercise which would keep them in health, therefore they have to be careful of what they eat. We will explain the tremendous stress which is laid today on the question of diet with so many fads practised and also silly notions gaining away.

With the prospect of more exercise or at least time for leisure at the hours of work lessen according to the prospects of labor unions, man will doubtless give more and more to diet and to dry. With hastened hours of labor and less hard work, perhaps the consumption of food will fall off to a low degree and therefore less exercise will be necessary. Yet it must be remembered that some men in rather inactive professions eat huge meals, even more than some stout men.

But man will find a way for the solution of all these problems. He will learn by what he eats and by what he does not eat what is good for him.

STOP-SIGNS

Motorists in Belleville ought not to feel at all peevish over the decision at the beginning of the busy road season to put charges against those who ignore the law regarding stop signs.

Laws are made for safety when the reason has come which would otherwise bring grave menace to life, limb and property.

The man who breaks the law may escape an accident. He ought not to escape the fine because he is a potential doer of injury, either to himself or others.

There are some of our laws which may be called troublesome but the stop-street law is not one of them. It can put up a successful defence against any charge of being a nuisance.

Stop streets not only mean safer traffic-but an orderly traffic and a more expeditious movement of motorists.

Therefore motorists should obey rules.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE

When science settles a question it is settled for Rev. Dr. E. Leslie Pidgeon of Montreal, he stated in an address to the Rotary Club in that city. The day has passed when a man had to pay for religion at the price of intellectual suicide, he declared. "If divine revelation is to have any social value it must be embodied in the flesh. The difficulty is that when this happens, the revelation ceases to be dynamic. We are living in a world of intelligence, a universe which is gradually unfolding and revealing its secrets. The universe is homeward bound gathering treasure as it goes. The trouble is that our faithless have gone faster than our moral beings. We cannot prevent great movements from arising out of the nature of things. Yet essentially our interests are together and not apart and only when we ties of being flow as a unity will there be peace on earth.

NOW THAT THE BIRDS HAVE RETURNED, bird lovers everywhere will return to the discussion of WHY CATS? and advocating an open season with shot guns on these bird destroyers. Yes, but what about cat lovers? Robert Quillen, editor of the Fountain Inn Tribune, published down South Carolina way, has a Front Page editorial on CATS in a recent issue in which he says among other things:

"Ye cannot serve both God and mammon. And ye cannot love both birds and cats. The cats and birds permit them to increase and multiply and roam at large is to make yourself an enemy of all bird life. Cat is the most cruel and selfish and heartless beast without one redeeming trait. I hate them."

So says Robert Quillen as the article of his faith in regard to the common house or domestic cat, the feline with the night-owl complex—and he goes on to tell a harrowing tale of a bird sanctuary he created down South Carolina way and his war with predatory cats to preserve alive the feathered pets who became domiciled in his sanctuary. Guns and traps failed to cow the cats and the felines even gave him the laugh from his own doorstep—in fact one cannibal Tom after eating a nest of live robins had the nerve to leave the half digested youngsters on his veranda. Only one cat was he able to put out of business. Not long ago a Belleville business man advocated a bylaw permitting the shooting of cats at large after midnight. All of which gives the bird lovers' side of the case. Cat lovers can tell of what a nuisance too many birds might be, and naturalists tell us that if it were not for cats and other natural enemies of the birds they would multiply so fast that the heavens would be darkened and there would not be one morsel of fruit left on the trees and vines, all being required to feed the feathered visitors. Now as for us we like cats and we like birds, and while we know they never mix except in the process of digestion, we refuse to enter into the argument for or against, simply placing the facts before the Sidelight Family as an interesting sidelight on what is happening in the world outside the immediate viewpoint of our own backyard, and to point once again to the unescapable fact that there are two sides to every question.

FOUNTAIN INN, South Carolina, is famous for more than Robert Quillen and his humorous and vitrolic quill. A circus was billed there to show under the auspices and for the benefit of the local churches. Just a mile ahead of us down Thataway there we have the "drawer" invading the churches, and actors and actresses being developed "neath the shade of the old apple tree." Simply the church organ had to fight for entry in the old days, but a travelling circus playing under the auspices of the churches in the Old Home Town,—unthinkable, Brother Quillen—guess we'll have to send some missionaries that-a-way.

ROBERT QUILLEN says that he was happiest when he was digging a ditch working hard to try and pay off the liens on his print shop—a fifty dollar payment to make every month on the note and the rent and paper bills to pay, feeling himself lucky if there was one hundred dollars left in the jackpot for him. We don't say that Bob's a liar but we do think that his memory is failing. Who ever saw one hundred dollars at one time in a country print shop?

ASTHMA MAY RESULT FROM MANY CAUSES

Attacks of Asthma Occur Most Frequently at Night

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The term "Asthma" has come to be used rather loosely for almost any condition in which there is shortness of breath. It should be limited to the disease in which the difficulty in breathing is caused by spasms of the muscles of the tubes which lead from the throat into the lungs.

Shortness of breath may be caused by many things. Disease of the kidneys, by hardening of the arteries, by certain stomach conditions, by diabetes, and even by attacks of acute indigestion.

These examples of difficulty in breathing should not be considered true asthma. What occurs in the latter condition is that the bronchi suddenly contract, and then they get smaller. This is the theory that is most generally accepted. What is more, such spasms may have no relationship whatever to derangements in other parts of the body. The most common cause of asthma may be purely of nervous origin.

Attacks of asthma occur most frequently at night, between the patient feels a sort of uneasiness—a warning that an attack is impending. Then comes the sensation of feeling "chilly", the chest may feel tight, and the face and hands often experienced. On the morning of the attack there is depression, or both.

Often the attack itself occurs after the patient has been in bed several hours. It comes on very suddenly. Then, suddenly, he is awakened by the feeling of pressure on the chest. Soon thereafter, breathing becomes markedly labored. Because the bronchial tubes are narrowed, the patient gets great difficulty in inhaling and exhaling.

Since the chest muscles, which have, to do with inspiration, are stronger than those that deal with expiration, the inspiration is the more difficult. Often the patient coughs and brings which cannot be breathed out. This produces an enlargement of chest and wheezing noises, especially during expiration, which is prolonged.

Besides the mental anguish which naturally accompanies an asthmatic attack, the patient looks pale, and, if the attack persists, beads of perspiration may appear and the extremities become cold.

An attack may last a few minutes or days. Often one attack quickly follows another. It is a strange fact that sometimes when the patient is suffering the most, the breathing suddenly becomes easier and the attack abruptly comes to an end. Sometimes it is a fit of coughing that seems to terminate the attack.

For the attack itself various remedies are available. Each asthmatic patient seems to have his own favorite. Despite the violence of such attacks, death has rarely resulted.

All persons subject to asthma should determine, first of all, whether they are sensitive to certain weeds, flowers, foods, feathers or dust. Stomach trouble may be a factor. As a rule, patients do better in the city and in high, dry altitudes. Sugars and starches should be reduced in the diet and heavy meals at night eliminated.

Whenever possible the cause should be sought until found. And often, the one possible cause that is overlooked is the nervous system, a functional upset of which is entirely to blame.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Many women are persisting in drinking hard liquors because they believe they will make them slend. Yet, should they prefer beer, they need only cut down the quantity of one dessert to make up for the liquid and many contents of the beer. In fact, women who are concerned about weight should always consider the total calories they take in during an entire day, rather than those for a meal or two only. On the former count, they'll discount the sweets and sodas they eat between meals, to which they promptly forget about.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN AGAINST AIR PILOTS

KENORA, Ont., May 11.—(CP) Magistrate J. A. Kinsey today had ordered dismissal of a charge of criminal negligence against Howard Franklin and withdrawal of the charge against Charles W. Gordon as result of a fatal airplane accident here last June.

Franklin and Gordon, were occupants of a plane, which struck and killed John McCombie, pioneer Kenora resident.

Magistrate Kinsey, who conducted the trial of Franklin, ordered dismissal. The degree of negligence hinged largely on the possibilities of sabotage, he said. With evidence practically the same to be given in the case against Gordon the Magistrate ordered the charge withdrawn.

ONTARIO
DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
MOTOR VEHICLES BRANCH

TO THE CAREFUL DRIVERS OF ONTARIO:— and a Request!

There has been a gratifying decrease in the number of automotive accidents in Ontario. There were fewer deaths in 1933, fewer persons injured, less property damage. The decrease in accidents has been substantially greater than the percentage of decrease in registrations.

To those drivers who helped in this improvement the thanks of this department, the thanks of every citizen of Ontario, is due, and you have mine in large measure.

But, we have only made a beginning!

Despite the improvement shown, there were 8,634 serious accidents last year, 403 men, women and children were killed. 7,877 persons were injured!

By whom? Who were responsible for these deaths and injuries?

The drivers involved were, for the most part, honest, decent citizens; men and women who are usually careful, who only take a chance now and then. Men and women of our social class. Some of them live in your street, perhaps next door to you. One of them might have been you! Every one of these drivers is sorry now — truly sorry — but all the regret in the world cannot restore life or limb.

The habitually reckless, callous driver is a known, manageable menace. Against him swift action can be taken. But it is to the usually careful motorist, like yourself, that this department must look for help in making Ontario's streets and highways safer for driver and pedestrian alike. Will you help? — this season more than ever before! The way is simple, the result can be far-reaching.

Careful driver, respond to this appeal! Remember that it only takes a moment for an accident to happen—one lapse from safe-driving. In that one moment may occur a tragedy which the offending driver may never be able to forget. Every time you sit at the wheel of your car be safety-conscious. Watch! Drive safely always... all the way.

Hepburn Names Parties in "Toll Gate" Charges

Premier G. S. Henry Says Charges Still a Bit Weak

Toronto, May 11 (CP)—Political interest in Ontario centred around the Ontario Liquor Commission of Premier Hepburn, Mr. Henry and Mr. Conroy, Ontario Liberal Leader. There were charges and counter charges set forth regarding the commissioner's operations. One of the most heated stages of Ontario General Election campaign was reached last night when six Conservatives and two Liberal candidates were placed in the field and Mr. Hepburn renewed his "toll gate" charges regarding the liquor commission. Premier Henry replied with a challenge for him to produce his evidence and the Government leader promised an enquiry if the evidence proved sufficient.

The eight candidates nominated and their ridings were: Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, Conservative candidate, Algoma, Manitoulin; William G. Wilson, Conservative, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Jean Tandaseo, Conservative, Dufferin-Simcoe; A. F. Kenting, Conservative, Cochrane; Thomas Bell, Conservative, Toronto Bellwoods; Coulter McCleary, Conservative, Toronto Eglinton, Norman Wilks, Liberal, Toronto Beaches and Dr. J. C. Bradley, Liberal, North Renfrew.

Mr. Hepburn at the North Renfrew Liberal convention, in his broke charged, that Harry Price, Conservative member for West York and his brother Ray Price, Conservative candidate in the riding since his brother retired, held an agency for the sale of liquor to the Ontario Liquor Control Board. Mr. Hepburn charged Harry Price held the agency and then turned it over to his brother.

In Toronto Premier Henry considered the charges, "still a bit weak", he added however, if Mr. Hepburn produced evidence to back his allegements an inquiry would be ordered. He thought Mr. Hepburn should not hesitate in producing the evidence and he criticized him for journeying up and down to Pembroke to make these charges." In an address to the Eglington Conservative convention, Premier Henry challenged "anyone in the province to connect anybody associated with me in anyway, either as a Cabinet Minister or as a supporter in this campaign, with the handling of the sale of liquor in Ontario." He denied the liquor board purchased through agents and maintained their supplies were purchased direct from the breweries themselves.

No Connection

Mr. Hepburn, he declared, had no connection with agents if there were such persons.

Hay Price had no comment to make at the moment, declaring he would make his statement at the proper time but Harry Price denied Mr. Hepburn's charge.

"Never to my knowledge has an agent or representative of a distillery received an order from the Liquor Control Board," Harry Price declared. "Never have I been in touch with any member of the government or the Liquor Control Board in connection with any business interests, and I am ready to make an affidavit to that effect."

Premier Henry reiterated his statement the Ontario Hydro Commission did not have any surplus power "and he set at rest the possibility the Ottawa River might have to be developed for power purposes, at the present time." In use but he predicted this reserve would be needed when industry returned to normal.

If the signing of the St. Lawrence deep waterway treaty was "unduly delayed" the Premier said he was "quite convinced" power will have to be looked for from the Ottawa River." It was either a case of developing the Ottawa River or getting more power from Niagara under an international harmony agreement as well, he declared. He reaffirmed the government's opposition of the Hydro system and maintained all power contracts entered into were necessary.

After he had been selected to represent the new riding of Algoma-Manitoulin, Dr. Robb announced additional accommodation for 1,300 beds was placed for Mimico, Hamilton, London and Toronto mental hospitals where there was accommodation at present for 12,000 patients. He stated at Port William

$10,000 SUIT OVER FUMES

Witnesses Say Their Health Not Affected

Kitchener, Ont., May 11 (CP)—Defence testimony refuting plaintiff's claim working around vats containing hydrochloric acid and sulphuric acid is injurious to health, featured the second day hearing of the $10,000 action of Myles Wilbur Hagey, against Seagram and Sons and Enamelware Ltd, Hespeler, in non-jury session of the Supreme Court before Mr. Justice Kerwin today.

Thomas Burns and William Groth, employed at the plant from 1923 to 1930 and from 1933 to 1926 respectively, today said that they were not affected by the work around the vats, and that they had never heard of any other persons becoming ill from any effects of fumes of acid or steam from these vats.

Evidence was also submitted by the company to show that the Hespeler plant is equipped like other modern plants of its kind, and that no trouble was experienced in these other plants with fumes.

UNUSUAL STORIES HIDDEN IN THE "ADS"

"Ad." Tells a Story of an Alligator Which is Growing Steadily

When Robt. W. Service penned his immortal rhymes, which attracted attention to the strange things that men did under the midnight sun, he wasn't thinking of the classified "ads" in the daily newspapers, but his field for material would have been a large and varied one if he had chosen to investigate. For daily, through the columns of that thoroughly scanned advertising feature march the strange and unusual events of the workaday world. There are heat throbs and the plot for the great novel to be found in that section of the daily paper. Cradles and headstones are offered for sale in the want ads. From time to time, prospective purchasers are advised of the location of an airplane that might be secured cheap. And, does anyone wish to buy an alligator?

Victor Willis, of Apt. 6, Kyle House has an alligator. Originally a resident of Florida, "Archibald," as it was named, has been in this city for the past long time. And during his stay here he has had grown to proportions not at all in keeping with the size of ordinary apartments. He is just 22 inches long at present, and growing fast. Something like two inches each year, according to his owner. So "Archie" is being offered for sale. With him goes a glass aquarium which the owner built some time ago. "Archibald" is a good pet. He's tame and friendly. He distinguishes visitors and tries his best to please. Feeding him into the bathtub is all. He'll eat bits of raw meat, and sometimes the family "scraps" will give him. "Archie" might make a good watch dog, too. Who's bid a chance.

So if you want to buy a bed room suite, a used car, an airplane, or an alligator your daily classified list will advise you.

IS SENT STAMPS FROM EGYPT

Carrying Place School Boy Elated Over Gifts From Alexandria

Carrying Place, May 11—As a result of the writing of a number of letters to foreign countries by members of the local stamp collectors club recently, a very interesting missive and a number of choice stamps were received last week by Master Raymond Davis from Alexandria, Egypt.One of the two letters enclosed reads as follows:—

"British Boys' School,
Ras D'Amokir,
Alexandria, Egypt.

Dear Friend:

Your letter was received by our Club Master of the British Boys' School, I am a Cub and I collect stamps. He asked me if I would like to exchange stamps with you.

I am glad to do so, and I am sending you a few Egyptian stamps, and I hope you will like them. I shall be glad if you will send me some Canadian stamps as I have only a few in my collection.

Yours truly,
Frank Land.

A second letter enclosed in the envelope was as follows:

Dear Friend:

I am sending you some Egyptian stamps, and I hope you will send me some American ones. My name is Alec Kitwell. I go to the British Boys' School in Alexandria in Egypt. I also belong to the Wolf Cub Pack at my school and I am a Cub. When my Akela showed me the letter I was very pleased and agreed to send you stamps.

Yours truly,
Alec.

The latter letter, written in the curious half-printed script, is the more interesting, and comes apparently from a younger boy than the first. The term "Akela" mentioned in the letters means "master." Enclosed in the envelope were nearly fifty very fine Egyptian stamps, most of them unmutilated, and quite a few unused. Only a stamp collector's eyes quite agree-ate the thrill of receiving such a gift. The letters were written by boys in the schools of Alexandria weeks ago, and were addressed "To Any Canadian School Collector." It's to be delivered to a boy aged 10, 11 or 12 years, if possible. Although letters were sent to South Africa, Newfoundland, Jamaica, Bermuda, Ceylon, Egypt, British Guiana, and other parts of the British Empire, this is the first reply to be received. Needless to say, has spurred the interest of the boys in foreign correspondence.

Mr. David Pulpit is spending some days as the guest of friends in Belleville, but is expected back shortly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Hennessey, with whom he resides. A few weeks ago Mr. Pulpit is planning a trip to friends and relatives at Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. John Quackenbush and family have recently installed a battery-operated radio, and are now enjoying the programs of the air waves very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller of Trenton spent Friday evening of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Will La Tour.

More than one unemployed local man, and a host of others in nearby communities, have begun seriously to be able to find employment with the new construction and home building operations begin on the new road, it is to be hoped that reached as regarding the date of commencement, but it is felt that something will be done very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hardy and family spent the week end as their Harbour Stables here, and as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dempsey at Albury. The congratulations of the community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey on the birth of a son on Sunday last.

Mr. Fred "Pat" Hicks suffered a day's illness this week when he was confined to bed with a severe cold. A mild epidemic of intestinal disorders seems to be prevailing in the neighborhood, and many have suffered severely.

A number of masons and carpenters under the direction of Mr. Ernest Hagerman, local builder, are engaged in building a fire place into the north side of the Hardy home.

A carelessly tended fire which spread rapidly was the cause of a brush fire on Saturday afternoon and evening when a large section of scrub timber was destroyed in a wood lot owned by Mr. J. Spaulding. A fresh west wind fanned the flames so that the best fighters could do was to allow the fire to burn itself out in the less valuable section of the lot. No serious loss was suffered.

Taking advantage of the week end holiday to allow for its drying, a new concrete step was built in the front of the C. M. Westfall general store and post office. From early Saturday morning, it is still hardly fit for use, but a board walk over it has been removed, and by a day or two it will be ready for service. Engaged in the construction were Messrs. Art Benton, Alec Campbell, Harold Herrington, Wm. Hagerman, the brothers Harris and Vernon Westfall. Built on additional feet farther out toward the roadway, the new step will be a great improvement.

A recent editorial in the Ontario Intelligencer complaining that there are no signs at the turn where the Dickenson and Belleville highways join to make directions clear, is little doubt of the truth of this assertion. As a matter of fact the fatal accident in which Jockey Bud Dainty was killed there more than a year ago might never have occurred had similar signs been in place to guide the driver of the car. Mr. Hardy's erection of a stop sign and red reflector near the corner was a step in the right direction, but to strangers the intersection must still be rather puzzling.

A note in the Turf and Track column in the Toronto Daily Star one day last week says that Mr. Nardy is naming one of his two-year-olds in honor of Bud Dainty. Bud has been sorely missed by a large circle of friends that he left in this community, and Mr. Hardy's gesture is a "beau geste" indeed.

Mr. Marshall Young is engaged in the construction of a new closed porch on the east side of his home. Mr. Ernest Green is employed at present by Mr. Billy Fitzgerald. After spending the winter with his brother at Springbrook, Mr. Fitzgerald is back again at his home here and is busily engaged in planting and in tending his strawberries and raspberries.

The opening of the fishing season has become apparently already as several of Sunday's cars travelling from Belleville had fishing gear in them. Fishing in the canal and the Bay of Quinte has been good, popular, and in other years some good catches have been reported.

Miss Elsie Flichett entertained her pupils on Thursday with a weiner roast after the day's work was done.

Seeds for the local school children to be given out for nature study purposes arrived at the local post office on Monday, and next week Murray township school fair will be held in Wooler on Oct. 2nd.

WOTTA CATCH!

Here's a fishing story with the proof. Depicted above is a group of Belleville fishing boys who experienced the thrill of their lives the other day by capturing a monster sturgeon. The monster was first one-quarter inch and weighing 80 pounds. They killed it with a rifle in the shallows of the Kaministiquia River. A sturgeon, in case you don't know, is a tough fish to catch, and a tougher one to kill. They are usually caught in nets.

WEST WHEAT SEEDING IS NEARLY COMPLETED

General Rainfall Needed Although Crop is Green in Some Sections

Winnipeg, May 11 (CP)— Wheat seeding is nearly completed throughout the Prairie Provinces, and seeding of coarse grains has started in many districts, the weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways issued today, shows. Weather has been mostly fair with high winds and some scattered showers. A general rainfall would be most beneficial to check the soil-drifting menace.

In Portage-Brandon section of Manitoba, no serious damage has been reported as the result of dust storms, but some points report top-soil drifting, though not exhausted. In more northerly areas soil drifting is reported in spots, but only a small percentage of wheat acreage.

Regina division shows wheat seeding varying with some farmers awaiting more moisture before sowing. There has been some soil-drifting on lighter lands, and a few scattered showers. Earlier sown wheat is showing green.

Crop conditions continue favorable in Calgary division. Seeding of wheat is from 60 to 90 per cent. completed and coarse grains 20 to 60 per cent. Edmonton division reports wheat has been very dry, with seeding proceeding normally, and no damage from any source. In the Peace River wheat seeding is more than half finished, with cool, windy and showery weather conditions.

Napoleon Undefeated When Paper First Issued

Montreal, May 11.—(CP)— The Herald today celebrated its 123rd birthday and in its news columns drew attention to the fact it has never missed an edition since it was founded.

In 1811 when the first edition, a single sheet, was laboriously set up, Napoleon was forming the National Guard in France and was preparing for the Russian campaign which next year ended disastrously for him.

In Canada the question of self-government was agitating the people, but the issue was delayed because soon the country was plunged into the war of 1812.

Late in the year the Herald was founded, an earthquake shook the bed of the Mississippi River, towns along its banks were destroyed with great loss of life and Realfort Lake 14 miles long was created.

MUSICIAN KILLED

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—A retired musician, Richard Zander, who used to play in Sousa's band was killed just before dawn today and his wife seriously wounded by an unidentified man, it was announced without leaving a trace behind him or a clue as to his motive.

No one has been found who even heard the shots.

Becher was 61 and his wife is 49. She taught a sewing class at a nearby school.

QUESTION: HOW MUCH IS A BABY WORTH?

Mrs. James McDonald III and Baby McDonald.

Here is a short story about a baby. It seems that James McDonald III of San Francisco, heir to an oil fortune, eloped with a young lady by name of Alecia Breese. They were married and happy, but when they came home to claim their wealth and parental frowns the boy's father was admitted they charged in proportion to the wealth of the parents.

So the bill hasn't yet been paid and baby Jacqueline coo in legal assurance of the fine she is costing.

Meanwhile the question that has been bothering San Francisco's social circles is "How much is a baby worth?"

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

By Ivor Rabbash, Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, May 11 (AP)—Signs of historical growth appeared in the stock market today. The selling waves of yesterday seemed to have subsided to occasional ripples and sentiment, as a whole, was a bit more cheerful. Bonds were somewhat perverse although federal issues again edged upward.

In the Curb list shares of Dome, McIntyre and Canadian Pacific were steady. International Nickel was the exception. On the curb Hiram Walker got up around a point. Industrial government bonds were little changed. The Canadian dollar held to yesterday's close at 100.18% cents.

Preferred shares of Radio got up to point or more and similar advances were recorded by Schenley American Machine, U. S. Rubber, Preferred and American Can. A sharp spurt in Sun Ions was displayed by Consolidated Gas, Public Service, Goodyear Tire and Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Packard, Johns-Manville, Standard Brands, N.Y. Central and National Biscuit.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—A dreamy session of industrial share market closed with a generally soft tone and with 75 per cent of the active stocks showing fractional losses. Metal, oil, beverage, steel and food issues were the most affected during the construction shares were up and utilities and bank issues irregular and quiet.

International Nickel failed to improve a 25 cent recession and Consolidated smelters weakened a full point. Ford A held ground and C. P. R. was off 1-8 at the close.

The main feature was the distillery group with prices holding within a narrow range and closing slightly down. Walkers Common came out in good volume.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—A strong buying movement in Sudbury Basin and a recovery for Eldorado in the heavy turnover, stimulated the mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon, giving the board a good representation in the advance column at the close. Silvers and Base Metals generally had a majority of gains for the day over losses and the golds broke about even.

The Washington report suggesting early action on another mark up in the price of gold was not taken seriously and the yellow metal group barely held its ground on small volume. Dome, Hollinger and Lake Shore were unchanged while loses of about 5 cents each appeared in Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves.

Buying, which has been evident in Sudbury Basin for sometime developed into heavy volume today and a price gain of 11 cents to 2.60 was recorded on early sales to close unchanged.

John Aaron, 98, is Cutting Teeth

Beamsville, Ont., May 11 (CP) —John Aaron, Newport, is reported to be cutting teeth at 98. He does not wear plates but is rather feeble physically.

He has spent most of his life to tomatoes and lots of them."

Reason For Refusal Given by Col. Price

Request in One Instance Came From Fellow Councillors

Toronto, May 11—(CP)—Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General of Ontario, today explained the reason the request from Kitchener to send Provincial Police there to aid in enforcing the Lord's Day Act was refused was that in all cities it is the duty of the police commissioners to deal with such a situation They spoke with entire trouble was reasonable, to preserve order, he said. "If Kitchener never asked for that it was their fault. The police commissioner in Stratford sent that request to Kitchener never asked for from the Chief of Police."

NEW YORK CLOSE

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Light selling supported the stock list in the last hour today following earlier steadiness. Some of the gains yielded substantially. Stock Pa ked nearly 2 points. New York Central, Case, V. S. Steel and American Can moved up a point or close to a point. U. S. Smelting held unchanged. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

Stock Market Gossip

Washington, May 11—In accepting amendments to the stock bill which would exempt railroads from existing periodical reports with regulatory commissions, chairman Fletcher also agreed to acceptance of exempting amendments relating to other carriers subject to control by the I.C.C. This would include oil pipeline companies and telephone and telegraph companies. These amendments would limit the initial original registration report with the commission.

Efforts to exempt public utilities in the same manner were defeated.

Foreign securities would be exempted from listing requirements under a Fletcher amendment because there would be no opposition present to this country.

SILVER

Washington, May 11—Forming a conference with a group of Senate silver advocates secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today failed to take to Pres. Roosevelt the proposal that the silver legislation be modified as declaration of policy that silver shall be held at one-third the value and also that silver be considered primary money.

The silver advocates also insisted that the word "direct" be eliminated in any provision thus making the action mandatory.

Following the conference which lasted slightly more than an hour Senator Pittman announced his opinion that the conference was very satisfactory but declined added details for the public with too much "enthusiasm."

A conference will be arranged with President Roosevelt on an unspecified day probably next week but the President is expected to give his answer to the silver group as he does on other big issues.

Senator King also expressed satisfaction with the result of the conference.

Curtailings Decreased 4,449 Cars

Washington—The amount of revenue freight in week ended May 5 totalled 659,284 cars, a decrease of 4,449 cars below the previous week but an increase of 70,007 cars over the 1933 week and 107,007 above corresponding week in 1932 according to American Railway Association.

Closing Grain Letter

Winnipeg, May 11—Today was a typical weather and trade market and fluctuations swayed easily by any news of rains. Reports of rains in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta helped in today's setback as traders are reluctant to go too far from home over the weekend. A small export business came in but the day's total volume was disappointing. Trade however was quiet and there was little direct interest being created. Weather on this continent shows no change at moment but with the Canadian so far out of line for export we hesitate to recommend a long side although so long as the present weather holds this condition is likely to find favor.

WAR DEBTS

London—"Star" cable quotes Sir John Simon as declaring payment of war debts is a matter for Parliament. Trade couldn't control exchanges.

TOBACCO

Ottawa—Prices for tobacco growers may be fixed at 27 cents per pound.

IN MEMORIAM

WESTOVER—In loving memory of our dear wife, and mother, Lovella Westover, who passed away, May 11th, 1931.

When shades of night are falling, And we sit all alone,
There always comes a longing
If you could but come home.
So suddenly you were taken,
The blow was hard to bear,
But still, we know you're sleeping
In God's own loving care.

DUST STORMS IN W. ONTARIO

Surface Soil Whipped Into Air And Sent Many Miles Away

Dust storms of varying intensity were reported yesterday and last night from six points in Ontario as despatches from the United States midwest told of winds that whipped the surface soil into the air and sent it flying across hundreds of miles of territory.

Sault Ste. Marie reported the sun obscured by an early dusty storm which rendered the atmosphere stifling. Rain fell thereafter plastering the streets with mud. At Meaford drivers of automobiles were forced to moderate their speed owing to restricted visibility.

Stratford reported the sun obscured all afternoon and citizens discomforted by the sand which arrived with a strong west wind. The dust appeared less thick at St. Thomas, although it left a film over cars, crops and streets.

Dust was noticed as far east as Toronto where it raised a thin haze and brought minor discomfort to citizens abroad last night. Fog whistles were blown in the harbor.

Earlier Windsor and Detroit reported the air thick with dust.

A WOMAN IN TROUBLE

Muddy Complexion—Rheumatism—Overweight—Too Tired to Work

If this woman had taken a different remedy for each of her complaints, she would have been kept very busy! Imagine too the length of time that would have been required to effect an all-round cure!

In actual fact, she took only one medicine. And she took that medicine for but six weeks before she saw every one of her complaints fading away. The simple explanation is that all her troubles arose from one common cause.

In a letter she says:—"Since I started taking Kruschen six weeks ago, my health has greatly improved. My complexion, which had a muddy appearance, is changed to a clear and healthy look. My rheumatism has almost gone. My weight two months ago was 160 lbs., and yesterday, when I was weighed by the same scales, I weighed 148 lbs. This decrease has helped me wonderfully, for I don't feel half so tired, and am able to work better than I have done for months. I shall never be without Kruschen after this."—(Miss) A. L. R.

Half the complaints that afflict humanity—from simply feeling "off colour" to acute rheumatism—can all be traced back to one root cause—internal sluggishness.

There is one sure, safe way to keep yourself regular inside—the "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts. Kruschen is a scientific combination of six mineral salts which keep your eliminating organs in proper tune and so clear away the waste matter that clogs your system and poisons the blood.

LOUGHLIN COACH OF BLACK HAWKS

Succeeds T. Gorman as Mentor of Chicago Black Hawks

Chicago, May 11.—(AP) —Clem Loughlin, leader of the London, Ont., Tecumsehs, champions of the International Hockey League, today was named manager of the Chicago Blackhawks by owner Frederick McLaughlin. Loughlin succeeds Thomas Gorman, who led the Hawks to the Stanley Cup Hockey Championship last season.

Loughlin was a defence player on the original Blackhawks team which introduced the sport to Chicago in 1926.

Three years ago he tried his hand at managing a club, taking the reins of the London team with indifferent results. Then, last season, after a poor start, he injected such enthusiasm in his team they captured the title.

Loughlin defence player with the Black Hawks from 1926 to 1928, has managed the Tecumsehs for three years. His team made a disappointing start last season only to make a fast finish and win the league title in the play-off series. His managerial career with the Tecumsehs closely resembled that of Gorman with the Black Hawks. Both took over their managerial duties with their teams stumbling about with low prospects of a title.

The new Black Hawk manager arrived today for a conference with Major McLaughlin to map out plans for next season's campaign. He summers on his farm at Viking, Alta.

May Buy Morenz

Simultaneously with their announcement that Loughlin had been named manager, the Black Hawks admitted they were interested in acquiring the services of Howie Morenz, veteran star of Montreal's Les Canadiens. The only hitch in the deal was the insisting that it be made on a straight cash basis, whereas the Montreal club desired two players and cash. One of the players reported headed for Montreal in the deal was "Mush" March, Hawk star of the Stanley Cup play-offs.

The board of governors of the National Hockey League will meet tomorrow for their annual spring meeting, most of the board members were in town today and rumors of trades and deals were many.

May Twelfth is Observed as "Red Cross" Day in Empire

Birthday of Florence Nightingale is Thus Designated

HER WORK

War-Inspiration of Dunant, Founder of Red Cross

May the twelfth will be celebrated in every part of the British Empire as "Red Cross Day". The date was chosen because it was the birthday of Florence Nightingale, Henri Dunant, through whose efforts the Red Cross was formed, freely acknowledged that his inspiration came from her; the most wonderful woman in the history of the English race.

Florence Nightingale's Contribution.

The story of her life is full of interest. It is a revelation of what can be accomplished, almost single-handed, by an idealist equipped with a high degree of practical intelligence, a strong will and a cool, courageous spirit. Not only did she complete Dunant, in found the Red Cross but she revolutionized the military medical service of the British Army and indirectly of the armies of all the European Nations, and she initiated modern nursing in place of the drunken brutality of the Betsy Prigs and Sairey Gamps of her day.

The Founder of Red Cross.

Henri Dunant, a young public spirited citizen of Geneva, was travelling a few years later in northern Italy. He had read the reports Florence Nightingale had made to the British government and finding himself in the neighborhood of the French and Austrian armies, decided to go for himself here the sick and wounded were cared for. He reached the battlefield of Solferino within twenty-four hours of one of the bloodiest battles of the war. He saw a battle field strewn with the dying men, tortured by thirst, bleeding from innumerable wounds, suffering indescribable agonies, with no one to bring them any help or relief. He recruited the peasants in the adjacent villages. He secured the assistance of civilian doctors. He organized an extemporary but effective voluntary medical service to which hundreds owed their lives and thousands the relief of their agonies.

The Birth of Red Cross.

For the next three years he devoted himself to the task of awakening the conscience of the world to the intolerable and unnecessary suffering which resulted from the deficient medical arrangements of armies. As the result of his efforts the Geneva Convention was signed in 1864. The signatory nations agreed that civilian volunteers might be regularly organized in connection with sanitary services of their forces in the care for the sick and wounded. They were to be absolutely neutral and respected as such. The emblem by which they might be recognized was the Red Cross.

"The Great Englishwoman"

From this origin has grown the world-wide organization of the Red Cross as it is today. The incredible miseries of the sick and wounded soldiers of the Crimea and of other wars of the last century are things of the past. The magnificent service of the medical and nursing profession in the Great War was the inevitable development of the work of Florence Nightingale and Henri Dunant, who in his later years freely acknowledged his debt to the "great Englishwoman".

The Origins of Modern Nursing.

Though her share in this work would have been enough to keep her memory forever green, Florence Nightingale made a further contribution to human by inherently perhaps even greater value. Long before her experience in the Crimean war she had realized the need for a revolution in the nursing profession of her day. Her interest in the sick and suffering had brought home to her the fact that an essential factor was usually lacking, namely, skilful and intelligent nursing.

The National Heroine.

On her return from Scutari she found herself a national heroine. The people of England eagerly availed her services that they might welcome her in their cheering thousands. She escaped the public demonstrations but thankfully accepted a gift of £44,000 which had been raised by popular subscription, and with this fund she established a training school for nurses in connection with St. Thomas' Hospital. From this school has come the modern trained, educated, skilful nurse who has brought the nurse to whose care thousands upon thousands of people have owed relief of their sufferings, comfort in their darkest hours and in innumerable instances their very lives.

Prevention of Disease.

Attention is called to a third most notable feature of Florence Nightingale's labors. Late in life she emphasized the need of preventing illness as well as curing the sick. Though she was an invalid, she went moving with difficulty from her bed to a couch, she spared no effort to influence the leaders of the nation who were her frequent visitors to ward eliminating those things which were responsible for causing disease. By letters to The Times, by memoranda to those in authority and by interviews with Cabinet Ministers, by every possible means she emphasized the predominant importance of sanitary measures and healthful habits of living. And in the furtherance of these ends her influence was of incalculable weight.

Florence Nightingale and the Red Cross.

The relationship between Florence Nightingale and the Red Cross was not Cross-fold. Inspired Dunant through whose efforts the Red Cross Convention of Geneva came into existence; she devoted her life to the relief of suffering and she foresaw the need of an educated public opinion for the prevention of disease and the improvement of health. Thus she prepared for advance the Red Cross organization as it exists throughout the civilized world today.

It is, therefore, most appropriate that the birthday of this Christian English woman should be commemorated as "British Empire Red Cross Day."

NO MINT AGENTS BUYING OLD GOLD

Local jewelers have issued a warning against those who, inspired by the financial difficulties of the depression, are offering to buy old gold or tarnished jewelry from individuals claiming either directly or by surreptitious means to be "from the Mint".

As a matter of fact, the Mint employs no representatives to solicit old gold purchases.

People who have old gold which they desire to turn into cash will do well to take the items to established jewelry stores where they will find men skilled in hauling precious metals who are glad to accommodate them. Here they will find the necessary weights and equipment for determining the fineness of the gold and can be assured of fair treatment and a fair price.

Some door-to-door buyers of old gold pay only a fraction of the real value of pieces sold to them, thus taking advantage of an unfortunate public. Moreover, they give no guarantee that the metal will be turned over to the Mint as a means of increasing the nation's gold reserve and proving a real factor in the fight against the depression.—The Bulldog.

CROP REPORT

Fall wheat and clovers have been killed in this district and farmers are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain enough seed to sow crops. According to extracts of reports submitted by governmental and agricultural representatives, and issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Wheat and sweet clover are especially in demand.

Statements of seed men in the city state sowers have been scarce. Severity of the past winter and absence of snow cover have reduced the supply.

The following report by counties is given:

Hastings—Fall wheat and clovers have been severely killed out and finding it increasingly difficult to obtain enough seed to sow crops of this nature. Wheat and sweet clover are especially in demand.

Northumberland—About; 75 per will not survive. Only 25 per cent of the fall wheat in this area winter and unfavourable early spring weather. Farmers are now sowing seeding of alfalfa and some of the older stands are still in the condition that it is impossible to estimate whether it will survive. Many trees which were apparently injured are now showing signs of life and improvement.

Peterborough—The seeding has been in full swing for six days and many farmers have over 75 per cent of their seeding finished or nearly in the ground. Seed grain is becoming scarce and is now commencing to take advantage of the Seed Grain Subsidy Act.

Prince Edward—Very warm weather has continued all the past week and seeding operations have been in full swing. Due to all fall wheat being killed as well as a great percentage of clover and alfalfa, farmers will have about double the spring work to do this season. Seed grain and clover seed are becoming very scarce. But development has been very rapid and if warm weather continues, spraying will start during this week.

Victoria—Now that growth has started, fall wheat acreage that has escaped can be estimated at 3 per on about 20 per cent. The remainder cent. Oats and barley will be sown with the cultivated crop. New seeding, except sweet clover, also badly winter killed. Old fields of alfalfa have also suffered. Timothy and sweet clover have survived.

Frontenac — For a distance of about 25 miles back from the river front, alfalfa and fall wheat have been from 90 to 95 per cent killed. Some fields are badly bare. Strawberries would be about 80 per cent winter killed. Raspberries and other bush fruits about 50 per cent.

Lennox and Addington—We would estimate fall wheat to be practically a total loss and alfalfa and clover fully 75 per cent in most districts.

Durham—Most of the fall wheat acreage has been cultivated and sown to be replaced with western spring wheat. Unfortunately most of this western seed is carrying a considerable quantity of wild oats.

Carleton—Spring damage is better reported from the night's frost last week, but for the most part clover and alfalfa seem to be coming on nicely. With the excessive heat of the past week, with the thermometer on record 90, most of the week, rain is badly needed.

A terrific electric storm passed over Rawdon Township on Wednesday evening and was the heaviest storm this section has witnessed in years. The lightning ruined several of the telephones and many of the lines are out of commission.

At some places the force of the current heaved the poles out from as well as scorching the paper on the walls.

The storm was followed with a heavy down pour of rain which will greatly aid the growing crops and pastures which were needing rain very badly.

HEAVY HITTING

Cubs Lead National by Margin of Game and One Half

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

Events of the past two days have borne out very well various and sundry remarks to the effect that this year's edition of the Chicago Cubs was built around the new and livelier National League ball and the short right field at Wrigley Field.

A strong wind blowing toward the right field stands made conditions just right for the long hitters to take advantage of them. Two advantages and as a result a total of 13 baseballs have been batted out of the field for the Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers. Brooklyn got a little the better of the rivalry but the Cubs won both games, pounding out a 12-8 decision yesterday, although they were outhit 16-14. As a result Chicago took the league lead and holds top place—and a half margin over three rival clubs.

While Lon Warneke was staggering through the 8th inning with slow Chuck Klein wallop his eighth homer of the season, Gabby Hartnett his sixth and Tony Cuccinello his second in as many innings, Pittsburg's game with the Phillies was rained out and the Cardinals took their second straight from New York Giants 8-4. This combination of results gave the Pirates second place with New York and St. Louis tied for third, virtually tied with the Reds but a few percentage points behind.

Jim Mooney's relief pitching after Bill Hallahan had been knocked out in three rounds and some clever hitting enabled Pepper Martin and Joe Medwick gave the Cardinals their 11th victory in 13 games after they had trailed by 3 runs at the start.

Cincinnati Reds helped widen the gap between first and second division when they whipped the fifth place Boston Braves 7-3. Si Johnson gave one of his best record performances, holding Boston to seven hits, narrowly missing a shutout.

American League

Lou Gehrig put on a one man show in the American League's headline game that threatened the awaiting supremacy of the Cub contests. Lou figured in every one of the Yankees' scoring efforts that brought them a 13-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox, getting two home runs and two doubles to drive in seven runs before he retired after five innings.

Cleveland's Indians also did some mighty swatting as they gave Boston a six run start in the first inning that was enough to win with 11-10, when Earl Averill and Joe Vosmik hit home runs in the two aboard, and the Red Sox gave up seven runs in the seventh inning.

Philadelphia Athletics registered the day's most important gain when they gained a 5-4 victory over Detroit on a combination of four leagers by Bob Johnson and Pinky Higgins and the four hit pitching of Roy Mahaffey of Alton Illinois. Since the Washington-St. Louis game was rained out, it enabled the Senators for second place and Cleveland moved into fourth, passing the Tigers and Red Sox.

Pepper Martin, Cardinals —scored one run, batted in two and stole a base in bringing over Giants.

Roy Mahaffey and Alton Benton, Athletics—limited Tigers to 9 hits.

CURRENT SPORT

(Day By Day)

Apparently things are beginning to turn out at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Professional Bill Little has the golf course in fine condition and during the 10th he ran an active sport centre during the evening session. It is understood the club will not participate in as many out-of-town matches as heretofore but new competitions for suitable trophies will be enjoyed. Activities, it is understood, are to be inaugurated this year by the ladies when a field day under Miss Mary Roberts, captain. The annual opening Carnival Club dance of May 24rd, is on the books with the annual Victoria Day competitions when the directors and their wives play hosts, starting the ball rolling. We have not heard much of the club's tennis activities, but if enthusiasm wish to organize and play on the four courts they can readily do so. To encourage stimulating interest along these lines a meeting of interested tennis players has been called for tonight at the Chamber of Commerce. Not only has the golf course been put in splendid shape by playing on the tennis court will also be fixed up...

After Walter Stratton made the first team on the Black Panther at the Kiwanis Club's show on Wednesday night, Manager Bill Ireland formed the sports writer that it was the first time in his lengthy experience as the third man in the ring that he had seen a light heavy with a full with a Full Nelson. Strattons never lay on any of the fans by his repeated reverting to unorthodox holds and the Black Panther, Mc-Clure wanted to know if the referee would like to see Stratton in the ring with another rough and ready boy at his own weight. We answered in the affirmative for John Public with result 'that he has wrestled a lot and a well known middleweight to meet Stratton here on May 24. At that Victor's fee seems to be a red letter day for local sport fans—a bill of real good baseball morning and afternoon with an all-star wrestling feast at night... McClure pointed out to the fans the Queen Victoria Park is to be the first best Travis can appear in in Canada as it seems the Athletic Commission has ruled that one must fill his Belleville engagement before appearing elsewhere in the province. Which is the good thing. Wrestling can take a tough guy like Travis or not will be interesting to know. The best is a big timer and a natural.

Art Young, manager of the local Crystalettes baseball team, informed us yesterday that he would foster two junior teams for the O.B.A. competition, the present Crystalaes and a new team to be called the Star A. An invitation was extended to all youthful ball players to attend the practices of the two teams that are being held nightly at the old Alemite grounds. The suggestion that the Crystalettes link up with the Bay of Quinte league in an interlocking schedule was turned down by Manager Gibbards who in turn however are willing to play the kids a game or two to help them along. Perhaps the Crystalaes could arrange a similar series with Wellman and Peirce who while a city series including the seniors and intermediate might also be arranged to assist the Crystalettes. Exhibition games are not as good as league games but when no league can be formed the next best thing is exhibition games.

Up at Trenton Airport they are planning mixed wrestling and boxing show for next Thursday with Bill Redquest of Belleville meeting Jim Saylor of Trenton in the boxing wrestling bout and Bill Goodman of Toronto grappling with Fred Ripby of Timmins. Four fast boxing bouts are being arranged featuring Howard Wheeler vs. Dick Hobby of Kingston. Wheeler has left the Quinte shore his last go with Morris, and has returned to Kingston. It was very yesterday. One of the other bouts include Ross McKenzie, a local lad who meets Insley of Point Anne.

President Swanston released the first half of the C.O.B.L. umpires' assignment yesterday. Once again it is noticed that another new and aggressive name has been submitted by the Kingston club. After the exhibition of farcial attempts of the "guessing Tom" displayed by two or three untried Kingston officials last year one would almost be led to believe that "once bitten, twice shy." The Panics are up to their old trick and have introduced an umpire named Gregston, it is sincerely hoped (that he is no Pound or Hartley. It must be remembered that the quality of umpiring spells the success or undoing of any baseball league. We welcome back into the C.O.B.L. Bert Gregston if he always gave a fine account of himself while on the diamond. Watch calls 'em as he sees 'em and usually sees 'em pretty fair, that is if an umpire can see 'em at all. While commenting on the powers of the Nationals recently the Kingston sports scribe bellibled, in no small manner, the chances of the Nats as a baseball league. We were round the Quinte City never knew a strike from a ball anyway. There may be something in the above statement but others are those in local baseball circles who believe that than proven their mettle in the Intermediate pastime and know more about balls and strikes that many Limestone City experts (?). The proof of the pudding is in the eating.

Another new sporting organization came into being last night when the horseshoe pitchers from Oak Lake, Stirling, Tweed, Thomasburg, Foxboro and Belleville formed the South Hastings Horseshoe Pitching League. A large and representative gathering assured the league's first president, Milton Bird of Oak Lake, their support. Tournaments, as well as a league schedule will give these sportsmen ample recreation this summer. The league opens in Belleville next Monday night when the locals play hosts to Oak Lake with Tweed going to Thomasburg on Wednesday evening next.

Howell And Richardson Contribute Three Hits Apiece

By the Associated Press

Another late-inning rally had given the rampaging Rochester Red Wings their tenth successive victory and turned the International League pennant struggle into a pursuit race today.

Checked by Johnny Milligan for seven innings, the Red Wings burst forth with a five-run rally in the eighth that gave them a 6-2 decision over Albany Senators yesterday. The triumph left the Red Wings on top of the heap with 17 victories and only three defeats and leading their closest rivals, Newark Bears, by five games.

Albany had touched Ray Harrell for only two hits in seven innings but had scored single runs in the third and sixth with the aid of 'y passes. Milligan, meanwhile, scored along without trouble, except in the sixth when Rochester scored its one run but took a bad lacing in the later eighth.

Hal King's double with the bases loaded and Chad Kimsey's seventh pitching featured Montreal Royals' 7-4 victory over Newark. The Royal laced into Tamulis for ten hits and drove him to cover in the fifth and collected five more safeties off his successor, Spurgeon Chandler. Ben Mackey contributed a double and three singles to the attack.

Toronto in Third Place

The Leafs slapped Cliff Melton, Hermidas Aube and George Miner for 16 hits of which Howell, Averill and Nolen Richardson contributed three apiece. Al Hollingsworth was the pride of Toronto although touched for eight hits. Wally Gilbert, Baltimore third backer, collected a triple, double and single, drove in three runs and scored another himself.

Max Rosenfeld clouted a homer with two on in the fourth for three Syracuse runs but Johnny Wilson was master thereafter and Buffalo gained only a 11-8 triumph in the other league game of the day. Wilson allowed three hits in the fourth but a otherwise Syracuse soired him for only two safeties. Buffalo made nine hits but took advantage of seven walks, a hit pitch and three Syracuse errors.

NOT THEORIES!

By Alex Morrison

There's only one way I can account for a player gripping with his left hand touching the wrist and toe of the shaft and that is this: The long hold on the club gives some feeling of greater action and speed in the clubhead. But the player shouldn't be fooled by this feeling.

Such a grip finds the hands losing control on the club when the swing as evidenced by letting go with the left little finger.

A good firm hold on the club with the third and fourth fingers of the left hand is more important than all the rest of the grip.

Too many caddies have the habit of swinging the clubs when Some players don't seem to mind this, in fact they encourage it by not trying to allow it.

At most courses caddies are given a couple of time to play, I've yet to see a caddy who swings clubs do a good job at caddying. And they very often hit the ground or rocks and ruin their clubs, to some way damaging them.

Sometimes they won't call your attention to the damaged club.

Help the boy do his work properly and protect the life of your clubs by telling him at the first tee that any clubs in the bag until you call for them.

Wall Street Softball

Grills' Garage still remain unbeaten in the Wall Street Softball League after defeating the College Hill Cubs at the College Hill diamond last night. While the Delaney Bearcats were downing the Bellevue Cubs 11-1 at the Central Park last night. The Grills' win keeps them one full game in front of the Bearcats.

Grills' pitching staff proved the more thrilling as the contest developed into a pitchers' battle, home runs, triples and doubles being hit by both teams. Reid, Grills' big hitting third baseman of the Grills' team led with two home runs and a triple while also collecting the ball for a four base counter as did Bert Gregory. Reid also had two doubles and a single to his credit. Gregory had a triple for the Grills' team and Jenkinson for the College Hill Cubs collected a single to the batters. Barriage had two singles and a single for the Mechanics.

Bearcats Down Tip Tops

Despite the fact that the Tip Tops outhit the Bearcats at Central Park they could not seem to capitalize on their advantage and dropped their fourth straight game by the score of 10 to 7. The Cats managed a last inning rally to tack five runs in their half of the sixth to pull the game out of the fire after the Tallers had forged to the front. Besides hurling good ball for the Tip Tops Frank Panaro registered the longest hit of the night when he connected for a homer in the 7th inning inside to the left field on the lead. Consistent hitting of singles interspersed with the odd double and triple won the game for the Bearcats with Tuttle, Gerrard and Bowden combining through with timely hits in the pinches. Ridley pitched the winner, Harvey replaced Farraro in the fifth.

The box:

Bearcats—Jordan, Tuttle, Henn, Ridley, Hanna, Carter, Bawden, Knott and Ridley.

Truly BETTER BRAN FLAKES . . . Ready-to-eat

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY
—KATHERINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

Beau did not know whether "Jeanie" would be interested. It took a great deal of courage for him right, he concluded. But the club proprietor's manner had changed from New York and wanted more than cock fights for their entertainment. He was, at heath, convinced, that he thought he could handle it, with Jeanie's help, with him.

Beau said to Pablito, "Hey, a cent under $5000.00 for a first fight! And I get a third of the purse! Bene!"

Pablito saw. He estimated his winnings from a year or two of fighting and saw himself with Hope Harcourt as married corner of the world where there would be a palace and a car of security. That was all that he could hope for.

A priest whose abode was in the narrow, dark way back of one of Havana's churches received a letter about this time from one he had sheltered.

"I am weak enough at moments," Nora wrote, to brood on what would result from it by telling the truth, as I told it to you. I am tempted because I know that if I did this my money would be mine again and I could have much fun finding Pablito. On the other hand, there is my wife to think of. My first duty is to her, and by this will be a man.

"I am always paying a long while for my sin and know that I must continue to pay. Pray for me, Father, and for the woman of whom I told you—the best woman I have ever known."

Three years later in a dim old library in an Raglan country home Sir Aubrey wrote to the manager of the American detective agency that employed Billings. With the check for $5000 was a letter, on the contents of which read: "I want you to keep on with the case."

Billings himself wanted to keep on with the case. He had become interested in locating the boy who was, he decided in his low old moments, probably dead. "I certainly am nutty about this case!" he murmured often. "I've the bargle hatched like—"

The spring before he had made a trip to England to see Sir Aubrey and his lovely red-cheeked lassey-haired daughters. Mr. Billings, being imaginative, saw the old house at Lower Gittings, in the hands of a somewhat vacuous young housemaid who would "stir things up a little" and saw the village being put upon an "up-to-date" basis.

"What you lack here," he said bluntly to Sir Aubrey, "is you!"

Sir Aubrey, somewhat at a loss, replied vaguely, "Yes, dodo." Then he quickly changed the subject.

Marcia Treadway was leaner, taller, and three years more wonderful of the world. She sat one Tuesday morning in the boudoir of her New York home, eating breakfast and reading her letters. The boudoir's walls and furnishings were riot of purple hue and green—a result of a fashionable decorator's ideas of "the new color harmonies."

There were a great many letters on the tray and sometimes, after a brief glance at an envelope, Marcia would toss one, unopened, into a wastebasket. This gave her a sort of malicious enjoyment and at the same time the cautious side of her nature did not suffer. She knew her maid would open the letter later and read carefully all that Marcia did not read at all. If there were news of any importance the maid would tell Marcia later in regard to it in a shame-faced, devious manner. This, too, gave Marcia pleasure because she could be angry with Marie about spying.

Now she picked up a letter with a Havana postmark and slit it open, recognizing Estelle Field's handwriting.

The letter read:

"Dear Miss Treadway: Father and I hope very much that you can arrange to visit us in Havana the last two weeks of February or early in March. Father says you have never seen our home here. It is quite attractive and it would make me very happy to have you come.

"I have been travelling with Mrs. Ellsworth Jennings for some time, meeting so many friends, and have been quite happy. But I'm sure I've grown a small moustache that shows when I'm in bathing suit. Mother, by Lobbie's hair had taken on an unbecoming reddish cast and Father and I are well but a little tired from so much travelling.

"Think my love, Estelle."

Reading this letter, Marcia felt a warmth steal over her that she had not known for years. She remembered Estelle vividly — a tall, dark girl, younger who had always thought Marcia's clothes immensely distinguished and whose every word was widened by admiration.

"Poor kid," Marcia said aloud. Then she looked at the letter again, nodding that the invitation was for school-girish than it had been, though still marked by a certain warmth.

Marcia reflected, her finely-arched brows drawing closer together, that Estelle must be 18 or 19 by this time. Perhaps, she thought, she evidently she was coldly immature. If it were worth thought possibly, from close companionship with Jim, unwittingly she had learned.

Well, she'd visit them, she decided. She had not even begun to use her social connections this season, Palm Beach. Pablito, Havana, Nassau, Bermuda—she boarded land, invested in some sound bonds, gave prodigally to the orphanages of Cuba and gambled a little.

Across the hard-beaten road where each day plodded oxen with cane-laden carts, about a suburban house, stern and in the summer which was above Lolita. Pablito and Beau stood. The road was on their right, the roof their garden. Beau who could box, over all the land "Cinco botellas de lager!" was saying, and the two bottles of lager were among the few things Pablito could not pronounce. He didn't care where they lived. Lolita changed the world for him. He was living in a "swell house" as Le Playa de Marianao, the fashionable bathing beach where the Havana Yacht Club is located. "You can always see something goin' on there," she pointed out. But she never persuaded the others to move.

Pablito read avidly between workouts in the gymnasium, cross-country runs and rub-downs. Beau kept him out of the sun's unfeathers he could find nowhere else. Pablito's skin darkened. He did not need an anodyne for Mrs. Ellsworth Jennings' kind acquiescence of the past because of its contrast with the present. He wondered often about Estelle Field—what she was doing and whether she was happy. He preferred not to think of her because immediately her was painful. Nevertheless, when his anodyne was dull or obscure, Beau was quite strong to be quieted he found himself thinking of her. He knew her as ache—that she was happy.

Little Benny's Note Book

Saturday afternoon I had a dime and I invited Mary Watkins around to the ice cream store for a ice cream cone, and we was sweeting around the corner talking and hatting on account of me saying funny things, and I said, "Mary, something's got pretty teeth when you left. I never noticed your teeth before you left or not but especially when you left."

So she said, "Benny, I'll have you know I have my teeth fixed up and you know what those little sharp teeth are called? I say, don't you? I guess they're all just called teeth.

So sir, they're called your canines, that means dog teeth, I said. And she said, O-f all things I ever felt so insulted in my life. I'm going to stie home.

With she started in, me saying, Hay, O, wait a minute, that wasn't anything personal, O wim, wait. And she said, he he, how dog teeth, mean and ladies both, G-wiseknow all ladies have them because I'm in ladies you call them kitty teeth.

Now you're insulting all ladies, now you're perfectly terrible, Mary Watkins said, and I said, No I'm not, no I didn't hey, O Whatsdon't you listen, when I means wea, I meant ladies are different. I mean when you tawk about ladies dog teeth, I mean when you mention those teeth in ladies you call them kitty teeth.

"THE LOST PATROL"

With Victor McLaglen-Boris Karloff

Victor McLaglen, long heralded as the screen's most colorful character, heads a cast embracing many of Hollywood's leading male players in "The Lost Patrol," RKO-Radio picture.

Boris Karloff, Wallace Ford and Reginald Denny are featured with McLaglen, whose role is that of a cavalry sergeant whose unit is lost in the Mesopotamian desert.

Others in one of the strongest casts assembled in some time are J. M. Kerrigan, Billy Bevan, Alan Hale, Brandon Hurst, Douglas Walton, Sammy Stein, Howard Wilson and Paul Hanson.

To round out the list of names, RKO-Radio called in John Ford, the celebrated genius to handle the megaphone.

Based on "Patrol", the novel by Philip MacDonald, the story is of epic character, taking the audience to the sun-scorched and starlit desert-wide scene the troop is cut off by Arabs, to make a memorable picture against unspeakable odds.

While death rides out of the waste beyond the palms of the troop, drama is woven from the thoughts and deeds of the trapped men—and slowly the Bible incident of sands, trapped by grim saber, mount and grow in number. When the death-like silence of the implacable desert is broken by the drone of an airplane, the story takes a surprising turn.

The new production has been hailed by the critics as something new and different, an inspired drama classic with a picturesque background.

An Andy Clyde Comedy "Frozen Justice" highlights "Pooreal Work" and Capitol News Events complete the bill.

AT THE BELLE

Constance Bennett and Francot Tone in Smart Musical

"Moulin Rouge" which comes to the Belle tomorrow (Saturday) and Monday, matinee daily, marks Constance Bennett's first appearance in a dual role as well as her first 20th Century picture.

Constance plays two charming numbers in this sparkling screen musical with a gorgeous romantic setting . . . "Coffee in the Morning and Kisses in the Night" and "Boulevard of Broken Dreams" . . . and her singing voice is a delightful surprise.

"Moulin Rouge" is the story of an ambitious young wife who tries desperately to secure her husband's consent to renewing her theatrical career, which she abandoned a few years before to marry him. He stubbornly refuses, belittling her talent and asserting it is her business to be a housemaker...not a puppet of the public.

How she wins her point, the clever way in which she does so in order to prove her ability, and above all the humorously dramatic situations resulting from his capitulation to the charms of a siren investing him in the predicament of making love to his own wife without knowing it, form one of the most entertaining tales which has come to the screen for many a day.

Franchot Tone plays the part of the domineering husband with fine restraint, making the character highly understandable as the counterpart of thousands of better halves who believe that a woman's place is in the home, but a man's is—well anywhere he may choose to go.

The second male lead is in the extremely capable hands of Tullio Carminati, who will be remembered for his extremely fine stage part in "Mixed in the Air" which ran for over 50 weeks on Broadway.

Helen Westley, another Broadway favorite, more than does justice to the character of Mrs. Morris, life-long friend and coach of the ambitious and aspiring wife. The Boswell Sisters and Russ Columbo, radio favorites also contribute to the joy of the occasion.

The gorgeous dance ensembles were devised and staged by Russell Markert and the beautiful melodies and lyrics were supplied by Al Dubin and Harry Warren, composers of the melodies for "42nd Street" and "Footlight Parade."

Twenty five minutes of adventure are presented in the presentation of Television Production tale of the twenty deep "Sea Killers" and their frantic Chase in his latest laugh bombshell and the popular Belle News will also be exhibited. The further adventures of "The Wolf Dog" will be exhibited at the Saturday matinee.

"Wonday Bar" Leaving

"Wonder Bar" with it's ten great stars, the hundred girls, mammoth spectacles, five hit songs and surprises galore closes it's record breaking engagement at the Belle tonight. You must see it.

THREE ARMIES MOVE ON SANA

King Ibn Saud Determined to Take Walled City of Capital

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN

(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press)

London, May 11—King Ibn Saud, leading his crusading drive to subjugate all Yemen, spurred three separate armies today in a combined movement upon Sana, Yemen's walled and ancient capital.

The powerful ruler's largest army under Crown Prince Emir Saud had opened an offensive against Sana, key city northwest of Sana and the gateway to the picturesque capital.

The second division was advancing from Hodeidah, Yemen's important Red Sea port, already smashed by Ibn Saud's Saudi Arabian forces and now pollone by them while British Royal Italian warships lie watchfully in the harbor.

The third army now east of Sana was ordered 50 advance immediately upon the capital—a city of about 20,000 population and surrounded by a brick wall five and one-half miles in circumference.

Saudian sources in London revealed Ibn Saud's new campaign plans to the Associated Press today, asserting that "once Sada falls, it will be only a few days time until our armies enter and control Sana."

The Saudians, blamed the Imam of Yemen for the Arabian war, revealed that foreigners' interests will be fully protected, asserting the main idea of subjugating Yemen is to bring permanent peace to that area.

King Ibn Saud decided, the Saudians said, on a "war to the finish," when the Iman Yahya failed to keep promises to enter into a 20-year peace arrangement.

WALKER CUP RETAINED BY U. S. GOLFERS

Ireland is Party Choice West Riding Candidate, Cooke, Elliott Withdraw

Premier Henry Declares Hon. Robert Cooke Still Man Place in Public Life of Province in Connection With Ontario Hydro Commission

BEER WINE STAND IS DEFINED

Charge of Heavy Governmental Taxes Replied to by Premier Who Says Only Five Millions Out of Fifty Millions Expenditure, Raised by Direct Tax

William H. Ireland, Trenton, member of the Legislature for West Hastings and chief Conservative whip, will be the Conservative standard bearer in the forthcoming provincial general elections for the new and greater riding of Hastings West. The two other nominees, Hon. Robert Cooke, M.P.P. for North Hastings and Robert A. Elliott, of Deloro, president of the riding association, did not allow their names to go into the convention, withdrawing in favor of Mr. Ireland at the convention held in the Masonic hall, Bridge St., on Friday afternoon.

The withdrawal of the Hon. Mr. Cooke still leaves him in the service of the province as chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, Premier Henry, who was present, said: "Mr. Cooke will not be allowed to retire into private life. He is too valuable a man for the Province to be allowed to retire from service. I feel that he should be allowed to continue in his present position as long as the will of the people that he should be retained."

Farewell as Representative

Mr. Cooke's action as representative of the northern part of Hastings County which he has represented for twenty-three years was one of the most touching incidents of political life in these parts. His decision was delivered in the presence of men and women who had stood ever by his side in the riding, in a few words aptly chosen and symbolic of the man whose career has been one of the most remarkable in political life. "It is my feeling that has disappeared," he spoke feelingly of the severance of the tie which has existed to the old North Hastings which disappears in the redistribution. "It is my feeling that has disappeared. I have thought it but fair that I should give up to Mr. Ireland." Then he promised his wholehearted support to Mr. Ireland. His tribute to Mr. Ireland was eloquent in its directness.

Mr. Ireland's speech of acceptance was cheered to the echo as he made known his decision to accept the nomination of the convention.

U. S. RETAINS WALKER CUP

Win 5 Out of 8 Singles 3 Out of 4 of Four-somes

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 12—(AP)—The United States successfully defended the Walker Cup, international golf trophy, by defeating their British challengers today in the singles competition of the first two days of play.

The visitors quickly clinched their eighth successive triumph in the team battle by getting up good margins in the first four singles.

Playing with Charles Yates, Ogden Goodman of Omaha, United States golf titleholder was rallied to trounce the on. Michael Scott, British amateur champion 7 and 4, and W. Lawrence Little of San Francisco, victor over Burley Cyril Tolley, by 3 and 2.

The sixth and seventh victories for the Americans in two days of play, settling the issue, were tallied by Captain Francis Ouimet of Boston and George T. Dunlap Jr. of New York, the amateur champion of 1924, who defeated Alec Crawley, 5 and 4, while Dunlap trounced Leslie Garnett, 3 and 2, in a sensational match, 4 and 3.

Ouimet, leader, slim Connecticut star, made it five in a row for the Americans by overcoming Eric Pickering, 5 and 3.

T. A. (Tony) Torrance, veteran British international, added the last point by defeating Max Marston of Philadelphia, 3 and 2, after a close victory of the day. Torrance won at the 34th hole, which ended their hard-fought encounter.

Hon. Mr. King Reiterates Views on Communism

Says Marketing and Unemployment Bills Savor of Dictatorship

Toronto, May 12—(CP)—A restatement of their leader's views on Communism and Fascism was before Toronto Liberals today, along with his belief, that certain developments at Ottawa indicate a tendency toward taking government out of the people's hands, and that preservation of British parliamentary practice is essential to national well-being.

Speaking to the Toronto Women's Liberal Association, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King last night attacked the federal administration's unemployment measures, and marketing Bill as savoring of dictatorship, and declared his party if returned to power would deal with unemployments according to the policy he had advocated since 1930—appointment of a national commission to administer the distribution of relief under the authority of parliament, and with the expenditures of funds audited.

The opposition leader waxed particularly caustic about the marketing bill. "In the guise of helping the farmer, it is really a device for being the importation and exportation of products under the control of the government," he said. "What is the use of the tariff if the administration can prohibit the movement of a product anyway?"

Young Men Best Flower Buyers Florist States

Youths Prefer Potted Plants to Cut

Florists of the city reported no unusual rush to buy large quantities of flowers, on Saturday for Mother's Day, although individual purchases by customers boosted the total sale of flowers up to an appreciable degree. This year, differing from previous years, youth of the city were the most anxious to secure the flowers as a token of remembrance.

"Young men were our best customers so far today," pointed one prominent florist when questioned. "Without exception, they have displayed more interest and thought put into their purchases." Youth of all sorts of conditions, from the favored potted plants more than cut flowers, while other customers purchased the time-honoured sprays and bouquets. Many orders were given for late evening deliveries.

Into one shop this morning strode a very small boy. In one hand he clutched ten cents. It was the proceeds of the past few days' paper selling, carefully treasured for Saturday. He pointed at a particular bouquet. The budget couldn't stand it. He shopped around. Finally emerged with a cluster of flowers especially made up for him. Ten cents worth. A beaming smile illuminated the small countenance. Wrapped in the oiled paper, the flowers were carried away as delicately as if they had been expensive orchids. "Mother's Day" smiled the shop owner.

BANQUET HELD FOR VISITORS

Y's Men Entertain The Delegates to Regional Convention

The ninth annual convention of the Ontario Region of the Canadian Association of Y's Men's Clubs opened last evening in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium, at the close of which when the Y's Men's Club of Belleville entertained the visiting delegates at a banquet and smoker. Delegates were present last evening from Peterboro, Toronto and Belleville, with other Y's Men Clubs, Sudbury, Midland, Orillia and Bowmanville joining regularly in the at the convention today.

Rev. Percy Bain, of Bridge Street United Church, was the special speaker at last night's banquet. His address on every excellent address on "Fellowship." He inferred that fellowship is not fully intended to speak on the subject of "The Service of the Club Beautiful," however, but due to unforseen circumstances Rev. Bain spoke lightly on the subject.

"As in education as well as service clubs there are three types, the destructive, the materialistic and creative," said the speaker in opening his address. "The first type is nothing but showmanship, the second is material improvement, while the third was the most desirable and should be followed by all clubs. "You men may think the idea of service clubs unnecessary, but I can assure you the idea was first conceived in the 5th century B.C. by men not for fellowship, but it was somewhat selfish in character. The idea was first changed in 30th. century," said Dr. Bain, "when it began to be used in the interest of the people. Until present day service clubs as not favoring the individual, but rather working for the good of a collective community. The first principle of today's service club is "the spirit" which is also needed in the home, church and school, the spirit into yourselves. Do not expect others to be good enough for you, for you are not a good neighbor. After all where do you find the best service clubs derive? I would say from our Saviour who was responsible and created the "light" so shine upon the darkness of the world."

Goodwill Needed.

In conclusion the speaker spoke on the question of goodwill. "All service clubs stand for goodwill. If such is the case goodwill should be the first consideration. The spirit into yourselves. Do not expect others to be good enough for you, for you are not a good neighbor. After all where do you find the best service clubs derive? I would say from our Saviour who was responsible and created the "light" so shine upon the darkness of the world."

Goodwill Needed.

In conclusion the speaker spoke on the question of goodwill. "All service clubs stand for goodwill. If such is the case some day through the service of the various international service clubs the assurance of no more world scandalizing wars will be made, but that goodwill and fellowship must find its way into the hearts and soul, therefore be creative along these lines," said Dr. Bain in his conclusion. The speaker was introduced by T. Y. Taylor, who was also thanked by George Pauley, on behalf of the club.

During the evening Mr. G. A. Donaldson, Belleville, district director of Y's Men's International, was introduced by Fin Man Jack Sherrit. President Earl Boyd occupied the chair during the evening and on the program Arnold Brown and George Wardell rendered vocal numbers, with the latter also acting as Man Newton Thompson, who is to be succeeded by Ivan Hubbard, reported a substantial balance from the recent Y's Men's Minstrel revue. Following the programme a smoker under the auspices of boxing and wrestling was enjoyed. The bouts are four in number, with Don Ridley, Bob Fisher meet Art Angell and Fred Parks meeting Ted Langley. The wrestlers to entertain the crowd are Taylor vs. Bert Doyle vs. Cook and Hayes Adam, vs. Jackson, with Jackson the present champion vs. Meyers. The entire six bouts were keenly contested and well received.

The convention is in progress with business meeting tonight at which a minister banquet tonight at which outside speakers will be the centre of attraction.

In the necessity for non-responsibility to parliament and easy access to public funds under a "socialized state" he saw an explanation of the acquiescence of C.C.F. supporters in government measures, which he believed were contrary to the parliamentary principle. They wanted to "get the people used to it".

Spirit of Sanctity And Peace Pervades St. Thomas'

SENSE OF PEACE

Story of Memorials And Inscriptions in Old Parish Church

"This is none other but the House of God and this is the Gate of Heaven." As one enters the old historic church of St. Thomas, one is greeted by this passage of Scripture. The nah and bustle of the city is left at the door, and one is filled with a sense of peace in this church which has been in use for nearly six generations. Beautiful stained glass windows the light that filters in through the windows, and provide a suitable memorial for many who have entered on the work of the church. These windows the tablets record the work and the furnishings of the church provide interesting record of the service and devotion of the members of St. Thomas'.

WINTER WHEAT CROP DOWN

Reports Indicate Poor Start During the Week

Heavy clouds of dust from a month ago have received little relief from light rains earlier this week but cool weather yesterday gave indications rain might come to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta during the week-end.

The weatherman was not over optimistic though. The forecast was for scattered showers. Coolness of the weather—it dropped below the freezing point without moisture in many areas in some points—hinted a general rain might design.

Rain is sorely needed by the wheat and coarse grain crops, just coming above the ground in the majority of farms. Unless rain comes soon, farmers saw prospects of additional dust storms to whip newly-sown seed from the ground and retard growth of the germinating seeds.

Reports continued to come in however telling of the widespread havoc by the lack of rainfall.

Farmers in Nebraska asked to be permitted to abandon their wheat crops, which had been pledged to the government under contract and seeds to plant corn. They said their situation was "desperate."

Winnipeg, May 12—Prospects of rain during the week end today buoyed hopes of farmers that Western Canada's ravaging dust storms were about downed.

Raked by high winds and swirling clouds of dust for a month farmlands received little relief from light rains earlier this week but cool weather yesterday gave indications rain might come to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta during the week-end.

DRAGONS PASS THROUGH CITY

No Local St. George Needed as Saurians Are Crated

Three fearsome, forked-tongue Komodo Island dragons, each nine feet long and as big around as a barrel, removed bodies as the scrange man passed through the city on the Canadian Pacific express car en route to Montreal from Winnipeg. The dragons, bound for Hong Zoo in New York City, their ultimate destination.

No knight or Sir Galahad in shining armour was needed to slay the fearsome reptiles. In fact none in Belleville knew they were passing through. The train bearing the dragons was backed into the city, the scrange man in the car through which it passed, and the dragons, breathed softly in an attempt to keep the temperature of their cage as near as their native jungle, was with them for company.

Dr. Raymond Ditmars, world famous with the appearance of the fire breathing dragons in Belleville, who trapped on their island home south of Singapore. Dr. Ditmars lectures and were captured by two bold-hearted Dutchmen, Lieutenant Grisvold, archaeologist of Quincy, Mass., and Van Steenhouse, zoologist of New York, who combined their efforts in the Dutch Indies in an attempt at capturing the rare specimens. Lieutenant Grisvold resemble the famed prehistoric monsters accompanied their pets through until they are safely housed in their respective zoos in New York and Boston. The dragons brought from their home island by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Empress of Asia which brought them across the Pacific.

On the trip the dragons received five pounds of raw beef and a number of live rats as their rations. One of them which would not subsist on the close confinement imposed by the other healthy specimens, fought as strenuously as they as arrival in Canada that a large blood vessel was broken. The rest are in good condition, testified by their savagery and willingness to bite or fight anything that comes within striking distance of their powerful wood cage.

The giant lizards are so fast and active that they have been known to outrun four or five men abreast on natural floors. They rear upon their hind feet in the manner of a kangaroo, striking viciously with their razor-sharp teeth.

HON. MR. KING

"representative number" of producers could get together and decide whether, Belleville was to be regulated, subject to Governor-in-Council. Regulation could place power in the hands of small local groups, the speaker said.

Further amendment was asked to pass a bill providing for penalties while the "criminal" was to be tried by these local groups. In this he saw a departure from cardinal principles of the Magna Charta and the people's charter under which the rights of the freeman were dependent on "his peers and the law of the land."

Ireland is Party Choice West Riding Candidate

and alternate bodies a good representation of the people of the old riding of the West as the new portion which has been added with the disappearance of North Hastings did the best in amplifying system carried the addresses direct to the overflow meeting in basement from the overcrowded hall above while another gathering stood before a loud speaker on the street.

Many stood in the hall during the convention proceedings and even the gallery was filled to overflowing and stairs provided footing for others who could not get within the hall.

Mr. R. J. Ireland, chairman of the West Hastings Association, presided and as he opened the meeting Premier Henry, the Hon. Robert Cooke, W. H. Ireland, James F. Hill, W. J. Twamley, T. J. Polmeteer and others came upon the platform.

Welcomed from C. B. Airhart

Introduced by the chairman of the convention, Mr. R. A. Elliott as a "Thanksgiving Day" visitor to Hastings County, Past President of the Maemora Conservative Association and one of the best known men in the district, Mr. C. B. Airhart, just before the actual business of the convention commenced, extended a cordial welcome on behalf of the village of Marmora to all the many delegates and visitors in attendance.

"It has often been a pleasant privilege and honor to extend my welcome to Conservatives, but this is a little different," stated Mr. Airhart. "It never rested the bonds of friendship that have been cemented within the past month before for a definite cause. One thing we are proud of is that there is plenty of harmony noticeable, not only among the candidates themselves, but the visiting delegates."

Nominations were then received:

Hon. J. Robert Cooke, proposed by George Bailey, seconded by J. A. Canter;

R. A. Elliott, proposed by Hon. J. R. Cooke, seconded by George Thompson;

William H. Ireland, proposed by S. B. Greeley, seconded by Howard D. Graham of Trenton.

Two Withdrawals

When the nominations were declared closed, the chairman, Mr. Robert A. Elliott of Deloro, one of the three names placed before the convention, acknowledged as he thought the honor was justly deserved the Hon. Robert Cooke and Mr. Thompson, the president of the honor they had showed him, but when he thought of the north and south, he believed he might safely say that the final choice was going to be between Mr. Cooke and Mr. Ireland. "Therefore," he said, "and to say that perhaps some time in the future, I might consider being a candidate."

The Hon. Robert Cooke withdrew from the field because the bulk of the population of the riding was in the territory over which Mr. Ireland had been representative for many years. Mr. Cooke stated the increased importance of the standard of living standard in Ontario, and mentioned that Ontario had the most advanced social legislation in the world. In passing he touched on the importance of education and the unsurpassed network of highways.

Ontario's Growth.

"When times are prosperous and revenue is large, certain things are not an acute problem. But in the past three years, we have seen some of the best institutions of the province materially hit. The United States last year there was a time when every dollar was cleared was placed tribute to Canadian banking institutions. We are proud of the example revenue to meet all the ordinary expenditures of the year.

"Some will speak to you and tell you of the weakness of the Conservative party," said Mr. Cooke, smiling. "Look at the statutes and see if you can find a single statute made by the Liberals in the past twenty-five years. I can refer once to the Workmen's Compensation Act, and spoke briefly of the vast investment of millions in the Ontario Hydro which is now establishing power at one third of the cost originally estimated to give of its best in the service of the state.

Thanks Delegates.

"Do you want to exchange a man like that for a man like Mr. Hepburn! If you do, well, the difficult times have shattered your minds." (Applause).

Mr. Cooke then turned to his long service of thirty-four years in public life, thirty-three years as a legislator in the provincial parliament, and then noted the division of the old North Hastings riding under the redistribution act. "It was my riding that disappeared. I have thought it over, but the call I received to go to Mr. Ireland.

"So I say to you today, I want to get wholeheartedly behind Mr. Ireland."

"I think Mr. Cooke for his kind support and I fully realize what a difficult task I have to undertake the high standard that Bob Cooke has given not only to North Hastings but to this country," said Mr. W. H. Ireland in his speech of acceptance. "It will be my pleasure to meet most of you within the short time before elections—I don't know just when the elections will be." (Laughter).

Turning directly to refer to Mr. Ireland, leader of the Opposition, Mr. Ireland remarked: "People of this province are not going to marry one Captain George Henry for a wind bag like Aimlick Mackenzie." (Laughter). Mr. Ireland said one salary he supported at Ottawa, would pay all the Canada Cabinet salaries and the Hydro thrown in." And yet he goes up and down and thunders against the man who is earning a salary a hundred times more than he will ever hope to get.

Relief Aid Not Closed.

"I am more or less overcome with the confidence that you have expressed in me." The nominee went on to say that Premier Henry had "It has been reported that Belleville is to close down and relief is to be cut. That is not true. I want to say and I have the Premier behind me, that more relief is available for the city of Belleville." Mr. Ireland made it clear that the government has realized the need of relief, and Premier promised to leave no stone unturned to help relieve it. Referring to the Henry government at the polls and their own election campaign, Mr. Ireland:

"I am grounder than ever of the statement Mr. Robert Cooke," remarked the member for East Hastings, Mr. James F. Hill. "He has done what he said he would do—that he said he would do. Mr. Ireland can be depended upon to keep his word absolutely necessary. I am sure that the people could not member how not long ago there were no roads in this district. One day the power on the farms costs only $40 per year, but in the state of New York city.

"I say that to the Premier of Ontario we have the ablest administrator, the Hon. George S. Henry, Conservative party, the organization integrity, grasp of affairs and a determination to give of its best in the service of the state.

Premier Speaks.

"Do you want to exchange a man like that for a man like Mr. Hepburn! If you do, well, the difficult times have shattered your minds." (Applause).

Mr. Ireland made it clear that the government has realized the need of relief, and Premier promised to leave no stone unturned to help relieve it. Referring to the Henry government at the polls and their own election campaign, Mr. Ireland:

"I am grounder than ever of the statement Mr. Robert Cooke," remarked the member for East Hastings, Mr. James F. Hill. "He has done what he said he would do—that he said he would do. Mr. Ireland can be depended upon to keep his word absolutely necessary. I am sure that the people could not member how not long ago there were no roads in this district. One day the power on the farms costs only $40 per year, but in the state of New York city.

"I say that to the Premier of Ontario we have the ablest administrator, the Hon. George S. Henry, Conservative party, the organization integrity, grasp of affairs and a determination to give of its best in the service of the state.

A Song-Fest Worth Going Miles to Hear

Belleville people will be proud of her musicians, of whom there are a number, and a wealth of talent that few cities in Canada can approach.

Belleville is particularly blessed in singers, and nowhere else is this revealed so clearly as in the Belleville Male Choir. The organization, of twenty-five young citizens who love to sing, and sing well, since their October this company of singers have been meeting every week of the week for the purpose of practising the songs of the old masters as well as the best music of later date. The organization has been very generous in contributing its services for various worthy objects in various places, notable for the crippled children work of the Rotary Club, but nothing for its own profit except the annual concert for the purpose of paying expenses such as the purchase of music, etc.

Tuesday, May 22, is the date of the annual concert of the Belleville Men's Chorus, with the assistance of Mrs. Ruth Prentice Hall, reader. Mrs. Hall is a favorite in Belleville and district, and her appearance on the programme will be a delightful feature.

Belleville Men's Chorus, directed by Ross Hunter, is a musical organization of which any community might well be proud—real civic pride draws itself in loyal support. Let's give the boys such a bumper attendance that they will realize that their efforts are appreciated.

Premier Henry, Citing his lengthy service of eleven years as a member of the Ontario House and three years as its chairman, the Prime Minister declared that he felt he was valuable a man to the Province, to be allowed to retire from office. I feel that he should continue in office, and I feel that it is the will of the people, especially Conservatives, that he should remain retained.

The Prime Ministers acquaintanceship of Mr. Cooke had been a lengthy one, for he had been appointed by him on the Hydro Board that had started him on his political career. Premier Henry, "In fact I feel responsible for Bob Cooke's political career. He was appointed from the Dominion Board to the Ontario Hydro Power, and I named Bob Cooke to the position. He has looked around for some one capable, of both him and me, and I have stuck to it. That was in 1920, I think, and Bob Cooke has been with me ever since."

Mr. Cooke definitely will not retire into private life, again reminded Premier Henry, "I have definitely about it."

Hon. Robert M.P.P. for East Hastings and to Mr. Ireland, M.P.P. for West Hastings, Premier Henry paid special tribute. "I have known Mr. Ireland for years. He is capable and conscientious representative. He has been faithful and has ready to serve on anything. My recommendation is that Mr. Ireland is over a fifteen year period. He has proven himself for a number of years as one of the best government supporters and the highest the members and decorum in the House. He was always available when needed."

Liquor Question

The speaker turned to the liquor question briefly, and the leading questions of the day and the one perhaps the opposition are making the most of.

"The temperance question is not a new one. We go back to the days of Noah there was some trouble about this problem," remarked the Prime Minister as he launched into the explanation of the government's stand on beer and wine sale. "I feel that we have made real progress in the past twenty-five or thirty years. Now no one has any particular respect for the drunkard and many will admit that we are on the right vent men becoming drunkards and increased users of alcoholic beverages.

"Many of the young men this afternoon know nothing of the condition which obtained twenty-five years ago. Many of the young people in this hall have never seen a barroom because eighteen years ago under prohibition the beer parlors banished from Ontario and the rural parts for many years. Before that in many places there had been no bars.

Conservative Measures of Progress

"This progress can be definitely traced to Conservative legislation. Just as the Hon. Mr. Cooke said in regard to social legislation." The history of the O.T.A. law of 1916 which was sustained in 1919 by the Privy Council, was a very popular vote. It later became evident that the O.T.A. was not proving as beneficial as it might be, so in 1927 there was a step taken in the inauguration of the O.T.A. Commission, which was appointed to the people who gave a majority in favor of the O.T.A. Act. Then it was that in the fall of 1926 Premier Ferguson recommended to the people of the province of Ontario a measure along the lines of the present Act. The original plan included a fairly wide distribution of beer such as is now in vogue in the province of Quebec, wine law of the recent session. In 1926 and 1927 the Conservatives were as dry as much of Manitoba is now. The Conservative principles were enlarged of the motor car traffic, and in the Ferguson Government was endorsed at the polls by a majority of 30,000 votes. Almost seven years ago this act came into force.

"As we went on year by year, Conservatives felt that more could be exercised, and that there was a desire for the older days. In 1929 the question was still an issue," the premier said. "In that election we received the most overwhelming endorsement in the history of the province. So we went forward, strengthened the Act here and there, and administered the law and that has been the case up to the present.

"The full power of the Act [illegible] was never used. We have never allowed publicity of the sale of liquor. Why? Because we feel the people of the province have asked for it. And the Government assumed the responsibility.

"But now we come to this session and the question of the sale of liquor in the provinces cash and carry. Well, I don't like it myself. I think so still we have the best liquor control law of all.

Why No Referendum

"Then someone says, why not leave it to a referendum. I don't know what would happen if we had a referendum on the question of our form of government. Generally speaking, I think it is unadvisable in the British form of government. That we undertake that the Government have a responsibility in relation of the law to see the people obey it.

"We feel that as an administration we have undertaken a serious responsibility for all its legislation. I say as a member of the party in the country behind the changes that have been made. They are not yet law and will never become law unless they have the direct endorsement by the people. Mr. Hepburn says that he would go one better than the Conservatives. One of his henchmen the other night said: 'Give us a chance and we will go one better than the Conservatives will give you' (Laughter), I say," said the Premier forward, "that as long as I am Premier, and I am going to be Premier (laughter) I have a right ask controlling the sale of liquor in the province." (Applause).

He gave it with the administration which has controlled the distribution of liquor for seven years, to carry on."

"The Government has been said about the general freedom which has existed. Liquor stores and beer booths along the highways selling beer. That is not the case. Under us, the government of the province has been carried it on for the past seven years.

Tourist's Entertained

"Tourists don't go around looking for a drink. They go to Ontario to enjoy themselves among the natural beauties rather than the cities. We have a beautiful country and we are proud of it. Throughout these years of depression, Mr. Premier, I have endeavored in the north is a network of roads. Many of the roads were started years ago this year and the work will go on, particularly for those in the north country. Tourists like they may enjoy themselves. So we are going to keep our roads in the best seat as far as Perth. We have millions invested in the highways as an investment and an asset—one which is necessary for the high standard of living in this age which has brought us many people all living well and in the way of necessary pleasures and advantages and I understand that with a little courage and patience all were going to get through.

Farmers Must Find Markets

He said he knew the progress which has been made and lauded the benefits which have been derived from the Ontario Hydro Power. "Generally speaking we have excelled ourselves in production but that is only part, only half. There is not much use of our filling our barns with hay and growing our livestock if we can't find a market for our wares. Now all of these things have been given great care. Col. Reynolds has been successful in getting a market for our farm products. The Department is out to find markets for our wares in the Maritimes and the Prairie Provinces." There must be a successful agriculture if this province is to prosper. There are 100—I think 310,000 farmers — in Ontario and the most important industry in Ontario. I believe we in Ontario fail to realize the importance, and that in normal times we have production of five hundred millions of dollars in a year in farming including animal products.

"Crops were never a complete failure in Ontario."

Speaking of the success and size of the O.T.A. was not growing, Premier Henry remarked that the farmers except in a very few cases had not availed of it. He believed the farmers knew they had something which they could not be ended with the receipt of an envelope at the end of the week. He was proud to say that no one had ever suffered from hunger. Provisions have been spent to protect those who are unemployed.

Premier Henry spoke to the improvement in the standard of living, the increased interest in and approaching those of the city. Referring to the question of taxation on farm tasks and was being investigated now.

He mentioned how the Hon. Robert Cooke had developed the rural Hydro lines, saving millions, dollars had been invested.

Not Governmental Tax

On the question of the finances of the province, Premier Henry said there had been complaints heard that the expenditure was so much more than it was thirty years ago. "But what did you get them?" asked the Premier. "A mere bagatelle. Thirty years ago the budget was probably five million dollars and today it is fifty millions. And less than five millions of the fifty millions is collected by direct taxation. Many contribute through what is called a gas tax, which is a tax for service, a purchase of a service. The average motorist pays about forty or fifty dollars a year for the privilege of driving without interference and safely and at the same time he saves about one hundred dollars a year in the upkeep of his car as a result of the good roads over which he travels.

He pointed out that the revenue from succession duties, twenty millions, eight millions of the revenue comes from succession duties. Government does not put in the passing of the money to heirs there should be a little taken off to maintain the public services. Revenue from liquor sales was about 8 million dollars.

Less than a million comes from the amusement tax. The balance of the five millions taxed is collected by municipalities as a contribution towards development and maintenance of the highway system with in the province. Seven and a half millions come from the corporation tax.

15 Per Cent Direct Tax

"Most of our money, eighty five per cent of it comes from other than direct taxes. I lay stress on this that it is not due to the government that you are taxed. It is due to yourselves and you get the services and you pay for them.

"What do we do with the money?" Interest in debts amounts to 16 or 18 million, education costs 16 millions this year as against 13 or 14 million dollars ten years ago, allowances three millions; mental hospitals 3 millions; charities and one and three quarter millions; administration of justice one and one quarter millions; highways three and a half millions and counting it costs 6 or 7 millions.

"We have balanced our budget, and have a surplus over ordinary expenditures of $470,000. The opposition say we should charge the relief expenditures, to current expenditure but I think the habit of borrowing for unemployment relief is not the correct method.

"You must not borrow money," Mr. Hepburn and his wild flights of fancy. He says that all the expenditures in two and yet do they know what they are talking about to say. Express your views through Mr. Ireland who is your choice."

The speaker finished in another burst of prolonged applause that had marked his introduction to the convention.

Mr. Cooke Praised

Mr. T. P. Lancaster of the new Peterborough riding saw victory for the government in this seat of which Mr. Cooke was member. "I congratulate Mr. Cooke before him as a model of public servant." I still have a long way to go before I reach the standard of service he has given to North Hastings for the Mr. Stevens, from the National Association of British Millers, the Glenora Flour Millers Association and various organizations in Sweden that used Canadian wheat for flour making. The letters represented the interest endured the value of the flour.

RECOVERY DEFINITELY SEEN

"While improvement in Canada's finances is not great there is improvement, indicative of better conditions as pointed out in the optimistic preamble of the budget speech," is the comment of Canadian Business in its May issue. It points out that revenues are in the right direction, though the deficit on ordinary account which is down nineteen million dollars from last year is still the sizable figure of twenty-four millions. The magazine goes on to say that improving conditions will likely wipe out deficits on ordinary account and pare away relief expenses. The magazine turns to railway accounts for the remaining high hurdle on the way to a balanced budget. "Fifty million Damoclesean dollars dangle as railway requirements next year and our big job in Dominion financing is an increasingly effective approach to railway problems. The Government, at long last, has put our expenditures through more than just a paring process, for lopping off eighty-three millions from controllable expenditures in three years, is action requiring more than a little midriff fortitude and financial skill. Net debt has increased over the period from $2,600,000,000 to $2,738,000,000. This item is one requiring assiduity and courage for its accompaning fixed charges that comprise over one-third of total ordinary expenditures."

Canada Week also points out that "all of a sudden we realized the other day that with one exception—grain, Canada's chief export industries are now back to normal" and cites lumbering, newsprint production, nickle, and gold products, and livestock one of the outstanding marks of the recovery is the tremendous replacement demand which has been built up since 1929 and the effect which this demand will have on business in general as soon as it becomes effective. The automobile business is perhaps the best barometer for measuring the effect of the stimulus resulting from replacements. In the first quarter sales of automobiles in Eastern Canada figures were up thirty-three and one-third per cent. and March sales were up 58 per cent.

The magazine points out that betterment in the economic situation in Canada has not resulted to any great extent from factors which have their origin within the country, but that there are now plans being formulated to give impetus to the rate of recovery, though "the dangers of bureaucratic domination are being sensed as Canada apes the policy of the United States." A period of rising prices is in distinct prospect, according to the publication, pointing out that the rise in the price level will not only represent a logical cyclical upswing following an era of falling prices, but will be stimulated by credit and banking inflation based on the broadened gold foundation arising from increased production and the rise in value. It calls the advance in the price of gold only the beginning and not the end of an economic phase. Prices of commodities do not immediately follow the price of gold but ultimately they have always advanced to approximately the same extent as gold has advanced in terms of paper currencies.

A worldwide revival is seen in progress and "despite unbalanced budgets, there is confidence in the stability of governments as witnessed by the strength in high grade obligations, there is a substantial amount of funds available for investment, there is unprecedented shortage of goods, and finally there has yet to be felt the full impetus of depreciated currencies on commodity prices, which in addition are due for a major cyclical upswing."

SAVE WILD FLOWERS

And there are few things in this world to equal the wilted dejection of wild flowers a few moments after they are picked. Most of the varieties shrivel and die after they are taken from their natural habitat. Only a few lend themselves to transplanting in backyard gardens, but, despite the fact that this is common knowledge, the destruction goes on year after year. The result is that many places where wild flowers once were in abundance are now devoid of them. Quite a number of varieties, we are told, have been completely destroyed. Parents, it has been suggested, could play a prominent part in the preservation of these spring flowers by instructing the children not to pick them in quantity. No wild flower ever looks as nice in a lapel or a bowl as it does in the setting nature arranged for it. And no bit of countryside ever was improved by the wholesale destruction of the spring flowers that once bloomed there.—Hamilton Spectator.

CHILD FILMS

Those persons about the age of Mary Pickford and those somewhat older cannot but regret that the children of the present day have not a favorite actress in child parts whom they might admire as Mary Pickford has been admired. There are those delightful little jems of plays the Walt Disney creations which cannot fail to charm and elevate the children and adults, but outside of these there is not the same type of child entertainment fare as was given the young of twenty years ago, when a Pickford picture was not a rarity. Miss Pickford played in numerous screen plays especially in the child roles which marked her out as the most beloved of the actresses in those earlier days of the films, and preserves for her a reputation and a fame which endure.

SIDELIGHTS

GRAVE and GAY (supervised by The Lamplighter)

MY MOTHER

By James Lewis Milligan, Toronto.

She went when the flowers were springing,
When the sun at noon was high;
She fled while the thrush was singing
Of the roses bye and bye,
When the bells of hope were ringing
In the grass where the violets lie.

The flowers they could not hold her,
Her eyes to the sun were blind;
The things that the sweet birds told her
They could not change her mind;
Her heart to the world grew colder —
For the world had been unkind.

Earth gave her little but sorrow,
And mingled love's wine with tears,
And ever the hopes of the morrow
Were dim with threatening fears;
But she fled where they do not borrow
From former or after years.

Her testing time was over,
There was no cause to mourn;
She had a tryst with her lover
Who waited beyond this bourne,
Who stood 'mid the scented clover
And the golden fields of corn.

"CRY HAVOC," Beverley Nichols expose of mass murder for profit, started folks thinking seriously of a side of war which has hitherto kept modestly, or immodestly, in the background. Now there's a new book out on the same subject, "Iron, Blood and Profits," by George Seldes, which makes many charges startling to our cousins across the border. F'rinstance, according to Walter Winchell, he charges that Yankee marines were killed in Haiti and Nicaragua by the enemy whose guns were made in New England. Machine guns are being made in Paris for Japan by a company headed by a Yankee. The Lindbergh motor and other U.S. airplanes have been sold and are being manufactured by the Japanese military. Nitrates for making T.N.T. have been shipped to Japan from the United States. But why marvel at that—private armament and munition makers in every country sell their death-dealing goods to whoever has the cash to pay, regardless of whose boy gets killed eventually. When folks get mad enough and wise enough to close every private profit armament and munition factory and turn the business over to the government then there will be fewer wars. Nations hesitate to start a war unless they think they have a better war machine than their neighbors —and the private profit armament salesman makes them believe they are buying the latest and most deadly of all weapons, guns, gas, liquid fire, or what have you.

KENTUCKY COLONELS are becoming as thick as fleas on a hobo dog's back and we don't mean maybe. Lowell Thomas, radio news broadcaster, is among the latest to be made a Kentucky Colonel, by the grace of the Governor of Kentucky and the consent of Kentucky Congress. Other states have been handing out Colonel degrees also, but not as fast or as frequently as Kentucky. A Kentucky Colonel in the near future will feel more like a kernel in a whole mess of nuts than a military officer.

DEFECTIVE ARMOR PLATE was sold to the United States for battleships by a Pittsburg steel maker, who was fined heavily—but the scandal made scarcely a ripple on the placid surface of public opinion. Every war in the United States has been marked by scandals from food to furnishings. Greed is always stronger than patriotism where it is given a chance to sprout, and war contracts are generally fat picking in those countries which lack the thousand years background of probity and loyal honesty which is the pride of British heritage.

SIR BASIL ZAHAROFF, Europe's Man of Mystery, the man behind scores of guns, gas and all kinds of death-dealing weapons, the super-armament salesman, is said to have obtained his first substantial armament order through a woman. He met the Marques on a train and she got him an order for five million dollars worth of war materials from Spain. He married her forty years later. It is alleged that Zaharoff's companies made seven billion dollars in the World War.

PROBLEM GIRL DIFFICULTIES CONSIDERED

Proper Advice and Guidance Will Help Girls Over Danger Period

By LOUIS E. BISCH, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Many people believe that the so-called "problem" girl is necessarily one of defective mentality, and naturally, that a girl suffering from an organic brain defect cannot be expected to think and behave as does one possessed of all her faculties.

As a matter of fact, a girl may lie, steal, commit sex transgressions and otherwise appear incorrigible, and yet still be mentally normal so far as psychological testing procedures are concerned. In such girls frequently are found only emotional maladjustments; not even emotional difficulties that might be called psychopathic, and therefore incurable.

It must be remembered that most problem cases develop during the period of adolescence when physical changes take place in the body and necessarily upset the mental and emotional equilibrium. At this time the girl feels and reasons differently from what she did during her previous childhood days, although she does not yet possess the experience, the knowledge or the perspective on life that adult years afford.

Impulses she has never before noted lead her to dream about and yearn for the opposite sex. Especially does she find herself attracted by anything that is forbidden or held morally and socially taboo. She wants to be a "good sport" and to behave as many other girls of her age do, because such doings appear to her to be the mark of having grown up.

Pulling her in the opposite direction are all the precepts of right living that she has been taught to respect for many years past. One part of her says, "go ahead and have a good time"; the other whispers, "be careful you do not do something you will regret and be ashamed of".

If a girl who is thus torn between conflicting emotions has an understanding mother or even an older friend from whom she can seek advice and in whom she can confide, much of the turmoil will be removed and the girl will feel strong and steadied. But if such a girl has no one to turn to in her bewilderment, she will probably follow the lines of least resistance, and soon go the pace.

The history of most problem girls who are not mentally defective reveals that they were allowed more or less to shift for themselves and that they had no individual whom they could trust and with whom they discussed their problems. Often, too, such girls were afraid of being scolded and even of suffering physical punishment, and in many cases they finally decided to let themselves go, and get out of the world what they might, because they felt they were putting up a lone fight and were disgusted with the struggle.

So the ordinary problem girl is not such a problem after all. Indeed, every young female adolescent may become a problem if she is not properly advised and supervised. In other words, all girls should be prepared for life as it really is, gradually, tactfully and from earliest years. Nothing helps so much as the truth properly told.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Health Hint.

In giving a baby the bottle certain rules should be observed. In the first place, the child should not lie down but should be held in the left arm of the mother and in a semi-upright position. Next, care should be taken that the nipple is always full of milk and does not contain air. This means that the bottle should be held higher than the child's mouth so that there is a constant stream of milk downwards. After feeding, the baby should be allowed to rest in its crib and not be interfered with in any way.

GAME FISH PLANTING IMPROVES FISHING

Montreal, May 12—Game fish planting is proceeding rapidly in many parts of Canada with the prospect of improved fishing for the sportsman as a result, stated C. K. Howard, head of the Fish and Game Department of the Canadian National Railways. The Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries is following the policy of planting only in the advanced fingerling stage when the fish are from three to five inches in length —and at the same time a percentage of each year's hatch is retained to be planted during the next season as yearlings. In the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island considerable work has already been done in the matter of stocking game fishing waters and the work is being continued.

One of the outstanding successes in game fish planting was that at Maligne Lake, Jasper National Park, where speckled trout were introduced into previously barren glacial lakes with the result that five years later trout weighing up to five pounds and six pounds were being taken by sportsmen with artificial flies and baits. The Maligne Lake area as a result has become the outstanding speckled trout fishing area on the continent.

5 GAMES GO EXTRA FRAMES IN TWO LOOPS

Apparently Opposition From Weaker Clubs Getting Stronger

SMART BASEBALL

Cards And Pirates Crowd Cubs For Top of National League

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

The greatest array of extra inning games that the major leagues have produced so far this season today had the fans wondering whether competition had suddenly become keener or if the stronger clubs merely had drawn a little for one day.

Of yesterday's eight major contests no fewer than five went ten or more innings and the greatest of these overtime battles was the one which saw New York Yankees, American League leaders, beat out the last-place Chicago White Sox 7-6 in fourteen innings.

The pale hose, playing like a brand new outfit for a game back after the Yanks had built up a 5-0 lead with the aid of Sam Chapman's first inning homer with two on, threw Harry Smythe's 3-0 cover and tied the score with four tallies in the eighth after widdman had driven in Dave Harris with the hit. They finally went down after Whit Wyatt, the relief pitcher who had held them hurled five hitless innings when Earl Combs singled, stole second and Byrd singled him in.

Cleveland Indians moved into second place again with an eleven-inning affair which gave the Tribe the 5-3 after the Sox had blown a 4-1 lead in the ninth. Monte Pearson, Cleveland hurler, batted his first start, allowed a single apiece in the first inning by giving two walks and two hits and finally making a wild pitch to account for the third run.

Detroit's Tigers were the American League's only other winning encounter with a slam-bang assault which sent Lefty Grove to the showers. Detroit piles even after the A's had scored five times in the first inning and then topped by Jimmie Foxx's sixth homer. The Tigers, who had their place with the Senators, who pulled out in the tenth to St. Louis Browns 5-4.

National League.

The National League's two extra-inning contests found the Cubs outstanding when Pittsburg and St. Louis both lost in the ninth of the league leading Cubs, each won out in the tenth. Lon Warneke's homer behind a walk to Arky Vaughan gave the Pirates a 4-3 decision over the Phillies while the Cardinals nosed out the Giants 3-2 in a ten-inning pitching duel between Paul Dean and Carl Hubbell when Jack Rothrock singled after a hit, an error and an intentional pass had loaded the sacks.

The Cubs meanwhile, took their worst licking of the season from the Brooklyn Dodgers after starting out hopefully with a lead by the Chicago team. The final count was 13-1 as the Dodgers rallied with seven runs off Pat Malone in the eighth inning.

As a result Chicago remained only half a game ahead in percentage points in front of the Pirates, who in turn, both lie a full game with St. Louis.

The fourth National League contest saw Boston Braves blast Benny Frey off the mound in the fifth inning, driving him out with four runs in the eighth for an 8-6 victory.

CHURCH LOOP SOFTBALL

Two games of softball opened the local intermediate series of the Belleville Church Softball League in Belleville last evening. At St. Michael's school grounds St. Mikes' intermediates played a last inning rally to defeat Bridge St. by the score of 6 to 5 in a well played and keenly contested game. The teams battled on even terms with Bridge St. going into the final frame one run to the good but the St. Mikes' heavy hitters swung into action in the last half of the ninth. Purcell doubled and scored on O'Neill homer. Noakes and Kerr were the most consistent hitters for the losers while Rossky and Forster handled themselves well at the box. The game proved a real snappy affair with an unsheathed spirit of sportsmanship displayed.

St. Michaels—Peets, Doherty, Amo, Forster, Callaghan, O'Neill, Shortiss, Rossky, Kennedy, Volath, Davidson and Forster.

Bridge St.—Stone, Ridley, Noakes, Kobsch, Dickens, Clare, Kerr, Marton, Mitchell, Woods, Archer and Reynolds.

Umpires—Barrett and Munnings.

St. Andrew's Church

At the East Belleville Playgrounds St. Andrew's intermediates opened the season with a win by downing Bridge St. in a free hitting contest by the score of 15 to 10. The St. Andrew's club were in an early lead by scoring six runs in the second frame never to be headed. Garispy and Adams composed the John St. battery while Browning and Bateman hurled for Jack Marshalls winners with Williamson on the receiving end.

St. Andrews—Williamson, Brown, Gibson, Dixon, Mole, Warren, Adams, Bateman, Peoples, Kennedy, Irwin and Coulter.

John St.—Reid, Hunter, Garispy, Adams, Rollins, Clarke, Brown, Jackson, Leslie and Rogers.

W. ABERNATHY HITS HOMER

Bases Loaded And Leafs Go Down By Score of 8-5

By the Associated Press

A smashing clout by Woodley Abernathy, erstwhile Southern football star, had temporarily checked Baltimore Oriole's lusting streak in the International League and cost Toronto Maple Leafs sole possession of third place.

With two out and the bases loaded yesterday, Abernathy caught hold of one of Bert Cole's delivers and blasted the ball over the distant fence in right centre field at Toronto, a smash that enabled the Orioles to win 8-5 as it was only the second home run hit in the Leafs' spacious park and the longest driven seen in the Canadian city this season.

Cole was leading 5-3 when Abernathy connected for the vital blow in a five-run rally that broke up the ball game. Charley Locas came in to halt the rally but the damage had been done.

The defeat dropped Toronto into a tie with the Ills Montreal Royals for third place while Baltimore by winning, although still in the cellar now trails Buffalo Bisons by only a ball game.

The other league game played yesterday provided the spot for Rochester to move into first place by centre victory, a 5-3 conquest of Newark Bears that thereby found themselves forced to share fifth place with the Syracuse Stars.

Rochester's pitcher Hamlin, former from the New York-Pennsylvania league, earned his fourth victory of the year as he gave Albany only five hits and held them well after the fourth. Jimmy Carthews, who paced the Red Wings to two hits and blanked them in the first start of the game, was the hero of a three-run attack in the first inning but finished the game, allowing 3 safeties. Tommy Carey with a double, two hits and Chet Winsett with a home run and a single led Rochester's attack.

Weather conditions forced postponement of the other two scheduled games.

CURRENT SPORT

(Day By Day)

Official sanction to stage a regional or district track and field meet was received by those in authority at the B.C.I. yesterday afternoon from the Ontario Athletic Commission. The matter in question was still naturally be received with open arms by the local athletic body at the college. After yesterday's announcement Mr. Shiels and Mr. Laughlin, who supervise all sport in the local collegiate, immediately communicated the news to Principal Napanee, Trenton, Brighton, Deseronto and all of the high schools in the northern part of the county. The Bay of Quinte district school track and field meet will be held at the Exhibition Park next Saturday afternoon, when the cream of all the track and field athletes from the immediate district will meet in contest in full glee. The winners of the local meet will gather at Kingston on May 26 for the Eastern Ontario trials, with the ultimate winners continuing further to the provincial finals, that are to be staged in Toronto in June. Previous to the regional meet here next Saturday, however, the local collegiate will hold their annual field day on Wednesday next. The usual field events, as well as the speed tests on the track will be competed by both girls and boys at both meets, the local field day and the regional meet. The usual sprints, the mile run, bicycle races, pole vault, the various jumps, discus shot put and all other such events will be included on each program.

The track and field athletes seem to be headed for a strenuous season. It was recently announced that a special open track and field meet would be staged in the Memorial Athletic Club of Kingston at the Richardson Stadium on June 2nd. Besides the usual program of track and field events, a modified version of 12 miles will be included. There are to be 2 open track events, including a series of stock-car thrills also. Both girls' and boys' events are on the program also. For this meet Belleville Meerdon has rounded up his medley relay team. Bill Ketcheson and Jack Barber will wear local colors in the long distance runs while other local sprinters will also compete. Further a contingent of athletes from the Belleville Legion will go to the this meet depends on the result of the basketball meets to be staged here Wednesday and Saturday. Those wrestled in the games to be met on June 2nd. should apply to Stanley Ferris at the C.I. Secretary Morden is planning to hold the annual Trenton-Belleville medley relay race during the Deseronto Carnival Celebration.

The latest news from down Brockville way is to effect that Ian Tice, ex-Belleville-Brockville goalkeeper has been signed by the amateurs to Kingston where he will next year. The Kingston Intermediate Senior "A" outfit is reported. Would it be possible that the Cities will be represented by a senior A hockey team in the Limestone City next winter. Then again Tice may find himself back in the Island town next winter as rumors have "Hawse" Marsh, the ex-Montreal goalkeeper, who was slated for a Napoleone uniform, heading the passing right through Brockville, Smith Johns, N.B., bound. Marsh looked over the yacht, Magdoma, and decided he could see waste his time swabbing decks of such a small craft when larger boats were available in the Bay of Fundy. It is understood that Coach Jess Spring, recently acquired by the Brockville club as the coach for their baseball and hockey teams has his diamond aspirants out to practice every afternoon from 2 to 5.45. Then do they work, you ask? Well, they could keep in the running after rising at 10 a.m. or so Matchmaker Wilberly of the Trenton Airports says that he has signed Art Angell of this city to meet Bill Waugh of Kingston in the semi-final bout at the Airport next Thursday. That bout supports the main go between Howard Wheeler and Dick Bishop of Napanee. The promoters at the Airports are hoping to stage a card during the next show, that is endeavouring to stage a mixed show—wrestlers and boxers. The attempt was tried locally some time ago with anything but success. Matchmaker Wilberly says that the Airport promoters have a card of wrestlers signed for next month but after watching a fast amateur boxing bout the other night wrestlers are usually pretty tame. The result of pugilistic efforts next month will be watched with local interest. Bill Dempsey, Angell's opponent, is matched to meet Jim Taylor of Trenton in the opening bout.

It was with regret we learned that the Delaney Bearcats are to be disbanded. The Bearcats are the sons of this softball team came rather suddenly to a close. The unfortunate affair during a recent softball game at the College Field when two players were ejected from a game in the Wall Street league. It is regretable that the softball game in the Wall Street league should end in such a manner. Grant Ashley also of the Wall Street league has been ejected from last year won the Wall Street league and continuing on the Bearcats' action to win the local loop. It is regretable that the Bearcats will not be the support of such fair-minded sportsmen. Regarding the circumstances that surrounded the ejection of Ashley, Delaney definitely has been announced relative to the future activities of the club but for Ashley and Mr. Delaney assured the writer that if they desired to continue operating under the sole name of Bearcats, they would be welcome to the uniforms and equipment now available. The team will continue to operate in the Wall Street league in which they are at present in second place. It is also learned about town that the manager of another team is also interested in angling for the entire Bearcat roster in the event of Delaney's not playing in the O.A.S.A. local league. It is also learned that the Delaney outfit the Bearcats will change their ditzels and return to the name that they originally laid the foundation of in Belleville a few years back. By mutual agreement the Bearcat-Grills A. C. game scheduled for Wednesday night and Secretary Newton Thompson of the C.O.B.L. informs us that he received requests from both Belleville and Peterboro relating to the postponement of the league adopting a quadruple schedule, instead of the recently issued triple schedule. Mr. Thompson querried the Kingston club on the matter and will at once draft a new quadruple schedule. It all three clubs are unanimous on the subject. In the meantime, however, the opening date of May 24th will remain unchanged.

Last evening saw the opening of the local church softball league. As requested the team managers left the various score cards at Bill Cook's cigar store, and some of them failed to fill in the names of the contesting clubs. The score cards were either made out and easy to decipher, but owing to the fact that we could not determine just what clubs were playing we were forced to withhold one game. While on the subject we have in our possession sufficient regulation score cards to supply all clubs in the league. All that is needed is a request from the team managers and we will gladly supply each club with enough score cards for the entire season's schedule.

Following the local Y.M.C.A. banquet at the Y.M.C.A. last evening the members, visitors and friends were entertained at a smoker on the gym floor at which time a number of local wrestlers and boxers put on a splendid show. The boxers were Gordie Morris and Don Ridley. Art Angell and Bill Dempsey and Fred Parry ; nd Jimmie Langley. The wrestlers were Harve Adam, Meyers, Cook, Murphy, Hayde and Taylor. The entire show was warmly received and those present, not only the club members and the delegates, who are in Belleville at the regional convention of the Y's Men's Clubs of this district.

More Than Likely Grand Three Year Old Will Be Sent to Post

By Orlo Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore, May 13 (AP)— Amid surroundings that hailed his regal standing among the three year olds of the turf, Mrs. Gifford Cochran's Cavalcade awaited today the bugle calling him to the post for the 44th running of the $20,-00 Preakness.

The countenances the Kentucky Derby winner displayed upon his arrival from New York yesterday had gone and he was ready to try and add the Preakness Florida taste and its purse of nearly $25,000 to his bankroll.

There was still some question whether Trainer Bob Smith would send Cavalcade to the post but there was no question as to his fitness. Every indication was, however, that the jovial trainer for Mrs. Cochran would start what he would decide to saddle, not only his famous Derby winner but the speedy High Quest with the idea of attempting to finish one, two.

Six other three-year-olds, three of them Derby starters, have been acceted to dispute the claim of the Calumet stable to supremacy among the division. Not more than five will probably start, however, and are expected to face starter James Milton at about 5 p.m. (E.S.T.).

Of the half-dozen nominees, Discovery, the choice for which 21 year old Alfred G. Vanderbilt paid $20,-000 and Mrs. Frank J. Heller's great money performer, Agrarian, were ruled the favorites of turning back the Brookmeade colts.

The entry of Cavalcade and High Quest was quoted at 4 to 5 in the early wagering while Discovery was quoted at 4 to 1 and Agrarian at 6 to 1.

"ALL-BRAN WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY DIET"

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"I have been troubled for years with constipation. During the past time, I have tried almost every known remedy, — finally got one recommended setting Kellogg's All-Bran each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I generally experienced when taking laxatives. Hereafter, Kellogg's All-Bran will always be a part of my diet."—Mr. R. G. Hines (address furnished upon request).

Research shows that Kellogg's All-Bran provides "bulk", to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B, to aid elimination. All-Bran also supplies iron in a form needed by the blood.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is much like that in leafy vegetables. It holds this "cereal way" safer than vials of patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains much needed "bulk" that part-bran products lack. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

JIMMY HOLDS ACONFERENCE AS TRAINING STARTS

Shortly after his arrival in New York, Jimmy McLarnin, hard-hitting welterweight champion of the world (LEFT) went into a confer-

Influence of the Mother

As we draw near to the day set aside as a remembrance to mothers, I am wondering just what do we mean by it; just what does it portend, honoring Mother. I honor, in memory, my mother almost every day in the year. The other day I came across some small pieces of calico in the "piece bag" like a dress she wore when I was a small child. Presently I will have a dress when she made me a small apron of the same kind of cloth. Once again in memory I hear her gentle voice admonishing me.

It is fine to take part in the splendid dinner prepared for us by the Sunday School Committee, and for one of us who are, mothers of grown up sons and daughters, participate on the back and soak up all the appreciation we can get whether we are worthy of it or not.

Last year I read two articles published in a popular magazine by two well known writers who held different opinions as to the wisdom of Mother's Day. One felt it to be only cheap sentimentality, said it was like every other good idea, becoming commercialized. That may be true, and I agreed with many things she said.

The other writer claimed it as a wonderful and well deserved honor accorded mothers. She said it brought back many childhood memories and left her with a deep peace and a better understanding of the joys and duties of motherhood, as she herself was a mother. And just here is the purpose of my pen, if Mother's Day continues as a day set apart in honor of mothers, will it fulfill that purpose or will it in time be but another day of form?

I see in the Bible the word Mother is applied to a valiant woman of whom God made use to deliver His people, to instruct and take care of them with tender affection.

Therefore the purpose of motherhood is to instruct, take care of, to love, ah! love, love is a nothing greatest asset we all say. Granted, it may be. But love without knowledge is like a wonderful vessel without a pilot, it is soon followed by shipwreck. How many times we have seen just that. It is a good simile. Here is a mother who loves her child, even to the laying of life for it if need be, but she does not love it with the knowledge (if precisely) to plot it through the first stages of self-control.

Many a man or man has become so through having a great mother, but the world does not tell of the many who have been but wreckage because of weak mothers.

And where can a young untrained mother get the knowledge? If she is earnestly seeking to be that which she has made herself responsible for, she should "search the Scriptures diligently, seek and ye shall find", is just as true as truth itself.

Children of today may not be more intelligent than the children of forty years ago, but they have been allowed more freedom of expression, and the result is they are more capable of sizing up the people they come in contact with. If you are what you pretend to be, you've simply got to "come across with the goods" (and to paraphrase that slang expression, what is the "goods" in motherhood.)

And that is as it should be. Every mother if she expects her children to honor her in her old age should instill in them in their impressionable years what the words respect and honor mean, and be an example of its use. It is her duty and their heritage.

What great thoughts are you thinking that will be intermingled with the blood of you, for after all the influence of the mind and spirit upon the physical part of man is a well known axiom. We far from motherhood go; to the immediate generation only, ah, no! Your personality as a woman goes on and on into eternity. Your deepest thought is shared by those about you, but the true depth of thought of the soul, be they good or evil, are those which descend with the blood of you into the following generations.

In closing I would say to mothers, on this day, gather unto yourselves strength of grace, that you might be worthy of the honor paid you by your sons and daughters.

MY MOTHER'S VOICE

It comes to me at even tide
Like a chain of golden beads
It brings to me a wealth of joy;
A joy that knows no bounds.

It comes, my mother's voice,
To soothe with quiet tone
The anguish of a tortured heart;
A message from God's throne.

Its chiding tones in childhood
Was guidance to my feet,
And in the after years, in youth,
When love and laughter met.

Then out the realm of my thought
A host of visions thrung,
I see her face once more upturned,
I hear her voice in song.

I see her bended head in prayer,
I hear her voice entreat
God's mercy on her little flock
That all in heaven might meet.

I see her hands so soft and strong;
Oh soft when I was ill;
As on my brow their gentle touch,
Ah Time; I feel them still.

She guided me in wisdom's way,
She gave me sage advice;
Words of kind mind has long forgot,
But the heart holds like a vice.

To me, that voice is like
The sweetest song in life;
It quiets all conflicting fears
And drives out thoughts of strife.

Oh blest are they who know the love
Of a truly Christian mother;
The boundless depths of her love for you,
Not even death can smother.

—E. Pearl Brumsell.

HEAR TALK ON FLORIDA TRAVELS

King George H. and S. Club Members Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the King George Home and School Club was held last evening in the Treasbury Board with the President Mrs. W. J. Harrison in the chair, Mr. Brown acting as secretary pro contem.

Mr. Vernon Orr, guest speaker, who gave a talk on Florida, was introduced by the chairman. Mrs. Harrison spoke of Mr. Orr's extensive travels through the south and his having made his home in Florida at various times, made him especially qualified to give a word picture of peninsular state of the South.

The speaker gave a most interesting of his travels and a graphic description of the scenic beauty, the industries and historical interest of Florida.—Mr. Orr illustrated his talk with intriguing curios he had acquired in his travels.

In recommendation of Mother's Day a poem in tribute to Mother was read by Mrs. Ashbury. An enthusiastic discussion among the members of the club on an outing for children was very much enjoyed. A history of the club was tendered Mr. Orr for his interesting talk and the meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Flowers Sold on City Market

Egg Prices Advance One Cent Per Dozen Saturday

Beauty was for sale on Belleville's Saturday market today. It was in the form of cream marigolds, offered for sale by Master Gordon Murray, son of Mr. George Murray of Trenton. Gordon gathered these wild flowers himself and brought them in for sale thinking that they would be a very acceptable gift for Mother's Day.

The basket season is certainly here as was shown by the display of bats which were turned out by hand by Mr. Art Proctor of Madoc. Other examples of his handiwork were basket handles for axes and hammers.

Beautiful necklaces composed of many colored beads, cushions, and fancy work all testified as to skill of Miss M. Redner of Redneyville, and added a touch of beauty to the vari-ety.

Many appetites were sharpened by Mrs. E. K. Hubble's display of tarts, pies, cakes and loaves of bread. Mrs. Hubble brought this tempting cooking from the farm of Hubble & Mrs. Blake Parks brought in duck eggs which may be used for setting, and house plants, suitable for transplanting purposes, were again much in evidence. A livery trade was carried on by the gardeners in early hot house green vegetables. Green onions, radishes, lettuce, and rhubarb were the first on sale. Young beets were sold at 15 cents per two bunches. No difficulty was found in disposing of transplanting vegetables, onions being sold for 15 cents, onions for 25 cents, and tomato plants for 15 cents a small basket.

The usual large trade market was in progress at which butter remained at last week's prices selling at from 25 cents to 26 cents per pound with 25 cents as the predominate price. There took a slight rise varying in price from 17 to 19 cents a dozen.

Seed potatoes again sold at $1.75 per bag while the regular price for potatoes remained at last week's prices at 60c per bag. The usual tempting display of home cooking was much in evidence and found a ready market. There was an abundance of apples selling at last week's prevailing prices.

Spring features were live chicks only a few days old, at 5 cents each, trilliums and other wild flowers which lent a refreshing touch of beauty to the market, fine young pork pigs, eels, and other fresh fish.

QUESTION STATUS OF MOVIE STARS' MAIL ORDER DIVORCES

Fleet Gibson and Sally Eilers
Right, Mae Busch and Dorothy Dunbar

Richard Dix and Winifred Coe

Lillian Roth and W. C. Boldt

Speculation is rife in Hollywood regarding the legal status of so-called "mail order" divorces obtained by several prominent motion picture players in Mexico, as a result of the decision of the Hollywood superior court in holding the Juarez, Mexico, divorce decree of Attorney Carl S. Kegley from Mrs. Hazel Kegley Bingal, became nothing more than a separation decree. Among the divorces which the ruling would affect are those of Mae Barr and Dorothy Dunbar (UPPER RIGHT); Richard Dix and Winnifred Coe (LOWER LEFT); Lillian Roth and William M. C. Boldt (LOWER RIGHT), and Sally Eilers and Hoot Gibson (UPPER LEFT).

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, May 12 (CP)—Mining shares drifted down in quiet trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange, the senior gold group exhibiting the gain weakness, due evidently to the depressed state of the New York market. Dome rose a cent to $35.75, and recession of 25 cents were registered in Teck-Hughes, and McIntyre, and losses up to 25 cents for Teck Hughes, Wright Hargreaves and Pioneer.

Dome and Teck Hughes came out in substantial volume and other stocks of the group were slow. Base metals were off narrowly at the close, Sudbury basin dropped half of yesterday's advance and Noranda closed at $38.75 for a loss of $1.

NEW YORK CLOSE

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, May 12 (CP)—The financial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange closed this week with a decline that carried the Mosher High-Grade Index of 10 sharp sell-offs in the last half hour on the final day. This was the main factor in depressing the Toronto figure.

Nickel, Ford A, Smelters and some of the oil and distillery shares were sold actively. Ford going back to 20 1-4, and Nickel to 29 3-8. Smelters dropped 1-4 to 13 1-8 and C.P.R. 1-4 to 12 3-8. Gold issues were featured by a decline of 1-4 to 1-2 to 150. Walkers lost nearly a point and Distillers and Industrial Alcohol were off about 1-4 at the close.

New York, May 13 (AP)—Intermittent recoveries and declines with the market in the majority, made a confusing pattern of today's brief stock market session. Prices at their worst were off 1 to more than 2 points. They came back moderately near the close which was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

Grain Market

Noon quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today:

Rye	44⅞	46¼	47⅞
Barley	37⅛	39¼	40⅞
Oats	34⅝	35⅝	35⅞

Prize cattle, wheat today: High, 73⅜; low, 70⅛.

Stock Market Gossip

NEW YORK, May 13—Street still pretty blue and looking for some indication to bring about a rally. On the other hand brokers say that liquidation is not as aggressive as it was albeit pretty steady in some issues.

Reported that Bayuk Cigars will shortly declare a stock dividend on common stock in lieu of initiating a cash dividend. No dividend at present being paid on common. The company has been following a policy of conserving cash to meet future needs. In view of substantial earnings of the company, however, stockholders have been anxious for dividends on common stock and there have been frequent rumors that a dividend is in the stock.

Curb brokers discussing foreign buying said that in last few days there has been a fair amount of buying from London in particular in pivotal shares such as Steel Alcohol, American Can, and New York Central.

WASHINGTON—Apparently the Silver issue was somewhat cleared up following conference at the Capitol today between Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and a group of Senate Silver Advocates.

It now rests with President Roosevelt whether he will accept Legislation directing the Government to adopt as a policy for the monetary use of silver on a 25-75 ratio with gold.

Secretary Morgenthau according to those in the conference began legislation—authorizing and directing —nationalization on such a silver policy. Senator Wagner, who talked to President Roosevelt would carry personal letters from the President to setting up machinery and the actual calling out of the Monetizing program.

New York, May 12—More liquidation appeared in the market in various issues and even some of those which showed strength at the close staunchly in the last week or two under pressure. Brokers were at a loss to explain the continued decline. Some of them stoutly averred that prices were "low" on current earnings and outlook.

There was some buying by those who feel that some prices have reached bargain levels, they are cheap on current showings. Undoubtedly the technical side of the market suffered from lack of a short interest. As one broker pointed out that in the past when the short covering interests started after a decline it gave the incentive for a brief bulge by "pyt in" and thus balanced the market. Today he said turn to the market has to be started by buyers who are looking for "bargains".

There is much talk of television in the street and the belief that 1934 will produce a practical set probably by Radio Corporation which will bring RCA into the limelight as the house on a cheap and satisfactory basis.

Mothers' Day

(12th Annual Letter)

By W. H. Mahee

Tomorrow many of our churches will dedicate their services to the mothers of our land. Not that the worship of God will be superceded, but the worship of God will be supplemented with thanksgiving in honor of the Mothers of Men.

Truly "every good and perfect gift cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variableness, neither shadow or turning," and many a man will rise on Mother's Day to call his mother God's gift, and to return thanks to God for her splendid life of sacrifice and faith.

Many a man and woman owes his and her salvation to the teaching of living of a sainted mother, and through her—God's good gift —Jesus Christ.

A mother's prayer has echoed through long years and in some quiet moment has arrested the prodigal and has led to the means of his conversion to God.

Dr. Parker in speaking of Motherhood gave to the world these beautiful words: "A mother virtue leaps high in the public fountain, to seek for the lofty stream of nobleness and find it far off in the clear bread of some mother who smiled the snows of winter and condensed the summer dew into fair, sweet humanity, which now gladdens the face of man in all the dry street."

The universality of the appeal of Motherhood to the mind and heart proves one of the binding links among the race of men.

Dr. A. L. Gordon once said: "The darkest word is soul, the loftiest word is eternity, the swiftest word is thought, the sweetest word is love, the darkest word is sin, the meanest word is hell, the broadest word is truth, the strongest word is death, the longest word is woe, the sweetest word is home, and the dearest word is mother."

Everything for most of us which is seven, beautiful, lovely and holy, clusters about that home. Think of home and you think of mother.

To many a youth and maiden a thousand miles from home, the name of mother has the value of refuge, love and confidence and enshrined in a living personality.

Mother's letters are the tenderest notes on the heartpost of the human heart. Woe to the man whose heart, albeit jaded does not respond to the music of those two words—Dear Mother.

From the Mother of Augustine to the mother of John Wesley to Abraham Lincoln to the mother of Christian Endeavor, she has been the brightest star in the page of history.

Henry Ward Beecher, whose mother died when he was three years old said, "the devout Roman Catholic ever saw so much in the Virgin Mother as I should in my beloved vision and memory's dream of my sainted mother." That angel form was ever present in the life of the great preacher. She handed his thoughts in youth, she hovered over the story of his life of maturity, she lingered near the sacred death as her favorite son entered the holy of holies in the house of prayer and guidance. She lived by him in the moments of his fiercest spiritual conflicts.

I sometimes think that the sweetest mother is an angel mother—a mother who has passed over the Jordan Solid, and for whom we have the white flower of a blameless life.

Two friends talking together one day, one asked the other: "Which translation of the Bible do you prefer?; the authorized version, the revised or any American version?" His answer was, "I prefer my mother's translation."

His mother had made the doctrine of the New Testament real, vital and characteristic. She had been the incarnation of Christian ideals. There is no influence today in the world like the influence of a Christian mother. She is to me the saddest picture of today is the sealing of many mothers whose time is spent in worldly pleasure that bring no spiritual joy or satisfaction to them or into the hearts of their children.

What of the future? Thank God we have many noble Christian mothers whose daily influence is moulding the lives of the young people in the world have tested the power of a consecrated life like the mothers of Christendom. Christian mothers, your task is not insignificant. It is not and cannot be isolated from universal significance for your boy, your girl shall send it into the great tide that never ebbs.

The story of the finale is written in the pages of the Catholic catacombs, in the Senate chambers and on the battle fields. It is inscribed in lovable characters on the sides of our large bays and railway trains, and on the marble fronts of the brilliant business marts. The great outward world of commercial storm and sunshine, of laughter and weeping, of honor and dishonor, owes its life from the home. It is linked to the heartstone of the family like that run under the surface of society.

The best trained teacher can not duplicate that which the gracey responsibility and God-given privilege of being the spiritual guide of the child.

The mother is her office holds the key of the soul; and she it is who shapes the ends of character and makes the being who would be otherwise only for her gentle care a Christian Man." Oh the memories that cluster around to us as we think of mother. Oh glorious memories, star-lit memories, memories that are with a thousand thoughts —memory and memento—memories of home, the sacrament of the family, memories of the vesper hymn, memories of beloved books, memories of a mother's good night kiss; memories of the day's benefit, memories of the green sod, memories, memories, memories, sweetest music of the past.

The Romantic Runaway

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

Pablito had sent more than one messenger to Key West to search for Noyes but not one of them had found any trace of him. A lame old woman lived in the shack on the island, he learned. She had broken her hip a few years before, she told her inquirers and it left her so that she could move only a few steps. She lived alone. Her old neighbours, she said, helped her. No, she had never seen a thin-faced stoop-shouldered man who wore eye-glasses with heavy lenses. Never! God could witness that as truth. Never had she seen such a man!

Pablito would have found her protestations a bit too hearty but those he sent were so eager to see what the next turn of the road might bring that they missed this important sign post. Pablito had offered a large reward for finding this man whose name they did not know but whose description they could have narrated in their sleep.

Returning after the search each messenger pocketed his expenses money and remuneration, concluding that the one he sought was dead.

But Pablito would not believe Noyes was dead. He lived only for his dream of some day finding his old friend. It was the only hope he had. Lottie and Beau were not the sort of companions with whom he could be content. "Good women," he felt, were lost to him, and a life of meager joys spread ahead. He had become a rather jaded, somewhat cynical young man.

In the grip of a mood which was a mixture of dull hopelessness and sharp disgust, Pablito turned toward Havana one raw, February morning. The warmth of the previous day had been wiped from the air by a north wind and the sky was low.

The apartment had been creepingly cold and during breakfast Lottie had been bitter and sharp of tongue, making Pablito, as she often did, a target for her anger. Her back hurt "like hell"! she said. Then she tossed her head, sniffed and glowered at Pablito.

"It was liftin' you while you had that fever that done it," she went on. "I had to do everything for you. You just laid there like a log—"

Pablito had heard this before. He could silence her and turn her mood with a casual kiss, he knew, but this morning he could not bring himself to offer such an olive branch. He said instead glumly that she should have let him die.

"Hell, this is a merry party!" Beau put in, looking at Lottie shrewdly. She was a pretty smart kid, he felt, yet she always stumbled in her too apparent and over-eager approach of Pablito. Or else she made a scene and Pablito hated them even more than Beau did.

Pablito rose from his chair. He was going to Havana, he announced. He didn't care what happened to the old idiots who came to slap each other in the gymnasium and to fall into a trance after two minutes of sparring. He was fed up with the whole business and sick of it! Just as soon as he could he was going to get out of it! Then, shamed by this outbreak which surprised him even more than it surprised Lottie and Beau, he left them, speechless and gazing after him.

CHAPTER XXVII

There was accusation in Beau's eyes. "You done that!" he stormed at Lottie after Pablito had pounded down the concrete stairway and slammed the grilled iron gate below.

"Mind your own business and shut up, will you?" Lottie snapped back.

"He's paid you more than he ever owed you and he knows it," Beau told her. "He's no sucker. What makes you pick on him so?"

Lottie began to sniff, a preface to the tears that came suddenly and fast. She loved Pablito, she confided, and he didn't "pay no attention to her." She always had loved him. And ever since she'd known Pablito she'd gone straight.

Beau grinned at this and his eyes grew sly and knowing.

"Well—pretty near," Lottie amended with a glare. "There's nothing in the world I wouldn't do for Pablito. Nothing!"

"Then why don't you give your tongue a rest?" Beau asked.

Lottie swore at that with the picturesque freedom she had indulged before she met Pablito.

That young man was, at that moment, walking rapidly down the street, his eyes narrowed and fixed unseeingly on the way ahead. What he really wanted was a drink but he had a match next week at the Miraflores Club. He didn't dare risk forgetting his troubles in alcohol.

When the houses began to elbow one another he boarded a tram car that stopped obligingly in the centre of a block, then renewed its camel-like progress at an unhurried pace alternated, when the motorman felt that way, by sudden and almost maddening spurts of speed.

Already, although it was still early, Havana was waking. Servants were strewing dampened sawdust upon the tiled floors of porticos. Vendors pushed barrows, led donkeys or carried their goods while they called out wares of every sort. A large colored woman sat on the curb to try on a pair of shoes and a senora on an upper balcony screamed her order to a seller of tickets for the lottery. He plucked one for her from his breast where they were pinned.

There was an amazing amount of a very vibrant sort of life in Havana, Pablito realized. He realized, too, that he did not feel part of it.

In the pulsing heart of the city he stepped from the car to wander through India Park and on toward Obispo some distance away. He had seen in a shop there a German caricature that he wanted. It was called "At the Baths" and it showed a group of old men with fat, sagging pouches of stomachs, hairy legs, scrawny or very short, thick necks, and concave chests, chatting while wrapped in bath towels. He planned to hang this picture in the gymnasium. Pablito wondered whether he was getting a rotten disposition or whether, by now, he had one.

He walked slowly on the narrow sidewalk, resenting the rough shouldering of warm and weary tourists. Walking so, stepping from the curb to let women pass and dodging back to evade the onslaught of a lurching, wildly-driven motor, his eyes suddenly lost their heaviness. He looked once, breathed hard and looked again. Then he stepped into a doorway.

Estelle Field had halted before a shop window in which there was a display of fans. It had occurred to her that she might buy one for Miss Treadway who was coming to visit them. There was a black fan in the window that was spangled with silver in a Chantilly design—a lovely fan. Estelle turned into the shop.

An almost overpowering emotion swept the broad-shouldered young man who had stepped into the shelter of the doorway. It seemed now that he had never forgotten Estelle for a minute and as if, seeing her again, he had recovered something infinitely precious that had always been truly his.

He thought, a little unsteadily, "This is what love is!"

Boldly he left his hiding place to make his way swiftly to the window through which he could see her. She was standing by a counter waiting, one hand resting on the counter and her head a little to one side. A minute and the clerk who had been waiting on another customer, moved toward her. She spoke to him, turned toward the window and then she saw Pablito. For a long moment her gray eyes were almost blank with surprise. Then they lightened. She smiled uncertainly, flushed hard and nodded.

Pablito's caution for a moment warned him to be on his way. He had, one moonlight night near Field's camp, killed a man, and Estelle knew this. Then, with a surge of irresponsible wildness, he dismissed all caution. He did not care. He would wait.

Estelle left the shop a few minutes later, a slender packet under her arm. Outside she smiled once more, not quite certainly, as she looked up at Pablito.

"I knew you right away," she said, putting out a hand. He took it, swallowed hard and tried to speak. "Will you walk with me?" she asked. "My car is up by the park. Pablito—"

"Yes?"

"I have never thought you had anything to do with Mr. Jeffries' death." This she confided in a whisper when for a moment they were apart from the throng of pedestrians.

She saw his look of surprise and her heart leaped, thinking, "How could anyone even suspect him of it!"

"I didn't know he was dead," Pablito told her.

"I was sure you didn't. But never mind! It's too unpleasant. What are you doing here if you don't mind telling me? But perhaps that is too inquisitive?"

"It isn't at all," he answered a little thickly. They were in the midst of one of those sporadic congestions that Obispo and the other narrow streets of old Havana are subject to and for a space their talking was ended. He chose a path for her, keeping off those who pressed too close, frowning blackly at a young Cuban who too obviously looked upon her as fair. Presently they were at the edge of the park and only divided from it by confusing surge of traffic. He took her arm and, too soon for him, they were walking on a gravel path and she had no more need for his guidance.

"I'm going to ask you to sit down on a bench with me for a few moments," he heard her saying. "That is, if you have time."

He smiled down at her and his breath inflated his hard, high chest. "I have all the time in the world," he answered.

She had always liked him, she thought, as she sat down. Always and in a way she liked no one else. And he was just the same now as he had been—only nicer!

"You said you'd tell me what you're doing," she prompted.

He told her with a gathering shame.

"But it's honest," she said and then flushed. She had so often read attacks upon the business methods of her father that she felt honesty was not for her to mention.

"That counts a great deal I think," Estelle went on, perhaps a little too quickly. "Sometimes I think it counts more than anything else. I hope you are doing well."

"Oh, we're doing pretty well," he answered heavily.

"Then you're not alone?"

"No. A girl and a man run the place with me—"

For a moment she was saddened. Perhaps he cared for this girl. He told Estelle he cared for her that night before they found his Spanish dagger and—Ted Jeffries. For a space she was quiet.

"Do they think I killed Jeffries?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Your dagger was found—" She could not go on.

"I lost it a little while after I left you. I suppose someone took it," he said. He thought dully, "Beau!"

Then he forgot. Here was Estelle, knowing he had killed that old man and sitting with him. The realisation brought him dangerously close to tears. He felt the smart of them and blinked hard. She would never know what these few moments had meant and would mean to him!

Estelle thought, "It's horrible of me, but I don't believe anything he might do could make any difference in the way I feel about him!"

Yee gods I wish you'd leeve my things alone, except perhaps my socks, I took a pair out of my draw this morning with holes in both toes, so I took another pair instead and I acted very wisely, because the holes in that pair were in both heels.

O well of course if you're just delibritly seeking things to complain about I suppose anybody can find plenty in this imperfeck werld, things being the way they are and human nature what it is, my goodness for land sakes such an outberst you mite think I had committed a dubble merder with intent to kill, mersey me of all things, I declare, ma said.

And she was still mad to herself after pop had went down to his office and she went back in the kitchin and our cook Nora was sitting in a chair looking at the paper, ma saying, Now Nora, this is no day for idling, there's an exter lot of werk to be done around the house today and you have your instrucktions.

And she went upstairs, and Nora banged the paper down on the floor saying, So a body cant snatch a peek at the day's news any more with so much going on in the werld. It's a slave I am and nothing less, a down-trodden slave. Get your ugly munkey face out of the kitchin door before I hit it with a dish clout, she said.

Meening me standing there looking at her, and I started on my way to school, thinking, She's got a nerve, whose she think she is anyways? Hay, who you bumping do you want a puntch in the snoot? I said.

Meening Persey Weever going passed me and almost touching me, and he started to say something back and didn't, making me feel partly better and proving nature is wonderful because there's always somebody you can make suffer for you.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The victors returned to their caves after the most glorious raid in all their memory. It marked Om-at as the greatest of chiefs. But that fierce warrior well knew that he had won largely because of the presence of his strange ally. And Jar-don, the stranger, who had at first been impressed with the friendly and peaceable spirit of his hosts, now marveled at their terrible savagery. He little guessed he was being entertained by a ferocious tribe which never, before the coming of Tarzan, had allowed a stranger among them.

Om-at now had the Ho-don prisoners brought before him. Each he questioned as to the fate of Tarzan. All told the same story—he had been caught and escaped. The last warrior, however, had been in the temple when a creature came, claiming to be the son of a god. Then he told the events after that and ended: "With my own eyes I saw that he our priests addressed as Dor-ul-Otho, was the Terrible Man who had been a prisoner in my war-party and whom you had called Tarzan-jad-guru. But these things I understand not; they are for the priests to interpret."

Fantastic as the story sounded to Om-at, the chief, it suggested that perchance Tarzan was still alive in the City of Light. He pondered the subject awhile and then, rising, beckoned to the stranger. "Jar-don," he said, "come with me." He led the way to a high cliff, and when they stood upon the ridge, the chief of the hairy pithecanthropi pointed down into the valley toward the city of A-lur, gleaming in the light of he western sun. "There is Tarzan-jad-guru," he said, and Jar-don, the mysterious stranger, somehow understood.

After his escape from the sentence of death Tarzan knew that every man's hand in the city of A-lur must now be against him. But he had no intention of leaving before his quest was completed. There was only one place he knew where he thought he could be safe until the excitement and search for him diminished. That was the Forbidden Garden. Depending solely upon his memory to guide him, he started from the temple through the underground corridors, trying to retrace the way he had been led to trial before his enemy, the high priest.

Says Ray Price Hiding

Mr. Hepburn declares the East York Liberal convention charged Ray Price, West York Conservative candidate "has disappeared and is in hiding."

He was renewing his charges that Price, as a "soil gate" system contractor with sale of liquors to the Ontario Liquor Control Board, whereby distillers had to sell their warehouse agents, who included commission. He linked Mr. Price in the charge.

Premier supported his government's beer and wine legislation before the Ontario Temperance Federation at Belleville and Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Ontario Minister of Highways, accused Mr. Hepburn of embarking on a campaign of "slander" when he spoke before the Orange Lodge meeting at Elmira with.

Mr. Kiley believed there was a tendency in the Dominion towards the type of government by power in Russia, Italy, Germany and Austria and he mentioned legislation passed by the Dominion government as an indication of the trend.

A challenge to Premier Henry to declare whether or not certain letters were aware of the "boil gate" in the Liquor Board was made by Mr. Nixon in his address before the Liberal meeting at Southampton. He declared his contention had been approved his stand on the beer and wine legislation and denied he has "double-crossed" them as charged by Hon. Dr. J.

Constance Bennett and Franchot Tone in Tuneful Romance

Haven't you often felt you would like to know how your husband would react if subjected to the fascinating smiles of another charming woman?

That is exactly the situation that Constance Bennett, in the dual role of a wife with deep aspirations and an attractive French diseuse, is faced with in "Month Rouge", the sparkling musical comedy with a romantic setting that opens today at the Belle Theatre.

How the domineering husband who voices a stage career for the woman he married is forced to capitulate and discloses her talent; how her masquerade as another personality actually saves her marriage to him as herself unfolds itself in a fascinating drama and romantic tale that will bring tears to your eyes one minute and set you roaring with merriment the next.

This is the first time in her career that Miss Bennett has essayed a dual role, one of the most difficult feats in screen acting, and critics have been enthusiastic in their commendation of her performance.

Playing opposite Miss Bennett is the Belleville favorite, handsome Franchot Tone, noted film and screen star.

Another Broadway star who appears with the older Bennett sister is Tamilla Morgan in "Month Rouge". Miss Morgan, who is Mrs. Tullio Carminati, Carminati plays the role of Leslie, a theatrical producer, who also falls for the charms of the French Diseuse, Regal, whom Connie impersonates. The comedy relief and love interest, supplied by Connie Bennett and Tom Columbo, are other outstanding features of the exciting story.

This is also the first time that Miss Bennett has been so definitely featured as a singing star, and if you don't believe that this young lady can sing as well as act, you will be most agreeably surprised.

Miss Bennett introduces two songs which are destined to become hits of the season, "Coffee in the Morning and Kisses in the Night" and "Boulevard of Broken Dreams".

Tullio Carminati sings "Song of Surrender".

During thrills and adventure are crammed into twenty-five minutes of different screen entertainment in Universal production's tale of the briny deep "Sea Killers", a very funny Charlie Chase comedy "I'll Take Vanilla", and the Belle latest News flashes complete a splendid program of screen entertainment. The performance's start daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.10 "Month Rouge" will be presented at 3.10 ,7.40 and 10 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL

BARBARA STANWYCK IN "GAMBLING LADY"

Barbara Stanwyck has been given an entirely different role from any she has appeared in in the new Warner Bros. production of "Gambling Lady", which opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday for a 3-days run, in that her character part is both a glamorous and a sympathetic one.

In the majority of pictures she has portrayed hard and scrawled loose women such as she did in "Baby Face", "Ladies They Talk About", "Illicit" and "Ten Cents a Dance". In these she made a success by her dare devil type of presentation, rather than by winning sympathy for the part.

In "Ever in My Heart" while she was guilty of the play they about her, she was placed in drab surroundings as the "Jap Rose Prince Price". These were supreme characterizations but lacked the glamor of her present role.

"Gambling Lady" is a comedy-drama of the squarest, straightest shooting poker player that ever shuffled the pasteboards.

As the gambling lady she plays out in the fashionable night clubs frequented by millionaire men-about town in the brilliant Casino of Monte Carlo. Later, wedded to a wealthy society man, she is seen in the palaces of the upper world, although her love scenes be-talking a fling at the ponies or putting down sound bets at the race tracks for her jewels or what have you.

Miss Stanwyck's leading man is another big leading man, Joel McCrea in the role of a society man and Pat O'Brien as the fight promoter, both of whom are in love with her. Claire Dodd is the other woman, a homewrecker who makes a play for Barbara's husband.

A big Vitaphone Comedy and several short subject subjects are included on this program.

Starting on Wednesday and opportunity tonight to see one of the most unusual and thrilling stories of the Lost Patrol" starring Victor McLaglen. This is supported by eleven other prominent screen actors of the virile type. It's a picture you'll be sorry to miss.

A Modern Bush Poppy

The All-American Hummemelia, a Semi-Double

'The best cachelists, hummemelia, so old-fashioned a flower that to most new gardens is older form would be a novelty, has now been improved by the plant breeders.

The first produce of their work is Hummemelia Sunlight, which won an award of merit in the All-American trials this year. The hummemelia is a California native, only half hardy, has been long been raised in gardens for its clear, bright orange yellow flowers, two to three inches in diameter, of the California poppy type and its gray-green foliage, growing on a bushy plant two feet tall.

The Sunlight variety has all the beauty and vigor of the older type and in addition produces scores of its huge flowers in semi-double form. This characteristic is due to a well fixed, and only a few of the plants grown in the trials, it is reported, showed semi-double flowers. But the improvement received interest in this attractive flower family, and many will wish to become familiar with its beauty.

Hummemelia seed should not be sown until the ground is warm. It germinates somewhat slowly, taking eight days to two weeks, but once started it grows rapidly to the blooming stage, as do the California poppies. It has a long season of bloom and its blossoms are lasting as cut flowers. Its pale yellow blossoms and gray-green foliage combine with all other colors and are especially effective with the bright pinks and all tones of blue. The seeds should be sown where the plants are to grow as, like the California poppy, it dislikes to be transplanted.

Premier Criticized Campaign Carried on By Liberal Leader

Toronto, May 14.—Premier George S. Henry was expected to decide today on the Ontario general election date and make the announcement sometime night or Wednesday. The Mail and Empire said it had learned the Premier would call his cabinet and decide on the date today.

Forecasts placed voting around June 21 or June 27, the campaign to be short. Mr. Henry was chosen unanimously as Conservative candidate in East York tonight at a convention which shouted for his nomination as soon as he entered the building.

Mr. Henry ended Liberal charges and criticism "campaign of slander", which he claimed Mr. Hepburn was indulging in.

At Barrie, Mr. Hepburn renewed his charges in an address before the West Ontario convention, charging the cabinet ministers to deny interference in Mr. Henry's nomination with his alleged "soil gate" system in the Provincial Control Board. He mentioned Ray Price, Conservative candidate in Brant, who had been given agency for Teacher's Highland Cream whisky three days after his nomination. Harry, was elected to the Ontario legislature, has entered the lists, five Conservatives and one Liberal, Sandford Mr. Hepburn said that their constituencies are J. D. REDUCED CHARGE IS "GODSEND"

Hon. Carl Vrooman Expresses View at Toronto

Toronto, May 14—(CP)—If Canadian and United States wheat crops are reduced by one-third by the recent dust storm, it will be a "godsend" to the farmer, Carl Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture in the Wilson cabinet and assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, declared today.

He qualified his statement, however, by declaring the reduction must be evenly divided amongst all wheat growers of the United States and Canada. If some farmers are wiped out, while others escaped with very little loss it would be a "calamity", he said, and if some farmers were ruined the dust storms would not be a "godsend" unless the government looked after the farmers who suffered.

"The first point of view of world wheat production the storms are fortunate," he said. "There is no danger of famine as there are wheat surpluses in almost every country in the world."

LARGE ESTATE VANCE MILLAR UP $320,000

Cash Payment Made For Holdings in Brewery

$80,000 TO COME

"Baby Clause" in Will Aroused Keenest Interest

Toronto, May 14.—The estate of Charles Vance Millar, the bulk of which was bequeathed to the Toronto mother giving birth to the most children in the ten year period following his death, has received $320,000 by the cash payment of $320,000 by the Brewing Corporation of Canada, in part payment for the 50,000 certificate holdings in O'Keefe's brewery which has been purchased by the corporation.

It was learned today the full price accepted for the Millar holdings was $400,000 and the remaining $80,000 must be paid in cash within six months.

When Mr. Millar died suddenly, terms of his will aroused wide interest. Shares of Brewery and Ontario Jockey Club stocks were left to prominent Ontario clergymen, while the Bloomer family claimed it also been the subject of much discussion.

Two years ago the Ontario government entered the estate to collect its one which had been valued at 34 cents a few days before. This drop meant $2,380 to that farmer.

JOBLESS CUT IS RESTORED

British Unemployment Bill Called Great Social Step

London, May 14 (CP Cable)— Members on both sides of the House of Commons cheered this afternoon when Sir Henry Betterton, Minister of Labor, introduced third reading of the Unemployment Bill—One of the great contributions to social progress seen in over half a century.

Third reading was moved after 27 days of Parliamentary discussion of the measure which, it has been subjected to such close scrutiny that it was given rise to such prolonged discussion in the committee. Sir Henry Betterton said he moved the final stage with a feeling of relief.

The Bill brings 12,000,000 persons within the scope of unemployment insurance. It restores the rate made in 1931 and in the standard rates of insurance benefits and having regard to the cost of living. Sir Henry added, that "these rates are now higher than ever in insurance history."

The Bill also raised from 26 to 52 the maximum benefit period in which unemployed might receive benefits without an enquiry into their means. From these provisions alone $14,000 persons will benefit with a cost to the state of $37,500,000.

The most important of all, in the minister's view, is the provision which gives power to raise from the school-leaving age and the age at which they are insured against insurance by raising the school-leaving age.

For the first time municipal education authorities are enabled by the Bill be required to provide courses in instruction for unemployed boys and girls leaving school and the Minister of Labor is authorized to compel attendance.

It's a purpose of this provision of course, is to prevent boys and girls who have left school who are unable to find jobs, wandering idly about the streets.

Ashamed at Purchasing Tobacco at 18 cts. Pound Buyer Tells Probers

F. R. Gregory in 1931 was Accordingly Advised to Pay up to 25 Cents

WHAT DROP MEANT

Auction System is Advocated by Gregory

Ottawa, May 14 (CP)—F. R. Gregory, formerly in charge of tobacco buying for the Imperial Tobacco Company in southwest Ontario, was the first witness heard today by the Parliamentary Mass Buying Committee.

In 1931, while buying for the Montreal tobacco firm, he said T. L. Lea, who succeeded him as chief buyer, after a trip to Montreal announced prices must come down. Mr. Gregory said he felt ashamed at buying for 18 cents a pound, tobacco that was worth more. Finally after communicating with Montreal, Gregory was told he was up to 23 cents a pound for tobacco worth it.

One Farmer's Loss

Mr. Lea, questioned from Montreal October 12, 1931, said Mr. Gregory, with the announcement prices must come down to an average of 18.6. The next day a farmer was paid 18½ cents as an average for tobacco on which had been valued at 34 cents a few days before. This drop meant $2,380 to that farmer.

The Canadian system of paying average prices for a crop was unique, said Mr. Gregory. He believed the American auction system would be productive of better results.

"Would the auction system be beneficial," said M. I. Senn, Cons., Haldimand.

"Yes. I see no insurmountable difficulties," said Mr. Gregory.

Addresses Inspirational at Y's Men's Convention

Three Day Parley Brings Association Into Closer Contact

The ninth annual convention of the Ontario Region of the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs, after opening with a banquet on Friday evening, continued its programme next morning. It was opened next morning with the registration of delegates from Peterboro, Toronto, London, Orillia and Y.M.C.A.

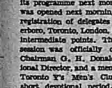
A discussion was led by Y's Man Ed. Buchanan of Belleville, on Young Men's Work. The Belleville Club was very highly commended on their organization of the Knot Hole Gang, and for taking over a corps of cadets, that was about to be disbanded, reorganizing them into a strong young man's club.

The World Outlook discussion was led by Mr. Roy Lowe of the Peterboro Club, who brought with him exceedingly large flags that had been received from clubs in other countries to whom he had written, similar flags from our country. Plans for extending Y's Men's Membership in Canada were also discussed, This was followed by a discussion led by Mr. Byron Swayze on improving club meetings.

Dr. Bishop Speaks

The luncheon at 12.30 was presided over by District Governor F. W. Hewtison, Mr. Newton Thompson of the Belleville Club introduced the speaker, the Rev. Dr. C. W. Bishop, who spoke on "Looking Forward", and said that the Y's Men should be potential prophets. Dr. Bishop referred to Mr. W. Blakney's book "Reflections on the End of an Era" in which it is pointed, that people may be divided into two groups, those who take no thought of the future, and those who follow the trend of our times, becoming leaders in our world of affairs. This latter group contains the logical examiners of the men who years ago were called prophets.

Mr. Byron Swayze of the London Club as chairman and the Resolution Committee with Mr. F. W. Hewtison of the Orillia Club as chairman.



The first discussion was led by F. W. Hewtison, District Governor on Boy's Work, and he made it clear that there was still a great deal of work to be done in this field. He asserted, that inquiries be made as to the physical and mental capacities of the boys, and as to their home conditions in order, that their problems might be better understood with the object of creating better citizenship, and building up an interest in the Y.M.C.A.

Supplement Your Income With a Vegetable Garden

HOW MUCH BETTER IS THE FLAVOR OF VEGETABLES THAT HAVE BEEN GROWN IN YOUR OWN GARDEN.

Once again back yard gardening assumes economic importance in the average Canadian home; and millions of vegetable gardens will be made this spring because of the money which can be saved, as well as for fun of making them, and the superior quality of their production.

With all the talk of dietetics, "greens" and vitamins, it has become pretty well known that besides the savings resulting from a home garden, the health and vigor to be had from good fresh vegetables from your own garden is incalculable in terms of dollars and cents. Those families who are touring on 'a shrunken budget, those who would protect their health, and more especially those who would enjoy the taste of real fresh vegetables, should begin to plan early.

If you are in the habit of growing a casual row of peas, or beans, or corn, just because your mother always did, that's one thing, but if you want a garden that will really assist in filling in the family budget, that's quite another. It is by measuring the available space you have, order a catalogue from a reliable seed house, and then begin to plan for just how many vegetables you are going to grow in the coming season. Remember that you should have fresh vegetables from May until September, and should plan accordingly.

If your space is only ten by twenty feet, you can eliminate both potatoes, pumpkins and others that take a lot of space, concentrating on the smaller varieties. But no matter how large or small, there are some vegetables that you can grow. First of all, then determine just what you want to have on the amount of space available, and the catalogue will assist you here.

The next step is to decide on how much you will can, when they would be most useful, and exactly what quantity will be needed to accommodate them. Do this by making a chart of the canning for the year, recording the variety and date of planting, the approximate date of the harvest, and what is to be canned. Succession planting is also necessary, that is, following one vegetable with another very important if a large production is to be obtained from a small area. For instance, the first sowing in one row could be a hardy early sixth sweet corn, and when that is harvested, tomatoes might be put in, to be followed by a quick growing fall radish or lettuce, or a frost resisting legume such as turnips.

By planting with careful attention given to succession, you will have a garden that will thrill the housekeeper as well as the palate, and it will be fun in the bargain.

MARY PICKFORD TRIUMPHANTLY RETURNS TO CITY OF BIRTH

Twenty years ago she left Toronto, unheralid and unsung. Now Mary Pickford has come back to the city of her birth after triumphs on the screen and stage of the United States—triumphs that gave her the name of "America's Sweetheart", Thousands upon thousands of Toronto folk lined the streets to see her as she returned to a civic reception, dinners, banquets and all that goes with them. It was a case of Toronto going Mary Pickford for a day. The layout above shows the tremendous throng that greeted Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks at the city hall. LEFT, signing the register and RIGHT, smiling her greeting the mass. Seldom has a visitor to Toronto been accorded the welcome given this idol of the screen.

GIGANTIC ASSEMBLAGE BLANDLY HEARS GERMAN DICTATOR

A general scene at Tempelhof airdrome, in Berlin, Germany, on May 1st, hearing Chancellor Adolf Hitler in circle addressing his audience of two million Germans as the climax of Nazi, Germany's "national labor day." Hitler compared the mind Reich to a sailing ship which was evolving "a new German man" in a commonwealth which would know no class distinctions. This largest audience ever to gather to a speaker, Mr. Hitler's speech but mild and scattered applause.

Reference was also made to the work of Mr. Edward Belamy, "Looking Backward", and "The Things of Things to Come" by H. G. Wells. Both these books deal with what their authors believe will occur in the future, and Mr. Bishop advised the young men of today to read these intelligently and with an open mind if he wished to grasp the trend of modern affairs and visualize their effect on our future world.

In the afternoon, Mr. Ed. Otter of the National Council of Y.M.C.A. led a discussion on the development of new clubs. He emphasized the importance of having a key man in the locality, of keeping in intimate touch with the new club and of giving it a reasonable objective. The Secretary-Treasurer of Toronto, led a discussion on "Possibilities in Adult Education", and outlined a course of study for clubs and individuals.

A report was received from the Committee on Reorganization Committee., The Y's Men's Clubs were organized into a Provincial District, including Sarbory, Midland, Lindsay and Peterboro District including Peterborough and Belleville and a Western District including London, Stratford, Mr. Byron Swayze of London, was nominated Regional Director, Mr. T. W. Hewtison of Orillia, Governor of the Northern District, Mr. C. West of Toronto, Governor of the Western District, and Mr. D. Crawford, of Peterboro, Governor of the Eastern District. Mr. William Smart on behalf of the Toronto Y's Men's Club invited the clubs to hold the next annual District Convention in Toronto.

The annual banquet of which Mr. G. L. Woodhouse was the chairman, was held Saturday evening. Mr. E. P. Bernstein, Mr. G. H. Griffin, and Mr. R. Lamb, as representative of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Kinsmen Clubs, brought greetings and expressed the wish, that the Y's Men's Convention might be attended by every success. Mayor Tice was unable to attend, but sent a message which stated, that the welcome of the city was just as sincere as if he had personally been able to extend it. Sincere sympathy was expressed by Mr. G. H. Brockley, for Mayor Tice's recent bereavement.

Musical Programme

The delegates were entertained by an exhibition of tap dancing by Mr. William Gerard and a piano solo, by Mr. Alex. Gordon, Mr. Harold Howard sang two delightful solos, while the Knot Hole Singing Class showed the splendid progress they have been making under the instruction of Messrs. Harold Howard, Newton Thompson, and R. E. Houston.

The keynote address was delivered by Mr. Earle Lyman, International Vice-President, on the subject "Why International?" He described how Sinneys years ago, Paul Alexander," a man of action, a man of God, and one of the truly great men of today," founded a Booster Club in Toledo, and how similar clubs sprung up within a few months' time, which decided to unite and be known as Y's Men's Clubs. In a few months' time, the movement had spread to Canada becoming international in scope. "We have pioneered in the movement from the start," said Mr. Lyman. "It is stated out, that while one joins the Y.M.C.A. helping it to be a local organization, one soon finds that other groups throughout the world are facing similar problems.

Mr. Lyman said that the keynote of every Y's Men's Club should be "Forward with Faith". He was confident, that the International Association is now on the upturn.

The purpose of the International Association, it was pointed out, is primarily to help scattered clubs to share to the greatest degree their successes and failures. Mr. Lyman considered it even more important that they should share their failures since that would help prevent other clubs from making the same mistakes.

Mr. Lyman said, "that the Y's Men's International Association had been very largely based on that of the Rotary, and it indeed often referred to as "Rotary's Younger Brother". He said, that it had been welcomed into China because of its resemblance to that great service organization.

The Y's Men's International is also important because it uses its influence for the extension of Y's Men's Work and the formation of new clubs. It also maintains committees on the four principle phases of Y's Men's work which are delighted to provide information at any time. Thus the International Association is a natural outlet, where Y's Men's Clubs to assist each other and the International Association, can aid in financial matters.

Mr. Lyman concluded by hoping that the convention had been, and would be attended by every delegate and that they would pass on the inspiration they had received to their local clubs.

Attend Service

After an early morning dip in the club delegates, at which Earl Lyman presided in the Y.M.C.A., on Sunday morning the convention moved in a body to attend divine service at John Street United Church, where Rev. Chas. Robt. Hall spoke on "The work of the church in the home". Rev. Hall personally welcomed the Y's Men to his church and spoke highly on the association's endeavours.

At the Sunday noon luncheon Fraser Hewitson of Orillia, presented the resolutions adopted by the various committees during the convention and spoke on the subject "How shall we Profit". After a special meeting of the new and old district officers for committee work the ninth annual convention of Y's Men's International terminated and the numerous delegates departed homeward, with a feeling that much had been gained at the Belleville convention. The three day convention was under the direction of Newton Thompson, Past International President of Y's Men.

DITCHES PASS OUT

That which motorists have been petitioning for and that for which newspapers have been clamoring for several years is at hand—the ditchless highway. Work has already begun across the front all the way from Brighton to Desoronto to fill in the ditches which ever since the construction of Highway No. 2 have skirted the roadway on both sides. The Highways Department is undertaking the operations.

The move is one of the most progressive. Once upon a time it was thought that highways had to have ditches to preserve the roadbed and to provide drainage but engineers have found another way of overcoming this instead of putting in these ditch traps.

Ditches have two effects at least. If a motor is out of control for the fraction of a second, ditching is likely and with a deep drop there is most often physical injury, partial or even fatal, together with the crash damage to the automobile. But there has been another cause, the very presence of a ditch always at the side has had a mental effect on driving, creating a sense of danger and fear which doubtless has led to accidents. Now it cannot be said that with the ditches gone all accidents will end for as one man put it the other day, "if the ditch were put back in the centre of a field, some motorists would find themselves in it." But few motorists are of this class and so there will be a lessening of the disasters of the roadway.

Of course drivers will not be able to speed along the new portions of the shoulders and drivers must still keep a lookout for trees close to the paved road and poles along the side of the road.

Even poles may soon disappear for there is a clause under which an agreement may be made between the companies owning the poles and the municipalities as to division of cost for their removal from some part of the way.

Altogether the highways are going to be less impeded. Though the speed limit remains unchanged for it, it must be admitted, faster driving than there was several years ago. And yet safety also requires wider roads with less danger by reason of the presence of ditches, poles and trees. A fast car going off the driving portion of the road is in danger, though the presence of shoulders may prevent catastrophe.

The Government will be pleased at the additional safety provided through the filling of the ditches.

Probably even in a short time there will come the highway pedestrian walks, so much needed along certain portions of the highway, that is, near cities, towns, villages and small settlements.

Incidentally the ditch-filling operation is "right in need" at this time as it takes up a great deal of slack in the labor situation. Winter operations have contributed to the unemployment and will have had to forage in summertime. The present undertaking helps out greatly for the summer.

"BIG BAD WOLF" FOILED

Gnashing of teeth must have been experienced in the gang world of Chicago as it learned that Winnipeg police had recovered $8,000 stolen from a bank in that city and had two suspects under arrest within twenty minutes of the hold-up. The holdup was done in all the perfection of a bank robbery. But capture took place a few minutes after the police were given the information of the hold-up.

It must be admitted that the hold-up men were daring in staging the third attempt on this bank. But they should have realized that even without the general fate of crooks, the law of averages must soon have been at work so that there was even a chance of their frustration.

If bandits get away with motorcars, police use motorcars to capture bandits. So the motorcar cannot be blamed.

But to catch alleged thieves so soon after a stick-up is one of the most distressing and depressing things to the underworld. The bandit may like a bit of a thrill, for the things he does take nerve though he often offsets this by playing a brutal and dastardly extra game in sending bullets into innocent guardians of the money of the people which is in the bank. But no bandit wants the thrill of a hold-up and then to be captured for his pains. Unless he can make away with his loot, there is nothing to encourage him.

He is just a big bad wolf which grinds his teeth as he fails to nab bank's money.

CHILDREN'S CRUSADE FOR PEACE

Goodwill Day is to be celebrated on May 18th. In the schools of Ontario, as well as in parts of the world in commemoration of the opening of the Hague Conference on May 18th, 1899, because that was the first time a world-court was formed to find ways and means to end war and substitute arbitration. Of course it did not prevent the disastrous Great War when men died by millions and wealth was poured into ruin, but the trend is upward again, away from the settlement of international disputes through armed conflict. Peace is supremely desired in this day.

The children of Wales have sent a message to the boys and girls of every country under the sun and ending with the words "Peace and Goodwill to you all. Let us make our dreams come true."

A program has been drawn up for this day in the schools of the province so that the means of education may be used to foster peace and to trumpet to all the world the futility and insanity of war.

But the Goodwill Day is going to urge peace in other forms, peace in the nation, peace in the school, peace in the home, and peace in the heart.

Perhaps the nations will follow the children's crusade to international amity.

CERTITUDE

If I should ever one mad moment doubt
The splendid mystery of creation's plan,
If hope's still voice should drown within life's shout
And peace seem perished from the ways of man;
Before the poison surged along my veins
Its potency for ill I would deny,
And seek sure antidote for all my pains
In the remote expanses of the sky.

The sky at night! With stars beyond the stars
The velvet heights of heaven are aglow.
It is as if a hand let down the bars
That shut us out from all things we would know
And let us into realms of certitude
Where we can see God's way are wholly good.

ANOTHER KIDNAPPING makes the Front Page, as this latest racket goes grimly on in the land of Uncle Sam where all kinds of crookedness flourishes. This time a millionaire is grabbed by gangsters from his private bathing pool in the Bahamas, at a spot many of his friends, hoisted over a ten-foot fence and whisked away into silence and the unknown, followed by a request for $70,000 for the return of the millionaire alive. This happened in Hollywood, in the sovereign state of California, another of its virtues to flourish. Then and recent lynching of kidnappers who murdered their victim. SUCCESS ACTS AS A SPUR TO MORE EFFORT

Great Pleasure And Benefit Derived From Successful Endurance

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.,
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It is not so much what we possess and the success already achieved that yield the greatest thrills but rather the successes we have not yet reached and which we still are toward striving for and hope some day to achieve.

The man who seeks only riches never feels satisfied with the wealth he already has. His pleasure lies in accumulating always more and more, The politician wants always to gain for himself positions of greater and greater importance and power, then the woman who wants always all else to be a successful mother cares much less for the pride she already feels in her home and family than for the joy of the anticipation of ideals not yet accomplished.

Unfortunately, we usually find that those values for which we worked so hard to gain for ourselves do not turn out quite so thrilling after we have them, which reason is not so much the fact that our imagination conjures up images that cannot possibly be realized by reality—a truth that must always be reckoned with in this connection—as that the pleasure deriving is lost when actual accomplishment is gained.

And so we find not wonder why rich men keep on accumulating more money, why men do not retire even after a successful life at the top or scarcely leave, or why many individuals do not seem to know what to do with this newfound leisure, which the NRA is giving them. The reason, of course, is that they want to, and even must, keep on striving. Striving keeps vitality active, and acts as a constant incentive to keep on living.

It is fortunate in a way, that we are not all born with the same ability in speaking, each individual is superior or inferior to other individuals in respect to health, traits, possessions, desires, likes and dislikes.

One is strong and healthy while another is sickly. One can boast of high native intelligence which has been handed down to him from his ancestors while another finds it difficult to pass the grammar school grades. Again, one is born to ease and luxury while another is of humble origin. And so it goes!

Yet, regardless of conditions, often unjust though they seem, engender striving.

It is striving, the average boy or girl, even early in their careers to attain the things that they lack. And no matter how many advantages they may already have, they are motivated always to be something different or to gain something different from what they already have.

And these strivings from millions of minds produce a cumulative effect in the world's civilization forward. Were not striving so prevalent, the world would be instinctive the world would not be where it is today.

Our strivings as individuals may often produce disappointment and even heartaches, but nevertheless striving is good for us. In the last analysis, it is often the striving of others even when sometimes they worry us.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MAY 14TH. 1914.

Mr. Wm. Garrow, barrister was in Deseronto attending on business.

The members of the T.A.S. in connection with St. Michael's Church held their annual meeting in the Academy. There was a large attendance and all enjoyed themselves. Mr. John E. Lailly, Mr. Lenis Conger and Mr. Asbury in his usual happy manner and he is a number of others helped to see that everyone was supplied with their refreshments. The programme was opened with a selection on the piano-forte, ably rendered by Barrel & Company. Then came songs by Bob Blaine, Miss Jane Bonter, Mr. Asbury and Eddie Brown who were all forced to give encores. A very vocal duet by Chas. Peopin and his son Mary, was well received as was also the acrobatic stunts of Geo. Leroy Conger which showed considerable envious reputation as a step dancer and he went harmlessly over our head. Eventually the animal gave up the attempt to fell me and trotted off into the jungle. The following day I came to a cliff overlook the sea, and there on the beach I saw that same lion. I stood transfixed at his antics."

"What was he doing?"

"What was he doing?" said the hunter, dramatically. "Engaged in what I believe me, but that lion was practising short jumps!"

BRIEY BASIN, with its munition plants and mines, seems to have been pretty well protected during the war, neither Germany nor the allies doing any shell dropping there, it has been pretty well established. With Briey Basin eliminated the war would have been over in very few months, according to experts.

Pauperized (?) U.S. Grower

Mr. Gregory replied in the affirmative. "Some of the things others had gone out with him to see a show.

"Did you have any discussion with him about conditions," questioned counsel.

Witness again replied in the affirmative. Mr. Harrison had told Mr. Gregory that he had left Harrison, Simcoe and Ontario, said Mr. Gregory. He had told Mr. Harrison things people very much resented being put on the level, the standards of living of the southern unorganized grower.

"Did you consider the system being followed was going to lead to a pauperized industry here," questioned Mr. Gemmell.

As he remembered Mr. Harrison had been reasonable. The system which was being followed in Ontario in 1931 could lead to a pauperized condition of the grower, said witness.

The basis-buying system had its objectionable features, Mr. Gregory said when reiterated his belief the auction-buying system would be better. He had never seen any collusion between the large companies in buying. It was an unwritten law, though, no one would raise the Imperial Tobacco Company's price.

The Imperial Company, he considered, had been fair to the growers up to the time the conditions of 1931 developed, answered Mr. Gregory.

Conditions Discussed

"Did you discuss these chaotic conditions with Mr. Bull," asked Mr. Sommerville.

"Yes."

"What did he say was to blame?"

"Too many fingers in the pie."

"What did he mean?"

"I inferred conditions had gotten out of Mr. Bull's and our hands. We understood this unique system and that the New York and London management were having too much to say over something they did not understand."

Says Lea Wanied Job

Mr. Gregory said his resignation had been demanded by the Imperial Company May 1, 1932. He understood the main reason was Lea's desire to have his job. He said prices paid to growers had nothing to do with his dealings with the farmers.

Of course, it would make the grower very sad and very nervous, said witness, and would add to the panicky condition among the growers. It was not certain though, the Imperial Company had any motive in delaying the opening and it might have been a matter of time or delay in making marketing arrangements.

Mr. Gregory sat nervous when their tobacco crops were ready and buyers did not appear, witness answered to J. L. Illsley (Lib. Hants-Kings).

Under what circumstances of the delay in opening the market and the drop in the average price on the opening of 12 and 13 cents per pound for good tobacco would the farmer cease to deal with, replied Mr. Gregory.

LAWRENCE OS TRACIZED BY HIS REPUTATION

Aircraftsman Shaw, better known to the world as Col. T. E. Lawrence, "Lawrence of Arabia" is reported in an interview by a London newspaper as declaring himself banned from every nation because of his reputation. He says, according to the interview, that he is alleged to be associated with the secret service, whereas he is not and never has been. Lawrence has announced his resignation from the air force next year and in the interview declares that he doesn't know what he'll do. "No reputable firm will have me" he is quoted as saying. He will not, however, write further about his adventures in Arabia the paper states. The above layout shows LEFT, Col. Lawrence in the garb of an Arab chief during his work in Arabia during the war. CENTRE in army uniform and RIGHT, as an ordinary aircraftsman, a post he has been filling for the past few years. Meanwhile persistent rumors from England state that Lawrence may be called in by the government to aid in quelling the present warfare in Arabia started by Ibn Saud.

FORTY KILLED IN EXPLOSION

100 Injured at Hong Kong by Flames Following Blast

HONG KONG, May 14.—(AP)—Forty persons were estimated killed and 100 injured when the explosion of a gasometer at West Point, Victoria, laid waste a residential section.

All of those killed were Chinese—most of them women and children.

Flames which followed the blast destroyed a Clarence Street tenement block of seven houses opposite the gasometer. The explosion shattered building in an adjoining block. Windows were broken for a considerable distance.

The sheet of flame which shot from the exploding gasometer apparently cut off the inhabitants of the tenement houses before they could reach safety after the blast.

Fire delayed a search of the smoking ruins for bodies.

AUTO RACER KILLS SEVEN

Car Goes Into Crowd Trying to Avoid Striking Dog

Pontainebleau, France, May 14 (AP)—Eight persons—six men and two women—are dead today and five lie injured because of an automobile racing driver's efforts to save the life of a dog.

The driver, Erich Cochin, an army aviator, lost control of his car and it hurtled into a mass of spectators when he swerved during a race in Pontainebleau Forest to avoid hitting the animal.

Cochin died in a hospital, one of the women killed was decapitated. Two of the others who died were soldiers attached to the Pontainebleau artillery school.

The spectators had attracted Cochin's attention to the dog, waving to him and crying out when it dashed out upon the speedway.

The dog apparently escaped unhurt.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

Barbara Stanwyck in "Gambling Lady"

A remarkable plot, unusual and gripping, replete with fast, thrilling action, and filled with powerful dramatic situations and romance in its sweetest sense, coupled with a really superb portrayal of a most difficult role by Barbara Stanwyck marks the local premiere of that famous star in the Warner Bros. production of "Gambling Lady" at the Capitol Theatre today.

"Gambling Lady", a success from the moment of its Hollywood preview, has a record of praise from the severest motion picture critics and the reason was clearly shown in the intense interest with which the audience followed the career of the heroine, a young lady who gambled for a living, but never compromised with her own code of honor either in life or love.

Miss Stanwyck is always a consummate actress, and has given many notable performances in such pictures as "Ever In My Heart", "Baby Face", "So Big", "Illicit" and others. In "Gambling Lady", she has a role that calls for the best of her genius for role portrayal.

Making a convincing character out of Lady, who is by profession a card shark, but who will cheat neither at cards or love, who will stake her life's happiness on the turn of a card, yet is willing to relinquish it to keep her word to an unscrupulous rival, who bears the hallmark of fortune with a smile and who can take good luck and bad with fortitude, is surely a difficult task for any actress.

Barbara Stanwyck rises to the occasion with unsurpassed artistry and thereby has, in a few short weeks, added to her laurels as one of the outstanding stars of motion pictures.

Joel McCrea, playing opposite Miss Stanwyck for the first time, gives a brilliant and virile performance, and Pat O'Brien shares honors with him.

Claire Dodd gives to the role of a homebreaker a convincing quality.

The entire cast is excellent and included C. Aubrey Smith, Phillip Reed, Phillip Faversham, Robert Barrat, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Robert Elliot and Willard Robertson.

Warner Bros. gave Director Archie Mayo full sway in making this picture, which was adapted to the screen by Ralph Block and Doris Malloy from the latter's original story.

"Gambling Lady" is thrilling, clean entertainment, provides Miss Stanwyck with her greatest role and will give many a thrill to even the most experienced follower of motion pictures.

Added screen entertainment consists of a two-reel comedy and several selected short subjects. Dinnerware gifts. (Dinner Plates) tonight.

AT THE BELLE

PLOT OF "ROTHSCHILD" RICH IN ROMANCE

Four types of love are depicted in "The House of Rothschild", George Arliss' master picture which opens a four days' engagement at the Belle tomorrow (Tuesday), matinee daily.

There is first of all, the devotion of the Rothschilds to each other—the loyalty and unity which was the secret of the family's international rise to wealth and fame.

There there is the love of Nathan Rothschild, and his wife Hannah portrayed by George Arliss and his wife, Florence Arliss.

For those who demand a taste of sweet, young romance, there is the love between Julie, Nathan's beautiful daughter, played by Loretta Young, and Fitzroy, Wellington's dashing aide, portrayed by Robert Young.

Another powerful form of devotion is exemplified in the patriotism of Nathan, whose love of England leads to the placing of the entire Rothschild fortune in the war against Napoleon.

The film, which introduces leading historical figures of the period, was directed by Alfred Werker.

Also included in the cast of this 20th Century Picture, which has been hailed as the finest film to be made in England, are C. Aubrey Smith, Boris Karloff, Helen Westley, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, Alan Mowbray, Holmes Herbert, Murray Kinnell, Holmes Herbert, Florence Arliss, Arthur Byron, Paul Harvey, Ivan Simpson, Noel Madison and others. There are among than seventy speaking parts in this spectacular production, and the final scene, in the great coronation room of St. James Palace, in which Nathan Rothschild is knighted, was the first set of its size to be photographed in the newly developed three-color technicolor process.

"2 Little Pigs" Sequel

With a record for originality that is second to none, Walt Disney has again established a precedent in the field of animated cartoons by adopting the plan of "sequel-ising" a picture which has been particularly successful.

His latest production "The Big Bad Wolf" carries on the story of the "Three Little Pigs" in a new series of adventure which introduces the characters of Little Red Riding Hood and her Grandmother.

Following the phenomenal success of "The Three Little Pigs", which was adjudged by critics to be one of the outstanding film successes of 1933 Disney decided to adopt the idea of carrying these characters through various cycles of adventures, of which "The Big Bad Wolf" is the first sequel. It will be presented on the same program with the above feature attraction with a smart Pepper Pot Revue, and the popular Belle Current News.

Constance Bennett Departs

Constance Bennett and Fredric Tone all co-starred in the smart musical romance "Moulin Rouge" which will be presented at the Belle tonight for its last time. "Moulin Rouge" will be presented a: 7.40 and 10.00 p.m.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE - AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments

Before you sign the Order..

BEFORE the order is signed, the wise purchaser of a new automobile verifies the facts about the company behind the car —and its responsibility towards owners.

These facts seldom appear in the specification sheets, or in the catalogues and advertisements. In some cases, the inquiring buyer runs up against a dictatorial attitude or one of indifference.

But General Motors is always frank to acknowledge its obligation to serve the customer in the way that the customer wants to be served.

The first job of General Motors, as we see it, is steadily to give the public what it wants in better cars.

The second job is to protect buyers of our cars against experiments of doubtful utility or doubtful value.

The third, to make efficient service and genuine replacement parts conveniently available to every owner at low cost.

All three imply the need for experience—stability—progressive engineering—organization on a nation-wide scale. And in all of these, General Motors is unequalled in the industry.

These jobs are made easier, also, by our fixed habit of taking nothing for granted.

Just as we test our cars on the greatest proving grounds in the world, so we test our ideas on the Proving Ground of Public Opinion.

Through the answers of 60,000 Canadians to our annual Customer Questionnaires, we checked our new designs against what the public wanted.

That is why our 1934 General Motors Cars, with their Streamlined Beauty, Knee-Action Wheels and No-Draft Ventilation are riding the crest of popular favor.

We saw to it, months before production, that our cars as well as our policies could withstand your closest scrutiny and closest comparison before you sign the order.

MOTHER'S DAY AT ST. ANDREW'S

Sunday School Attend Morning Service in Body

"Mother's Day" was observed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday, when the Sunday School joined with the congregation in the observance of this day. Rev. A. G. Rintoul, B.A., of Sudbury, was the minister and he addressed the children on their duty to their mothers and the cherishing of a delightful memory if mother had passed on. The Primer Class sang a well known hymn while Douglas Browning and Walter Badgley, members of the Sunday School, each gave a solo. The choir under the direction of Professor Wheatley sang "I Love You Truly" without riding. Three hymns were those used in Sunday School work.

Rev. Mr. Rintoul told the children of the three mothers mentioned in the Bible, Hannah, the mother of Jesus. In Hannah's case, she prayed for a child and when her prayer was answered, she sacrificed her companionship with Samuel, her son, by sending him to the Holy Man, to be educated in the faith. Each year she brought him a garment, wearing a coat for him to wear. "God consecrated this mother to a great task and she made the great sacrifice," said the speaker. The other mother gave up her race, religion and friends so that her child, sickly from birth, might be cured by the saving power of Jesus. "Jurnia to Mary, the speaker said she was the greatest character excepting Jesus in the Bible. "She humbly, consistently and constantly lived her son and stayed with him even until the end," said Rev. Mr. Rintoul. Referring to the present time, the speaker stated that times had not changed and admonished the children to obey, be thoughtful, kind and take counsel from their mothers.

Mother's Day was observed at Hillcrest Street United Church yesterday with a special 'Mother's Day' service in the morning. A very large congregation took part in an impressive and appropriate service. The choir under the direction of Mr. Templar was augmented with mothers from the congregation. A beautiful trio was rendered by Mrs. Houston, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Nichol. Mrs. Houston sang effectively "My Gift." Instead of the children's story, a beautiful exercise was given by four little girls illustrating the place of joy in the life of the home.

Rev. H. B. Neal spoke on the theme for the day, "Mother." In the afternoon there was a large attendance in the S. S. for the special session. Mrs. W. Hodgins, the superintendent, was in charge. Douglas Browning sang a beautiful solo. In the evening Mr. Neal spoke on the brotherhood of God.

The Bridge Street Sunday School in its morning session at yesterday's service placed the emphasis on a Mother's Day program composed of responsive readings, hymns, solo numbers, brief addresses, etc., that will preserve for all a most outstanding one in the minds of all those present. The session was presided over by T. E. Shortt, superintendent, Ethel Shorter presided at the very fine story, "Jesus The Man of Every Joy" followed by a chorus by the members of the primary department.

An acrostic (the meaning of joy) was presented by Margaret Semple, Phyllis Clapp, Cecil Ayre and Madeline Latimer under the direction of Miss Marjorie Browning.

A clarinet solo by Mr. Albert Elliott, a recitation, "that Mother of Mine" by George Woodhouse. The special address of the morning was by Mr. C. Burr.;

Music throughout was led by the orchestra directed by Duncan Lewis with Miss Lorna Ridley at the piano.

Miss Ailene Craig Honored By Team

The Roslin softball team and friends in the surrounding neighborhood assembled in Roslin community hall to honour one of their popular and highly esteemed young members in the person of Miss Ailene Craig, who has taken her place in Belleville and who will be greatly missed in the community as she was always ready and willing to assist in any society in which she was requested to act, in addition to being a good enthusiast pertaining to sport or entertainment. The gathering was called to order by Dr. Wiseli, who spoke very fittingly regarding the popularity of the honoured guest and the many friends she had made during her three years sojourn in Roslin. The following address was read by Miss Mary Gray while Miss Eva Kerr presented the recipient with a handsome serving travelling case.

Dear Ailene,—

"We have gathered here this evening to show to you an occasion which we felt we just couldn't let pass without having you spread another evening at Roslin so we could express our most cordial wishes in some tangible way. You came to Roslin three years ago a comparative stranger but during these three years you have become a friend of all our young folks and owing to your good sportsmanship and your friendly disposition.

It was with deep regret we heard of your sudden departure, but we shall miss you very much but wish you every success in the future.

"We trust you will receive this gift in the spirit in which it is given—namely, as a token of our friendship and your sterling qualities and may it always remind you of your friends at Roslin.

(Signed on behalf of your friends), Eva Kerr, Mary Gray.

Miss Craig responded in a few well chosen words after which a delightful lunch was served and gathering brought the happy occasion to a close with the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

LIBRARY CORNER

The experiences of a young college graduate in a mining town of the Pittsburgh district are told by Lauren Gilfillan in his book "I Went to Pit College." Finding herself jobless, she goes from home from Smith College in 1931, the depression at its worst. Her adventure journeyed to the poverty-stricken town of Aveloma to observe the life of the striking coal miners. There she found life at its lowest ebb, as one with the starving families and desperate workers. She finds that she "crashed" to Pittsburgh with a throng of starving children and begged with them on the streets, how she dressed as a boy and then traded the name of "Pit College", how she sang at communist meetings. The book, although dealing with such a serious side of life is an unemotional one written in the graphic manner of a journalist. One cannot help but admire the courage and endurance of this student of "Pit College."

Those great figures who won distinction in the early part of the twentieth century are observed and handed by leading moderns in the volume "The Post Victorians." Compiled from notes on "the great Victorians" the present work offers a variety of personalities in all fields, including those of military, political, artistic species. The portraits are finely drawn by people who themselves will one day be included in the gallery of "great and near-great" men. "The Post Victorians" includes statesmen as Lord Balfour, Lord Curzon, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Rosebery and Asquith, warriors as Earl Haig, Lord Kitchener, Lord Roberts and Joseph Conrad, Lytton Strachey, Galsworthy, Bennett, Moore, Kipling, Shaw, Clayton and Segrave. Dean Inge in his introduction comments: "There are of course many others who ought to be included but for the fact that they happen to be still alive."

The authors of these volumes of charming nonsense "1066 and All That" and "And Now All This," have invaded the realm of the detective story in their latest book "Horse Nonsense." They guarantee to make their readers "horse-conscious" and discuss "the noble animal" from many angles, buying it, riding it, the horse at home and the horse through the ages. The writers have concluded that the "whole art of Horsemanship consists in knowing How to Talk About the Horse." The volume is illustrated with amusing sketches by John Reynolds.

The Ladies' Guild then had their meeting. Mrs. Rev. Hill, 1st vice president was in the chair owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. English. A hymn was sung and prayer by Mrs. Hill. Mrs. James Lake read the Scripture lesson, followed with the Roll Call. General business was discussed pertaining to the annual garden party. A Lord's reading entitled "The Making of Heroes" was read by Miss Peacock. Hymn 173 was sung and Rev. Mr. Hill closed with prayer.

The Maple Leaf Mission Band met in the school room on Saturday afternoon, 13 little members were present. The meeting opened with singing children's hymns and prayer by the leader Miss Hellen Pell. No women millions use Rinso — for the wash, or for the dishes, for all cleaning! Rinso saves work — saves time — saves the hands. In tubs, Rinso suds out dirt — clothes don't need to be scrubbed or boiled. The clothes last at least 2 or 3 times longer — women save $100 and more! In washers — well, there never was a soap such as Rinso in any kind of washing machine! The makers of 23 famous Canadian washers recommend it. Economical; gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight puffed-up soaps. Try it.

Toronto, May 14 (CP)—In a generally weak market some of the gold stocks dropped quite sharply this afternoon on the mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange. The later-listed leaders were weakened by a sell-off on the New York Market and domestic listings fell in with the downward trend. Volumes picked up in the afternoon. Issues moving with gains were few, included Maple Leaf, Bagamac, Crown Shield, Gunnar Gold and Ridgeway.

In the senior gold group, losses of 5 to 25 cents were registered for Dome, Lake Shore, McIntyre and Dome Mines. Negligible advanced 5 cents each. Sudbury Basin in the base metal shares lost all of its recent gain and narrow recessions were recorded also for Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, Sherritt and Base Metals Corporation. Noranda held a small gain till the close.

(Close)

Toronto, May 14 (CP)—A general wearing down of prices, although selling by tired holders and weak marginal traders and also in the absence of a depressed New York Market, gave impetus to the bear drive; Stocks today, Nickel dropped 2¼ and fractional losses were scattered through the list. NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, May 14.—Stock market sentiment generally was influenced by indigo today and prices, as a whole, pushed downward.

After some minor rallies in the early trading, the list was subjected to rather sharp selling pressure around noon and the ticker tape lagged behind floor transactions for a time. Losses ranged from one to four or more points before support arrived. The activity dwindled with the recovery. Many issues dropped to new lows on the year or longer. Bonds were irregular.

Recessions among Canadian stocks were generally in keeping with those. Nickel dropped nearly a point, but Montreal and Canadian Pacific showed only slight depreciation. On the curb Hiram Walker was steady and Lake Shore a shade lower. Dominion Bridge fractionally ruled about even. The Canadian dollar was off 1/16 of a cent at 99 3-16.

Shares of Allied Chemical, at the most severe loss of the day, and International Nickel, each lost four and International Paravision a point. Telephone was resistant, as were a number of other utilities. Rails moved down one to two points, with American Can, Case, U. S. Steel, Du Pont, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Sears Roebuck, Celanese, American Smelting and Kennecott.

Stock Market Gossip

New York, May 14. —Street is disturbed with fact that labor troubles are again featuring the trend, and is also nervous particularly in view of the fact that some industries are slowing down upon what which necessitates reduction in workers' activity.

Some traders believe that everybody is the Street is "short" at the moment and while there has been some buying back for profits in various conditions and uncertainties the atmosphere is September or October pressed on the basis of fact. While professionals say there seem some of them have been in process of covering.

There has apparently been no important volume of short marginal calls thus far. Brokers note however that some accounts are getting "rugged" and a further decline would mean quite an increase in marginal demands.

A number of firms are reporting quite a bit of switching now.

It is believed that short selling of stocks through membership in the latter part of last week and that part of it was done by small traders in the hope of making big sale and lumped bears in an effort to recoup.

TRIO ADMIT IRON THEFT

Constable at Point Anne Detects Trio at Work

Charged with the theft of a large quantity of scrap iron from the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne, Constable Archibald James Fraser of Waller Asslstlon, all of this city, pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Magistrate Mikel in open police court this morning. Two other defendants, Messrs. Gordon and Waller, were remanded for one week when arraigned Wednesday, while Fraser was allowed bail in the sum of $500 and when all three cases will be disposed of. Crown Attorney A. Leitch is in charge of the case and the Crown will produce evidence to show that during the time he had ever been in trouble, he assured the police.

The trio were apprehended by County Constable B. Bennett of Point Anne, who, it is alleged caught them in the act of loading scrap iron from the rear of plant No. 4 at Point Anne on Saturday afternoon. The charges laid by the police by the trio had previously stolen 1,300 pounds of scrap iron from the company, transporting it from the scene of the theft in a motor truck. Constable's car, later selling it to a local junk dealer. Constable Bennett took the trio into custody late Saturday afternoon and turned them over to the provincial police for further investigation.

The three lads all pleaded guilty to the charges when arraigned this morning's police court. B. C. Donnelly, K.C., local crown attorney requested a stay in the meeting out of sentence until he could acquaint himself with the circumstances of the Assistive brothers, who, it is alleged by the police, have been previously convicted of offences in Belleville. At the conclusion of the court Chief Kidd opened a probe relating to the local junk dealers keeping the necessary records of purchases in the proper manner. It is likely being pointed out that under the city by-laws such dealers were necessary but seldom adhered to.

CONNIE MACK GOING PLACES IN AMERICAN

Joe Cascarella, Sandlot Hurler Wins Fourth Straight Game

IN THIRD PLACE

Giants Shoved Down in Fourth Place in National

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

When Connie Mack said early this spring that he thought his club might go somewhere in the American League this season if only a few of his young pitchers came through in good form, few if any of the athletics' fans, thought of Joe Cascarella as one of those who might help out.

As things have turned out, Joe, a former Philadelphia sandlotter, who spent several seasons in the International League earning a reputation as a good seven inning pitcher, seems to have become one of the A's mound mainstays. After beating the Yankees twice in relief roles, he was promoted to a post as starting pitcher and has won two more contests without a loss.

He took the play from another Philadelphia sandlot graduate yesterday when the fans celebrated Alan Strange Day at Shibe Park and Cascarella made it the occasion for a 9-3 Philadelphia victory as he pitched shutout ball for six innings while his mates rolled up a big early lead.

The triumph gave the A's third place in the tight race as Washington bumped Detroit out of a higher berth by shelling Tommy Bridges from the hill when he became wild in the seventh and scoring six runs to win 7-4. Philadelphia's position also was improved when the Yankees slammed the second place Cleveland Club into submission 8-0 and left the Indians only a half game ahead. Lefty Gomez blanked Cleveland with four hits for his fifth straight victory while Lou Gehrig and Ben Chapman drove in all the Yankee runs, Gehrig accounting for his half by clouting his eighth homer with the bases filled.

The Tigers and Senators wound up tied for fourth at the .500 mark and only a half a game ahead of the Red Sox, who made up for some of the past week's misdeeds by slaughtering Chicago 4-3. Bucky Walters' two homers, one with the bases full, and one by Eddie Morgan, also with the corners crammed, produced the bulk of the runs.

National League

The National League standing produced an odd situation when Pittsburg Pirates, a half game behind Chicago according to one method of reckoning, took the lead by two percentage points. Each won yesterday, the Pirates assaulted Lefty Ed. Brandt, and Boston Braves for a 9-2 decision while the Cubs defeated the Giants 7-3 on a four run rally started by Chuck Klein's ninth circuit blow of the year. Pittsburg has played only 22 games to Chicago's 25 to gain the higher percentage.

New York dropped to fourth place as St. Louis Cardinals blasted out a 12-7 victory over Brooklyn, collecting 18 hits off four pitchers to break the tie with the Giants. The seventh-place Phillies had to go 10 innings to defeat the eighth-place Reds 5-4 after Ethan Allen's homer tied the score in the ninth.

On the Saturday program in the National Bill Lee shut out Brooklyn while his Chicago mates were plucking five runs off the Dodger pitchers. The powerful Pirate bats and a song of base hits that was an 11-6 defeat for Philadelphia.

In the American St. Louis Browns rose up from their lowly position to smack Washington for a pair of wins, 6-5 and 2-1. Lou Gehrig's seventh homer of the season helped the Yankees whip the White Sox 4 to 3.

OUIMET TELLS WHY U. S. GOLFERS WON

Believes They Are Better Competitive Golfers Than British

London, May 14 (CP-AP Cables) —The reason the United States held the Walker Cup for the eighth successive time today, in the opinion of Francis Ouimet, who captained the victorious American amateurs at St. Andrews last week, is because Americans "are better competitive golfers."

The bespectacled veteran and most of his men who downed the British team 9 1-2 points to 2 1-2 in the two-day competition, came to London over the week end bent on enjoying a brief holiday before swinging into the British Amateur title tourney at Prestwick next week.

The United States shotmakers downed the Old Country hopefuls badly in the singles matches Saturday, winning six games and halving another, against the single victory "Tony" Torrance was able to hangup for Britain. In the Scotch foursomes Friday the Americans won three matches to one.

CURRENT SPORT

(Day By Day)

It is safe to say that there is more interest being taken in senior O. B. A. A. baseball in Eastern Ontario this spring than in many years past. Back in the balmy days of the C. O. B. L. included in the spring training period for each club to play at least two exhibition games with intermediate clubs was practically necessary. In recent years this practice has been abandoned, but the latest information received is to the effect that this method of pre-season training is back again. Next Wednesday the Napanee Gibbard "A" team journey to Kingston for an exhibition game while the Belleville Nationals already have two pre-season games on the books, one versus the local Victoria intermediates some evening this week and the other in Picton where they meet the 1933 intermediate finalists on either Friday afternoon of this week or Monday afternoon of next. These pre-season exhibition games are a far better medium in which to try out green material than all the practices a club could hold from now until Doomsday, simply because it gives the team manager an opportunity to observe the green, raw recruits perform while under fire. The Nationals will be out practically every night this week starting with Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for sure.

Another upheaval in the intermediate O.B.A.A. class "A" ranks happened on Saturday when the Kingston and district intermediate loop kicked over the traces and objected to playing in the higher series. The league headed by President "Staff" Hammond, forwarded their objections and various reasons as to why they shouldn't be elevated to a class "A" rating to the O.B.A.A. After hearing two or three angles in on the matter it is doubtful if the parent body will even as much as open the case. The loop consists of Gananoque, Sydenham and two clubs from Kingston while the league executive is angling for one or two more entries, 'tis rumored. In past seasons the winners of the Kingston and District loop have always proven worthy adversaries in competition with the winners of the Bay of Quinte during all past O. B. A. A. play-downs and are as much entitled to step up a rung on the baseball ladder as are the local intermediate clubs.

In company with Jack "Chief" Williams and Art Young, mentor of the local junior clubs, we journeyed to Napanee on Saturday to witness the unofficial opening of the baseball season in that town. Much to our surprise, and a lot of other people's as well, we arrived in time to witness something we deemed impossible; the Gibbard intermediate "B" club not only won a clean cut victory over Ernie Gibbard's all-star "A" team, but the subordinates applied the white-wash brush to the highly touted and much heralded Gibbard A's when the B's won by the score of 4 to 0. The score about indicates the game as the A's were let down with four small singles, no two coming in the same inning and Mr. and Mrs. Fan, you can take it from us—Walt Gerow's and Ernie Gibbard's faces "were red".

The Gibbard teams trotted out no less than six hurlers, three on each club. With the exception of George Blazetich, the ex-Toronto St. Cyprian junior hurler, the pitchers had things pretty well their own way all afternoon. Reg Dorey and Tommy Pointer breezed them over the senior team and blanked the B's for six innings, then when Blazetich assumed the mound, the "B" team pounced on his deliveries like a cat on a mouse. They made no mistake and the further the ex-Toronto hurler went the harder they clouted his offerings. H. Card, who came to Napanee in 1932 from Dundas, hurled the first three innings nicely for the "B" club and was followed by a lad named Bishop, a youth of 18 summers who tosses a mean curve ball from the fork side. Then the club's veteran hurler, Doug Fraser, after a years absence from the game, returned to old time form to finish the job. Fraser apparently has no business with the "B" team, as was so well demonstrated on Saturday. He can still make the hitters pop 'em up when he's in trouble.

After watching the Gibbard A's on Saturday they seem to be tarred with the same brush as last year, terribly weak at the bat. Skipper Gibbard promoted himself and is now covering the keystone sack, and incidentally has also found a real receiver in Hugh Brennan, ex-Danforth catcher. It was quite noticeable the improvement in Tommy Pointer, while pitching to Brennan. Pointer did not walk a single batter, while his control seemed far superior to that of previous years. Dunn, the ex-Yarker infielder seems to fit nicely at short stop for the "A" club while Simmons, a junior from Grafton, pulled the sensation play of the day when he speared a hot liner with the meat hand to toss out Bentley for the B's.

It must be granted, that the Gibbards have an over-supply of proven hurlers, but their offensive strength does not seem to have kept pace with their pitching staff. What a laugh the Picton, Belleville Victorias and Brighton clubs must have had when they heard the welcome news Saturday night. The season is young, however and the Gibbards may strike their hitting stride before the season is long spent. It must be granted they have plenty of defensive strength, but no club can win ball games without scoring runs.

Everything is in readiness for the B.C.I. & V.S. annual field day on Wednesday. Instructor Goe. Laughlin and Les Shiels have completed all arrangements for the usual field and track events in both boys and girls events. The usual keen rivalry between student athletes is assured for the various championships.

AMATEUR BALL ROUNDUP

Toronto, May 14 (CP)—Ontario Amateur Baseball was all geared up for another season as the youngsters and veterans of the diamond started play in the various leagues. The Intercounty Baseball Association, and the Hamilton Senior City League swung into action Saturday.

Three games marked Intercounty play with the Hamilton circuit opening in Galt where Moodie Tigers whipped the Terriers 10-6. Terriers were loaned to the Hamilton League by the Intercounty. They failed to hold the Tigers who handled the young Galt players with ease. Only a few of the old Terrier team were in uniform, the others all new faces, a large number of them from the Ranger squad.

Three of the victors' runs came when Terriers made errors in the outfield. Pitcher Dawson of Moodies played a steady game with Edgar Mellanby, third baseman, giving good support and Ted Jocelyn running off with hitting honors, getting four hits in five times at bat.

Hamilton Victorias who held bottom position in the Hamilton Senior City League last year opened the 1934 Campaign by scraping out a 3-2 win over Dundas Graftons, a new team in the league. Bernie Jiffafby's consistent pitching marked Victorias play.

Watson and Radiff, last year junior stars of Brantford, moved into older company, when Brantford faced Stratford in an Intercounty game. Watson pitched good ball and Radiff handled his duties behind the batter in fine shape but they weren't just good enough to hold Stratford in check and they went down 4-0.

The other Intercounty games were Kitchener at London and Guelph at St. Thomas. Kitchener Panthers failed to impress when London Winery topped them 6-4 in a game that found teams guilty of three errors. A cold wind made things uncomfortable but Claude Herdman, London, and Frank McCartney, Kitchener, pitched it out, the former fanning eight and the latter gave six hits, most of them when they were needed.

Guelph's 8-2 win over St. Thomas Tomcats was its second straight triumph. McNeill was the big gun for the winners, slapping the oval around for two two-baggers, tallying three runs. McNeill also pitched some real ball. Lefty Gray was the hurler for Tomcats and was nicked for 12 hits.

Newark Bears Drive Into Second Place With Double Win

By the Associated Press

Rochester Red Wings' long winning streak in the International League finally has come to an end.

Victors in 12 successive games and theratening to turn the league race into a walkaway, the Red Wings came a cropper yesterday when Albany Senators pounded out an 11-6 victory in a free-swinging fray at Rochester. The Senators got only nine hits off five Red Wing hurlers but four of these were home runs by Alvin Powell, Ted Norbert, Fred Sington and Bill Brubaker. All travelled over the left field fence, a sector to which only one homer previously had been hit in 11 games. Ed. Pipgras' fine relief pitching really was responsible for the Albany triumph. Al Shealy, starting Senator elbower, was walloped for seven hits and five runs in 1 1-3 innings but Pipgras came in and allowed only five safeties the rest of the way.

Newark's Bears drove into second place by a few percentage points over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs by beating the Montreal Royals twice, 4-2 and 5-4 before a crowd of 15,000 at Montreal. Walter Brown pitched effectively in the opener and hung up his fourth successive victory although he gave up ten hits. Home runs by Vince Barton and Bob Gibston, a triple and double by George Selkirk and two base wallops by Gibston, Brown and Jesse Hill were among Newark's ten hits off Curly Ogden, Orlin Collier and Clarence Fisher. The second game scheduled for 7 innings, went eight before Newark could win. The Bears tagged Chad Kimsey for two runs in that frame and Floyd Newkirk shut off a counter-rally by the Royals after one had scored. Jack Saltzgaver hit a homer for the Bears.

Syracuse Wins Two

Syracuse scored eight runs in the sixth inning to beat Buffalo 8-6 in the first game of a double-header and then fought the Bisons to a 13-13 draw in the nightcap. It was strictly a hitter's afternoon as nine home runs sailed out of the park, six from Buffalo bats.

Bill Sweeney hit three home runs for Syracuse during the day. Irving (Jake) Plummer, new Buffalo outfielder, made a sensational debut as he drove out a homer in each game, one with the bases loaded, and poled a double, also with the bags clogged, and two singles. He drove in seven runs all told.

Toronto Leafs took major honors on Saturday by handing Baltimore a double defeat behind steady pitching. Blake twirled in the first game when the Leafs won 3-1, and Schott gave standout pitching in the second when the margin in favor of Toronto was 6-1.

Montreal Royals went 16 innings, longest game of the season, before sending Newark down 3-2.

Golf Facts

NOT THEORIES!

By Alex Morrison

It's always a great surprise to women when they learn they're not so popular on the golf course. And they want to know why.

"Well, here's one explanation: Most men playing golf have only a limited amount of time to spend on the course. To them a round, just like a business routine, must be carried out on schedule.

Women, the dears, carry more of the holiday spirit. Between shots they saunter along, chatting about nothing with the result that they very often hold up men who walk faster and tend strictly to their golf.

Women can play as rapidly as men, get just as much fun out of the game—if they'd only stop "visiting" on the course!

OTTAWA TEAM TRANSFERRED TO ST. LOUIS

N.H.L. at Meeting Decide on Move For Betterment of Game

LONG HISTORY

Ottawa Known as Cradle of Hockey in Pro. Company

Chicago, May 14 (CP)—The so-called "cradle of hockey" in Canada, was all but without a professional team today.

The Ottawa Senators' franchise was transferred to St. Louis when the National League Board of Governors met here Saturday and Frank Calder, who was re-elected President of the circuit, said some details remained to be smoothed out, but that he felt "safe in stating that St. Louis will be represented, when the playing season opens next fall."

The Ottawa team will be moved as an entity, under the arrangement, with George Boucher remaining as manager. Thomas P. Ahearn, principal owner of the Ottawa club, will continue to operate the team in the Missouri city, with Redmond Quain, also of the Canadian Capital, retaining his interest.

Ahearn and Quain said steps would be taken to strengthen the club before next season.

The report that would not go down during the two day meeting, to the effect Howie Morenz would be bought from Montreal Canadiens by the champion Chicago Black Hawks, remained in the air as the session ended. The Hawk owner, Major Frederick McLaughlin merely said he was unable to confirm reports that his club would land the flashy centre ice veteran.

GIBBARD "B'S" WIN FROM "A'S"

Dope Pail Surely Upset by Showing of Seniors

Hitting the deliveries of Geo. Blazetich, ex-Toronto St. Cyprian junior hurler to right field for successive doubles the Gibbard A. C. intermediate "B" club defeated the Gibbard "A" team ry the score of 4 to 0 at Napanee on Saturday.

The game was somewhat of an impromptu affair with Manager Gibbard at the helm of the A's and Coach Walter Gerow handling the B's. A goodly number of fans were on hand to usher in the season and glance over the new material recently annexed by the Gibbard teams. Six pitchers were paraded to the mound during the nine innings, three by each club.

The "B" team started with H. Card, ex-Dundas right hander, who blanked the A's for three innings, Bishop, a left-handed junior recently acquired from Toronto, hurled the middle three frames for the B's and struck out the last five batters to face his deliveries. Doug Fraser finished the game for the B's and after a year's absence once again displayed his old cunningness, especially when pressed. A fast double play, Fraser to Lucas to McCutcheon quickly halted an "A" rally in the ninth. The senior club collected but four small singles during the nine innings.

For the "A" team Reg Dorey, ex-Gananoque south-paw started on the mound and pitched air-tight ball to be followed by Tommy Pointer, who also blanked the B's. Geo. Blazetich, ex-Toronto junior, hurled the final two frames and was hit profusely, having the loss chalked up against him. Doubles by Andrews, Fraser and singles by Murphy and Bentley spelled defeat for the A's in the eighth when the lower class team scored three big runs, after bagging a single counter in the seventh. The "B" Club out-hit their senior rivals 8 to 4.

Their nervous energy depleted by over-study as examination time approached, a group of students, who were definitely below normal in blood condition, formed the "test patients" for a recent clinic conducted at a leading Canadian hospital. The remedy prescribed for this five weeks' test was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The purpose was to determine to what extent this world-known preparation would increase the haemoglobin and red corpuscles in the blood and so rebuild blood-health and restore normal vigor and strength.

The results were indeed notable. The carefully kept records showed that in every case where the patients' blood count had been below normal, the number of red corpuscles was increased, and in 38 out of 40 cases, or 95 per cent., the students experienced increases in haemoglobin also, in some instances as much as 22 per cent. The physician in charge considered this showing as most impressive. The student-patients stated that they felt much more energetic, with a new sense of well-being.*

It is the haemoglobin in your blood that carries vital, life-giving oxygen to every cell in your body. If you are always tired, exhausted, breathless on exertion, nervous, irritable; lack appetite, most probably your blood count is below normal. Start taking this hospital-tested remedy and see how soon these symptoms will begin to disappear, and how much better you will begin to feel.

You and your family are taking no chances. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are hospital-proven. At all druggists—50c. a package.

High Quest Wins Preakness Beating Stablemate, Cavalcade

Horses Will Campaign on Different Fronts Reported

By Orlo Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, May 14 (AP)—Having settled their personal feud for the time being at least Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's High Quest and Cavalcade, co-rulers of the turf's three year olds today had come to the parting of the ways.

Back in their stalls at Belmont Park, following a stirring stretch duel in the Preakness at Pimlico in which High Quest beat Cavalcade by the narrowest of margins, the two stars started training for campaigns in two separate fronts.

The future of Cavalcade, galloping winner of the Kentucky Derby, lies in the west with the American Derby at Washington Park, June 2 his next objective. High Quest will be pointed for the one and one-half miles of the $50,000 Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park, June 9.

Whether the pair will meet again later in the season depends upon how they train. They have met twice in their brief racing careers and each time High Quest was in front. The son of Sir Gallahad 3rd, won the Eastern Shore by a length last fall and Saturday got home by a head in the Preakness.

Apparently there is little to choose between the two colts despite High Quest's two decision. Cavalcade had all the worst of the racing luck in the Preakness and then thundered down the stretch like a roaring locomotive to be beaten only by a head in record-smashing time.

Albert College Swimming Team Provides Winners

Vern Page, of Albert College, won the 50-yard dash in the breast stroke class at the Ontario Interscholastic Swimming championship meet held in the large Municipal pool at Hamilton last Friday night. Four swimmers from the local Albert College made the trip to Hamilton and competed in a number of events, all managing to finish well up in the standing, taking into consideration the large field of entries. The quartette from Albert were: Bob Summers, Cliff Bishop, Chuck Waring and Vern Page.

Twenty-six different collegiates from throughout the province were represented, with Albert College being the smallest school represented. The Albert College relay team, consisting of the entire roster of swimmers to make the trip, finished fourth in the 200-yard relay race out of a field of 12 starters. A new Canadian collegiate record was established in this event, while only eight feet separated the first four teams at the finish.

Bob Summers came third in the 100 yard free style dash in a field of 14 starters. Summers' efforts were roundly applauded, as he staged a hectic bid for the event in the last few yards. After Vern Page came down in front of a large field in the 50-yard dash, Chuck Waring finished in the money by taking fourth in the one metre board dive, when 22 contestants competed.

Taking into consideration the large field of entries and the limited number of swimmers to represent the Albert College, the boys' achievements are worthy of note, as they competed against some of the best swimmers in the province. Following the meet it was announced, that the majority of the event winners would be eligible to compete for the Canadian British Empire swimming team. Coach Vern Page was especially proud of the showing of his team mates.

Kidnappers or Hijackers Outwitted by Police in Paying Ransom Money

Detective Chief Spirited Away But Believed to be Safe

QUEER TWIST

Word Received Chief on Way to Headquarters With Money Intact

Los Angeles, May 14. — (AP)— Outwitting either the kidnappers of William F. Gettle or hijackers attempting to steal $60,000 ransom, a detective chief early today made several contacts with the suspected abductors and after he was believed to have been spirited away himself he appeared safe in possession of the money.

This bizarre twist to the abduction of the oil millionaire came after a night of mysterious organization of police forces in which scores of fast machines were moved about the city as though on a gigantic checkerboard in the efforts to trap the kidnappers.

The officer, finally the central figure in the repeled effort to pay the ransom, was one of the leaders of the search for Gettle since his adduction last Wednesday midnight from his five-acre Arcadia estate.

At the request of authorities, it was agreed to withhold his name.

First available details of his experience indicated that he had made a contact with the kidnappers and had, himself, been abducted. A police broadcast shortly after 3.30 a.m. centering scores of police machines in an area about eight miles southwest of Los Angeles in the vicinity of Maywood, a suburb, ordered officers to "keep all cars and look for the money".

Saw Machines in Alley

It was then learned that a patrolman, stationed in the area, had reported seeing the detective's machine dart into a darkened alley between Maywood and the Old River Bridge, with three other machines acting as escort.

In a flash all four machines suddenly raced out of the alley, the detective's automobile speedingly surrounded.

This led police to suspect, that the officer, who carried $60,000 in $5 and $10 bills of old issue but genuine money, had either made the 'pay-off' or been hijacked and was himself being forced to flee.

About an hour later, his headquarters announced he was "safe" and enroute there with the "money". What had happened to him was not immediately ascertained.

The start of the presumed contacts with the kidnappers began about 9 p.m. last night and as far as it could be learned, the intermediary chosen remained unknown to the persons offering the contact.

He was to have driven into the Laurel Canyon area of the city, north of Hollywood, and there was supposed to have found upon a stick, further directions for continuing the contact, including an instruction, that the collection of the ransom payoff would be made after a drive of about 80 miles.

Several contacts were supposed to have followed, leading up to the detective's trip to the southwestern section of the city.

RURAL PUPILS VISIT AT PICTON COLLEGIATE INST.

Sixty-six Entrance Students Are Entertained

Picton—On Thursday May 10th, sixty-six pupils of the entrance class of the rural schools of the County responded to the invitation of the Picton Collegiate Institute to spend the day at the Collegiate.

Each visitor was intrusted to a collegiate student, who conducted him to a locker—was his guide all day, and made him feel at home.

Mr. J. H. Fox, M.A., addressed the visitors in the assembly hall on "Why people come to High School" His points were: (1) To train the mind in best habits of though; (2) To become socially adept; (3) To gain useful information; (4) To learn certain skills both vocational and avocational. He stressed the thought that every boy or girl should learn at least one game and know how to play it well. High School should develop breadth of interest, and thus widen one's horizon. Some of the visitors then attended a class in German, others, one in latin, or commercial spelling and in the art room. Miss Gordon demonstrated to all the different kinds of art work one in Collegiate tests were then given to determine aptitude along commercial lines. From 11.30 till 12, girls and boys baseball games were organized among the visitors.

In the afternoon a psychological test, to determine aptitute along the lines of abstract thinking, and a test to determine mechanical ability were given. The rural pupils then visited any part of the collegiate in which they were interested. Just before four o'clock each of the various courses taught in Collegiate were given to the visitors to take home, as a guide in their selection of a course next year.

On Friday May 18th the entrance people of the Picton Public and Separate Schools will visit the Collegiate and be entertained in the same manner.

ROME FLIGHT IS STARTED

Fliers Leave N.Y. Hoping to Make Non-stop Hop in 40 Hours

Brooklyn, N.Y., May 14.—Captain George T. Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli soared away from Floyd Bennett Field at 6.24 a.m. (E.S.T.) today with the announced intention of reaching Rome without a stop. They said their large orange and maroon monoplane could make the 4,500-mile flight in about 40 hours. Pond, is former United States naval flier, and Sabelli, one-time Italian war ace, had been planning the flight for months. They had hoped originally to make the attempt last fall but abandoned the idea because of unfavorable weather. Their plane, "Leonardo Da Vinci", with 680 gallons of gasoline, carried enough fuel to last more than 40 hours.

Weather reports indicated favorable winds, but noted a low pressure area over the North Atlantic coast which the fliers said they would fly over.

They set a course over Cape Race, Newfoundland, and the great circle route. If the weather turned bad, they said, they may abandon the flight and land in Rome and land in France or Spain.

Today's attempt is the first transatlantic flight of the year.

Sky Overcast

Only a few friends of the fliers were at the airport to see them off. The sky was overcast as the big plane soared away.

The plane made a perfect take-off, rising easily into the air after a run of about 1,000 feet.

Pond, who was at the controls, kept the plane at an altitude of 100 feet as it flew over Jamaica Bay, then banked it sharply and darted away toward the northeast. It had disappeared from sight less than five minutes after leaving the ground.

The "Leonardo Da Vinci" is powered with a Wright, 26 motor capable of developing 300 horse power. It has a maximum speed of 150 miles per hour and a cruising speed of 120 miles.

The fliers are carrying a wireless receiver and have made arrangements for hourly weather reports.

Sabelli is 27 years old and lives in New York. His flying suit was loaned to him by Peggy Rex of Cleveland. It bears the autographs of Ethel Barrymore, Frank Hawks and Jimmy Doolittle.

Pond, 40 years old, is considered an outstanding navigator and pilot.

BRUSH FIRE SWEEPS LONG ISLAND

First If Successful

The flight, if successful, will be the first from New York to Rome. Thirteen persons have been lost in five other attempts.

Pond and Sabelli took for food twelve assorted sandwiches, three cans of tomato juice, a jar of orange juice, a quart of coffee, a gallon of water, three pounds of eating chocolate, Italian bread sticks and two cans of emergency rations consisting of dried fruit and pressed vegetables.

The plane carries the number 13137.

OBJECT TO WIDE POWER

Market Bill Held up Liberals Voicing Objections

Ottawa, May 14. — Held up for many days by a series of Liberal speakers objecting to the wide powers contemplated for the various marketing boards the government's marketing bill may make some progress in the House of Commons this week. The unanimous amendment as the result of further study since the bill was introduced, are now before the House.

Today the House resumes the debate on the budget and there appears some prospect of an early vote. If the budget is disposed of and the marketing bill advanced a further stage government legislation will likely be introduced. In any case the public works bill, to authorize the expenditure of a sum which may run to $50,000,000 on a large program of building for the relief of unemployment will come down this week.

Another important measure ready for introduction when the order paper is cleared up a bit is the bill to permit farmers to compromise with their creditors and obtain a measure of relief from their debt burdens.

All in all the House of Commons looks forward to a busy week. Last week little of a definite nature was accomplished as the marketing bill was discussed at length and the budget debate continued with a long list of speakers.

Eight Year Old Hamilton Girl, Dorothy Young, Badly Burned.

Hamilton, May 14.—Pushed into a bonfire by a playmate, Dorothy Young, eight-year-old daughter of Bert and Mrs. Young, 441 Catharine street north, suffered severe burns Saturday afternoon. She was rushed to the General Hospital and last night her condition was reported to be serious.

The little girl was standing near the fire and had no chance to save herself when a playmate, not realizing the danger of her act, shoved her. The flames ignited her dress and ran in the direction of her home, crying for help. Her clothing was literally burned from her body before she collapsed. The burns extended over her entire body, examination at the hospital revealed.

It's putting it mild to say that the Ontario Intelligencer is a welcome salesman. If it ever fails to show up at a front door our circulation department gets a nasty phone call. Yet the Ontario Intelligencer doesn't try, ahead of everything else, to be a salesman. Its main purpose in life is to inform and entertain, as any well-written, well-edited newspaper should do. Meeting its readers on their own terms, it lets them sell themselves—the secret of good salesmanship the world over.

That's why the Ontario Intelligencer is one "business visitor" that's accepted socially by most any family when it is in a social mood. It interviews each buying member of the household when the sales-resistance bars are down. It is accepted by them all as an old family friend. Which isn't hard to understand. For the Ontario Intelligencer bears the stamp of reliability. Readers depend on it—from Mother with her recipe-problems down to Junior who' mixes sports with his comics.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Pabilio said suddenly, "You would never believe how often I've thought about you talking together that night. I've never forgotten about it. I never will!"

"Oh—" she murmured softly, warmly. It was odd, she thought, that he seemed to have no idea how much she really liked him. She had dreamed of him more than again some day. There had never been anyone else whom she liked so much.

"Do you think I should go back and tell them I didn't kill Jeffries," Pabilio asked.

"No," she said, instantly aghast. "Oh, no!"

"I'd be willing to do it if you said to."

"No" she repeated. She added, "I'm afraid you wouldn't even have a chance."

"Perhaps not," he agreed heavily. He and Heidi were suitable comparables. Reason who had promised to "protect" her.

"My life is in your hands," he said, looking at her. His voice deepened, somber white hands. He meant that he would do anything she wished. She knew that. She understood.

"It was perfectly safe," she assured him eagerly. "I'll never tell anyone as long as I live, Pabilio. Never!"

She glanced up at him then and for a long moment they looked into one another's eyes.

"It'd die for you or live for you," he said abruptly. "You can remember that—not, I suppose, that it will mean much. But I would do either."

He still cared, she realized, her heart quickening.

"If I could only see you once in a while," he said next. "I could mean everything to me!"

"I can't see why not—" she faltered, again looking up at him. "I'm lonely," she added, "for the sort of people I can't —seem to find. My mother is gone now."

"I'm sorry," he murmured. She made no answer, but quickly went on. "That night of the party I did enjoy talking to you. I thought we had a great deal in common."

"I'll never forget that night."

Estelle went on, "I used to watch you running the boat and wish I could know you better. I was sure we could be friends."

He wanted to drop to his knees before her, He said, with an eagerness that made the words come fast and let him breathless—"When can I see you again? Where—?"

A few drops of rain had fallen and she arose, drawing her wrap around her.

"I hope you haven't taken cold!" Pabilio asked anxiously.

"Oh, no!" She laughed at the thought. Then she held out one hand and he took it. "Shall we meet here Thursday—at twelve she questioned.

"If you will!"

"You mustn't go to the car with me!" she warned. "It wouldn't be safe. Goodbye, Pabilio. Thursday at twelve!"

He watched her disappear, then sat down again on the bench. He saw that she had dropped her handkerchief and picked it up. He pressed it against his face, remembering. With the utmost tenderness he held it between his palms, then suddenly pressed it dark.

Pabilio thought, "What can come of this except more misery?"

Nevertheless seeing her was heaven, and Thursday—two days ahead—he was to see her again.

Marcia Treadway found Estelle alone in her room. Marcia perched on the edge of a chaise longue beside an open French window from which one could step to a narrow balcony, guarded by a twisted, wrought iron grill.

"Oh, very well, Miss Treadway," "Why don't you call me Marcia, dear? I'd rather you did. Otherwise you'll make me feel terribly ancient. When anyone calls me "Miss Marcia" I simply want to sit down!"

Estelle laughed. Miss Treadway talked as she always had—so quickly that the listener had a definite impression of enthusiasm. Actually if the words had been analyzed little real brightness would have been found, but then few of Marcia's words had time for analyzing anything or the habit of doing it.

"Would you like tea, Marcia?" Estelle asked, hesitating the fraction of a second.

"No, sweet. I'd love one of those cocktails with all the elements in them, though. Do you know what I mean?"

"I don't but Harry will. He's a rather inquisitive person when it's all sorts of things for father, I'll ask him to have it sent up."

Marcia, speaking, and Marcia moved to lay her hands on the girl's slender shoulders. "You really are grown," she drawled coolly with a smile after a frank, slowly taken survey.

"I'm not," Estelle answered with conviction. "And it's lovely of you to say, so Marcia."

"We're going to have some good times together, child."

"I know I shall!"

"That's the spirit. Run along now, darling, and send me that cocktail—or two of them. I have a frightfully hellish head. The train was dreadful and the boat worse. The most ghastly people do come to Cuba! Cubans who would try to flirt while using a toothpick. One can't always keep one's eyes down and I hate seeing all the swine by myself, so there I was."

Estelle opened the door. Estelle laughed. "Sometimes it's horrid being so popular. It was worse of you to come!"

Waiting for the cocktail Marcia stepped out on the narrow balcony and looked down along Canalejo Street to the waters beyond. She could see the Malecon. Then she turned quickly as she drew near.

"I'm so glad to see you," she whispered unsteadily.

"Look here," he said suddenly. "Let's go to a picture show. We can get there and talk—"

"And not in la perfrencia," she said, with sympathies with him. Besides, "Ire and let Ire is no longer necessary. We have each other, child!"

Estelle thought Marcia would watch Estelle narrowly as she entered the room, but Marcia did not. The girl would have no peace. Marcia, her conversation and her poise was a sort far from agreeable to the girl.

"My dear," she would say, "Ire tired with her two years right under her wife's nose! Of course, knowing his wife, you can't blame him. Ire sympathies with him. Besides, Ire and let Ire is no longer necessary. We have each other, child!"

"Don't believe in anything and learn to take everything you can get," Marcia said sharply one afternoon. "I believe you do, Estelle for you! The only people who are miserable in this world are those who are absolutely heartless."

"But, I don't want to be heartless!" Estelle protested.

"You will be, sooner or later. I know! I was like you once but I got over it. It's the only thing to do is laugh at everything and cheat when you can get away with it. That's the way to manage to happiness."

Estelle started to go downstairs. As she stressed she narrowly balancing, looking down on the green living room she saw her father below. He was not alone.

Suddenly the girl turned into the corridor to stand there with hands against her hot cheeks.

CHAPTER XXIX

Estelle had disliked Trixy Gulden from the day she first met her. Now she knew why—having just heard the jabbering of her high rough capture of this social hoyden—Trixy Hortenstacy Straight and Jim Fiske's niece.

Estelle thought, through a dizzy storm of hurt, came upon actual physical nausea. "He should remember he is more than 50!" she thought.

Marcia Treadway had felt that Estelle would never forgive her and there were ways in which Estelle had grown up long ago. She had begun to realize that the appearance of respectability was all she could hope for from her father.

A little later she wrote a note to Pabilio which she sent by Carlito, a servant whom she trusted.

"Dear Juanito," Estelle wrote. "I wonder if you can meet me in the park at three? I think surely I can get away then I am a little depressed and I always cheer me up. You can send an answer by Carlito who is bringing this.

"Your friend, Estelle."

Her carefree days of romance would have told her more than it did had she been more experienced. As it was, she knew that even though she lived she could not any longer pretend about her father. She knew, too, that Marcia calculating creed was the creed of most of the men and women of the shoddy social world into which her father had introduced her. Estelle felt incredibly hurt and incredibly alone. With Pabilio she could forget all that and, with him, she would not have to believe that of men, were also her father's set.

Carlito came back swiftly, rallying like a brown-coated peanut in the small car he had ordered. He made his way upstairs carrying a tall glass of iced milk on a silver tray. Beneath the cloth on the tray was Pabilio's answer to Estelle took the milk. Then she smiled at Carlito and lifted the tray cover. "Thank you so much, Carlito," she said.

"He is a good young man, Señorita. All Havana knows that he is a good young man. Ah, how he flushed as he saw me! It was dramatic. Not even the strong are as little children at the touch of love!"

Carlito bowed himself away then. Pausing a moment at the door before closing it, he saw the girl, suddenly pink with delight, reading her letter.

Pabilio had written: "Will I be there at three? Can't you know at all how I feel? Your wanting to see me if only for a little while made me more happy than I've been before since—

The letter bore no salutation. She wished she would call her Estelle. Presently she stood with the letter in her hand, considering what he would say when they met. Then she tore it into tiny bits and began in the living room.

At half-past two Estelle told Ruy that she would use the Lancia to take her to Havana. She had shopping to do and a friend at the Inglaterra to see. Ruy stifled a smile at her explanations. All the servants knew of her "meetings" with the young man. They discussed the affair frequently and hoped the lovers would elope. They narrated tales of Juanito's strength and bravery, of his excellence of character. Obviously Jim Fiske was unfit to be housed with a creature so young, so caring and so altogether lovely as his daughter.

"Ruy," Estelle said, "you need not wait but you may return for me at five. I will be at the Hotel Inglaterra."

"Sí, Señorita," he answered with a bow and a flash of white teeth.

"I am a little early," she said, when Pabilio joined her coming down to him, her hand in both his. "I'm glad you're early, too. It will be like this, she reminded herself. All her unhappiness was washed away in the sunshine.

Pabilio could not keep his adoration from his eyes. He had flushed darkly as she drew near.

"I'm so glad to see you," she whispered unsteadily.

"Look here," he said suddenly. "Let's go to a picture show. We can get there and talk—"

"And not in la perfrencia," she said, with sympathies with him. Besides, "Ire and let Ire is no longer necessary. We have each other, child!"

"Don't believe in anything and learn to take everything you can get," Marcia said sharply one afternoon. "I believe you do, Estelle for you! The only people who are miserable in this world are those who are absolutely heartless."

"But, I don't want to be heartless!" Estelle protested.

"You will be, sooner or later. I know! I was like you once but I got over it. It's the only thing to do is laugh at everything and cheat when you can get away with it. That's the way to manage to happiness."

Estelle started to go downstairs. As she stressed she narrowly balancing, looking down on the green living room she saw her father below. He was not alone.

Suddenly the girl turned into the corridor to stand there with hands against her hot cheeks.

"I do—love you," she whispered. She had not known she was to say it.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma is still teaching me Money Management out of a book, and she gave me 8 cents budget money at breakfast this morning saying Now dont forget you're suppose to pay a little attention to charity, or in other words, wise giving. In later life you'll find that everybody must have their own peace, rich and poor alike, when they make out their budget, or if you practice a little free hand you'll be poor for the shock. Now if you give 10 cents to your budget, for instants it will be one fift or 20 per cent which would be quite generous enough, and I expect a good report from you on this subject at the end of the day, she said.

"And another thing," she said, Well, and how did the budget go today? Did you save anything, or could that be too much to ask? she said.

Well, I said, Well, Sorta. I didn't, and me said. And how about the charity question?

Meaning the cent I was suppose to give, I said, Well, Sorta. I always gave it to the beggar with the one arm and one eyeball.

Then I explained to her his pop and G wrinkles it was shuck fill corn for the one I owned on subtracting the bottom of the cup on account of all the bombs, and I shawl, holding doing, he had more pennies than me already, so then I happened to meet Bill Hunt and he never fewest when somebody owes him a cent and I happened to see him one and he asked me if I had it, and I said, G wun always owes you me money and he said he didn't and I said, Well I got what you'll do. I'll give you a cent of my own free will as a free gift if you garantee to never ask me for the one I owe you again and call off the deal forever, and he said all rite so I gave him a cent, because G the poor guy didn't have any money and it was pure charity.

Sudda a boy, do your lessons, ma said.

With I did.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Down a stone stairway leading to the chambers beneath the altar, Tarzan sped. Through innumerable windings and turnings of these rock-hewn tunnels he accurately retraced his way. Just as he believed himself safe from the searching priests and warriors, as he was rounding a turn, he came face to face with one of the grotesquely masked underpriests. Knowing what the fellow's intentions would be, Tarzan did not delay action. Before the creature could decide how to meet the situation, a long, keen knife slipped through him and his body lunged toward the floor.

Tarzan caught the falling body, and snatched the headdress from its shoulders. A bold scheme for escaping his enemies had entered his alert mind. Stooping, he severed the tail of the Ho-don close to its root. Into a nearby chamber, from which the priest had just emerged, the ape-man dragged the body. With a strip of hide he tied the tail as expeditiously as possible under his own loin cloth, adjusted the headdress, decorated with human scalps, upon his own shoulder, and again stepped forth. No one, unless they examined closely his thumbs and great toes, would have suspected his masquerade.

He had observed that these people sometimes carried the end of the tail in one hand. So he did likewise, lest the limp appearance of it dragging behind him should arouse suspicion. At last he emerged from the maze of underground passages beneath the temple, and came out into the daylight of the palace grounds. Here the excitement attending the Impostor god's escape was still going on, and he mingled with warriors, citizens, slaves and priests surging to and fro. None gave him more than a passing glance, for the priesthood was allowed to go everywhere but the Forbidden Garden.

So, unchallenged, Tarzan gained the fewery enclosure, where, removing his disguise, he hid in the shrubbery while determining his next move. Suddenly he became aware that he was not alone in the Forbidden Garden. Soon he saw that it was the Princess O-lo-a, moving as in meditation towards the ape-man's place of concealment. Almost immediately, too, there came the sound of someone running across the garden court. The lovely daughter of Ko-tan also heard, for, looking up, she exclaimed: "Pan-at-lee! What has happened? "O princess," cried the girl, breathlessly, "they would have killed the wondrous stranger!"

CITIZENS FLEE

All Salvage Work Done Over Night is Wrecked

Jerusalem, May 15 (AP)—A second cloudburst struck the city of Tiberias the 1900-year-old city of Galilee, today, causing casualties after the 17 persons drowned in yesterday's flash flood.

Another heavy death toll among Arab residents of the old city was feared yesterday, was feared as a result of today's storm.

The water rushed down from the hills in "walls" three feet high. Stocks of goods were carried out of shops and houses were emptied of their contents.

The entire population of Tiberias fled, as best it could, to the high ground outside the city. The new disaster wrecked all the salvage work accomplished overnight by a large force of soldiers and police sent into the district. Much livestock was lost by the swift flowing waters.

Arms Sales Stir British House, League Members Denounced

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, May 15—(CP Cable)—A storm blew up in the House of Commons this afternoon over activities of British Armament firms, aroused by the League of Nations Commission report denouncing sale of arms by several countries—including league members—Bolivia and Paraguay, at war over the Gran Chaco.

Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, declining specific answers at this time.

Particulars were demanded of British and Japanese exports to China and Colombia and Peru. "What nickel, scrap-iron and tungsten has gone to Germany," the Opposition demanded to know.

Mr. Runciman merely said he would circulate the information when he got official report. This served to cut out supplementary questions which otherwise would have led to debate.

The Hammond-Ponsford partnership record set up by the Aussies compares with 588 runs, highest score for a partnership in any wicket. That was a first wicket aggregate by Hobbs and Sutcliffe for Surrey Holmes of Yorkshire, made in 1932

The Bishop pointed out that under a canon of the Synod delegates from parishes in arrears for 1933 are not permitted to sit in Synod. He asked for assurances that the indebtedness be paid and many of the delegates promised to pay.

Archdeacon J. W. J. Andrews, St. Thomas, told the Synod he believed that those parishes who are paying are being assessed too high because others fail to pay.

"It is not a square thing and should be challenged. Assessments for those who pay are going up and up. We are getting sick of it," he said.

2 MEN SLAIN AT STOCKADE

Strike Clash at San Pedro, California, With Police

San Pedro, Calif., May 15 (AP)— Two men were reported killed and 10 others injured seriously early today in a clash involving striking longshoremen, non-strikers, and police at Los Angeles harbor.

The dead were identified as Dick Parker, 20 of San Pedro, shot through the chest and John Knudsen, 45, shot through the heart.

The fighting began on the docks of the West Basin at Wilmington, where two ships were moored, after several hours of rumblings of violence between the strikers and those who had taken their places.

In a body the strikers estimated at 2,000 advanced upon a stockade where about 400 non-strikers were quartered, protected by some 60 police.

The advance occurred shortly before midnight and shots were heard as someone fired the tents in the stockade.

Seemingly spurred into action by the flash of fire from the canvas and the desultory, warning shots of police the strikers fell upon the occupants of the stockade. The grounds soon were strewn with men in wild combat.

SEVEN KILLED AS LIGHTSHIP HIT BY LINER

Nantucket is Sunk by Steamship Olympic

NO SOS CALLS

Tragedy Occurs 40 Miles Off Massachusett Coast

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)— Seven members of the crew of the Nantucket Lightship were killed today when the Liner Olympic crashed into the Lightship 40 miles off the Massachusetts coast.

The other four members of the crew were not found.

The accident occurred in a heavy fog. Wireless messages sent by the Olympic to the coast guard and the White Star line, which operates the big liner said that four of the men were dead when picked up.

They were George Braithwaite, Master (2, E. Yonner, Mate; J. F. Perry, Radio Operator and Roy Roberts, an oiler.

The other three died after they had been taken aboard the Olympic. They were: W. Perry, engineer; J. F. Richmond, a sailor, and A. Montes, cook.

The four missing were—I. Pinn, 1st; E. G. Rodrigues, 2nd; J. Portes, sailor, and E. B. George, a sailor.

The Olympic put out one motorboat and two lifeboats to rescue the men. It reported to the coast guard in New York at 1 p.m. about two and one-half hours after the collision.

After receiving wireless messages both of the coast guard cutters were rushed to the scene.

The Lightship was anchored at a beacon for trans-Atlantic ships. It was formerly the vessel called Nantucket of Massachusetts.

Coastguardsmen announced that a cutter, either the Argo or the Modoc, would reach the spot two hours after the collision, getting details of relief. Lightship will be replaced soon from Boston.

The radio message picked up at Cape Cod, Mass., at 1:30 a.m. by New Hydrographic service read: "Nantucket lightship vessel sunk." (Signed) Commander Olympic.

The Olympic, a large trans-Atlantic liner, was due in New York tonight direct from Southampton and Cherbourg.

BANK WAGES UNDER FIRE

Some Members of Bank Committee Say Wages Not High Enough

OTTAWA, May 15.—(CP)—Pressed on the floor of the Banking Committee of the House of Commons today into the question of salaries paid by Canadian banks to their employees, Hon. Edgar Rhodes, minister of finance, declared he was not the right of bank employees to organize. Finally, after a debate in which some members declared that the banks were not paying their employees enough, and a representative of the bank employees' union view that they were, the matter was allowed to stand.

The debate arose when Dr. Raymond Morand (Cons. Argenteuil) moved an amendment under which banks would be required to furnish information to the government as to salaries of employees and contemplated changes which might be required to work. In doing so D'ophin member of the committee declared it would be almost impossible for the committee to get the information which would insure bank employees a minimum wage.

The amendment threw open the whole question of bank salaries and members took advantage of it to express their opinion. Major C. G. Cowan (Cons., Edmonton South), told the committee that, at a trial in Quebec for embezzlement, the judge had declared that he did not think $2,000 a year was fair for the bank which paid him such small salary.

G. C. Coote (U.P. A., MacLeod), declared after view that $500 per annum (the minimum salary for a bank clerk) was entirely too small and might encourage theft from the bank.

On the other hand, S. H. Logan general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce expressed the view that bank employees were fairly treated.

Occupants of the apartment had been under surveillance as suspected members of a bootleg gang.

One man was arrested and another escaped but was later captured when Gettle's prison was raided. No ransom was paid.

OTTAWA, May 15.—(CP)—The Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada "cut out" the profits of the chain store for selling tobacco or other manufacturers at less than the regular prices, Earl Spafford, Vice-President in charge of Sales for the Imperial Company told the Parliamentary price spreads probe today.

This was part of the company's price maintenance system in operation. The Imperial Company was interested in getting cancellation of jobbers functioning as a portion of the manufacturer's profit, the tobacco official stated. To these associations, he admitted, manufacturers had contributed financially. These were declared to be unofficially corroborated statement. The Old Judge Sir John, was reported as a momentary slip treated as corroborative statement rather than as evidence, he found, and therefore Ansell and Rose will be free.

Directions to Find Child Sent to Father by Air Mail

Tucson, Ariz., May 15 (AP)— Little June Robles is home again, rescued from the desert tomb where kidnappers had kept her prisoner for 19 terrifying days.

Physicians watched over her today anxiously to sustain how arduous she may have been affected by the ordeal, which might easily have killed her: blazing days of a sun that burned her olive skin, and chilly, lonely nights in iron chains that gripped her slender ankles.

An unsigned letter, postmarked Chicago, gave the directions that led to her rescue late yesterday afternoon by her uncle, Charles Robles, and Clarence Houston, Pima County attorney.

2 DOOMED MEN WIN APPEALS

Croydon Murder Case Recently Tried at Old Bailey Court

LONDON, May 15.—(CP Cable)— Two out of three men sentenced to death for murder won their appeals in the Court of Criminal Appeals today, and for only the third time since the court was instituted in 1908, the conviction were quashed.

The appeal of the third was dismissed.

The trio, Albert Ansell, 36, Walter Rose, 34, and Leslie Martin, 32, sold had found guilty of the fall holiday of murdering an old woman at Croydon while escaped in robbery. Martin arranged the robbery and murder in a statement at the trial, while implicating the others, said he had only kept watch outside the house.

The Lord Chief Justice dismissed Martin's appeal but said the only direct evidence against the others was supplied by the unjustifiably-corroborated statement. The Old Judge Sir John, was reported as a momentary slip treated as corroborative statement rather than as evidence, he found, and therefore Ansell and Rose will be free.

The Croydon murder case, as it was known, had aroused interest throughout the length of the country. The victim was found dead the morning after the robbery, having been suffocated by a gas.

City and District News

BICYCLES MUST HAVE PROPER LIGHTS

During the past week several boys and young men have been apprehended by the police, while riding bicycles at night without displaying the proper lights. Chief Kidd personally, has dealt with such cases to date and after a severe reprimand allowed the youths to "go sin no more". Today, however, Chief Kidd announced that in the future all violations of this law will find the delinquents summonsed into court and the maximum fine imposed. According to the highway traffic act all bicycles must display a front lighted lamp and a rear lamp, or reflector, while being operated on the highway or streets of a city from dusk until dawn. As pointed out in the act a lighted lamp must be displayed on the front of all cycles, while the rear protection is optional, a lamp or reflector. As pointed out by Chief Kidd this morning, these lamps are for the protection of the cyclists as well as a caution to others.

MRS. NEAL SPEAKS TO GIRLS' BRANCH

In concluding their study for the year, the Girls' Branch of Christ Church W.A. heard an interesting discussion on the last chapter of the Study Book when Mrs. Harold B. Neal addressed a meeting in the Parish House last evening. The subject was Dr. Kagawa, the originator of the Kingdom of God movement which has spread from Japan to many countries in the world, and Mrs. Neal's outline was most interesting. Miss Moorman's group of Holloway Street United Church C.G.I.T. gave a short play. Mrs. L. A. Kells, president, was in the chair and the speaker of the evening was introduced by Mrs. Earl Hickey. After the program refreshments were served by the members of the branch.

REPAINTING LINES AGAIN RESUMED

Following a lapse of several days in the work owing to wet weather, workmen engaged in painting traffic lines throughout the business section of the city again swung into the job early Tuesday morning, laboring until dawn. With the main section of the city almost completed, the work of painting the guide and stop lines throughout the residential sections will be continued. Considerable time is being saved this year in the painting of "No Parking" signs owing to a large stencil that has been secured by the department.

RELIEF OFFICE 30 AHEAD OF SEASON

Party dresses, winter woollies, mackinaws, heavy clothing of various descriptions, an odd straw hat and other articles. Observation of the shelves of the local Central Relief Office reveals the fact that the office is just one step behind the season in the matter of donations of clothing and other articles for the city's needy. At present officials find themselves handicapped in their effort at filling requests for suitable clothing. Considerable winter clothing donated lately is being packed and stored for future cold weather use. At the present time an appeal is made by the office for summer clothing of any description. Men's shirts are a particular need while children's summer clothing is also being asked for.

TROPHY NIGHT AT Y. M. C. A.

Thursday of this week the Y.M. C.A. will be host to the various groups and individuals who have won awards as a result of their outstanding attainment in some particular activity during the past year. Amongst these will be the Ki-Y Baseball and Hockey Teams, the Bowling Teams, the winners of the Trenton-Belleville Relay Race, the House League Basketball winners, also a number of individuals who have successfully represented the Association in out of town meets at some time during the current year. Outstanding among the latter is Clifford Barber, the premier runner of the local Y.

Following the awarding of the prizes and trophies, a social hour with refreshments will be held in the parlors of the Association.

TOURISTS TO BE BETTER DIRECTED

While tourists passing through the city on No. 2 Highway still continue to ignore the direction sign at the lower end of the city on the junction of Front and East Dundas Streets, and find themselves over the tracks headed in the direction of the government dock, City Engineer Chas. A. Mott sought a solution to the problem of having the visitors make the left hand turn at the silent policeman. A large white arrow curving around the intersection and pointing east along the highway will probably be placed at the corner.

MANY MEN AT WORK IN CITY

Approximately fifty men on the relief lists were still at work on various jobs throughout the city today in spite of the fact that relief today on the 15th, is officially over. It was previously decided by the advisory relief committee to keep the men on until they had finished their respective shifts. Small numbers of men from now on will be taken off the work until all men on the relief lists are finished. Later the number on the list had been pared down from over two hundred to less than one hundred men.

PART OF IVY VINE TO BE TORN DOWN

Long a refuge for quarrelling sparrows, but a pleasing sight during past summers when a full growth was visible, a net work of ivy, which has covered the city hall building for the past fifteen years this year appears to have succumbed to the recent severe winter. Alderman Thomas A. Marshall, chairman of market and city property today surveyed the possibility of having the dead vines removed. It is believed that the exposed portions of the vine above the still live root at the bottom were frozen and ruined. On other sections of the building a healthy growth of the ivy is still evident.

SEEK WHEREABOUTS OF MRS. E. KAYSER

Information regarding the whereabouts of Mrs. Edward Kayser, nee Jessie Cameron, is being sought by the local police authorities today following a letter received by Chief Kidd, dated Glasgow, Scotland. The information is sought by a Mr. A. Cameron of Glasgow, a distant relative of Jessie Cameron, who came to Canada in 1887. According to the letter received by the police department Miss Cameron came to this country in 1887 and worked for a farmer by the name of Peter Murray, some three miles east of Belleville on the Kingston Road. The next year Miss Cameron was reported to have married a man named Edward Kayser, who was at that time engaged as an engineer.

START PAINTING OF NEW OFFICES

A start on painting the offices had been made today.

409 DOG TAGS ALREADY SOLD

Returning prosperity is indicated in this city by the number of dog tags, that have been applied for and issued since first warning was given owners of the canines. To date a total number of 409 tags have been issued for the present year. During 1933 only 432 were issued during the whole twelve months. Although no official dog census has been taken, it is expected, that approximately 600 licenses will be issued before the year is over. Up to now a total of 70 homeless dogs of all breeds have been destroyed in the city by poundkeeper, Thomas Thorne.

JOY RIDING ON RAILWAYS TO STOP

Two members of the R.C.M.P. from headquarters in Ottawa arrived in the city yesterday to be stationed on special duty in and around the local C.N.R. and C.P.R. yards. The officers, Constables A. K. Daykin and W. J. Johnson took up their duties this morning. They have been detailed to remove all transients from trains passing through this terminal. Annually at this time of the year a detachment of "Mounties" from Ottawa is dispatched to Belleville for this purpose. The authorities are endeavouring to discourage the practice of transients riding up and down the province on freight and passenger trains, especially those who in years past have alleged to have been merely "joy riding" at the expense of the two Canadian railways.

Tells of Australia at Kiwanis Club Luncheon

A clearer conception of Australia and its place in the British Commonwealth of Nations was obtained from the address given by Col. Bladin of the Salvation Army to the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon on Monday. The usual date was changed to accommodate the speaker and the club were certainly fortunate in securing such an excellent speaker. He was introduced by Adjutant Martin of the local Corps and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by Dr. R. A. Flynn.

The speaker lost both his parents when he was quite young but, as he stated, he was born under the Army flag and was proud of the fact. He was also glad to be a subject of the British Empire and the longer one lives under the flag the more he realizes the privilege of being British born. Col. Bladin showed that Australia was a comparatively new country having been founded in 1642 but it was not until 1769 Captain James Cook landed and made friends with the Moari tribes. The starting was really in 1840 and the Moari and white people have lived together in peace and contentment since that time.

The climate of Australia was described as wonderful by the speaker with Alpine scenery, plenty of sports and thermal regions, which are turned to profit by the native people. He explained the Moari tribes, telling his audience they were the most intelligent and cultured of all the colored races. He stated that the white and Moaris intermingle without losing their status. Some witty stories were told of the Moaris, how they had a great spirit of competition and were extremely proud of their race. Col. Bladin also touched on phases of the Salvation Army work in many countries, he himself being a traveller in Christ's cause and told how this work had helped the governments in the countries in which the social work was undertaken.

SELF DENIAL CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED BY ARMY

Appeals For Funds to be Made For Branches of Service

For many years local citizens have been generous and faithful to this very important appeal. Eight teams of workers are being directed to all sections of the city, first delivering the familiar envelope for household circulation and collecting the same a day or two following. Every possible donation must be secured to reach the objective Tag Day "finale" will be held Saturday, May 26th.

OBITUARY

LATE JAMES COUGHLIN

The funeral of James Coughlin took place this morning from the Thos. C. Thompson funeral home to St. Michael's Church where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Madden. Quite a number of old friends and acquaintances were in attendance. Interment was made in St. James' cemetery.

The bearers were Messrs. J. Whalen, A. Farrell, J. Hogan, B. Davidson, M. Hogan and V Hogan.

RED CROSS

With only part of the canvassers' returns into Headquarters approximately $350 has so far been realized in the annual Red Cross campaign for funds. Mrs. Stuart Lazier, chairman of the women workers reports, that many of the women canvassers have yet to report but in several cases are getting a more generous response than a year ago. This augurs well for the success of the appeal as it is felt by the committee that a return equal to last year would indeed be encouraging. This should bring the ultimate total to around $700.00.

"We are very grateful to those men and women who have given of their time in the canvass," states W. B. Deacon, campaign chairman and treasurer. "This is a difficult year and we are more than pleased to see an amount approximating last year's total. May I urge all the workers to finish their canvassing by Wednesday of this week and make their returns complete to the Dominion Bank which is the Campaign Headquarters."

N. R. Vinton, field secretary of the Red Cross, Ontario division, who was in town yesterday, spoke very highly of the efforts of the local Society in their campaign. The earnest work of the officers and canvassers had resulted in such a marked success for the appeal. The generosity of the citizens and the faithful work of the canvassers shows a keen interest in and sympathy with Red Cross endeavours.

Police News

No session of local police court was held today before Magistrate Mikel, there having been no arrests made by the local police department during the past twenty-four hours. The recovery of two bicycles, reported stolen over the week-end, was made by the police last night. Thos. Thorne, local dog catcher, found one of the "bikes" abandoned near the corner of John and Bridge streets, while the other bicycle was found by a local constable covering his beat. Both machines were returned to their respective owners today.

Four motorists found police stickers on their automobiles for all night parking and reported to Chief Kidd this morning. Their cases will be dealt with later. A slight automobile accident happened on lower Front Street, early last evening, when a car driven by Roy Covert collided with another automobile driven by Arthur Newman, 400 Bleecker avenue. Mr. Newman was proceeding north on Front St., when the Covert-driven car backed out from the east curb. Slight fender damage is all that resulted.

No motor accidents of a serious nature were reported today by the local highway traffic officer of this district.

Charged in the County Police Court, held in Belleville before Magistrate Casement, this morning, a resident of Stirling pleaded not guilty when charged under the L.C.A. After hearing the evidence His Worship enlarged the case for one week at which time judgment will be given.

ANGLERS TO USE ANCHORED BOATS

New Innovation in This District For Pickerel Fishing

Toronto anglers were looking over their tackle today, preparatory to the opening of the pickerel season in the Peterborough-Trenton districts tomorrow, curious as to the affect of a federal amendment allowing fishing from anchored boats in four counties closed to boats for several years. Only natural bait may be used from the boats.

Previously fishing for pickerel except from the shore has not been allowed in Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham counties, the Trent River, Lake Scugog, and Crow Lake, Crow River and Beaver Brook, Hastings County, in order to protect bass and muskinonge, the season for which does not open until July 1.

The law in the first place, was designed to prevent anglers in boats from catching bass and muskies before July 1 in the guise of fishing for pickerel. The prohibition of artificial lures is included in the present amendment as protection for the fish whose taking is illegal until July 1.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Early Thoughts on Bouquets

A little discussion of the best means of producing beautiful effects with flower bouquets will not prove amiss at this time of the year when everyone is thinking of the garden. They are to produce in the next few months. Artistic expression, such as flower arrangement, is difficult to define, but fortunately there are certain general principles which, if followed, will quickly delight the eye.

A reproduction of the conditions under which the flower grew is the aim to secure. This cannot be done literally, of course, but by proper lighting flowers can be displayed in a color representation somewhat like that of the garden. For instance, a bouquet of flowers in the dark corner of the room will not show up to advantage merely because of its unnatural lighting, or lack of it. They loose the lustre that made them so attractive in the garden. On the other hand, the same bouquet on the dining room table will show up admirably, especially because the adequate lighting from the top sets them off as would a bright sky outside.

In carrying out the idea of garden growth still farther, the correct position of the flowers in the vase or other receptacle should be as nearly like their natural stature as possible. Do not fail to preserve their grace and charm, and do not destroy their artistic effect by an over-all, stiff, set appearance. The flowers should be given particular study to attain artistic arrangements. Bring a flower lover, and even worshipping, people; they have formulated a long list of intricate rules to follow. They are too complex to look into here, however, except to say that foliage plays an important part in making their bouquets more natural.

The many flowers and too many colors cause most of the failures. A few carefully selected for harmony of color will do much better, and although it is possible to make attractive bouquets from flowers of all colors when the colors are well balanced, simplicity of arrangement and line will prove most satisfactory for the average bouquet.

It is a mistaken notion that only those flowers that are full bloomed should be picked for the bouquet. Try to have both blooming flowers and buds in your arrangement; it is more natural.

Spring is the best time to make applications of commercial plant food. There is a subtle type of art down to the fast growing roots necessary to make the rains have a chance to wash it away.

CANADIANS ON GLOB E-CIRCLING VENTURE

Here are another pair of globe-trotters out to break any existing records for hiking across almost any given distance. They are, above, J. J. Hugg, RIGHT, J. Hays, photographed in Ottawa. Hugg, a former sergeant in the Royal Canadian Highlanders, was decorated by the Prince of Wales for valor during the war. Hays is an ex-sniler and soldier, who, during the late conflict, being wounded several times while acting as a runner. The two hikers are starting out on a trek across the continent and hope to make a globe-circling venture. Hugg last year travelled by foot across Canada.

TO ERECT MILL AT PEARCE MINE

Recent Developments Are Reported on Marmora Property

Marmora — Important developments in regard to mining in this part of Hastings County are reported. It is stated that the company on development work at the Pearce Mine, near Deloro for some time, has decided to erect a twenty five ton mill for the refining of ore, and that work will start in the near future.

Consolidated Smelters are about ready to start diamond drilling on the Richardson property about four miles east of Marmora. Part of the machinery is on the ground and drilling is expected to start in a few days. Some of the ore veins has been opened up on the surface and prospects to date are very satisfactory. Everyone is hoping that the diamond drilling will show there is a large body of ore which will pay for mining. Some very promising ore was also found on the right of way of the new highway which runs through the Richardson property.

A report from the Ledard Mining property at Gordons is to the effect that in recent tests the ore assayed as high as $172.50 to the ton another assay proved out at $42 and another at $5. This report is by Messrs C. R. Kilmer and F. Gibson, owners of the property. It is claimed that an average of $10 per ton will be the ore body is worth developing.

The old machinery has been removed from the Cordova Mines and when Consolidated Smelters are ready to operate new and modern mining machinery will be installed.

EXPECT DATE OF ELECTION TO BE JUNE 21

Premier Says Announcement Will be Made Tonight

MORE NOMINATED

Conservatives Have 64 in Field And Liberals 78

Toronto, May 15.—Premier George S. Henry and his Ontario cabinet continued discussions today as political circles looked with forecasts of the Ontario general election date and party conventions placed candidatures in the field. Premier Henry is expected to announce the election date tonight.

Premier Henry addressed the Conservative convention in the Toronto riding of St. George last night when Hon. H. C. Schofield, minister without portfolio, was named candidate. His expressed desire Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, would be able as he has promised to proclaim the act extending sales of beer and wine if he was elected. Mr. Henry said he did not believe Mr. Hepburn's cabinet would support the Liberal leader.

The Liberal leader addressed his riding supporters at Port Burwell and renewed his charges of a "toll gate" system in connection with sale of liquor to the Ontario Liquor Control Board. He said he had a list of names of persons who collected money from distillers for placing brands of liquor with the board.

Two more Conservative and one Liberal candidate were nominated last night, bringing the total number of prospective supporters now in the running to 64 and Liberals to 78. South Oxford, Liberals last night selected Percy D. Wilson, prominent lawyer, as their candidate.

Toronto Candidates Chosen

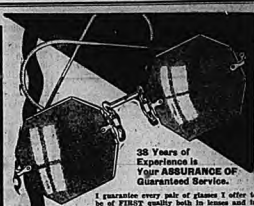
A. Russell Nesbitt, present member, was chosen Conservative candidate for Toronto Bracondale and Mr. Schofield was named government supporter in the St. George riding.

Toronto Parkdale Conservatives met tonight to name their choice for the election.

Rev. John Sutherland who recently quit his ministerial post at the Knox Presbyterian Church is expected to enter the running as C.C.F. candidate in the Peterborough riding. He will be nominated at a convention to be held shortly. A Conservative and Liberal candidate are already chosen to fight it out on the Peterborough front.

South Cochrane constituency threatens to produce a five-cornered battle. Albert A. Pauze, Timmins mine owner, has entered the race as an independent candidate. A Conservative, Liberal, C. C. F. and a Communist have taken their places in the lists.

FALL WHEAT IS RE-SEEDED



80 Per Cent of Seeding Operation Finished in Province

Toronto, May 15—(CP)—Ontario farmers today are in the midst of their spring seeding operations. In some sections about 90 per cent of the work being finished, while Provincial fall wheat land is being done in a majority of sections, according to the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Winter took heavy toll of the fall wheat crop. Seventy-five per cent. of Dufferin fall wheat fields are being resown, mostly with barley. Grey County reports 75 per cent. of the wheat and 60 per cent of the Alsike winter killed, while in Perth County from 75 to 90 per cent of the fall wheat fields are being resown.

Early potatoes have been planted and the land is being prepared for other vegetable crops. Heavy frost in Essex destroyed Van Allen peas, asparagus and other garden crops.

In Eastern Ontario alfalfa crops suffered from winter killing. Dundas county especially reported a large damage with a similar situation existing in Dundas, where strawberries also suffered.

A chiropractor's mission in life is to restore sick people to health. He does not believe in drugs and therefore does not use them. A chiropractor believes that our Creator knew what was essential when he made our bodies and that all parts of our bodies are necessary and should not be extirpated. In case of disease developing in a certain part there is cause, and when that cause is removed or corrected the disease disappears. "O, thou merry month complete; MAY . . . thy very name is sweet!"

THIS being May, we'd like to drop back through history a few hundred years and see the May-pole which James II (then the Prince of Wales) caused to be erected in The Strand, London.

The king wanted a kingly May-pole . . . a big one! So the topmost tuft of flowers and ribbons waved from a shaft ten stories high!

But the part we like best about old May Day customs was bringing in the hawthorn blossoms. The young folks did this; starting off "a-Maying" early in the morning through every country lane, they brought back enough branches to deck every house in the village.

There's something about this Maytime that makes us long to bring the Spring indoors. Have you thought yet about crisp ruffled curtains and cool, flower-shaded slip-covers and thin summer rugs, for your own rooms? A cotton bedspread is new pleasure, and just slipping your pillows into print and gingham covers cheers up the indoor atmosphere. Saves fine fabrics from dust and fading too.

So it's pleasant to change dress indoors for Summer and thrifty to take advantage of the many special offerings in the advertisements. The stores have many fresh, novel new things for Spring and prices are surprisingly low.

IMPROVEMENT

Ontario Department of Agriculture in its monthly Crop Report shows the number of wage earners actually employed in Canada as improving in the total. The peak was reached in October, 1929, with 2,248,000 as against 1,378,000 in April, 1933. Since the latter date the number of wage-earners employed has been rising to a peak in December of 1,714,000. In January there was a slight falling off to 1,653,000, after which it began to climb again to 1,682,000 in February and 1,696,000 in March. No later figures have been compiled. The March figures are the highest with the exception of last December since December 1931 when the employed wage earners aggregated 1,744,000. In March a year ago the total working was 1,426,000.

The report indicates the surprising manner in which the total has held up during the winter months when so many branches of industry are less active.

It is natural for the report to quote produce figures to show the improvement. For instance potatoes sold from 25 to 28 cents per bag in April 1932 and rose in the next year to 70 to 72 cents and to $1.10 to $1.15 on April 20th, 1934. Potatoes are higher still at the present time.

NATIONAL THEATRE

Suggestion has been made at Ottawa that Canada might have a national theatre, that is, one subsidized by the state so as to nurture and develop the cultural side of the nation, represented by the drama, says the Ottawa Journal. The newspaper says that with so many things subsidized, Canada might do worse than subsidize the drama, though today may hardly seem the opportune time to launch out with a national theatre.

A national theatre might be considered a logical follower of nationalized broadcasting, there being but one difference that the subsidized radio is heard by all who wish to hear and the national theatre while helping to direct the cultural life of the Dominion being known only to a few though doubtless it would lead to the extension of the drama in scores of centres in Canada.

ATTACK ON O.E.A.

A bitter attack on the recent convention of the Ontario Educational Association because it divided into thirty-three rings or separate sections all working independently appears in the "School Progress" for April. Citing the fact that the average business convention is inspirational in intent, the editor of "School Progress," H. F. Coles, comments that the O.E.A. seems to be nothng but a three-day school of pedagogy which "the members attend with a sigh of resignation for lost holidays for dear knows they get enough of pedagogy every working day of their lives."

"An educational convention . . . should be an occasion for the pooling of ideas and an opportunity for revising opinions. It should include a complete and centralized review of the latest educational equipment and supplies—it should be a bringing up-to-date of the whole educational profession, on education, not the teaching of individual subjects as the greatest of all public services." It should have told the public in no uncertain terms what educationists are doing as their part in help to straighten out the economic and spiritual muddle in which the human race finds itself today, he affirms.

MOVIES TRANSFORMING EDUCATION

Whither education? One may ask as one realizes the immense strides which modern education can take with the moving picture. What took three weeks now takes but three days with the aid of the talkies in the schools, says Mrs. Robinson Gilman in the Parents' Magazine. One Toronto father has been doing a good work in his own home by showing moving pictures every week to children, for he gets educational films from the government and rents a comedy. The children have to have their show.

This is but one of the opportunities of the film which education will not be slow to take up.

That abstruse subject mathematics which has baffled so many children can be taught in a short time and children are going in for the study of foreign languages through the talking pictures. The New Outlook, official publication of the United Church, says "The international situation is going to require that our children speak foreign languages fluently. They can, through the motion picture, learn the principles faster and better. We are evolving a new educational technique."

Those who were baffled with physiology in old days or with geometry will wish their childhood back again to enable them to study with so much greater ease the problems which were learned with great difficulty in the old days. This must ultimately mean a better educated child and a better educated adult, educated at less cost and able to take better care of themselves than some persons are today for all their years at school.

The problem of the moment is that so few films are made for children, the sophisticated mind rather than the child mind being considered as essential by the producers.

Mrs. Gilman notes a comment that children "learn and practise love techniques" as taught by movies. She added that the film is the most powerful agent in changing an attitude and that it is well that that attitude inculcated should be a sane and righteous one.

TO ONE WELL-LOVED

How can I see you go alone
When we two have so long been one
How can I watch you go, afraid,
Where hosts of darkness are arrayed?
You have become so weak and small
How can I let you go at all?

When I, myself, was small and weak
I did not even need to speak:
You knew my wants and, swift as light,
You kissed me, soothed me, clasped me tight!
Then all my terrors fled away,
You were so lovely, brave and gay!

Although my fingers must unclose
From your hand, frailer than a rose;
Although you go, I stay; my own,
I do not let you go alone!
God made our souls too near to part,
He will not take you from my heart!

PUBLIC BOOSTING of private projects is not permitted in this column, but all movements, individual or collective, for the betterment of Belleville have the entire support and approval of this column —and SO-O-O, as Ed Wynn, the "Fire Chief of the Air" would say, we have no hesitation in drawing attention to the forthcoming public recital of the Belleville Men's Chorus as something in which the entire community is interested, and the organization one that the community can well be proud of. The Belleville Men's Chorus of twenty-five of the finest voices in a city remarkably rich in musical talent, carefully trained under the direction of Ross Hunter, one of the best musical directors in Ontario, is an organization of music lovers, banded together, not for profit, but for the pure love of the best in music. These singers have always given their services, singly and collectively, for the various worthy causes of a community nature, and in giving this, their annual concert, are animated, not by the hope of financial profit but for the purpose of sharing with all the citizens who appreciate good music the results of their more than six months' training in this the second year of the organization, as well as replenish the funds for new music and general expenses. The Chorus will be assisted by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra of thirty-one instruments, a musical organization which will bring surprise and pleasure to the large audience sure to attend this notable entertainment. All citizens should get behind this fine musical organization, a distinct asset to the city, and show by generous support of the annual concert that civic pride which has made Belleville one of the foremost cities of Canada.

Slowly the hands of the clock crept round to the hour, and at the first chime the slow procession commenced to wend its way to the scaffold.

William Smith had just eaten a hearty meal, and his face showed no trace of fear. Upon arrival at the scaffold, everything was placed in position, and the rope was adjusted.

With a last look at his watch to see that the time had really arrived, the man in authority gave the signal, and William Smith and his fellow bricklayers recommenced work after the dinner hour.

SHOULD MEN TEACH BOYS, WOMEN GIRLS?

Men Are More Successful With Boys and Women With Girls

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Whether there should be men teachers for girls and women teachers for boys, or whether children should be taught by teachers of the same sex, are questions that really are important.

That women understand young children of both sexes better than men, goes almost without saying. This holds true probably up to the eighth year. To place a man in charge of a kindergarten is an absurdity. Nor do men have a place in the classroom in the lowest and beginning primary grades.

Young children need gentleness and kindness. Here a woman's sympathy and motherhood attributes are indispensable. A woman understands a small tot's wants and point of view much better than a man. In an emergency her practicality is valuable as well. Besides the little ones often require considerable petting to overcome homesickness and to help them adjust themselves to their new surroundings.

A man is likely to be too harsh and too exacting in his attitude and requirements. And his emotions are not as fluid as a woman's. Since he tends to live by fairly strongly-intrenched standards and precepts, his personality is likely to make a young child afraid of him.

Occasionally men do have charge of classes for the young, and when this happens the pupils are sure to be well-behaved but sure also to be shut-in and repressed. This is distinctly bad for children of all ages. Repressed children are very apt to become deceitful. We don't want children who are afraid to express themselves emotionally. We want them to romp and play and have a good time. Children surely have a right to the enjoyment of their childhood.

Although men have no place in the classrooms of children under eight, after that youngsters change considerably and men become distinctly valuable in their training.

During the pre-adolescent years both boys and girls become critical and fault-finding. They are given to "wise cracks" and "sassy" remarks. They try to embarrass their elders with the knowledge they have learned at school. Their pretended sophistication can become most annoying. These years, of course, are a sort of training ground where they are preparing themselves for independence and a final tearing-away from the parent stem.

Men teachers help to steady boys a lot during this critical period of their lives, while women teachers are best for girls during the same years. One or two teachers of the opposite sex are, however, desirable in addition. Such a mixture tends to promote refinement and a cultural background which the world to-day so sorely needs.

During the high school years the same mixture of instruction is best and for the same reasons. There is still a lot of child in the adolescent boy, even if his voice cracks and the down is beginning to appear on his upper lip. In fact, adolescent girls are more developed and self-sufficient than boys of the same age.

Unfortunately, we do not seem to have enough men teachers to go around. Teaching as a profession does not attract males as it does females. Yet men have a distinct place in the educational system. In fact, their services are invaluable.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Persons who suffer from Hay Fever should eat their heaviest meal in the middle of the day. Besides meat dishes should be used sparingly. The same applies, to fish, milk, cream, cheese and eggs, on account of their high protein content. All kinds of fruits, except bananas, perhaps, are permissable as well as all vegetables and cereal foods. Eating at bedtime is to be avoided and eating in a hurry. Alcohol must be drunk sparingly.

PLAN FUTURE TO ADVANTAGE

Aviation Talked in House by Member From The West

Ottawa, May 15 (CP)— Canada's future in aviation should be planned and mapped out carefully in order to ensure that full advantage is taken of this new and rapid mode of communication, peculiarly suited to the wide areas of this country. Such is the belief of Major W. W. Kennedy, Conservative member for Winnipeg South Centre, who last night tried to make the House of Commons air-minded.

Another Manitoba member, Errick Willis (Cons. Souris) shared the spotlight with Major Kennedy as the budget debate drew to a close. Mr. Willis spoke of the dried out areas on the wheat growing prairies and urged a survey of these lands to determine to what use they should be put in future.

A survey, he said, would find out whether drought such as struck the Southern Prairies in the last few years comes in cycles or whether there were large areas of definitely sub-marginal land which, even under favourable conditions, would not provide farmers with a profitable living.

Members of E. Company of the 15th. Regiment held a smoker at the Armouries last evening and it was a most enjoyable affair. Capt. Cook naturally feels proud of the men he commands.

Mr. Addison Weese, who collects the mail from the street boxes in the city, had a narrow escape last evening. He drove over the railway crossing at Geddes street after he had waited for a west bound freight to pass and unnoticed by him the express from the west was passing at the same time. Mr. Weese managed to get the horse and a section of the conveyance clear of the track when the express dashed by. The engine struck a back wheel of the rig and smashed it to bits. A second or two later and the story would have been different.

Mr. John Finkle, who has been absent from the city for two months, has returned to his home, 50 Moira street west.

Mispah Lodge, I.O.O.F., will hold their annual decoration ceremony on June 20.

The saw-log drive is being pushed forward as fast as the low water will permit. The river is filled with logs from the boom to above the lower bridge.

In an account of a baseball match between the Dukes of Toronto and the Maple Leafs of Guelph, the Guelph Herald has the following to say about a George Bradford, an old Belleville boy: "Bradford stepped up to the plate and made the last hit and the last run of the day. It was the longest drive ever made on the grounds and as the ball sailed upward and outward, far beyond the reach of any fielder, and the white-haired boy legged it around the bases, deafening applause went up from the spectators and George was the hero of the hour. He was home long before the ball reached the diamond."

Mr. Harmon Meyers of Sidney is the possessor of an ancient gun which was brought here nearly one hundred years ago by Capt. Letters to The Editor

Camp 4 B. 5, May 7, 1934

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

Sir:

As we have received regular issues of the home town paper which we very much appreciated I thought I would write a few articles of interest about the camp life which you might be able to use in your valuable paper. Hoping they are acceptable and we see some in the old home town sheet, here goes.

On the sixth of December we arrived at the camp which at that time consisted of an office, a horse shack, sleeping quarter-hut for 40 men, a blacksmith shop and cook house built at the foot of Eagle Hill in a dense woods. We were received by the superintendent who is a bluff old woodsman—a real good boss; four straw bosses, a time keeper and a commissary clerk. Our work was to consist of constructing a roadbed through a stretch of practically virgin forest for a distance of eight miles. Our tools and working machinery consisted of shovels, picks, wheelbarrows, axes, saws and a few teams for heavy hauls. The program calls for man power and plenty of it.

It was fine weather when we came out here and started work but it gradually got colder and colder until it was around 48 and 50 degrees below zero. Our warm winter clothes received from the office sure came in handy for we only lost two days all winter. We were able to purchase tobacco, toilet articles and necessities from the firm of Crawley and McCracken — the firm who supply us with sleeping quarters and feeding accommodation.

Then men are divided into four gangs with a straw-boss over each, which number around thirty men with a superintendent over the straw boss. Our first work consisted of cutting a right of way through the woods—fifty feet wide, after which we had to pull all the stumps and logs out of the way. When that was done, which was about six weeks later we started to clean the dirt out of the rocks which run through the centre of the ridges and hills here. We picked, shovelled and pushed tons of earth off the hills into the hollows and swamps to build the right-of-way bed. After that was done we started to drill the rock to blow cuts through the hills. It was cut and fill continually—cut a way forty feet wide through the hills—fill a solid bed of earth and rock through the valleys.

There is some difference in the landscape now than when we started. Then it was just rolling trees and grassy hills and hollows for mile after mile—now it is gashes in the hills and earth dumps in the valleys. It is interesting to watch the construction of a road by man power I can assure you. To see a road materialize from a wilderness and steadily grow under some bad conditions such as weather, steadily changing gangs of men and other adverse conditions is rather astonishing, until a person sees the working of the whole camp for a few months when it becomes commonplace enough.

At one time there were 75 of us men from Belleville here but we have gradually dwindled down to seven or eight, but the other cities' men have come and gone, too. The men are always coming and going here and one just gets acquainted and some one goes out, but in that way it doesn't get monotonous.

Our camp now is built in the shape of a huge L. with horse shack, office, tool-house, cook houses, commissary, blacksmith shop, stables, sleeping and living quarters' shacks for the men, which number for housing 26 or 25 men in each. We have brushed out around the camp, built flower beds, named the streets and shacks and paved part of the walks with flat rocks in our spare time till it looks homelike to some of us originals. The shacks are built of rough lumber, covered with tar paper and are quite comfortable with plenty of ventilation, heat and light. The food is served in two big dining halls—plenty of good, plain wholesome food, which is sure needed by a bunch such as is working here.

For recreation we have formed a sports committee, who have made football, softball and baseball our main sports with swimming, wrestling and boxing to come in the near future we hope. We work on the daylight saving plan so we have lots of time to ourselves after work is over for the day. In this camp the men all seem satisfied with conditions, work, and bosses who have done all in their power to make things pleasant.

Well, I guess that is all of interest for now so I will close hoping you can use some of this in your paper. I remain,

Yours hopefully,
C. B. SPAFFORD.

Marmora Women's Institute

The annual meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held May 9th, at the home of Mrs. H. Melville's.

The opening exercises were taken by Mrs. J. Rice in the usual manner. Minutes of the April meeting also the last annual meeting were read by the Secretary, Miss F. Sopha, after which Mrs. Rice gave a brief outline of the year's activities. Votes of thanks were given the retiring officers for the able manner in which they performed their duties.

The election of officers for the coming year was then conducted, Mrs. H. W. Sabine presiding. The difficulty that faces most institutes had to be contented with that is, forming an executive who will carry out the work in the best interests of all members. It was decided to drop the July and August meetings for this year, leaving only 10 months to be provided for, and 10 chairmen volunteered to act, each taking one meeting as her turn comes.

Following are the officers: President, Mrs. F. Sweet, 1st Vice Pres., Mrs. H. R. Haacke, 2nd Vice Pres., Mrs. E. C. Prentice, Sec.-Treas., Miss F Sopha, Pianist, Mrs. Fred Wells, Press Reporter, Mrs. H. W. Sabine, Directors, Mesdames G. Kerr, P. Grant and J. Rice, District Director, Mrs. H. R. Haacke, Auditors, Mrs. Gould and Miss Brown.

Marett gave the month's Current Events after which the members had a chance to show how much they knew of their own county, being asked to draw a map of Hastings County, marking in the townships. The result was a draw between Mrs. C. Hamilton and Miss Alice Burr, the latter winning the prize. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and committee Mrs. Harold Nayler, Miriam Savage, after which the meeting adjourned.

W. STEWART IS RECALLED

Committee to Ask Name of Minister Mentioned at Probe

Ottawa, May 15 (CP)—Announcement was made in the House of Commons Monday by Premier R. B. Bennett that he had requested Hon. H. H. Stevens, Chairman of the mass buying committee, to recall Walter Stewart, President of the MacDonald Tobacco Company before that committee. In his evidence last week, the Prime Minister said, Mr. Stewart had intimated that Ministers of the Crown had been unfaithful to their trust in giving out information in regard to approaching changes in the excise tax. The Prime Minister wished Mr. Stewart to be called upon to name the cabinet ministers who had given out the information.

CAST OFF UGLY FAT

Woman Loses 28 lbs. in 3 Months

"Three months ago", a woman writes, "I was persuaded to try Kruschen Salts to reduce my weight, which was 222 lbs. I had tried other things, but all to no avail. Now I know that Kruschen Salts are different. In three weeks I lost 5 lbs., and I felt five years younger. I really must say I feel a different woman. I have now lost 28 lbs. to date."—(Mrs.) S. G. B.

If you are overweight take one half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. There will be no rapid or alarming loss of weight, but just a steady decrease of that flabby fat which is as unhealthy as it is unsightly. Kruschen is a scientific blend of six mineral salts found in the waters of those European spas that have been used by generations of overstout people to reduce weight.

3 HIT GAME TURNED IN BY HILCHER

Toronto Hurler Best in Mound Duel With McClaskey of Chiefs

NOW SECOND

Rochester Defeated For Second Time in Two Days

(By the Associated Press)

Newark Bears, one of the International League's outstanding pennant contenders, were the victims of an apparent paradox today.

They had just succeeded in making the League-leading Rochester Redwings bite the dust for the second time in as many days yet had dropped from second to third place in the standings. The Bears held a half game lead over Toronto Maple Leafs by the won and lost method of figuring the standings but trailed the Leafs by two points in the percentage column.

Newark pounded Tony Kaufmann out of the box with a six-run rally in the second inning yesterday but barely staggered through to win, 8-7. They added single runs in the third and fifth frames and needed them badly as it turned out. A three-run rally in the seventh put the Red Wings back in the game and Rochester rallied again in the ninth, driving Frank Makosky out of the box. Vito Tamulis shut off the surge after two runs had scored. Joe Glenn, Newark catcher, emerged from a batting slump with a bang, getting a double and three singles in four trips to the plate.

Vince Barton hit his seventh homer for Newark in the second and Goodman clouted one out of the lot for Rochester in the ninth.

Three Hit Game

Meanwhile Toronto nosed out the Syracuse Chiefs, 2-1, as Walter Hilcher allowed only three hits in a pitching duel with Jimmy McCloskey. Hilcher's single scored George McQuinn with the first Toronto run in the fifth and the winning tally came over in the sixth on a single by Ike Boone, a sacrifice and Joe Morrissey's single. Syracuse scored its lone run in the sixth without the aid of a hit, Eddie Cibocki carrying the tally across the plate after two errors, a pass on an infield out.

Baltimore drove John Pomorski to cover in two innings but could do nothing at all with Orlin Collier and Montreal came from behind to earn a 6-2 decision. Collier allowed only four hits in the last seven innings. The Royals bunched nine hits off Euel Moore to good effect. Hubby Walker and Jim Ripple hitting homers.

A home run by Ted Norbert and three singles by Fred Sington helped Albany score by an easy 9-3 victory over Buffalo and regain sole possession of fifth place, a game ahead of Syracuse. Ed. Chapman pitched seven hit ball for the winners.

CURRENT SPORT

(Day By Day)

New champions may be crowned and new records perhaps established tomorrow when the athletes from the Collegiate meet on a common level in competition at their annual field day. The officials deemed it advisable to stage the morning field meet at the Exhibition Park instead of on the school campus as in years past. The track events will be held in the afternoon at the Fair Ground. The usual events, pole vault, shot put, discus and the jumps will be on the program for the morning, with both girls and boys competing. The champions will have to look to their laurels this year as strenuous periods of training have been indulged in by athletes in the different classes. Last year Wally Hilton and Dick Philp tied for the senior boys' honors, while Earl Hay romped home first in the intermediate. Don Wood had a tough job on his hands winning the junior series. Marion MacLean headed Eugenia May and Annie Cruji for the girls' honors. Philp has graduated, leaving Hilton to battle it out with newcomers in the senior class with Hay and Wood starting at scratch in the middle class. A new crop of juniors are expected to face the barrier and the usual keen rivalry will follow the first year track and field men. The winners in the various events will qualify for the regional or district interscholastic track and field meet to be held in Belleville on Saturday.

Congratulations are due the Albert College swimming team on their showing at the provincial interscholastic swimming meet in Hamilton last Friday. Vern Page, the student coach of all swimmers at Albert, is also to be commended on his winning the 50 yard breast stroke. He is considered one of the best swimmers in the province and it has been through his untiring efforts that swimming has advanced to so marked a degree at the college. He has three capable team mates in Bob Summers, Cliff Bishop and Chuck Waring, the latter a diver of note. Taking into consideration 26 collegiates were in competition at Hamilton, and Albert being the smallest school represented the achievements of the local team speaks well for them. Swimming was at a low ebb in Belleville until Page came to town. The recent swimming meet held at the college pool, at which some of the outstanding swimmers in Canada competed in exhibition, proved to fans locally that swimming is a sport well worth attending.

A press despatch from Kingston says that Jimmie Arniel, who for many years has been doing the catching for Kingston Ponies, has been named as coach of the Central League winners. In point of years' service he is the veteran of that club's roster, having joined them as utility catcher back in the days of Johnnie Evans and the late Les Rice. He was always a close student of the game and should make good in his new position as he has practically been the thinking power of the Ponies for these last few year, that is when that cagy old veteran Joe Daly was not around. The selection of Arniel as coach should be a popular one, not only in Kingston but around the entire circuit where he commands more respect than any other member of his team. Arniel has been working out his team every evening for the past few weeks and recently announced that either 'Brick' Stone the erstwhile first sacker, or Tommy Boyd will fill Compeau's place at shortstop, and a newcomer, Clarke, will be in right field. Arniel apparently intends decorating the bench quite frequently this summer as he signed an intermediate catcher named Foxton, who will do the majority of the catching. There is very little pre-season bally-hoo coming out of the Lift-lock City of late, Coach Lee apparently quietly trying to mould a winning team this year.

Although nothing official has been announced in the matter it has been heard that Frank Domenico, mentor of the Belleville Fruit girls' softball team, is to branch out in another field of sport and take over the franchise of the Delaney Bearcats in the senior city softball league. It is understood that the Bearcats will finish their present schedule in the Wall Street league under their present name while a new moniker will be provided if Mr. Domenico sponsores the club later.. When Grant Ashley announced that the Bearcats would disband at the termination of the league there was quite a commotion among the various team manager in softball circles, who, it is alleged, were endevouring to sign outstanding Bearcat players for O.A.S.A. service. The players, however, apparently had different plans as they intend staying together and playing under the same banner as a club.

..Tonight Art Young is staging a baseball game between his first and second teams on the Alemite lot. Young recently announced he fully intended placing a second team in the field, thus giving at least 15 more young ball players a chance to get into the game.

Again last evening the Nationals went thru a strenuous practice. Two teams were lined up and went to it. There seems to be quite a battle for the two position on the right hand side of the infield, with Dean Ford and Harold Long alternating at shortstop and Johnnie Kerr and Chuch Barriage holding down the hot corner. The other positions seem to be filled with Roy Smith at first and Sonny Green at second. Langman stared on the hilltop, with Wallace, Carl Casey, Bud Wilkins, Ernie Smith and Jack Williams following. The boys will be at it tonight.

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the date of the exhibition game at Picton. Mr. Meagher, the president, last night informed the press that he would get in touch with Picton today and endeavour to arrange a game for next Monday afternoon. The Nats need one or two such games to taper off their spring training season and a game with the Picton club should be most beneficial.

Golf Facts

NOT THEORIES!

By Alex Morrison

I've said it so many times I'm almost ashamed to repeat it—all faults can be traced to incorrect hip action.

The kind of hip action a player has in his swing is always indicated by the way his feet move, so that the wrong foot action means a poor swing.

In other words, all you have to watch during the swing is this foot action. It tells the whole story. Yet there isn't one player in a thousand who pays any attention to his lower extremities.

You can't walk or get around when your feet are in bad shape. Likewise you can't feel well if your feet hurt you. Well, your golf swing can never be any better than the action of your feet.

BOASTS STOCK

Giants Kicked Further Down by Loss to The Cubs

(By Edward J. Neil)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The stock of Boston Red Sox fading recently on the Major League Market, is rising again and the reason is the same impetus, that sent the Sox chances kiting in the first place— Lefty Robert Moses Grove.

For Robert Moses, the Lonaconing lightning, apparently is back in the pitching condition, that won him ranking among best left handers in baseball's history, as well as a price tag of $100,000 that Tom Yawkey willingly paid when he bought the Maryland Bean Pole from Connie Mack last winter.

Lefty didn't win a ball game yesterday as rain drenched most of the Major League circuit and cut the list of engagements to three, but he proved he has recovered from the sore arm, that has been shrouding both him and Boston's populace in gloom since the first week of spring training.

Grove picked up the gauntlet against the White Sox, relieving Henry Johnson in the third inning with one out, the bases full, and the score 5-0 against Boston.

Six and two-thirds innings later the game ended with the score 8-2 in the White Sox favor and "Big Jarge" Earnshaw, who once was Grove's partner in pennants for Connie, had won himself a fine four-hit victory.

Hurls Well

He allowed but three hits in 6 2-3 innings, walked one and fanned two. He was scored on twice before he got the side out in the sixth, through a walk and a force-out, though the runs aren't charged against him because he took over with the bases full. In one three-inning stretch only one ball was hit out of the infield, he allowed one run of his own making in the seventh, when he dropped Eddie Morgan's toss to first base on a ground ball, that would have retired the side after Al Simmons, another of the old A's had doubled.

Grove finished easily, indicating that the $25 it cost to remove infected teeth a few weeks ago had saved an investment of $100,000. After Lefty was belted out in less than an inning by the Browns in his first relief start, it was feared, that the loss would total $100,025.

Earnshaw's victory was the first complete game he has pitched this season. A home run by Bill Werber was the only heavy damage done him. Werber's two errors, four singles and Bob Boken's double counted five runs for the White Sox off Johnson in the second.

National League

Lon Warneke gathered in his fifth victory of the season as the Cubs beat down the World Champion Giants for the second straight day in a 3-2 10-inning thriller, that alone survived the rain in the National League. It was the Giants eighth loss in 12 starts in the West.

With the count tied 1-1 going into the ninth Bill Terry gave young Hal Schumacher a one run lead by belting a home run into the centre field bleachers. Dolph Camilli, Rookie first baseman, promptly got it back with another Homer in the Cub's half. There the situation stood until Chuck Klein came up in the 10th with Warneke, by the grace of Terry's error, and Galan, through a walk, resting in first base. Klein's double promptly busted up the ball game.

Vic Sorrell, Detroit Southpaw, snuffed out the Senators 5-0 with but two hits in the third game of the day, called because of rain after six innings. Al Crowder lasted less than two innings as the American League Champions slid down into the second division.

YACHT RACES FOR HOLIDAY

Belleville Yacht Club to Open Season With Regatta

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Belleville Yacht Club this week it was decided to open the season's activities on May 24th with exhibition races for all classes of sailing craft, power boats and canoes.

A program for the summer has been drawn up and on June 4th the first cup races will be held, continuing on every Wednesday afternoon thereafter during the summer until Labor Day, which will wind up the schedule, and suitable trophies will be presented to the successful contestants in the various classes. In addition to the weekly cup races the Belleville Yacht Club proposes to donate smaller prizes to the various winners twice a month.

All owners of sailing punts, dinghys, snipes or other sailing craft, and power boat owners and canoeing enthusiasts who intend to race on the 24th. of May and during the summer, should enter their boat at once with the secretary, giving dimensions, name, horse power, etc., so the different boats may be arranged in their proper classes, and so avoid confusion on race day.

It looks like a big season for aquatic sports, with the harbor already crowded with various craft and more being put in each day now by their proud owners who have spent many happy and interesting hours building them during the past winter in all parts of the city.

SOFTBALL

Simpson's timely three bagger with one on gave the Tip Tops the much needed run to score a 5 to 4 win over the College Hill Cubs in a regular scheduled Wall Street League game played at Central Park last evening.

The win was the first registered this season by the newly formed Tip Tops, who were afforded excellent pitching by Jack Harvey, who allowed the slugging Cubs but four hits during an extra innings game, that was needed to break a four-all tie.

Although Harvey whiffed only four batters during the pastime, his control was superb as he continually nicked the outside corner of the plate with a wide sweeping delivery, that completely baffled the Cub batters. Geo. Jenkinson was on the hillock for the Cubs and restricted the "Tailors" to six hits, most of them coming when needed, however. Jenkinson turned back six Tip Top hitters via the strike out route.

Meens with two singles and a double led the Tip Tops at bat, while Simpson clouted the pellet for a triple. Vic Halsey returned to the game to connect with one of Harvey's slants for a homer to lead the Cub batters. Gray, Lupenette and Jenkinson were the only other Cub hitters to register anything that resembled a safe blow. Four costly errors in the field did not help the cause of the Cubs to any great extent. At the same park the Bearcats and the league leading Grills' team meet tonight.

Tip Tops—Cy Barriage, Knott, W. Morgan Pararro, Bellis Meens, H. Morgan Simpson, Smith, Brown and Harvey.

Umpires—Barnett and Ethier.

Church Loop

Applying the willow to an advantage the Christ Church juniors downed the St. George kids by the score of 25 to 11 in a regular junior Church League softball fixture at Queen Mary School grounds last evening. The winners from Christ Church turned on their junior brothers in the initial frame to score ten big runs and kept adding to that number until the sixth innings, when the game was terminated on account of darkness.

The Christ Church nine showed too much power for their rivals and at no time were threatened.

The line-ups:

Christ Church—Flindall, McGuire Dack, Ostrom, Mills, Sherry, Gordon, Austin, Bone, Hector and Lammis.

St. George's—Lucas, Mason, Cavenly, Little, T. Lucas, Boyle, Tapp and Langman.

Umpires—Sherry and Flindall.

Score by innings:

St. Georges	032 222—11 runs
Christ Church	1061 033—25 runs

Sandwiches Again

by

BARBARA B. BROOKS

Whatever its present position may be, the sandwich is of noble origin. We are told that it was the Earl of Sandwich who first sponsored the custom of serving meat between two slices of bread. This idea marks the Earl as a fastidious, as well as practical man. The sandwich was a forward step in improving both table manners and convenience in dining. For in the Earl's day, roast meat was a big part of the menu and forks had not come into general use.

Some of the sandwiches we see today give no hint of nobility. However, even the humblest one can be a noble work if it is fresh and trim. And some of the very elaborate ones often are tawdry and unappetizing in spite of the good ingredients which go into their making.

The whole is no better than its parts. A good sandwich starts with good materials. First of all, there must be bread. It can be almost any kind. It should be moist and fresh, but several hours or a day old so that it is easy to cut and handle. If the crust is very crisp, wrap the loaf in a damp towel for a few minutes. It can then be cut without breaking and crumbing.

Of course, for cutting, a sharp knife is needed. Select one that is thin-bladed and flexible, but strong. It should be long enough to cut a loaf the long way, when needed. A knife with tiny, sharp, saw-teeth on the cutting edge is good. an advantage of the saw-tooth knife is that it is not very good for cutting other foods and you will keep it especially for bread.

It will save time and materials if you will cut the bread to get the largest possible slices. Whenever practical, slice the bread the long way of the loaf. Spread and make the sandwiches in long slabs and when finished cut them into the sizes you like. If you are using nut bread or any rich bread that crumbles easily, it is better to cut small slices. Sometimes it helps to cut the loaf in half down the center the long way, then slice.

Thin, smooth mixtures can be spread onto the cut surface of the loaf before cutting each slice. This will prevent tearing the slices. Another precaution is to have butter at room temperature and to cream it thoroughly before spreading the bread. Cheese and paste mixtures can be thinned with liquids, such as cream or milk, fruit juices or salad dressings, according to seasoning and flavoring desired.

Fillings should be finely chopped, thinly sliced or in pieces which will stay in or on the sandwich when it is being eaten. It should not be necessary to eat a sandwich with knife and fork. If you like sandwiches in mountainous or haystack formation, it is helpful to arrange them so that they can be taken off in layers for eating.

Vegetables and fruits for sandwiches should be crisp, firm and dry. Cut or chop them finely, but do not crush. Some spreads are made by mashing vegetables. In this case, mash the vegetables thoroughly and moisten with butter, cream, oil or mayonnaise to form a smooth paste.

Chill the fillings for cold sandwiches. If the sandwich is to be served hot, be sure the filling that goes into it is hot. For the most part, simple fillings well seasoned make the best sandwiches. Often a spread of creamed butter is sufficient. With plain breads, add something to give flavor, such as chopped parsley and onion juice, horseradish, chutney, chopped ginger or other highly flavored ingredients.

Bran breads make unusually good sandwiches. Bran has the property of absorbing and holding moisture. The bread itself will keep nicely for several days. Even very thin bran bread sandwiches do not dry out quickly. Bran is healthful, too. It adds bulk which most of us need in our diets. Many of the bran breads are rich in flavor and you can make bran bread sandwiches with very simple spreads or just butter.

Banana Bran Nut Bread

- 1-4 cup shortening
- 1-2 cup sugar
- 1 egg (well beaten)
- 1 1-2 cups mashed bananas
- 2 tbsps. water
- 1 cup bran
- 1 1-2 cups flour
- 2 tsps. baking powder
- 1-2 tsp. salt
- 1-2 tsp. soda
- 1-2 cup chopped nut meats
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract

Cream shortening and sugar well. Add egg, mashed bananas, water and bran. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and soda. Mix nuts with flour and add gradually to the first mixture. Stir in vanilla. Pour into greased loaf tin. Let stand 30 minutes and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) one hour. Let cool before cutting.

Yield: 1 loaf (8 1-2x4 1-2 inches).

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Guest of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me how to express my thanks to my host and hostess at a testimonial dinner.. my employer is giving the dinner, and I am an honored guest.

2. Can you please give me some advice as to proper table manners? I would like to do the proper thing at all times. S.

1. Say something like this to your hostess and host, "I can't begin to tell you how deeply appreciative I am of your wonderful hospitality, and of the honor that you have given me. It was a superb party, and, as hosts, you were masterpieces. Thank you, with all my heart, for your goodness to me."

2. What I wish that you would do is to make a list for me of problems that arise for you concerning tables manners. Say for the next month, notice every "wondering" that you have about anything that concerns table manners, and then send me this list. I shall be most happy to talk over with you your special problems.

Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the usual length of time for first mourning—that is, wearing all black for a parent?

2. What may one wear for second mourning besides black and white?

3. What may one do in the way of recreation during the period of mourning and how long is it considered proper to stay away from the movies, shows, dances, parties and so forth? T.

1. If one wishes to wear "deep mourning" it is usually worn from six months to one year. Deep mourning means that all clothes and accessories are of dull black, or dull white for wearing in the house or in the country in summer. Nowadays a touch of white.. organdy, georgette, or something of this kind.. is often worn, even with deep mourning and is considered suitable.

2. Soft shades of gray, besides black-and-white and often shades of lavendar, if this is becoming, are considered appropriate for the second mourning period, between the deepest mourning and colors.

3. If mourning is worn, there are certain social restrictions laid upon the wearer. Naturally, when one is wearing mouring one does not accept invitations to dinners, dances, theatre parties or afternoon parties. But, on the other hand it is foolish not to attend a luncheon or dinner with a friend or a few intimate friends, or to go to a matinee or to the movies. At this time especially, most people need diversion and therefore should lead a normal life, seeing their friends and keeping up with their usual interests. But this should be done with discretion and discrimination, and never so that anything that we do can be honestly criticised.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

.. .. DOES LOVE REFORM? .. ..

Must a girl require an absolutely stainless character in the man she marries?

If not, how far may he fall short of real integrity and still be a safe husband.

To follow this idea a little farther: If a girl knows that her sweetheart has done something that is unquestionably wrong, is she justified in forgiving him and trusting to his repentence? Or, must she break with him?

These are questions that come up very often in my correspondence; oftener still, I suspect, in life. They are questions about which I am inclined to be rather puritanical. One reason for this is the utter innocence of most of the girls who ask them.

Why should a girl in her teens imagine that she can induce a youth, who has already gone a bit astray, to reform for her sake?

This is possible, I admit, if the girl has a strong enough character. But it is most unlikely, and the risk is one no girl should take. The chances are that she will be forced to tolerate wrong-doing, even if she not herself become corrupted.

I am impelled to air my rather rigid views on this subject because of a letter from Maybelle R., who at seventeen, is engaged to a boy of twenty, and who is overwhelmingly in love with him.

"I have never been in love before," she writes me, "and I know that I never could be again. My love is so much bigger and stronger than I am that it is like being borne along by a hurricane. My life is passed in an ecstasy. And yet, I have a deep, secret trouble that I must confide to somebody. So why not to you?

"You see, my beloved made one serious mistake in business, which cost him a good job. I mean, he did something that he shouldn't. I am not supposed to know this. G., his brother, told me. He said he told me because he thinks my sweetheart isn't steady enough to marry anybody.

"Now, what shall I do? If I tell my parents they will prevent my marriage. If I talk to my fiance he will be angry and hurt. Besides I promised G. I would not betray him.

"I believe really that we love each other so much that after we are married he will go straight for my sake. He is so dear and sweet, but perhaps he is a little weak. I do not love him any less for that. I know that I could forgive anything he might do, but I want to be perfectly sure that I can reform him, instead. Tell me, Miss Fairfax, have I any cause for worry?"

In a case like this, Maybelle must certainly not marry her young man, at least not until after he has been put through a long probation. Her parents must be put in possession of the whole truth, and I must confess that they seem to me rather remiss in not having discovered it for themselves. A love-affair of this sort is a tragic thing, because there isn't any way out except through unhappiness.

It is too much to expect that a girl deeply in love can make the decision that will separate her from the youth who has inspired the love. That is why parents, I think, should be much more on the job than, in many cases, they seem to be.

Where are the parents of the girl who marry gangsters?

A boy who has gone just the least bit astray, who has cheated, perhaps, in some unimportant transaction, may emerge from his weakness and become an honorable man. But he ought to get thoroughly straightened out before he asks a girl to share his life with him.

CENTENARY W.M.S.

Centenary, May 15—The W.M.S. of Centenary church held its May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ray on Thursday with eighteen ladies present. Mrs. Roy Thrasher President, opened the meeting with hymn 151. Mrs. Reid led in prayer after which minutes were read by Mrs. Jas. Radford, and the Roll Call called, each one responding with a verse of Scripture containing the word courage. Mrs. Fred Aikens group leader No. 1 then took charge, the topic for the month being "Fellowship". After the call to worship, the hymn "Bless be the Tie That Binds" was sung, Mrs. Aikens giving a short talk on the writer of the hymn and his reasons for giving it to the world for uplifting of mankind. She also gave us Jack Miner's version of the 23rd Psalm after which the 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison. Mrs. Garrison gave a Temperance reading entitled "Is it Nothing to You O Christians." Miss Phyllis May sang very sweetly "Looking on You."

Mrs. Reid then gave a splendid address filled with many good thoughts both spiritual and educational. Her subject was along the line of Fellowship, saying with God there is no color line, all men are alike in God's sight, man's heart counts and not his nationality.

Mrs. Holton gave a reading "God Has no Hands but our Hands". Mrs. Aikens read a poem "Beginning at Home" and Mrs. R. Hart gave a reading for Mother's Day, entitled "My Mother's Day". Hymn 83 was sung and Rev. Mr. Plant closed with prayer. The key word for next meeting is "Faith."

The Women's Association of Centenary held their May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ray. Mrs. E. Adams, President, opened the meeting with hymn 354. Mrs. Adams offered prayer and the minutes were read and approved. Mrs. P. Glover read the Scripture lesson, John 17, 20 to 26 verses. Much business was discussed and it was decided to have a garden party in June, A sumptuos dinner was served at noon by the hostess and ladies. Eighteen members were present. Rev. Mr. Plant closed with prayer.

The Habit of Persistent Thought

Teach Your Child to Concentrate; Don't Interrupt His Tasks

By Lisa Grenelle

Men who attain a position over others—who climb readily to the top of the heap—often are not remarkable for their brilliancy, executive ability, vision, or any other specific talent that seems to explain their success. Neither does luck, pull or personality account for their standing.

None of these things has anything to do with the cases I have in mind. But these successful men get things done. Negative personalities, to all appearance, they still accomplish what their more gifted brothers fail to accomplish— because they know how to keep their minds on the matters at hand. They are never trapped into detours.

This plodding persistency in all probability is not a consciously cultivated characteristic, acquired through hours of patient practice in maturity, but far more likely is due to a habit of concentration formed in childhood. Their parents encouraged them, or at least allowed them, to finish their childish tasks. As children they were seldom interrupted.

Important to Him

Many a more attractive personality—eager, energetic and possessing more initiative, inventiveness and vision—has failed because from childhood days he had grown so expectant of interruption that, when there was none from external sources, he created one. For when his thought and creative processes first began to express themselves, they were continually broken in upon by the apparently necessary interruptions of parents or other members of the household..

For what a child is doing too often seems unimportant, to an adult, unless it be the lessons. But it is important to the child. Jimmie is putting forth all his inventive powers in constructing a boat, or Janie has applied her closest attention to the doll's dress she is making. Both are absorbed in their tasks, oblivious to everything else; and in the accomplishment of these simple, unimportant tasks, both are engaged, unconsciously, in the very important process of growth, learning to control and centre their mental powers.

"Stick-to-it" Habit

A child when really interested is entirely absorbed, entirely concentrated. An interruption is a real shock. Interruptions merely irritating to adults are really upsetting to children. For them it is discouraging to go back to a half-finished creation when the inspiration and mood are gone. An adult may force himself to such distasteful completions; a child loses interest entirely. When you break into Jimmie's absorbing story about lions with a "did you remember to brush you teeth?" it really hurts him. It freezes his thought processes.

Interruptions are not only annoying; they are demoralizing. Having come to expect and fear interruption one is less liable to concentrate so completely the next time.

A child accustomed to being interrupted does not concentrate; does not get things done; does not get the habit of accomplishment. Instead he forms the routine of jumping from one thing to another until, when his parents are not there to interrupt him he interrupts himself.

Fashion Flashes

A vegetable plate is the best name for a charming leghorn hat of the floppy garden type. It has a wreath made of tiny velvet and silk tomatoes, radishes and apples, with delicate green leaves and narrow red and green velvet ribbons.

In the net of fashion is the evening frock of net. A nice model is a tailored brown net evening frock with a plain cardigan jacket to match. The dress has cape sleeves and a pink taffeta bow.

Indispensable is the black lace evening frock, especially for the woman who goes about a great deal. A new frock is of black Chantilly lace bordered with black satin, and with long tight sleeves that continue till they cover the first knuckles of the hand.

Make a splash with a splashy printed taffeta frock. A lovely dinner frock is of black and white taffeta in a big splashy floral design. It is worn with a loose black taffeta jacket lined with the printed fabric and showing wide tuxedo revers of the same.

A large edition of a tiny bow-knot design is a feature of a new afternoon frock. It is of navy crepe with a thin. white line bow-knot design. At the neck is a large, real bow-knot, similar to the print, but in cream taffeta.

Fashion hustles into the mode in taffeta. A charming dance frock is in light navy blue taffeta. It is very fitted to the figure and has two enormous ruches of the cart-wheel type at each soulder.

PRESENT FORMATION OF MISSION REQUESTED

A special Official Board meeting of The Dundas Street United Church Mission comprising Dundas Street, Centre Street, and Rossmore churches met last Wednesday evening, May the 9th., and passed unanimously the following resolutions:

First, We strongly urge the Conference to retain this Mission in its present formation, believing it to be in the best interest in encompassing and caring for the Home Mission Work of The United Church, in the city of Belleville and suburbs.

Second, We commend most highly the work of our pastor—the Rev. J. S. McMullen and hereby extend to him a hearty unanimous invitation to remain our pastor for another year.

FRUIT-A-TIVES STOP SICK HEADACHES SAYS WOMAN IN SWORN STATEMENT

Mrs. Elizabeth Dadson, London, Ont.

IN order that all sufferers from bilious headaches may know what Fruit-a-tives can do Mrs. Dadson voluntarily has told of her experience ... in a sworn statement so that you can know it's true. She says:—

"I do Solemnly Declare that I had a bad case of biliousness and became so ill I had to go to a hospital. Nothing I tried would help until I started taking Fruit-a-tives. Now I have no more headaches or backaches and can do my housework without help from anyone."

Elizabeth Dadson

A sworn statement to the above effect was made before a Notary Public at London, November 7th, 1933. Original on file.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, May 15.—Deflationary fears were not so much in the fore of today's stock market and further rallying tendencies were shown by most of the recently depressed categories.

The appearance of some timid "bargain hunters" and sporadic short covering was encouraging to those who hoped that equities were within the neighborhood of the bottom of the past three weeks' decline. Bonds displayed signs of getting back some of their recent losses.

Canadian stocks were generally steady to fractionally improved. Dome and McIntyre ruled about even, while International Nickel and Canadian Pacific gained around a half point each. On the curb Lake Shore eased a bit, but Hiram Walker was slightly higher. Dominion government bonds were steady. The Canadian dollar was unchanged to 100.06¼ cents.

Shares up around two points included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Johns-Manville, Armour Preferred and Case. Others, with gains of fractions to a point or more, included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Continental Can, Du Pont, Chrysler and General Motors.

TORONTO MINES (CLOSE)

Toronto, May 15.—The mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange nosed up quietly this afternoon on a mild expansion of trading, leaders in the gold and base metal groups boarding gains ranging up to 75 cents. Senior golds had light turnover but in the secondary and cheap issues Greene Stabell, Maple Leaf and Wayside turned over in good volume. Maple Leaf sagged to 37 but recovered narrowly.

In the big gold group advances came out for Dome, Lake Shore, Pioneer and Hollinger after the New York market developed definitely rising tendencies. Bralorne, McIntyre, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves closed unchanged.

Hudson Bay, Noranda, Falconbridge and Sherritt Gordon moved up with the golds, Noranda registering a gain of 75 cents at $39.50.

TORONTO STOCKS
(Close)

Toronto, May 15 (CP)—Industrial shares closed today with definitely firm tone ruling the Toronto Stocks Exchange interlisted issues, including Nickel, Ford A, C.P.R. and the distillery and oil shares particularly reflecting the more cheerful feeling predominating in the New York board. Volume picked up in the afternoon. Outstanding strong spots were Imperial Oil, Walker's common, C.P.R., Nickel and Canada Cement pfd.

Healthy fractions on the top side testified to the thin supply of stocks, mild expansion of the buying demand serving to put Ford A. up a half point, Nickel 75 cents, Consolidated Smelters 3, C.P.R. ⅜, International Pete ⅜ and Imperial Oil ⅜. All the distillery stocks finished higher, Walker's common gaining ⅞ to 33⅛, Industrial Alcohol ⅛ to 11⅛, Distillers Seagrams ⅛ to 15⅛ and Brewers and Distillers 5 to 1.65.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, May 15—(AP)—Stocks rallied in dull trading today. General advances of fractions to a point or so were maintained in the late dealings. Building shares and rails were rather firm.

Consolidated gas and American Telephone were fractions higher while Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, U. S. Steel and Case advanced a point or more each. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Washington—Following a lengthy conference between members of the Senate Silver bloc Senator King said the group was in substantial agreement on language of proposed silver legislation.

A subcommittee of the group consisting of Senators Borah, Thomas, King and Wheeler will meet again this afternoon to straighten out numerous proposals submitted at the morning session by the individual silver advocates.

Grain

Chicago—There is no moisture at any place in the American northwest. Commission houses picking up wheat looks like a little forced buying.

Winnipeg—Trade light and mostly local, no pressure, no export.

Kansas City—Southwest received sufficient moisture for present needs. Some points as much as three inches. All clear and cool today. Tulsa Okla. raining again.

Beauharnois Power

The Beauharnois power enterprise has been controlled and operated by the Montreal Lite Heat & Power Cons. for year. During this period much headway has been made besides a considerable advance has been recorded in the securities outstanding. In the bull markets to come it is generally believed by far sighted investors that Beauharnois common will give a splendid account of itself. There are only 762,000 common shares outstanding the bulk of which are owned by Montreal Power and the balance are widely owned. Therefore the stock is in a strong technical position.

From an operating standpoint financial service understands that everything is going along on schedule.

Montreal Power

In discussion of possibilities of Montreal Power a well known financier remarked to financial service that in his opinion the present day price of power "does not take into account the plum which the company has now in Beauharnois. There would appear to be good grounds for considering such a statement as sound and one that should be remembered.

INTERLOCKING IS DISCUSSED

Premier Bennett Gives His Views on Bank Directorates

Ottawa, May 15 (CP)—Interlocking directorates again furnished the Banking Committee of the House of Commons with food for discussion today. The matter was brought up by J. L. Bowman (Cons. Dauphin) who suggested that an amendment might be moved whereby the number of directorates to be held by a bank director would be limited. The discussion was ruled out of order as that section of the Act dealing with directorates had already been disposed of.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett informed the committee that he had given a great deal of consideration to the question of interlocking directorates. He was aware that there were features which were unsatisfactory in connection with a system under which the directors of other business organizations became also directors of banks. On the other hand he could think of no solution at the present time which would not do an injury to Canadian business on the one hand and the banks on the other.

Unless bank directors were to be limited to men without business experience only in their own field, it was difficult to see how interlocking directorates could be avoided. However, he thought that efforts should be continued to find a solution for the difficulty.

W. D. Euler (Lib. North Waterloo) disagreed with Major C. G. Power's suggestion that directors of a bank be drawn from its managerial staff. The theory was sound that shareholders, the real owners of the bank, elected their own directors.

TORONTO HORSE SLIGHTLY BALKY

A man is needed in Belleville who has a comprehensive knowledge of horse language. He could have explained to a horse that balked at the corner of Albert Street and Queen Street today that duty comes before even the contemplation of beauty. The horse which was brought down from Toronto recently by a local bakery apparently was filled with admiration of local scenery, and refused to continue his routine duties of delivering bread. He did not appear to understand English in any of its forms, and even harsher methods failed to prevail. Finally the wagon was unloaded and its load delivered by other means.

The interior of the Stirling Hydro Electric office has been brightened up during the past week by the application of a coat of paint.

It is with keen regret that it has been learned that Mr. H. R. Dishrowe, B.Sc., who has taught the Agricultural classes at the High School for the past two years has accepted a position as head of the Department of Agriculture for Simcoe High and Vocational School, and will take up his duties after the Easter holidays of the fall term. At a meeting of the Board of Education held on Monday evening, the Teachers' Committee was instructed to take steps to procure a suitable successor to Mr. Dishrowe. The Board deeply regrets the prospect of losing him as he was received by the Board and the community as a most successful teacher of agriculture. Prior to the inauguration of the Agricultural Course in the local High School it was felt by many to be detrimental to replace the former Science course by the latter course. The reverse, however, has proved to be true.

Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. Charles Vance were Peterborough visitors on Wednesday. They were accompanied on the return trip by their mother, Mrs. Cain Bateman, who is visiting in Stirling for the summer months after passing the winter in Toronto and Peterborough.

CRUSOE ISLE IS IMPROVED

Canadians Are More And More Visiting Locale

It is not generally known that Defoe, the author of that imaginative work "Robinson Crusoe" contributed many original and ingenious essays on social matters. The locale, of "Robinaea Crusoe" is Tobago Island in the British West Indies, which is now visited by an increasing number of Canadians who travel to these sunny holiday isles of southern waters in the modern "Lady" liners of the Canadian National Steamships. In a work which he published in 1697 entitled "Essay on Projects" he gave expression to ideas often far in advance of his own times. He wrote with much sagacity on the science of banking. In this work would appear to be the germ, not only of modern branch banking but of the corporation stock so much favored today. In another essay on Parliaments he argued by more than two hundred years the appointment of a Parliamentary minister. He turned to the Roman system of highways and suggested their dimensions, drainage, paving and materials. He also wrote other essays on the higher education of women, on assurance, on the law of bankruptcy and on a national pension scheme. In many directions he was a genuine pioneer in sociological and economic directions, and while the world has been deeply realizing many of the projects he suggested, it is practically unaware of their literary origin. He also open his own newspaper called "The Review" which ran from 1704 to 1713 and wrote some augmentations histories so vivid that one is inclined to doubt that they were the works of imagination and not reality.

CHILD FOUND

No ransom was paid. Fifteen thousand dollars had been demanded when the child was kidnapped April 28.

The letter that saved the girl's life—she could not have survived much longer in her desert dungeon—was received yesterday at the office of Governor Moeur in Phoenix. It gave specific instructions for finding the girl "buried under a cactus" near Tucson. The use of the word "buried" sent a chill down the backs of the hunters, for they feared it meant she was dead.

Driving out to a point indicated on Rincon Hill, a desert road, Houston and Hobles began beating about the bushed and thorny cacti.

Houston was separated from Hobles when he stumbled onto the prison.

Rescued from Grave

The child was literally rescued from the grave. Her prison was a bonlike hole dug in the desert nine miles from the nearest home. It had virtually the same dimensions as a grave, except for depth, being only about five feet deep and two and a half feet wide.

Over the grave—it might indeed have been a grave had the rescue been much longer delayed—was a roof of sticks, and this, crude though it put together. There were several holes in the roof, and they burned down to make the pit, despite the covering of earth, a sweltering inferno by day, and horrifying tomb by night.

Only the child and her she was ill and too weak to walk. She appeared dazed by the horror of her experiences had written themselves upon her. The days and the quiet and medical care will it be determined how much these experiences may have affected her.

Meanwhile, the search for the kidnappers was without pressure and without haste. The prison itself could have been found by any one of a person insensible to human suffering. Without the latter, searching would not allow her to stand erect and she could only sit. There was room only to turn over, but this was difficult, for it was impossible because of the chains that held her ankles to a ring in the floor fastened to an iron stake.

Besides the hundreds of crime above more callous treatment of a kidnap victim than that accorded June Robin. The child was supplied with enough food to keep the child alive and in health, but not enough to strength.

Until the girl died, her body could have gone undiscovered for months. The prison, a hole in the earth, a cottage cover of cacti could easily have served as an unnoticeable tomb.

Not Frightened

She was in no wise frightened or terrified by her experiences, and Mr. Houston made an opening in the roof large enough to lift the child out of the hole and looked down upon the kidnapers. They had made a comfortable ram for nearly three weeks. They were calmly sucking an orange. "Do you know who I am?" Houston called down softly.

The kidnapers leisureliness she glanced up and looked the attorney squarely in the face.

"No," she said, and turned her head away. "Are you the man that you know 'Lech'?" Houston asked, and the kidnaper's face brightened as her Uncle Carlos who came hurrying.

"Oh, yes," she cried happily, pressing her then to get free of the cruel chains.

The covering over the hole was then removed, and Houston was to get through it immediately. He found that the hole was a piece of tin near the hole. The letter with directions from Chicago he described this spot where the key would be found.

He tossed the key down to June, who unlocked the padlock which gripped the chains tightly about her ankles. She stood up shaking the chains falling away and held up her arm to be lifted out.

The child's first thoughts when lifted from the hole was for her mother. For the 19 awful days and nights her mother's thoughts had been for her.

"I want my mama!" June cried, and there was no restraining her giving way to emotion during the ride home.

When reassured that she would soon be with her mother she became expressed anxiety over one thing—her mother's new report card. She had it with her, and pointed proudly to the marks she had been given at school.

Came Often to Cave

Her captors, the girl said, were two men called "Bill" and "Will" were the names they used in addressing each other, she said. They came to her desert prison occasionally, bringing water and food. With a child's aptness for detail, she mentioned that one of the men wore gloves.

Mrs. Helen Robles, the mother who had been almost distracted with fear and worry during the days of uncertainty as to the child's fate, wept unrestrainedly and nearly collapsed when she was reunited to her arm. She showered June with kisses and begged to be not hungrily.

The child safely home, the efforts of the law—which had been held in leash during part of the time she was missing so that the Robles family could negotiate with the abductors—were focused on the capture of the kidnappers.

Chicago police and federal agents who mailed the letter which contained the information leading to the rescue of the child.

THURLOW CONSERVATIVES

Introduced by Mr. Bruce Martin, President of the Thurlow Young Canada Conservative Association and chairman of the evening. Mr. Thurman warned his audience, that his address would necessarily be brief. He reminded them that from this point on, action would speak louder than words. Their choice in their polls yesterday was a splendid one, narrowed down to a selection between Mr. Hill and the Liberal candidate, Mr. Doherty.

Facing an Issue

"Make no mistake about it, the Conservative party is facing an issue in this coming election. It is an issue between sane and sensible government, and that kind of government, that will be administered if the leader of the Opposition does manage to get enough majority to get in."

Mackenzie is where she is today because we have had that sound and progressive government for the past twenty-five years. We live in the banner province of the country. We are proud to live here. We pride ourselves on our ability to keep just one step ahead of our neighbors. At this coming election we will keep in that position. The whole party is facing. Your choice will be narrowed down to a choice between two men, the leader of the Opposition on one hand, and your own friend and well known candidate on the other."

The prosperity of the country are not the only ones, whose choice at this coming election is limited, warned Mr. Thurman. Life long Liberals, he declared, have found themselves unable to decide just how to cast their vote.

"I don't think the right thinking Liberals are satisfied at the present time with their leader. I doubt if they have ever been placed in the position they are today placed with the choice of voting for a man who has made and is making such a mess of the affairs of Canada as Mitchell F. Hepburn. I doubt also if there was ever a time when it was the responsible position he is in, when he was more afraid to face the stump statements; statements that he has made, without any foundation whatsoever."

The toll gate charges were referred to by the speaker as some of the more irresponsible statements of Mitchell Hepburn. "Everything he had made have all been denied; they have been found without foundation of fact. The very figures he has attempted to put forward in the half hearted effort to prove them have been found ridiculous on the face of it. Take for instance the shirt ground. Denials and counter denials have been issued.

"Why doesn't he come out and make his charges flat footed and stick to them and back them up?" questioned the speaker. "He has no facts, and little if any courage."

Likened to Man in Mad Hole

Likened to Man in Mad Hole Mr. Thurman in a man down in a mad hole, throwing mud at it indiscriminately "hoping some of it would stick when he has thrown it. A further parallel drawn by the speaker was that of something alive in a hot griddle, and attempting to dance away from the heat — "jumping all over."

"Hepburn won't come out and answer the issues he brings up. He would have taken a seat in the Legislature when it was offered if he had the courage to do so. Hepburn but instead of that, he wants to stay in the background."

There is no cause for alarm over any appointees to the Liquor Control Act, Mr. Tummon promised. Under the present government system the question has always had due and ample consideration, and wise control. Temperance really commenced back in the time of James by Whitney when the provincial was really "wet".

It was then, that the temperance cause really began to move, when the Conservatives came into power and now, in Ontario, every bit of progress, that has been made on the matter has come from the Conservative government, 'I, for one, will stick to that party, thus be sanely and wisely governed.' Leave it to your government to handle this matter as it has already handled it in the past, and the solution will be found. True, there is still the matter as much care and thought as they have displayed in putting on the statutes every bit of advanced legislation that has been enacted in this province for the past twenty-five years," he urged.

A plea for support of the various polling subdivision to make sure that their vote is duly cast before the final election day concluded, Mr. Tummon's address.

Opposition Organized

James F. Hill, M.P.P. for East Hastings, warned his audience that the Opposition at the present time were organized more thoroughly and completely than they had ever been before in the history of the party. On the part of the Conservatives could take advantage by so doing, he said.

"If they can't find something to find fault about in Provincial politics, they dig around until they find something to jump on in Dominion politics. Whether it be politics—or Township politics—it's all the same to them. They can't realize that what they find, as long as it's something they can make a fuss of under over."

"We're out to fight the election on the record of the Conservative party during the past administration," he said. "I have no fear that Opposition are deliberately digging up to stir up all angles. They know that they are bound to find some dissatisfied people in every administration, so they keep trying. But, we're not afraid of our record, and we're not afraid of criticism."

"Just now is the most critical time in any election," he said. "In the world wide depression. The Government under Premier Henry, has come through with flying colors. We are better off than any other province, and than the Dominion government. Quebec may have been the first province to have a Liberal government was also experienced during the past year. There was a good government, yet it didn't have a shred of the record that we in Ontario, such as Mothers' Allowance, Old Age Pension and other pillings. Even if Quebec came with a huge deficit this year, We're kept the money in the hands of the government is concerned. In as much as we have had the depression, yet they would like to lay a lot of blame on us just on general principles."

Mitchell F. Hepburn's toll gate charges were referred to by the speaker in a few sentences.

Mitchell F. Hepburn's toll gate charges were referred to by the speaker in a few sentences.

"Hepburn's toll gates were paid in fees and commissions, according to the Ontario Opposition. Yet only $600,000.00 worth of whiskey was bought. Of it the government sold to only $400,000.00 worth of whiskey, it doesn't look so good for Hepburn."

Afraid of "Red" Element

Warning his audience, that if Premier Henry should lose out, the Red element would immediately establish pain control of Canadian politics, Mr. Tummon drew attention to the seriousness of the situation. He asked them to consider Russia, despoiled of her churches, and without religion, which was banned by law. "We have millions of dollars worth of churches here, but they're not going to be taken away. They might just possibly happen with the Opposition if the government were entering to the factions, which represent outside interests. The Conservative candidates were good promisers, stated Mr. Hill. "Just now things with a Conservative government. They would have Hastings County under the control of Hepburn in the Bay of Quinte. They have already promised to do away with the gas tax. The depression has saddled them in all this. People listen to the wild stories, that are circulated, and many of them have almost decided to vote for them on the strength of it. These are the people who must be shown the sane light of reason. They must be shown by many dinners, that a set of pressure among the Opposition. A survey of the whole situation at present time will show that. For, if ever there was a House divided, it is the camp of the Liberal party at the present time. Even staunch Liberals at the present time are showing no inclination to follow such a man as the leader of the Opposition. They are the ones, who will stop and think for themselves before they cast their vote. They believe in their country; they choose to depend upon a sane and progressive policy rather than the wild experiment promised by Mitchell Hepburn who seeks to gain control—"

Opening the meeting, Mr. Bruce Martin, chairman, called attention to the fact, that nominations were not election campaign meetings but rather a means of expression for all and to which visitors of any political faith were entirely welcome. He referred to a recent meeting of the Liberal Organization at the Prince of Wales School at which the remark was passed that "Thurlow was a Tory stamping ground, and Carrollton was a Tory Stronghold", "it may be," he pointed out "that the stamp will be put in the right place, soon."

The report was also, that the Liberals and Conservatives in the section were going to be together for the Liberal cause.

Introducing the next speaker, Mr. Martin, was as welcome to attend the monthly gathering of the Young Conservatives in the Township. "Our meetings are always open to all. We do not ask if you are Liberal or Conservative, either, by politics. But there, you are."

Frank McKeown Speaks

Introduced as one who had been known men in the local Conservative party, Frank McKeown, President of the Belleville Conservative Association when called upon to make a short address, declared he had been coming to the Canniffon for a good many years and he had always been received with a hearty welcome. He was pleased the same smile after the election is all over and the Conservative party is once more in power. It is by careful, progressive and sane gov.

Mr. McKeown concluded his address with a brief outline and report of the recent Convention held at Toronto. He enlarged upon the Provincial political situation, that was displayed by all members of the party present. Mr. McKeown was unaware enough that the Conservative party would be returned The Conservative party built this country, so why not keep it so?" he asked, he asked.

Lewis Wesley Gray, Thurlow, promised that not one vote would be lost by the Conservatives. "If Mr. Hill could be as sure of going back as we are sure of getting him better get ready to go right now."

Mr. Gray, Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior Thurlow Conservative Association, and Clerk of the Township of Thurlow township were solidly behind the Conservatives, declared that some work was needed in stating that the Liberals had a chance, he assured. He exhorted all present to work as though the election was due to come on to assure victory.

Mr. George W. Wallbridge, Belleville was the next speaker. Mr. Hastings the most solid of the three in which he had spoken that day, he said, before the election. Canniffon poll was the most solid Conservative poll in the city. Kirk and Kerrigan helped him make the polls.

Asked if anyone else was involved in the plot, Kirk said: "That is all."

He said he knew nothing about the two women, Mrs. Bridgeman and Joan Burke, now in custody.

Williams, in his statement, said he and Kirk were the two men who kidnapped Gettle.

Letters found the retired broker last night, bound to a cot in the cabin of a cruiser with a court plaster mask, in a little house in the foothills town of La Crescenta, only a few miles from here.

Five Arrested

They arrested five persons in connection with the kidnapping, which occurred five days ago.

Gettle, haggard but smiling, said

spectors named Jimmy Kirk, as the alleged "brains" of the plot; Harry Kerrigan, as the man who guarded Gettle, and Roy Williams, as the one who aided Kirk in aiding the millionaire at his summer home last week.

Under questioning by Capt. Morris G. Stensland of the Sheriff's office, Williams was quoted as saying he was to have received $18,000 for the kidnaping of Gettle's guest, and that Kirk had ordered Gettle to write the letters regarding arrangements for delivery of the $60,000 ransom.

Kirk, in his statement named the officers, and the plot to kidnap Gettle was his idea, Williams said. Kirk and Kerrigan helped him make the plans.

Asked if anyone else was involved in the plot, Kirk said: "That is all."

He said he knew nothing about the two women, Mrs. Bridgeman and Joan Burke, now in custody.

Gettle, haggard but smiling, said today that "it all seemed like a bad dream."

The greatest worry while I lay bound hand and foot on that bed was for the anxiety my absence would cause my wife and family."

Thanks, God," exclaimed Mrs. Gettle, an invalid, when word of the rescue was given her.

Gettle's rescue came unexpectedly following an unsuccessful attempt yesterday yesterday of $60,000 ransom in exchange for his safe return to his wife and two children.

The alleged kidnappers, even before the crime had been perpetrated, made the mistake which led to last night's arrests and the rescue of Gettle.

Five weeks ago they attracted attention to a home robbery detail by their activities in an apartment house a short distance from the home of bank robbers. They placed records of their visit to the apartment rented by the suspects. But results of backing, Williams later readily to give up last Saturday when one of the grooms, was in police office, scratched out this conversation:

"There's no need to be scared any longer. Things are in pretty good shape. The newspapers are favorable. I'm going to call on can tap a pay telephone line."

It wasn't quite enough.

While police, sheriff's deputies and district attorney investigators hunted somberly over the ransom payment, Kirk, Kerrigan, Harry Burke and Lieut. H. F. Gearhard biked their way to the Gettle home.

More On House.

At the proper moment, when hopes waned at the Gettle Mansion, the law struck. Jimmy Kirk and two women Loretta Woody and Mary Burke, were arrested. From Kirk and Williams, the admission of the kidnap house where Gettle was held.

Investigators searched the house, situated on the edge of one of the arroyo dens which, a few Year's Day flood waters swept many persons to their deaths.

Roy Williams was taken into custody. Leery Kerrigan fled only to be apprehended later. In a darkened room, bound hand and foot, gagged and in a weakened condition, Gettle.

"They fed me all right, but kept me trussed up," he said. "Sometimes I was gagged me and removed the gag only when they fed me.

"I had no idea where I was. I was kept blindfolded when no close to home.

"When they kidnapped me they blindfolded me and drove for several hours. I was under the impression they had taken me out somewhere where near Hiwardia (some sixty miles from Los Angeles)."

Gettle said he was injured when the abductors pushed him over the cliff even and he fell into a bit Arcadia estate and he leaned heavily on others' arms as he walked from the car into the house.

For a short second he put an arm around her slender shoulders, pressing her close. She felt his lips against her hair, and started at that. We—we mustn't," she stammered. "Every night," he whispered. "It's dark and they do anyway sometimes—down here—" he insisted.

He kept her hand in his, kissing it when he found that he could. He was secretly afraid that he might get really mad at her and, striking wide his arms and smash things, he could cry out that she was her—kiss her!

"You haven't said you love me," she whispered shyly.

He didn't—not yet. He pressed her hand against his lips instead and answered it by them, breathing it out without having time to use words, he said. "Did I hurt you, my dear—"

Pabilio wondered what would happen if he should dare to be a bit fierce. He didn't see how he could go on being civilized. Estelle's Pablo when always. "Always!" She added her in a roughened undertone.

"Oh, Pabilio, you must know that with me it's for always!" she assured him. Her fish her rested pressed against his shoulder. He sat, blind and trembling. "Pablo, I heard you say that!" Pablo, you're so—wonderful!"

Some more he thought, she could relax him from his knees and let his head touch her lap with his. All the hungers he had ever known gushed before this hunger.

She thought. We can meet in the ground, perhaps, with Carlito watching to see that no one comes near."

"Pabilio, I want to see you alone," she whispered.

Their parting that day was the sweetest heartache either of them had ever known. Estelle rode homeward with closed eyes, and seeing him, adoring him.

CHAPTER XXX

J. Gentham Billings was in Havana. It was the first week of March and so hot that Cuban senoras and their daughters were beginning to long for the time when they could don the light raiment that the made tourists wore throughout the winter.

Billings was going to pay another visit to the woman who, before her marriage, had been Concepcion Villaverde y Blanco. He knew that unless you travelled the same route many times you could not be sure that every stone had been turned over. Then he was going to Key West again to hunt up the filthy old crone called Angela. And this time he would see to it that she did not escape him. He felt a curious and comfortable sense of having at last set out on the right course.

He whistled as he dressed on Saturday March morning and for odd moments he studied the pattern of colors on the tiled floor. The pattern was made by sunlight sifting through the colored glass of half an inward-opening window.

As a child, visiting his aunt, Billings remembered gazing into a remarkable kaleidoscope. He had loved to watch the changing patterns which a twist or a shake of the object produced. The colors on the tiled floor made him think of that kaleidoscope.

He adjusted his tie carefully, studied his face in the mirror and then assumed the expression which he thought a bad boy's mother would have. Stern expression made more impressive because his head was thrown back and his chin held high. Billings liked to look like a man who was not to be trifled with.

He studied himself for some minutes, hands in his pockets and then out. His forehead, assumed an expression less severe, nodded and then smiled. There are few of us who do not occasionally indulge in such manifestations of human frailty.

Then he went down stairs to his breakfast, stopping on the way to buy a newspaper that was printed in English.

Reading while he waited for the food, he saw on the last page of the newspaper that there was to be a prize fight at the end of the week between the Juanito of whom he had often heard and one Al Gates, hailing from London. Billings decided he would take in the match, then turned to another page.

The fight was to be a La Marackree, a club run by millionaires. It would probably be a rather restricted affair but Billings was sure he could gain admittance.

An American strolled into the dining room, regarded his nationality by his shoes and clothing and that kind that cannot be forgotten even in leisure. He saw Billings and passed a beside his table.

"American?" the newcomer questioned, with an eye on Billings' tightly encased shoulders and Orastall-tailored clothes.

"Yes. Fine morning."

"Too hot for golf. I'm going to be a scorcher again, if I know anything about it."

"Likely. Sit down, won't you?"

"Thanks. My wife takes breakfast in bed and I don't like eating alone. Been reading the paper. At home she gets up but she says she can't vacation here. I guess she deserves it. You know how hard it is to get help. We haven't had a cook for more than 10 days in the last 10 years!"

"Bad," he. Billings agreed solemnly. "It's the same with me and my wife."

The stranger ordered ham, eggs, a pot of "decent coffee if you have any," and hot rolls. Then he sat back in his chair. "What's the news?" he questioned. His eye on Billings' newspaper, now folded between the cleaned cards.

"Nothing much," Billings started at second remarks and the laugh he always made her feel lively and young and misplaced. Pablito was the only one who did not laugh at her. He understood and often said the same sort of things himself.

Thinking of him for a moment Estelle could not help but wish that Pablito were to be married as soon as she was—two long years ahead. She knew they could not hope for the Pablo's consent to the marriage until that if they married without his consent. Pablito would give him nothing them out and finding them in a close friend of yours. His sister Estelle! Estelle was the wisdom of waiting the two years and who had insisted upon it. Then there was when she wondered as her own strength in marching at her brother never to use that cause to it.

At the edge of Morro Castle Billings stepped from the car he had hired for the morning. "Quite," he groaned loudly. Then he climbed the hill sitting and, on the way up acquired a guide.

A scarcely sitting, hard-boiled woman and a slender girl basked by, walking briskly and sadly.

"The young one is the daughter of Mr. James Field," said the guide, nodding toward the girl.

"Is that so?"

"Yes. She is the beloved of Juanito, the fighter. They meet in the ring."

Suddenly Billings was interested.

"Ah, yes. But Havana settles upon the affair. Her father, Field, is very rich. He will be an angel and Juanito a good, good young man."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was trying to make his new cigar lighter work and me was quietly reading things under and strain things crowded, saying, Wilyum, the cellar is full of coal, Wilyum, the cellar is full of coal, Wilyum, the cellar is full of coal, repetion of a long extinct volcano. Wilyum, the cellar is full of coal. Mom heard, it we do a little exercising every month a long buried city named Pompey, or Portsville, or something, Wilyum, the cellar is full of coal. Estelle it was who had said. The fact remains, the cellar is full of famous ashes and if I try to get Stevers to carry them out it's always 2 dollars a his day's work, and after all 2 dollars is 2 dollars, especially man-days, so I think I'll put mite like to hide a little present of our saving, Wilyum, and carry them out yourself.

By golies that's quite a thaut, pop said, and me said. Then why dont you translate it into action, pop said.

I will pop said, I'll make a gain I will pop said, I'll make a gain I will day, it's the chance of a lifetime to pay back all our social obligations and at the same time get rid of our ashes, I'll take Stevers.

Well, I must say I dont quite follow that line of abstruse reasoning, me said, and pop said, It's quite simple, I'll take Invitations for an old fashioned Labor Party, all the men to come dressed in overalls and the ladies to wear gingham dresses, and I'll have a half dozen couples will be engaged, and by the end of an hour's dancing the men will have carried the ashes out to the back street and the ladies will have swept up the dripping, and the whole thing will end in a jolly hot supper with sandwiches and chicken salad and that one, Mr. Stevers and part will be your contribution, how does the idear strike you pop, I dont like nothing but Hawes'—that's the secret! it stage it? he said.

The idear strikes me as crazy and well stage it in some future life if ever, me said. I hardly imagine I can get Mr. Seevers to do it for 2 dollars, and I'll tell you so said. And after all why should we be so anxious to get rid of our ashes, mumbled pop and he got back of the sporting page and blew smoke over.

Too Tall is Fate of Australians

Victoria, Australia, May 15 — So steady is the increase in the height and weight of the average Australian that Dr. Janet Greig of Victoria visualizes the time when it will be a serious inconvenience, according to information reaching an official of the Canadian National Steamships. Already in the government, referred to statistics of average taken out in two groups over an interval of ten years.

These showed that the Victorian child in 1922 was taller and heavier at every age than in 1912. Also from serious disease was one of the causes to which she attributed these symptoms of good health.

AT THE BELLE

Georgs Artiz in "The House of Rothschild"

"The House of Rothschild," one of the screen masterpieces of all time, which opens a four days' engagement at the Belle today, was considered so important by the producers that all production activities were held up during its filming. This is the first time in the Hollywood history that such a tribute has been paid to a picture by a major producing company.

The film which traces the rise of the famous European banking family from obscurity in Frankfort, Germany, to the position of world-wide national prominence it had gained at the end of the Napoleonic wars, presents Mr. Arliss in two roles—first as Mayer Armschel Rothschild, the father of the five brothers who made the family's name celebrated and later as Nathan Rothschild, the brother who founded the English branch of the family.

For those who demand a taste of sweet, young romance, there is the love between Julie, Nathan's beautiful daughter, played by Loretta Young, and Fitzroy, Wellington's dashing aide, portrayed by Robert Young. Others in the impressive cast, which includes more than seventy speaking parts are Boris Karloff, as the wicked Baron Ledrantz; C. Aubrey Smith, Helen Westley, Arthur Byron, Florence Arliss, Murray Kinnell, Reginald Owen, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery and Georges Renavent.

The final scenes of "The House of Rothschild," in which Nathan Rothschild, in the person of George Arliss, is publicly honored for his services to England were adjudged by the producers to be too magnificent to be properly depicted on black and white film. And, since a large cast was already invested in the richly decorative court costume of the period worn by the two hundred actors and actresses participating in the scene and the sets, designed by Richard Day and accurately reproducing the sumptuous coronation room of St. James Palace where the scene occurs, they decided to give the audience the full benefit of their splendor and called a Technicolor camera to photograph the scenes in the newly developed three color process which had never before been used on a set of this size.

"The Big Bad Wolf"

Probably the greater portion of the children, both young and old, inhabiting this world of ours, are familiar with the Big Bad Wolf's characteristics. In Walt Disney's new famous Silly Symphony "Three Little Pigs," Hollions clamored for his reappearance in another screen scrape from the pen of the master cartoonist. Their requests have been answered, for he not only is to be seen, but plays the leading role in Walt Disney's latest epic "The Big Bad Wolf," a new Silly Symphony in Technicolor, with Three Little Pigs, Little Red Riding Hood and her Grandmother, Belle Ness and Pepper Pot Revue complete the program.

AT THE CAPITOL

Barbara Stanwyck in "Gambling Lady"

When is a screen gambling sequence not laid at Monte Carlo? When it's at a "fashionable Park Avenue establishment."

Monte Carlo is probably still the favorite in the running. Most movie companies have Monte Carlo casinos in their scene lots. But the "fashionable Park Avenue establishment"—combining gambling, dining and what was once known as a speakeasy—is fast catching up as a contender.

Some pictures feature both. One of these is Barbara Stanwyck's newest feature for Warner Bros., "Gambling Lady," now at the Capitol Theatre till Wednesday. Miss Stanwyck, as the chance-loving heroine of this story, pursues Lady Luck half around the world. In the course of her travels, she watches the wheel spin both at Monte Carlo and in New York.

For the former spot, one of the studio stages, provided the background. Stanwyck, Paul Cavanagh and the other principles in Monte Carlo sequences stood at central tables in the "general rooms" of the casino. Two expert croupiers presided over the two roulette tables.

Some twenty-five extras and bit players, recruited from the "foreign type" lists of Hollywood, stood to right and left of Miss Stanwyck as hovered in the background. Through tall French windows could be seen a balcony and beyond it, in the distance, the waves of the Mediterranean lapping on the beach. Those waves, photographed on the spot, could break in as the wheel spin both at Monte Carlo and in New York.

For the former spot, one of the studio stages, provided the background. Stanwyck, Paul Cavanagh and the other principles in Monte Carlo sequences stood at central tables in the "general rooms" of the casino. Two expert croupiers presided over the two roulette tables.

Next came the "fashionable Park Avenue establishment". This required a large set. Roulette tables were needed, to be sure, but many other props were on the list as well. Among the furnishings of the "fashionable" spot were dice craps tables, draw poker tables, chuck-a-luck cages, Twenty-one tables—all of them supplied by a certain firm in Los Angeles which provides both equipment and dealers to Hollywood's gambling spots.

Several of these are running wide open at the present time on Archie Mayo, director of "Gambling Lady," as set crews came to secure from one of them the pane of the firm which supplies their materials—from chuck-a-luck dice to the operators of the cages thereon.

In the midst of all this, Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea and C. Aubrey Smith played their several scenes—before. Then the three big rooms were struck. The "fashionable Park Avenue establishment" was ready to close its doors after one session of life.

Monte Carlo or New York, the chaos are substituting about the atmosphere Lady Luck trails with her round the globe.

The picture is based on the thrilling drama by Doris Malloy and is the story of a gambling lady who is such a sport she is willing to sacrifice her love to save her husband from a murder charge. Others in the cast include Claire Dodd, Phillip Reed, Philip Faversham and Robert Barrat. Archie Mayo directed the picture from the screen play by Ralph Block and Miss Malloy.

A big two-reel comedy and two selected short subjects conclude this fine program.

CHURCH READY WITH ITS AID

Rev. Father Baker Speaks on Relationship of Church to Labor

"The Church is always ready to assist and help the working man in any manner it can; it is vitally interested in his problems and trials," a large gathering of the Trades and Labor Association were told on the occasion of their regular bi-monthly meeting by the Rev. Father Charles Baker of St. Michael's parish, at the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

As guest speaker of the evening, Father Baker, introduced by President George Elliott, outlined for his interested hearers the work that had been done by the churches during the past strenuous period of depression. It was then that the Church had given the greatest comfort to those who had found the way so hard. "If it had done one thing, depression had resulted in better attendance at the churches by those who sought and found comfort within its walls," he said.

President Elliott in a brief survey of present civic conditions outlined the need for a city manager and a committee which would be given the task of wise spending of civic appropriations. He advocated the need for permanent improvements which could be assessed and thus, by taxes, show some return for the money spent.

Intimation that a Ratepayers' Association for the city of Belleville would be revivified was also adopted to his hearers by President Elliott. "I have been told by original members of that organization that reorganization would soon be commenced and that they would be glad to attend our regular bi-monthly meetings. In this manner we could all work for the good of the city."

KIDNAPPERS GIVEN LIFE

"Snatchers" of W. Gettle Quickly Arraigned and Sentenced

Los Angeles, May 16.—Three kidnappers of the wealthy William Gettle will begin serving life sentences for that crime before nightfall today.

Hardly more than twenty-four hours after Gettle's delivery from his kidnap prison, and less than a week after he was snatched from a park at his Beverly Hills home, the three - kidnappers, Ray Williams, Jimmy Kirk and Harry Worthington, were rushed to court last night, pertheir guilty pleas were received and sentenced to life imprisonment.

A county grand jury indicted the trio on kidnapping for ransom and robbery charges at 7:30 p.m. after hearing Gettle's story.

At eight o'clock the men were taken before Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke for arraignment.

Fifteen minutes later they had pleaded guilty, Gettle had testified briefly and the three kidnappers had been sentenced to life terms in San Quentin prison.

Because Gettle testified the three did not implicate any accomplices in harm, they will be eligible for parole after seven years and one-half years.

Alternative Given

District Attorney Buron Fitts told the court the members of the band had alternative of pleading guilty or standing trial and facing the possibility of the death sentence.

In view of the circumstances that he suffered no bodily harm, court attaches pointed out the district attorney would have had no power to demand the death penalty. However, Fitts declared publicly that he desired result as the men pleaded guilty with no bargaining.

With the three men in the case ready for San Quentin, authorities were undecided what to do with two women, members of the band found with Gettle when found in company of Kirk.

The women, Mrs. Woody, 21, alias Ann Williams, and Mona A. Williams, 20, were held as held as being held for suspicion of kidnapping.

Roomer Pours Acid on Landlady, Drinks Poison after Order to Leave

Toronto, May 16.—(CP)— Miss Dorothea Kraft has been held on charges of manslaughter and arson following the death of Mrs. Thomas Kraft, her landlady in a hospital badly burned about the face by the same acid preparation which police charged was thrown on her by Miss Dryland.

Police declared Miss Dryland, who had been rooming at the Kraft home for the past two years, had an altercation with Mrs. Kraft which resulted in the landlady telling her roomer she would have to leave. This morning, they said, Miss Dryland entered Mrs. Kraft's bedroom and threw part of a bottle of the poison on her face. She then went to her own room and drank a quantity of the deadly fluid herself.

Mrs. Kraft, suffering terribly from the burns, managed to telephone police, who were forced to break in the door. Police took Miss Dryland, already unconscious, to the hospital, while another ambulance took Mrs. Kraft.

Foreign Matter Causes Loss of Considerable Trade in England

(By Staff Reporter)

Because foreign matter was found in a cheese that had been bought from Canada for a large chain of grocers, representing many stores, whose annual consumption ran into the thousands of pounds, further orders for cheese from this country were cancelled. Now Zealand, ever anxious to wrest trade from her nearest competitor, that she had 10,000 pounds of trade diverted to her from that one company alone over the incident. Shortly afterward another large company placed a large and lucrative contract for Canadian cheese with a similiar concern in foreign matter in a shipment. Future orders were cancelled.

Mr. W. A. Wilson, Animal Products Trade Commissioner for Canada, of London, at Kingston last evening in an exhaustive and comprehensive survey of conditions in the cheese industry today warned those connected with the industry that if they hoped to regain the place they once held in world markets it meant hard work on the part of everyone connected with it, from the cheesemaker and his helper, to the grader of each district, to guard against further repetition of the above incidents.

With a background of keenly interested listeners composed of cheesemakers, producer men and graders, representing nearly all sections of the central area, who had gathered at the Dairy school in Kingston, the speaker enlarged upon his topic which dealt only with the marketing methods and the peculiarities of overseas customers.

FINGERPRINTS ARE MISSING

Gun Found in Automobile With Dead Man's Body

Hamilton, Ont., May 16 (CP)—Police are investigating the death of Edward Martin, 30, whose body of warm body was found today in an automobile on Park Street south. He had been shot with a .45 calibre revolver and the gun was in the car near the body.

The body was found by James O'Neal, janitor in a nearby apartment building. He reported the youth sitting in the car apparently asleep and went over to waken him. As he reached the door of the automobile, he saw a deep bullet wound in Martin's temple. Police were summoned and medical aid secured but the youth was already dead.

The neighborhood consists mainly of offices and commercial buildings and few persons were in the district when the shot was fired. No person reported hearing the detonation.

Further inquiries by police tended to render the affair more complex instead of simplifying it. Martin had left his home in the evening saying he would be back in a few minutes to take his wife to see a doctor. He did not return. Early this morning the family received a telephone call that the tragedy had occurred.

Martin always carried a fairly large sum of money but no trace of any account was found in his possession.

Advertising Urged Upon Ottawa to Extend Great Industry

OTTAWA, May 16.—(CP)—The tourist industry in Canada, now averaging $400,000,000 annually can be increased to $500,000,000 yearly, T. R. Rodgers, general manager of Canada Steamship Company, told the Senate Tourist Committee today, with aggressive advertising this increase should develop within five years.

The committee is inquiring into the possibility of establishing a Central Agency under the direction of the Government to co-ordinate the work of existing tourist bureaus.

A second Government agency to advertise Canada in the United States and in Europe was recommended by Mr. Enderby. Such an agency should start functioning immediately, he said. The month of May was the proper month to commence a tourist advertising campaign, Mr. Enderby stated.

The British and European tourist traffic possibilities have been overlooked, declared Mr. Percy said, Canada was the least known of the Dominions in England, he told the committee. Australia, New Zealand and South Africa sent to England to compete and gain an immense amount of free publicity and publicity. The Trade Commissioners of these Dominions in England did this advertising to promote tourist business.

Clergy Withdraw $50,000 Invested in Arms Firm

London, May 16—(CP Cable) — In consequence of an outcry from clergymen all over the country, the clergy pensions board has decided to withdraw £50,000 invested in shares from the armament firm of Vickers Limited.

The complaints were sharpened by the report of the League of Nations' Commission that Paraguay and Bolivia could not continue their war in the face of protests of other nations, including members of the League, did not supply munitions. An official return yesterday showed Britain had exported 3,000,000 rifle cartridges to Paraguay and 100 machine guns to Bolivia.

Toronto Synod Opposes Women

Toronto, May 16 (CP)—Toronto Synod of the Church of England in Canada went on record today as opposing the entry of women into the Synod and into the Councils of the Church. In 1931, the General Synod of all Canada passed a resolution urging that women be given entry. The executive committee of Toronto today recommended that the Synod take no action on the matter and the executive committee's request was upheld.

"There can be no doubt, that the time will come when women will have a place on the Councils," said Bishop Derry. "But, at present, I think it extremely inadvisable to press the matter now."

MEN STAYING INSIDE CELLS

Warden of Penitentiary States Inspection is to Be Made

KINGSTON, Ont., May 16.—(CP) Indirect indication convicts caused the fire which destroyed the change room of Kingston Penitentiary was given today by Warden W. J. Megloughlin in discussing the situation at the big prison.

"Things are all right now," said Col. W. B. Megloughlin, warden, this afternoon. "Except that the men from the change room are staying in their cells. I expected to select a successor to General Booth-Higgins as commander of the Salvation Army, General Higgins' resignation, announced recently, is to take effect in November.

Forty-six delegates representing 13 different nationalities, including four women, will participate in the deliberations. Among them are commissioners Smaniotto of Japan and Muthesah of India., Three of the women delegates are members of the family of the late William Brammell Booth, founder of the Army.

"As soon as the inspector has made an investigation, those men who have been working in the change room will come out and clean up the debris they caused. All the other men in the various dormitories are locked in their cells, and until then nothing is being done in the change room.

"Everything is normal at the Penitentiary now, he said, and conditions were quiet today. Other provisions are being made by the authorities for the work of providing laundry, barber shop facilities and other needs of the men.

The warden admitted convicts had stolen a confidential report of Brig.-Gen. D. M. Ormond, inspector of Penitentiaries, some time ago but declared it had nothing to do with the present difficulties.

Kingston, May 16.—(CP)— While prison officials declined to discuss the situation, the "queer" prison guards at Kingston Penitentiary, when a fire last night destroyed the "change room," were called back to the prison today apparently to prevent possible disorders.

Party Uniforms Cause Laugh

London, May 16 (CP Cable) — With much laughter in the Commons division the House of Commons this afternoon declined to permit introduction of private bill to prohibit the wearing of political uniforms for political purposes.

The bill was aimed at Fascist and Communist bodies.

But obviously the prevailing opinion in the House was that the bill instead of damaging Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist blackshirts would be more likely to confer on them the publicity they crave for their credo.

The bill would not have prevented the wearing of party badges.

As Far as One Family Concerned United States Navy Won the War

Brooklyn, May 16 (CP)—Belief of a great many citizens of the United States, that the United States won the war, remains unshaken. Latest to rule on the question is Magistrate Casey, who settled a 16-year argument between Clifford Brooker and his wife, Lillian, by ruling the U. S. Navy won the war.

Brooker served in Company G, 106th Infantry, in the war, and his wife was a yeomanette attached to the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Their long quarrel reached a climax, when Brooker presented suspended sentence.

Brooker nodded, and the Judge continued:

"If your husband tells you that the Navy won the war, will you be satisfied?" Magistrate Casey asked Mrs. Brooker.

She said she would.

Whereupon the court ruled.

"The judicial determination, so far as the happiness of the Brookers is concerned, is that the Navy won the war. Is that right, Brooker?"

Brooker nodded, and the Judge continued:

Unrestricted Fellowship And Intercommunion Not Yet Possible

IDEAL IS SOUGHT

Differences Arise in Sphere of Order And Policy

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 16 —(CP Cable)—A report on the conversations during the last two years between the Church of Scotland, the Episcopal Church of Scotland, the Anglican Communion and the Presbyterian Church of England will be submitted to the Church of Scotland's General Assembly next week, showing unrestricted fellowship of Ministers of the four churches is not yet possible.

The conversations, concerned attainment of a larger measure of unity. The report of the Church of Scotland, which says its committee should be discharged, will state "The goal we kept in view in unrestricted intercommunion among our members and ministers, unrestricted fellowship of minister. It is only the first contribution toward fulfilment of this ideal that the present committee can hope to offer.

The main object preventing fuller realization is familiar to all. It effects many matters of detail. The differences arise in the sphere of order and policy and in relation to the character and functions of the ministry, and the sacraments. Obviously the questions are theoretical and doctrinal importance and they are all matters which require long and detailed discussion."

Lighthall, K.C., speaking to the motion the Archdeacon pointed out that the Synod was not asking for legislation who desired to be married within the Province would have to go to a Christian minister to perform the ceremony. He took two people who are not married.

"It does not apply only to Christian people," Archdeacon Allen said. "There are some while people who are no better people than the Chinese that I suggest."

Rev. G. R. Lunn spoke in opposition to the motion. "You are opening a door and you do not know where it will lead," he declared.

FIREMEN FIGHT FIRE WITH FIRE

Firemen of the local department fought fire and fire fighting apparatus to end a series of minor alarms, and the menace of several sweeping fires in the old marsh near Hoodless Mill that have kept them on the lookout during the past period of dry weather, members of the department responding to a blaze at that location on Tuesday afternoon, and again in the same section of the marsh to completely burn it out, when about no grass was left. Two other runs on Tuesday afternoon were also recorded. One was a store and chimney fire at 8.15 to an address at 346 Foster Avenue, at 10.05 in the evening a response was made to call at 53 North Front Street, where a large rubbish fire was sending forth sparks.

200 APPLY FOR FREE SEED

Approximately two hundred unemployed men of the east end of the city will burn gardener this summer, for approximately that number have applied at the office of the Garden Seed Branch for free seed, while previous applications had been made for the garden log distributed throughout the city. Work of sampling the seed, which includes a large quantity of seed potatoes was still being carried on in the relief office this week, while steady plowing of the garden plots alotted the men is also under way. Encouraged by the success of their efforts in growing garden produce for themselves last year, many new names on the ranks of the gardeners have been added.

FARMERS DRIVEN TO KILL CATTLE

How acute the stock situation and the scarcity of feed in this district has become at the present time was illustrated by the remark passed by a prominent cheesemaker of the Napanee district who visited this city yesterday. One of the best known farmers in his district died the day before, disheartened by his inability to keep cattle for his stock, and the condition of some of the animals, calmly slaughtered three cows, a heifer and a calf, and proceeded to lose himself in the woods. Hope is the only food for most animals, and the natural weakened animal, Hope is the last to go. Lighted in the quick growth of grass on grazing farms this spring, now shows considerable promise.

WARMER WEATHER AFTER SLIGHT FROST

While a keen wind whistled over the district late last evening, temperatures again fell to below freezing, however, with the warmth and pools of water with a thin coating of ice, the fear of frost with tender coated gardens and flower plots early in the morning is not of any considerable apprehension among flower growers. The mercury had climbed from the low-est point at 32 degrees the night to a high 56, with further promise of a higher rise later in the day.

Four Charges of Forgery Preferred Against Albert J. Argent

Albert J. Argent, 27, of this city, was sentenced to serve two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory, with an indeterminate period thereafter of two years less one day in the same institution, after pleading guilty to four charges of forgery before Magistrate Mikel in the local police court this morning. Argent has been previously convicted on similar charges and served time. He is the husband of a local Crown Attorney's clerical staff. His local position is all pleaded guilty to charges of stealing scrap iron from the property of the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne. Experiences After Collision Related by the Survivors

Four Out of Eleven of Crew Live to Tell Tale

New York, May 16.—(AP)— Only four members of the Nantucket lightship's crew of 11 lived to tell tale of the 30-second crash that sent the little sentinel craft to the bottom of the sea.

The mighty prow of the White Star liner Pittsburgh ripped through the steel lightship off the Massachusetts coast yesterday. The small vessel sank swiftly.

The liner put out lifeboats and rescued seven of the lightship's crew, but three of them died shortly afterward in the ship's hospital. The four missing men are given up for dead.

The four survivors, too ill to talk much about the disaster, were brought to a New York dock aboard the Olympic. They were suffering from shock.

The three who died after rescue: W. W. Perry, engineer, Reading, Mass.; J. Montelli, steward, Bedford, Mass.; and J. R. Richmond, cook.

The missing men: T. Pina, cook, E. R. Monteiro, seaman, Fosa Porles, seaman and E. G. George, seaman all of New Bedford.

The survivors: Capt. George W. Braithwaite, Cambridge, Mass.; C. E. Nelson, first officer, New Bedford; L. U. Roberts, oiler, Boston; and J. G. Thompson, assistant. Provincetown, Mass.

Unconscious Rescued

Captain Braithwaite suffered severe head injuries and was unconscious when rescued. A similar request after regaining consciousness was for a cigarette.

"This is my first since the war", he said as he lighted it.

He was not told that seven members of his crew had perished.

"It's tough luck," he said, "to had our life preservers on."

The crash occurred at 10:00 a.m. (E.S.T.) in the treacherous Nantucket shoals, one of the busiest, loneliest spots.

The Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic, was bound from Cherbourg and Southampton for New York.

Proceeding at full speed, the pride of the Olympic was blowing her fog horn frequently. Visibility was only a faint blast from another horn. It was that of the lightship, straight ahead.

The Olympic swerved her course, but it was too late. The two ships struck the Nantucket sandshlp.

Captain Braithwaite said the hours preceding the crash were anxious ones, for the crew. Several steamers passed so close during the night, that his men feared for their safety. All night long they had kept an anxious vigil.

"Two steamers certainly came close," he said aboard the Olympic. "Too close for us. We were all on deck and I ordered everybody to put on life preservers. I stayed on duty all night, but when the fog lightened after daylight I went below. Not to sleep, but to sit down a bit."

He was in his quarters, reading, when the Olympic approached.

"I read on deck," he related. "When I saw the Olympic she was porting her helm, but I knew it would be too late."

Olympic Struck Hard

She struck us hard. I remember struggling in the water, then nothing.

Capt. W. J. Hicks of the Olympic wireless said the coast guard immediately answered the S.O.S. and sent out two lifeboats and a motorboat for the survivors. Those whose cries could be heard through the fog.

In his report to the White Star line Hicks said:

"While in thick weather proceeding at low speed collided with Nantucket lightship. Sea was calm, light vesst sank. Two boats lowered at 10:40 and 10:52. Seven survivors rescued, four of the crew missing. All survivors, three have since died. Later, motorboat fitted with wireless was lowered to assist and to find two boats. Ship anchored at 10:35 till boats returned, then proceeded at 11:32."

Captain Hicks is completing his forty-first year of service before retirement.

The Department of Commerce at Washington, investigating the disaster, suggested that possibly the Olympic was in the area of a coast guard radio beam.

Radio beacons of the lightship were so accurate, it was pointed out, that only a week ago a steamer following the Nantucket's beam in a fog scraped the side of the lightship.

On May 23rd 1913, Quinteva Rebekah Lodge No. 133 was instituted in this city and the 21st anniversary was last evening in the Oddfellows' Temple fittingly commemorated by a birthday party. A large number of members and others were in attendance amongst whom were a few of the charter members.

In the early part of the evening a varied and interesting program was carried out. Bro. R. H. Mitchell was chairman and made a few remarks of a complimentary nature in regard to the lodge and its activities. Those taking part in the program were:

Miss M. Bell gave a reading in a manner which demonstrated she was well versed in this class of entertainment.

Mr. Clelie Patterson gave two vocal numbers which so delighted all present that he was compelled to give an encore. Mr. Patterson has a well trained voice which is pleasing and is heard frequently in Belleville. W. Whiffen played the accompaniments.

Mrs. Harold Turner is a young guitar artist and her two numbers were much enjoyed by the audience.

Little Miss Helen Miller gave a dancing number which was much appreciated.

Bro. A. L. Geen who was one of the first members of the Rebekah lodge here gave a very brief address in which he referred to the early days of the lodge in the lodge and its beneficial effects. He also referred to the fact that the corner-stone of Him who went about doing good and making others happy, was laid by the lodge every January 20th.

At the close of the programme Chivalry reigned supreme. Upon a suitably decorated table in the banquet hall were placed birthday cake. As the hall was darkened the cake was lighted with 21 candles and after being extinguished the cake was cut by the three past presidents of a place.

The banquet function was brought to a close by dancing being indulged in for some time to suitable music being provided. In every respect the party was a success and the lady members are to be congratulated upon the manner in which all the proceedings were carried out.

TIRE DEALERS VISIT CITY

Firestone Dealers of District Hear Sales Talk

Firestone tire dealers from Oshawa on the west to this city, north as far as Bancroft, and south through Prince Edward County met in the city last night in a business session on trade matters and before the banquet which was held in Cuthbertson, district manager and G. C. Woods salesman for the district were present and gave addresses on the merits of their products. Rodney Brandon, Toronto and "Cook", sensation Firestone tire dealers for the district were present in making the visiting dealers welcome. This fine carnival of fun (?) of all kinds manufactured by the Firestone company. There were more than 30 dealers present.

Mr. Cuthbertson in his address said business conditions were rising to the level, where the depression set in, but that with every new impetus of going higher. Through the means of a chart, the speaker showed the business done in this territory since the year 1929 to the present month in the manufacture of this tire was the most salient point brought out in the chart, which showed a rise in the tread separation. He also predicted, that in the future there would be an increase, due to the fact, that materials were being used whereas, all of the old stock had been used up by tire companies.

The new balloon tire recently put on the market was shown and explained by the speakers. Means of curing rubber valve stem in the tire, thereby doing away with treads for graders and tractors were also explained and demonstrated by the dealers. Mr. Cuthbertson held great stress on advertising before the public and explained many ways in which to increase their business even during the conditions that have hit the station only for a tank of gas. At the conclusion of the talk a banquet was enjoyed by the visitors present.

TEST ALARM IS SUCCESS

2,418 School Children March Out in Average Time of One Minute

How briskly schools in the city could be emptied of its scholars in case of fire was graphically demonstrated today on the occasion of a fire alarm, which was sounded by Fire Chief William Lynch and Superintendent of Fire Alarms Ross. A total of 2,418 children in the four public schools, the Collegiate and Vocational Academy, marched quietly and in perfect order from the buildings to the open in the average time of one minute.

Surprised in their class rooms at the unexpected sounding of the fire alarm gong at 10.30 this morning, all of firemen, the scholars emptied the schools by the fire escapes. The attendance of 70 children also cleared the building in the time of 60 seconds. Queen Victoria with an attendance of 420 children cleared the building in 60 seconds. Queen Victoria with an attendance of 420 children cleared the building in 60 seconds. Queen Victoria with an attendance of 540, required one minute and fifteen seconds to clear. Mary with an attendance of 498 children required one minute, ten seconds.

The test was described by Fire Chief Lynch as a beautiful one, being marked with quietness and order. Principals and school children no signs of a panic or hurried exit.

Owing to the day being set aside for the Empire Day celebration, the educational flooded as a field day, no test alarms were rung in the buildings.

BELIEVE FIRE SET BY CRIMINAL HANDS

Families Driven to Street and Damage Estimated at $10,000

Montreal, May 16. — Fire which police believe was set by a criminal hand swept through a block of flats on City Hall avenue here early today and drove twelve families out in the street. Firemen from all downtown stations answered the two-alarm call and had the fire under control in less than two hours. One fireman was slightly hurt by flying glass

Damages were estimated at $10,-000.

As firemen struggled with the flames, many from the block of flats, fire insurance underwriters and detectives started an investigation, leading them to believe the fire was of incendiary origin. The blaze first broke out on the roof of a bath and along the rear of the block of flats.

About six o'clock last night as the convicts were being marched to their cells in the south dome, the section where the riots of October, 1932 occurred, the fire broke out. A fire was discovered in the carpenter shop on the top floor of the shop block but it was quickly extinguished.

Then guards found flames shooting from three different places in the change room, one near a pile of rubber boots, another in a pile of pyjamas and the third nearby. The flames crept along the woodwork and dense clouds of smoke drove guards back. Kingston fire department was called and the fight to check the flames started.

Thousands of Kingston residents flocked to the scene as rolling smoke clouds settled over the building. Rumors that ran through the city May 6 that inmates threatened to set fire to the penitentiary and memories of the 1932 riots drew crowds to the institution.

Police Block Roads

The police blocked the roads and guards threw a cordon around the penitentiary as the fight to check the fire, fanned by strong winds off Lake Ontario, continued. The thick stone walls and iron doors helped the smoke-choked fire-fighters to keep the flames from spreading to other parts of the institution.

The thick smoke forced the guards and firemen from entering the change room and they climbed along the boiler room and played the hose on the seething mass of flames in an attempt to block the conflagration from advancing. Clothing, laundry shop and barber shop equipment fell prey to the fire.

The roof of the change room buckled from the heat and about 8.30 o'clock it plunged in, breaking rafters that tumbled against the huge iron doors.

An official statement made at Ottawa declared convicts employed in the mail bags and tin and paint shops were marched out in orderly fashion and there was no demonstration of any kind. Convicts were in cells northward of the south dome and were unaffected by the smoke.

Hoses from Kingston fire department pumpers on the lake shot streams into the blaze as successful efforts were made to keep the flames from spreading to the carpenter and paint shops.

On May 4 the fire threat rumors were heard and convict baseball games were reported cancelled as a disciplinary measure.

Ottawa, May 16.—(CP)—Prompt and full investigation of the serious fire, which occurred last night at Portsmouth Penitentiary will be made. The blaze broke out almost simultaneously in four different places, three of them in the change room the large room in which the convicts come to change their clothes, bathe and receive the attentions of the barber.

Brig.-Gen. O. M. Ormond, superintendent of Penitentiaries, was fully advised of the fire last night and kept Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, informed.

A survey was underway today to determine the full extent of the damage, and until its completion officials declined to make an estimate.

The damage, however, is heavy as the roof of the change room had fed in and considerable quantities of clothing were stored in it. Penitentiary officers were complicated to call the Kingston City Fire Department to their aid to bring the blaze under control.

REDUCTION IN SUGAR TAX

The budget debate this year was unusually short and it came to an end with a lively tilt of the Canadian Parliament between Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. W. D. Euler, former Minister of National Revenue.

Dr. Manion accused the former Government of extravagance and political interference with the railways, describing the system under Sir Henry Thornton as "a political rolled from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again, a political machine and a political club."

Allegations were hotly resented by Mr. Euler who said they had been no political interference with the road under his term.

This could not be said of the present, he went on, as out of 39 railway tie contracts existing when the Conservatives came into office 27 had been switched to government supporters.

The budget was adopted without a recorded vote after a Farmer-Labor amendment had been rejected by the combined voting power of Liberals and Conservatives. Earlier amendments had been thrown out by a ruling of the speaker, first a Farmer-Labor amendment, then a Liberal amendment and then a second Liberal amendment.

Before the budget debate got under way yesterday Prime Minister R. B. Bennett announced the reduction in the sugar tax from two cents a pound to one would come into effect next Sunday instead of July 1, as previously planned. The reason is the start of the fruit canning season in British Columbia. Canners complained it would be a handicap on them if they had to pay the present tax on their sugar and sell their fruit later in the summer when a lower tax would be in effect.

ROME FLIERS DOWN

An engineer was summoned from London to examine the plane in which the fliers failed in an attempt to make the first non-stop New York to Rome hop.

Shortly before their landing safe from a narrow escape from death in the wild Atlantic. The main bearing of the engine, the gasoline tank and the motor of their plane broke, under-carriage was damaged in landing.

Mechanics were rushed from the Baldonnel Army airdrome at Dublin today to aid in repairing the plane in which the fliers had hoped to make the first non-stop New York to Rome hop.

The aviators covered the distance from New York in 23 hours and 6 minute. They brought their craft down at 8.39 P.M. local time (2.39 P.M. E.S.T.). They took off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 6.34 a.m. E.S.T. Monday.

Halt on Way

In continuing toward Rome, they planned to halt at Port Arnock Strand from where Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian airman, who landed Penn Yan, hopped on his flight to North America.

The pair appeared in good spirits and health after a sound sleep in a Lahinch hotel. Lahinch is two miles from the small field, about an acre in size, where the landing was made near the tiny village of Moy.

Lieutenant Sabelli told of the horrors of the ocean crossing.

"We encountered 36 hours of blind flying" he said, "trouble developed with the fog engine. We lowered the plane and at first thought of attempting to alight in the sea, fortunately, the trouble was cleared up". This was about 400 miles from Ireland.

The lieutenant credited Pond with saving their lives on another occasion.

"The gasoline choked, but Pond left the cockpit, climbed out to the reserve tank and cleared the flow. Otherwise, we would have been forced down in the Atlantic."

Captain Pond frankly said it was the "worst experience" he ever had.

"We saw absolutely nothing from the time we left Newfoundland until we reached Ireland. We encountered much fog and a very strong, veering wind."

The aviators said they had a brief glimpse of Harbor Grace, Nfld., from which they received a signal, and also glimpsed one solitary ship. Otherwise, they saw nothing except fog and rain the whole trip. Their plane was fueled for 40 hours flying when they left New York. They had 150 gallons left today—enough" Pond said, "to get us to Rome."

W. H. PRICE NOMINATED

By The Canadian Press

Four conventions will be held today to name candidates for the provincial general election, E. G. Martin, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare, will appear at the Brantford City Conservative convention, when he is expected to be chosen again to represent the riding.

Stuart Lambion Conservatives meet at Watford and a Conservative convention also will be held at Brighton to choose a candidate for Temiskaming constituency.

operative Commonwealth supporters gathered in the Toronto St. David's riding to name their standard bearer for the voting.

Attorney General W. H. Price last night was nominated by convention in his riding of Toronto Parkdale, a constituency he has represented since 1914 and in his address he issued a challenge to Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal Provincial leader, to name any constructive legislation he was responsible for while a member of the House of Commons in the eight years.

Col. Price declared when Beauharnois power was faced with entering private interest control Mr Hepburn was "behind the scenes trying to get some of the $700,000 fund to go into the 1930 elections."

Political circles today waited for Premier George S. Henry to break his silence regarding the election date. Two days of cabinet meetings so far have failed to produce the announcement but it is expected some time today.

Weed Control Entails Work Inspectors Told at Meeting

Weed Inspectors From County Met at Shire Hall For Instruction

With the avowed intention of absorbing all the knowledge they could about their common foe, the garden and pasture weed from the experience of experts who addressed them on the subject, weed inspectors representing every municipality from throughout Hastings county gathered at Shire Hall on Tuesday afternoon on the occasion of their annual meeting. Only one municipality was not represented.

The convention was described by Mr. John McLeod, district seed inspector for Eastern Ontario, crops and market division, as the largest of its kind he had been privileged to address in any county throughout the province.

As chief speaker of the afternoon, Mr. McLeod gave an outline of the Weed Control Act, pointing out the major features of the Act that should be observed, not only by the weed inspectors themselves, but by every rural resident who hoped to keep his pasture land and tilled fields free from the nuisance. Interspersed with his remarks were slides depicting the various weed growths, together with a lecture given by him on the occasion of each slide.

Particular warning regarding the wild carrot, which this year has first made its appearance in Hastings county, but has done much damage in the west, and the clover dodder, was also conveyed to the inspectors by Mr. McLeod. In the west, he pointed out, the wild carrot has become almost an industry, simply because rural residents gave little heed to its life history. Clover dodder also a particular nuisance to farmers of the west, has become such a menace during the past few years that the Dominion government in the world had now declared an embargo on importation of red clover seed mixed with the dodder. Universal legislation against it barred its entry outside of Canada.

Control Entails Work

"Only through strict attention to business, close study of the variety of weed under control, can it be identified at a glance, and unremitting work against them, could weed inspectors hope to keep the weeds under control" he said. It was cited that millions of dollars were lost annually by farmers through common weeds which could be controlled on their own farms.

Taking as his subject: "Weeds and Weed Control", and dealing particularly with forage crops, cultural methods and eradication of undesirable types, Herbert Graham, of the Kemptville Agricultural School, also addressed those present. In detail in length on the work that was constantly required on eradication, and conveyed considerable information regarding cultural methods of such crops.

William Michael, of the local office of the Dominion seed branch, gave a brief and direct address upon the necessity of growing graded seeds, and the benefits that would result

CLUBS SAVED BY TWO EARLS

Dining Clubs of Cambridge University Helped to Exist

BY THOMAS T. CHAMPION

Cambridge, May 16.—The 21-year-old Earl of Ranfurly, who succeeded his grandfather, a former governor of New Zealand, in the title last October, and is now at Trinity College, Cambridge, has come to the rescue of the Bentinck Club, the oldest of the dining clubs of Cambridge University, dating back nearly two centuries. It is understood also that the True Blue Club, a similar Cambridge organization, which is nearly as old as the Bentinck, will also be saved through the good offices of Lord Duncannon, son of Canada's Governor-General, Earl Bessborough.

The threatened extinction of these two exclusive clubs is a significant sign of the change in social customs in this ancient university. Both clubs were founded in an era, when money was plentiful, and when there was a very large wealthy and leisure class. Nowadays it is difficult to find men who are willing to accept the presidency of such institutions. In the early days the dinners were evidently frequent, as both clubs possess plate of great value and antiquity.

FIRE CAUSES 43 DEATHS

Miners in Belgium Caught in Shaft After Explosion

Brussels, Belgium, May 16—(AP) —Forty-three miners were feared today to have lost their lives in an explosion and fire which made an inferno of a coal mine at Quaregnon Au Pief last night.

Ten bodies had been recovered and five men were brought to the surface in a critical condition. Hope was abandoned for the remaining 28 as it was believed the entombed would have to be sealed to extinguish the flames which followed a terrific fire-damp blast and gave the miners little chance to escape.

Volunteers started rescue work at the pit's mouth early today.

Of eight men found alive close together, five were alive. They were conveyed to the surface terribly burned and suffering broken arms and legs.

Falls of coal were numerous while the rescuers feverishly toiled, reaching their own lives.

Engineers were rushed to the scene from Brussels and from neighboring mines, but it appeared nothing could be done except seal the mine to extinguish the flames.

WAR IN EAST A CERTAINTY

Declaration Made by Bishop of Honan, Speaking at Synod

(By the Canadian Press)

Delegates to the sessions of three Anglican Synods of Ontario today discussed problems of their church and fashioned their programmes for the coming year. The Toronto diocese continued its session while the Synod of Huron met in London and Niagara Diocese in Hamilton.

Right Rev. W. C. White, Bishop of Honan, last night told the Synod of Huron that war in the Far East was a certainty. He declared it would involve Japan, China, Russia, Japan and Russia and possibly the United States. Bishop White has spent 28 years in China, returning here only recently.

"In the East they no longer speak of the possibility of war," he said, "they only wonder when it will begin." He said China felt United States was her only friend, and that was a very doubtful friendship for Japan in the event of war. Japan and Russia are preparing for war and all was "in readiness for action."

Bishop Derwyn T. Owen of the Toronto diocese denounced wheat of fortune, raffles, draws, dances and card parties as a form of raising church money. "Direct giving," he said, "is the ideal method." Closing of churches in the summer time also drew the Bishop's censure.

When the finance committee reported a deficit of $4,000 for 1934, criticism that followed resulted in a $4,025 increase being made. Last year's budget was $46,966 and members objected to apportionments being cut this year.

FAHEY'S SAFETY

The law has proven itself very human in the Grigware case. It has satisfied the conscience of the people of the continent—in allowing James Fahey to stay in Canada and in dropping proceedings of extradition begun to take Fahey (who was Frank Grigware), fugitive of twenty-four years from the Leavenworth Penitentiary in Kansas, back to the United States.

Grigware has made good as James Fahey, has led an honorable life and lived down whatever was disagreeable with the past. He had protested when arrested his innocence of a crime of which he was convicted and repeated his protest after his detention in Alberta twenty-four years after the escape.

The law could ask no more—that a man should live a decent life as an individual and as a member of society. His life of almost a quarter of a century has been an open book. No one would be in prison if they were as useful as Fahey.

There are two aims in legal punishment, the warning to others, and the redemption of the convicted man. The question of the warning is not to be minimized as it has a very real part in the penal laws, and even in this case though Grigware did not satisfy the demands of the law which convicted him, by staying in prison, he did undergo punishment in a very real way, with the constant dread of exposure for twenty-four years. The redemptive side has been fully satisfied, more completely than it would have been possible within penitentiary walls.

No story is more romantic than this of Fahey who became mayor of his western Canada hamlet. Fiction has stories of this kind only to prove that life is often at least as strange as and often more strange than fiction.

Fahey has stood a test in these latter days and all through the years and has been proven in the furnace of life's trials.

So the United States Government in dropping the proceedings to extradite him did what only a nation in full knowledge of the facts could do. Most people would also wish that it were possible to prove Fahey's affirmation that he was originally the victim of circumstantial evidence.

It is thought probable that President Roosevelt will issue a pardon for Fahey or Grigware, which will restore him and wash away all court associations with his old name of Grigware.

NATURE NOT A FACTORY

Over-production and nature's surprises which may limit a crop so stringently as to cause real hardship are two sides of the production question which baffle men. Nature we know in a general way, we know that for ages summer will follow spring and yield to autumn but we do not know how far nature will nurture the crops to yield plenty. Natural consequences of storms and drought may cause a real crisis such as a famine. Man cannot just know what the crop will be.

Nature is not an industrial plant operated by machinery and a few men, whose combined result will, it is known by efficiency experts, the production of so much product. But great nature is that freedom loving thing which will not be harnessed to machinery which can tick off the work which is being done. Nature is not a huge press, manufacturing so much wheat. Nature is non-human, she has infinite resources which she may apply or reject as her whim pleases. She can do what she likes and no one calls her to order or "fire" her or puts a new plant superintendent and a new factory in her place. And so nature will remain, harness a little of her power how we will. Never will man quite control the great nature whose chief product man himself is.

So there must be latitude. Nations cannot say, "Nature, produce so much this year. It is our will." Nature will go on her own way. Man may cultivate her but can never take the chance of under-production with its accompaniment of famine as a possibility. Just lately Canada and the United States have had a dust storm which avoided Ontario but wrought havoc to beginning crops in the Canadian West. Thousands of acres were swept clear of the soil which produces that growth in grain which sustains man and animal. Drifts were formed several inches deep as clouds passed on. Three times this year this blight or plague has swept across. The losses are figured at two million bushels a day during which the storm blew. But it is pointed out that the loss of soil is the most serious—it takes what endless crops would not use up in the chemicals.

Some have thought in the time when man goes to the plan of destroying produce merely to limit the available amount of food or other products, he may receive a rude shock which may stagger civilization. There still works a law of compensation in nature. It is known to florists and to gardeners and farmers—that crops are not year after year equally great. Why does a certain plant have a banner year followed by leaner years? Somewhere in nature is the answer. But who can say beforehand what nature is going to do? There lies the danger of limitation of crops.

Of course man can do something with irrigation and with the principle of reforestation to help out nature but it takes more than a year to reap a crop and it takes more than a year to start a forest growing or an irrigation scheme to make an appreciable increase in crops.

LIKE LAND-LOCKED SHIPS

When at the wharf I stand and watch the ships
Take on the cargoes waiting at the shore,
See yawning hold and giant crane that grips
Its load one moment, then swings back for more,
I sense an eagerness to be away.
Its echo rings through every foreign shout;
Both ships and sailors ache for wind and spray
And open seas to greet them, thrusting out.

A kindred haste throbs sometimes in my breast,
The years' strait shores press close upon my heart.
Too long at anchor chained, too long at rest,
With all my cargo now I would depart.
Like land-locked ship, I would sail back to sea,
Return full-freighted to eternity!

MANY READERS of this column are familiar with the theme song used by Amos and Andy in their daily radio sketch during their several years on the air. Freeman F. Gosden and Charles J. Correll, Amos and Andy of the air, are constantly on the road filling stage engagements and broadcast from whatever city they happen to be in at the time, but the theme song is always played in Chicago on the organ at the N.B.C. utility studio. "The Perfect Song" reads as follows:

The day is grey, and all the way is drear and lonely,
Though together, side by side, thru life we go,
Without the light of love to shine upon our path,
We cannot know a friend from foe.
Where all is dark; and yet, amid the throngs that pass and mingle,
Are hearts that ache for sympathy and love.
A look perchance, a word of tender meaning—
Lo! Two happy hearts are one.

Perfect song of loving hearts united,
Golden dreams of heaven melting into day,
Perfect song of hearts forever plighted!
Joy with summer blends, and winter ends
In perfect love's June day!

DEVELOPMENT OF SCARLET FEVER RAPID

It is a Highly Infectious Disease and Attacks All Races

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1934 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Scarlet fever is a widespread infection that occurs in all walks of life, attacks all races in all parts of the world, and often appears in unusually large epidemics.

The disease may also appear in isolated form. Single cases vary markedly in intensity, and epidemics vary greatly in virulence.

About ninety per cent. of all cases of scarlet fever occur in children under ten years of age. Breast-fed infants rarely acquire the disease. Adults, however, are not immune.

Scarlet fever is one of those disorders which, although undoubtedly a germ origin, has up to date defied the researchers of science. It is not yet clear how the poisons of the disease are manufactured, how they are given off and how they are transmitted from one person to another.

Serums have been made with a view to making children resist this dread disease, but they have not yet come into general use nor has their efficacy been proved beyond question as, for instance, in the case of typhoid and diphtheria.

It is believed that the secretions of the nose, throat, and general respiratory tract of scarlet fever patients probably contain the germs or poisons, or both. Likewise, great attention has been paid to the possibility that the poisons are given off from the skin of patients, especially when the disease has already progressed to the stage of so-called "desquamation" or peeling.

The onset of scarlet fever is usually sudden. It occurs from one to seven days after infection, altho' this rule is by no means invariable. Vomiting is often one of the first symptoms. Sometimes, the beginning stages are more gradual and insidious and all that is noted is that the child does not seem quite as lively as usual, or he may complain of not feeling well for several days without there being any special symptoms.

Fever appears early in the course of the disease and its rise may be rapid. It is not unusual for the temperature to reach 104 or 105 degrees on the very first day. With the fever, the skin becomes unusually dry. When touched it gives the impression of holding intense heat.

The rash, which is so characteristic of scarlet fever, appears as a rule, on the second day. It consists of scattered red points which first appear on the neck and chest. After a few hours the rash may spread to the entire body and then its color is a vivid scarlet.

After two or three days the rash begins to fade, and later on the skin gradually peels off in flakes of varying size. Such desquamation may last from ten to twenty days.

Scarlet fever poison, whatever its nature, clings stubbornly to the patient's clothing, bedding, furniture and the like. It is highly important that all such articles be thoroughly fumigated after the patient recovers. Likewise, it is essential that persons entering the sick room be protected with sterile surgical gowns and that they wash themselves carefully with antiseptic solutions afterwards.

Pictured above is Freddie Munroe, aged 4, of Halifax. Freddie is somewhat of a marvel. He can say his a, b, c's forward and backwards, count from 5 to 100 in 5's, 10 to 100 in 10's, do handsprings, the split, the contortionist back bend, somersaults in mid air, all with the grace of a veteran performer. He's been at it now for a year and a half and one day his dad, Chester Munroe, ex-Chataqua acrobat, says he'll be a headliner. Soon Freddie will be taught bar and trapeze work. As the above picture was snapped the tiny blond-headed tot was about to do a back spring.

Probs.: Favorable for Continued and Growing Prosperity

Away back in the days when ancient Babylon was in its greatest glory there were periods of great prosperity followed by periods of depression. Ancient Egypt had its lean and fat years, anticipated the lean years by putting away foodstuffs in the fat years against the day of crop failure. Depressions in the old days came from physical causes, famine pestilence, plagues, locusts, etc. Now there can be depressions in the midst of plenty. In this manner Mackenzie Williams, M.A., of Toronto, led up to his analysis of the causes of the recent business depressions, the warning signs beforehand, and traced the history of business depressions from the early days of "corn in Egypt".

Great periods of business expansion are necessarily followed by business stagnation, said the speaker, for when business is on the upgrade everybody tries to take advantage of boom conditions by expanding, borrowing and generally mortgaging the future. The banks go all out with too much money loaned and call a halt—then the whole artificial structure of expanded prosperity tumbles down.

How business depressions can be anticipated and accurately forecast was explained by the speaker who showed a number of graphs illustrating the trend of business in past years—always a period of great business expansion was followed by a deep dip into business depression.

Fair and stormy weather signals in business were explained by the speaker, who said that the so-called business depression period was in reality a corrective period. Going full speed ahead, full of prosperity steam, mistakes are made which have to be corrected later and are only seen when the expansion period collapses and exposes the faulty timbers supporting it.

Signs of the times now include government investigations of mass buying, tobacco millions for the manufacturer and small change for the producer, security sales, investment banking, insurance investments, packing, retail business abuses—demand for a central bank, etc.

Signs are favorable today, said the speaker, with international money rates lowest in history, commodity prices working up, new markets being opened, etc.

Canada's national wealth had risen to thirty billion dollars in 1930, represented in railways, good roads, public buildings, power, etc., and a spirit of confidence prevailed in the land which augured well for the future, but business men should study the warning signs, always visible long before the dirty weather began—make hay while the sun shines but prepare for the days when the sun shall be darkened and the clouds return after rain.

Fast Growth Makes Fine Flavor

Vegetable gardening is more a test of technique than flower growing for the average amateur. The dahlia fancier who measures the size of his blooms and some other varieties of garden specialists may not agree to this statement. But the average gardener does not specialize to the extent of measuring his flowers; and his sense of taste and consciousness of tenderness in food are more exact indication of quality than his observation of the beauty of his flowers.

The first object of a vegetable garden technique is to keep them growing without interruption. Fast growth is an indication of good health and normal development, which produce vegetables of the proper type. When growth is interrupted by any cause, the character of a vegetable changes. The change may not be evident in color; it is always evident in size and usually by the toughness of fibre. Sometimes the flavor is noticeably changed. Leaf lettuce, which grows slowly, becomes tough and bitter.

Three factors govern the speed of growth—soil, water and plant food. All these are subject to control in city gardens. Temperature has an effect upon growth and when it is abnormal it may spoil a crop. Last summer abnormal heat destroyed peas, prevented beans from pollenating and delayed the early tomato crop. Temperature is beyond control, but it rarely varies sufficiently from normal to have more than a temporary effect upon crops.

Make your vegetable garden in a spot where it can be watered. Prepare the soil deeply, driving the blare of the spade down perpendicularly its full length, breaking up the soil thoroughly. In the old days you would have spaded in each year from six inches to a foot of stable manure but nowadays it is rarely obtainable. One must use the modern plant foods which on the whole are easier, pleasanter, and more effective.

One does not spade in the modern plant foods. They are much more quickly available to plants than manure. After the soil has been prepared and raked smooth, then the plant food should be broadcast and raked into the top three inches. A balanced plant food should be used which contains all the food elements, nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, in good proportions. It may be used liberally. Market growers on drilled crops, such as root crops, lettuce, radishes and the like, use a pound to 100 square feet. This could be doubled without ill effect in the amateur garden. On hill crops, such as sweet corn, vines and cabbages, the market grower uses about half a pound to 100 square feet.

During the season applications of plant food should be made by sprinkling along the row at the rate of a tablespoon to a yard of row. For plants which it is desired to force, such as head lettuce, weekly applications of nitrogen which has been dissolved will be effective.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

The weight of a person in good health does not necessarily remain constant but varies a few pounds every few weeks. To weigh oneself frequently is not necessary, nor is it even desirable because it makes some people excessively introspective. However, a decided gain or loss of weight—say of five pounds or more—should be investigated to find the cause and this should be corrected. Usually normal weight can be regained by proper regulation of the diet.

BISONS HIT FIVE HOMERS IN ONE FRAME

All Time Home Run Record Made in Defeating Albany 8-2

PLUMMER HURT

Ike Boone of Leafs Lead Hitters in Defeating Syracuse 11-9

By The Associated Press

was credited to Buffalo Bisons to-

A new all-time home-run record day.

Fighting to keep out of the International League cellar, the Bisons plastered Albany pitching for six home runs yesterday and set up a new record by getting nine of these in a single inning. The major league record of four homers in one inning was set by Pittsburgh in 1894 and equalled by Chicago Cubs in 1930.

The battle at Buffalo started calmly enough but in the second the Bisons began to see off. The score was tied at 1-1 when Mueller walked and then the big show commenced. Meyers clouted the first homer and, after two men had been retired, Mulleavy, Mallon, Smith and Regan drove the ball over the fence in succession. Art Jones, who had relieved Johnny Milligan in the midst of the bombardment, then hit Jack Plummer, hard-hitting rookie outfielder, on the head with a fast ball and Plummer dropped unconscious to the ground. Yorker ran for him and after Mueller had waited for the second time in the inning, Meyers ended the agony with a pop fly. All told the Bisons collected six in that heckle frame, Mulleavy hammered another home run early in the fence in the eighth to make the final count 8-2. Plummer was taken to a hospital where an examination revealed he was suffering from a concussion of the left temple.

Third Loss For Rochester

Newark Bears today took the home run route to hand Rochester Red-wings their third consecutive defeat, 13-4. The Bears' 14 hits included five homers, two each by Dale Alexander and Vince Barton and one by Jack Saltzgaver, behind that sort of gunning Floyd Newkirk pitched his way to an easy triumph.

Toronto Maple Leafs maintained their hold on second place, 3 1-2 games behind Rochester and four games in front of Baltimore Orioles by outslugging Syracuse Chiefs 11-9. With Manager Ike Boone contributing a double and four singles in a 14-hit assault, the Leafs scored all their runs off Roger Hanlon and Joe Bloomer in the first five innings. Keith Frazier received credit for the victory although he was batted out of the box in the ninth when Syracuse rallied for four runs.

Chad Kinsey kept Baltimore nine hits well scattered and drove in six runs himself with a home run, double and single as Montreal walked off with a 13-2 decision. Kinsey's homer with the bases filled in the third knocked George Orange out of the box. Granger and his successor, John Ritter and Hornidas Adue gave up 15 hits and 13 bases.

Gidding's Entry in Plate Top Heavy Favorites

Horometer And Pitchblende Class of Field For Historic Race

By DAN BURRITT

Toronto, May 16.—Down the long avenues of shaded white-washed stalls where races are won and lost before the horses ever troop to the barriers, and are rerun long after the sporting crowd has cashed or tossed away its pasteboards, they talk of only one thing these days.

Leaning against the verandah posts or gathered in groups seated on overturned feed boxes and water pails, those trainers, jockeys, exercise and stable boys, from the time they get up with the sun, talk of the chance of Horometer in the 76th running of the King's Plate Saturday afternoon at Woodbine Park.

There's no doubt in their mind. They'll tell you why R. S. McLaughlin's outstanding colt has been made one of the most outstanding favorites ever chosen for the historic race, and they'll tell of the chance of the W. R. Cowie's Pitchblende.

The gelded son of Sweepster-Chrysoberil from the powerful Cowie stable that twice has held the royal trophy, is nominated in an entry with the favorite, under the name of trainer Harry Giddings, who has saddled more King's Plate winners than any other man.

Among the field of two score candidates, Horometer and Pitchblende are selected to romp home easily in first and second positions. There is little left to choose from the rest of the crowd. Rumored withdrawal of Harry G. Hatch's five nominees because of a disagreement over refusal of a license to his trainer, Lloyd Gentry, has made it more so.

Hatch Stable Absent

Hatch declined to comment on the widely-circulated report and said he was "not interested in horse racing". There is one thing certain, the Hatch stalls at Woodbine Park are still unoccupied and apparently no plans have been made to decorate them with the light and dark blue colors, flaunted so prominently each season at the Canadian Racing Association and other Ontario tracks.

Momentary doubt arose in the minds of some 8,000 surprised rail-birds who watched Pitchblende breeze over the nine furlong course in 1.54 3/5, that shattered the plate standard of 1.55 1-5, set by Cowie's filly Queensway in 1932.

But their confidence in Horometer was renewed when the gelded son of Hourless-Star Pal easily covered the route in the same time during his final full distance trial yesterday. What made the performance so convincing was the fact he carried 126 pounds, compared with 95 on his own entry. Both will carry 117 pounds on Saturday.

Speed of which the McLaughlin hope is capable, is indicated in the fractions I times in which he covered the course: :26, :51 1/5, 1.17, 1.41 3/5, 1.54 3/5.

"I really think he's the best King's Plater I've ever trained," Giddings commented after the workout—and his faith seems justified.

CARL HUBBELL BEST HURLER IN NATIONAL

Giants End Disastrous Road Trip With Win Over Cubs

CARDS DEFEATED

St. Louis However Make Hay While at Home Diamond

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

In the course of a disastrous tour through the Western sector of the National League New York Giants have managed to drown first and still are dangerous, when Carl Hubbell is pitching and that the danger may increase after they return home tomorrow.

What started as a joyous jaunt through the hinterlands for the League leaders ended with the Giants in fourth place after losing eight games and winning five. But they managed to find one bright spot in the dreary yesterday, when they celebrated their release from the terrors of the road by smashing out a 10-3 decision behind Hubbell's burden and stretched Chicago Cubs right out of the lead.

The slender Oklahoman, who left arm is the mainstay of the pitching burden of the 1923 campaign bore down once he got past a bad third inning and gave only five hits and one in the remainder of the game. And it was an error by Travis Jackson the first of the Giants ace afield in 13 Western games, that caused part of the trouble in the 3rd.

To back him up, the Giants smacked 3 hits, including Mel Ott's seventh homer and his first of the tour, drove Charley Root to the showers in the 4th, pushed Bob Smith across and through as every player got at least one base hit. Joe Moore also hit for the circuit as one of his three safeties and Dolph Camilli contributed a Chicago Homer.

Hubbell Credited

The triumph left the Giants only a half-game out of third place and Brooklyn's goose was cooked after finishing celebration and beat out Pittsburgh's Pirates 5-4 in 10 innings. Lefty Watt Terry, who relieved Jack Rothrock, who walloped a homer, in the 9th with three singles and figures in all the scoring, but Rothrock was credited the Dodgers wouldn't be stopped once Jim Mooney began to relieve.

Par behind after five innings, the Dodgers scored a pair in the sixth, drove Mooney off the hill with three straight hits in the eighth and won the game when a double steal by Lonny Frey and Babe Herman produced the third run of the inning.

Although defeated, the Cards ended their home stand with nine victories and only three losses, a record excelled only by Pittsburgh Pirates, who won eight and lost two to end in first place. Although a half-game behind the Cubs in the game count, the Bucs had a .682 average and Chicago .667.

The two games were the only ones played in the major leagues yesterday as rain washed out the entire American League program in the East and the National League contests at Pittsburg and Cincinnati.

ALLEGE INTIMIDATION

Ottawa, May 16.—Allegations of unfair business tactics, designed to harass their smaller rivals, have been made against the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada. The House of Commons committee on price spreads and mass buying yesterday heard a story of the alleged intimidation practised by the large tobacco company on retail tobacconists and jobbers as told by representatives of four smaller companies.

Again We Challenge Dad:

Buy your Boy a C.C.M. NOW- If he doesn't pass his EXAMS we will take back the bike and refund your money

DURING 1932 and 1933 so many dads told us and our dealers that this CHALLENGE had been such a wonderful means of stimulating their boys in their school and hockey that we decided to repeat it for 1934.

One father said, "After I took you up on your challenge and bought my boy a C.C.M. he just couldn't bear the thought of having to take it back to the dealer if he didn't pass. He buckled right down to his studies and stood higher in his class at midsummer than ever before."

Girls' Bicycles Included in this Offer

A girl enjoys cycling just as much as a boy, and is equally entitled to a reward for good school work.

This Challenge Offer applies to new C.C.M. Bicycles and to the Midsummer Term Exams only. Claims for a refund must be made to the dealer from whom the new C.C.M. Bicycle was purchased within one week of the announcement of the examination results.

The great advantage of buying the bicycle NOW is that your boy will be able to enjoy a full season's use of it, and he is just rarin' to get on and ride.

This year all C.C.M. models—boys', girls', adults'—have seamless steel tube frames of aeroplane lightness; the easy-running C.C.M. Triplex Flanges; powerful Coaster Brake; comfortable suspension saddles; Endrick rims; rustless steel spokes; new, racy Dunlop tires; bright parts Chromium plated over C.C.M. 20-Year Nickel, insuring a brilliance that lasts. At to-day's prices C.C.M. Bicycles are truly wonderful values.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lazier, (nee Kathleen Smith), were honored last evening at a very delightful shower at the Army and Navy Hall, Front street, by the staff of the Belleville Fruit Co., when about one hundred guests assembled to wish them bon voyage through life. Coyer's orchestra furnished music for dancing till the wee small hours of the morning.

Friends will regret to learn that Belleville is about to lose another of her promising young men in the person of Mr. Austin Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of this city, who for the past four years has been on the staff of the local branch of the Dominion Bank and is leaving shortly to take up his residence in Toronto, to which place he is being transferred. Keenly interested in sports, particularly hockey and baseball. Austin has taken an active part in the different events dear to the hearts of fans and will be greatly missed by a host of friends. We wish him every success in his new domicile.

Mystery, Sophistication, New Fashion in Blondes

(By HELEN POLSETT)

WHAT A CHANGE there has been in blondes the last few years! Time was when the beauty-parlor position consisted of rose-an-lo-creme complexion, blue eyes, sun-kissed hair and a naive smile. Makes you laugh, doesn't it. Tell that baby type. What has become of her? She has disappeared.

Now the blonde darling uses a deep ivory powder, no rouge at all, combines her lids lightly with green shadows, substitutes the dark brown eyebrow pencil for the black one, wears slender lights and looks and acts the infantile expression, wearing one of mysterious sophistication.

Fashious change, so do feminine figures, ideas, manners—even character. Women play up to the kind of clothes they wear. In the day of the bob the girl was athletic, at times almost wild women. With the trailing raiment, the slender figure there is one. It is caught up with the marcel of finger wave, looks as if it grew there.

Elbows are chronically under

When this is worn, tresses must be swept away from the brow. It is parted, usually an inch or two away from the centre, and is said to accentuate the widow's peak, when there is one. It is caught up with the marcel of finger wave, looks as if it grew there.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Affairs of Love and Marriage

OPPOSITE TASTES

A boy who signs his letter with the dependable and appealing name of Andrew, writes to tell me some of his troubles. He is 20-and, says, is devotedly in love with the girl, but she does not return the affection with his.

The boy, who is high-strung and sensitive, works in an office where temperamental people are encountering all day long. When he comes home in the evening he wants like nothing on a little peace and quiet. But the girl, who works in a department store, is a regular human supply her with all the stimulants that crowds, noise and confusion can give. On the contrary, when she comes home after the day's work is done she's ready for more racket, and gets melancholy and bored if the evening is too quiet.

Her mother can't get this daughter up in the morning until she turns on the radio, and the girl likes to dance into her stockings, then hums or sings while waiting for her breakfast. Her mother says she hasn't got St. Vitus' dance, although she looks like it. This liveliness, it seems, makes her very popular with both boys and girls in her set.

The young lady imagines she's very much in love with this boy whose tastes are so different from her own; but her affection takes the questionable form of hinting and asking for expensive presents, which her lover can ill afford to give. At present he is paying for a diamond ring, and this very often necessitates his going without luncheon.

While the ring isn't more than half paid for, the girl is already suggesting other expensive gifts on the installment plan, declaring their friends who know of the engagement, the girl has no desire to talk about any plans for the future. She admits that some day, when she can afford the bridal outfit upon which she has set her heart, she'll trot down to the city hall, have the knot tied—and hopes they'll live happily ever after!

But I think the prospects for two are distinctly risky, don't you? And here is a beginning to think Andrew's name was about it.

There's nothing slow or phlegmatic about this young man. He greatly likes dancing, and dances well enough to please his inamorata, but he likes hat, also, a walk in the air and outdoor games. He likes his work, and reads books.

Must he forego these pleasures forever in marrying a girl who will find no thrill in quiet companionship, or should he, before it's too late, extricate himself from this particular engagement?

I'm afraid he won't do that, because, in spite of temperamental differences, he is fascinated with this pixie, lively girl. But I do feel sure that these two young people will not succeed in understanding each other,—and that after a few years the tension will have become so acute that either of them will be able to endure it any longer, and the inevitable break-up will take place.

OUSTED FROM LEAGUE

LYON, France, May 16 —(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot was expelled from the local branch of the Leftist League of Rights of Man, today.

A special committee voted 11 to 4 to oust him from the League's membership as a mark of its disapproval of the policy of the Doumergue Covergiment. Herriot is a Secretary without portfolio.

Correcting a Child's Faults

By LISA GRENELLE

Did you ever have a bridge or a golf lesson during which the teacher told you so many rules, and in such rapid succession, that you couldn't remember any? But in a desperate effort to correct all your mistakes you proceeded to forget all the familiar rules and habits which had always stood by you.

So it is with a child if you try to correct all of his or her faults at once.

Jimmie's table manners leave a lot to be desired. He sits badly at the table. He talks with his mouth full. He holds his knife up in the air. He overloads his fork. He pushes food onto his spoon with his fingers, and neglects the purpose for which napkins are made.

It is a temptation to jump on him for all these things at once; to say him and correct him for each in turn. But if you do you will only confuse and embarrass him; may even kill his appetite for dinner. Certainly you will teach him nothing.

Even a bright child learns only through constant repetition; learns one thing at a time, and by doing it until it becomes second nature to him. By continuous correction one good habit thus may be made to replace a bad habit.

Father cannot correct all his golf faults in one morning's practice; neither can mother learn all the bridge rules in one lesson. Don't then, expect Jimmie to get rid of all his faults in one day, one dinner, one supper, no matter how amenable a child he may be.

One Fault At a Time

Remark upon only one of Jimmie's faults at a time, and pretend to be oblivious of all others until, through frequent repetition and reminder, that one fault is permanently corrected. Then it will be a natural for him to sit up straight as it was for him to sit crooked a month ago. He has now replaced one bad habit with a good one.

Now you may go on to the next. It's a low tone, talking just not to mortify him, mimic the way he talks with his mouth full, so that he may see how unattractive it is. Keep after him day after day, and you would no more think of doing it again than you would yourself.

Scolding children, or even punishing them for bad habits, seldom reforms them. They smile regularly from the top off the tooth paste, her hair in the coaxes lovers of the curl, and half eaten chocolates in her bed, and that she go back and repeat these disorders herself, even if she is in a hurry. If you want her to acquire orderly habits, never pick up after her. Only by her meeting up acts of orderliness can you train Annie to remember to be orderly.

Repetition, repetition, repetition, continuous and unrelenting in time will cure your children permanently of their failings. But be sure each time that you go back and repeat the fault on the spot—in your presence.

This seems an unnecessarily long process, but saves time in the end, because a lesson once learned in this manner is never forgotten. Habits attends to that.

Weddings

McKINNON—GALLAGHER

Marmora, May 16—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Sacred Heart Church, on Tuesday morning when Helen Agnes, only younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gallagher, Marmora, became the bride of Frank McKinnon, son of Mr. K. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked very becomingly attired in a white sheer crepe frock, with veil of beautiful white tulle veil, with white shoes and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and maidenhair fern. Her bridesmaid, Mrs. Alyrtle McCormick, of Quinte, also looked very pretty dress of moont blue, with hat, shoes and carried white and pink carnations.

Mr. Charles Gallagher, brother of the bride.

During the Mass, very lovely music was rendered by the organist.

Miss M. McCarthy.

After the ceremony, the bridal breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, to the immediate relatives, after which the happy couple left for Toronto, Niagara Falls and other western points, the bride travelling in a smart blue swagger suit with white accessories.

Miss Clara McKinnon of Madoc, sister of the groom, was present at the wedding. Also the groom's father, as well who resides at Madoc.

PROVINS—ROBINSON

Christ's Life Portrayed in Moving Pictures

Motion pictures "The Passion Play", not of Oberammergau, but of scenes in the Holy Land connected with the life of Christ, from the time of His birth to His Passion, Resurrection and Ascension, were witnessed by several hundred persons in Bridge Street United Church parlours on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society. The pictures were given a musical accompaniment of selected hymns and orchestral music.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Here comes the bride wearing a lovely gown of ivory colored taffeta with a short rounded train lined with white tulle. There are folds of tulle at the deep oval neckline. The long tulle veil is held by a bouquet of white violets and orange blossoms in the hair. The old-fashioned bouquet held by the bride is of the same flowers.

A requirement under sunny skies is a large cartwheel hat. A new model is made of black stitched taffeta with a big brim lined with natural leghorn straw. The crown has a wreath of little red lacquered leather flowers.

Still with us is the suit of black marocain. A new import shows a short jacket and skirt of the black marocain with a wide plaid effect made by a narrow black satin ribbon. It is worn with a frilly georgette crepe net blouse.

A round net entertainment usually means some quiet hours at home in order to rest and receive friends during these hours there is a lovely bigness frock of dull blue georgette with a loose coat of double chiffon in pale pink. The coat is finished at the bottom by means of a bow at the waistline.

On shore or sea there will be use for a grand crepe suit of this navy-blue woolen. The cape is lined with white silk that is used for the frilly white silk that is used for the frilly blouse.

Always a bridesmaid will give you a chance to wear beautiful clothes. One lovely frock is of organza in white with a small blue and white floral print. It is worn with a bouquet of cornflowers and a large white straw hat trimmed with pansies and cornflower blue ribbons.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, May 16—(CP)—A drib-ble of investment buying was apparent in the mine section of the Toronto Exchange this afternoon but price changes at the end of the day were mainly on the upside. A firming tendency on the New York Board in the afternoon supported the local list, particularly the Interlake issues. Gains up to 60 cents were recorded in the senior gold group and Noranda leading the base metals advanced 50 cents to $40.

Through the early part of the session some of the penny shares, including Bagamac, Sudbury Mines, Alderman and Maple Leaf, held the limelight. Some, all advanced under good volume except Alderman which weakened a point. In the latter, Dome advanced 31 and Hollinger, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Teck and Wright Hargreaves finished the day unchanged.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS

Toronto, May 16 (CP)—Industrial shares maintained a strong appearance on small volume today, Toronto Stock Exchange leaders closing with gains in the lead over losses. Interlined leaders including International Nickel, Walker's Common and Distillers Seagrams finished about a half point up. Bank and brewery shares were off moderately on the close.

The industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange registered a margin of gains over losses today in the quietest morning session of the year. Interlisted issues were represented mainly on the up side.

International Nickel alone turned over in any considerable volume but it failed to hold an early gain. Consolidated Smelters added a half point while Fort A. had a small fractional gain. Walker's Common and Distillers Seagrams advanced lightly and Industrial Alcohol and Brewers and Distillers remained unchanged.

The Goodyear stocks were steadier today, both closing at 113. Bell Telephone weakened a fraction on a considerable volume of trading and other losses included B. C. Power A., Union Gas and Power Corporation. Montreal Power and Consumers Gas closed higher.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, N.Y., May 16 —(AP)— A lower drift in stock prices in the early morning today was followed by a mild recovery around the beginning of the last hour. Metals, which were heavy most of the day, paced their losers; Case, American Radiator and United Aircraft railied about a point each. U.S. Steel, Chrysler and Anaconda lost a point. Smelting about halved a drop of 6 points. Trading was the dullest of the year to date; transfers approximated only 700,000 shares.

While the conditions that closed up Mondays market prevailed during the day yesterday and prices generally were higher it is too soon yet to state with accuracy just how the mining industry is going to go or how long it will continue. It is a case of reports before them sellers but few of both.

NEW MEMBERS RECEIVED INTO RAWDON CHURCH

Special Mother's Day Service is Observed

Rawdon.—Mount Pleasant United Church on Rawdon circuit was well filled on Sunday afternoon, May 13th, there being over one hundred and sixty in attendance for this annual Mother's Day service.

This service was prepared by Marie Eadie and issued by the Ontario Religious Educational Council whose headquarters are at Toronto.

The church was adorned with beautiful potted plants and over half of those in attendance wore either a white or colored buttonlere in memory of their mothers.

The theme of the service, "Living Life Joyously," ran throughout all of the programme and contrasted with the lovely rain out of doors.

The superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. James Sharp, presided and the pianist, Miss Edna Thrasher, accompanied the numbers and rendered a suitable prelude; offertory and march out.

The service opened with the school taking part in the "Call to Worship" and singing "Praise the Lord, ye Heavens, adore Him."

Miss Marguerite White very graphically told the story, "Jesus the Man of Great Joy."

An acrostic "The Meaning of Joy" was portrayed by four girls. Miss Phyllis David goes on a quest to find J-O-Y. Miss Evelyn Melville represented J. Miss Lois McAdam, O; and Miss Gladys Summers, Y. This number was written for the occasion by John Orenham.

All sang, "O Jesus, King Most Wonderful."

A pageant entitled "The Procession of Joyous People" was hen depicted.

Spirit of Joy—Miss Helen Smith.

First group representing the home—Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Reid, John and Gordon.

Second group representing the church were the elders, Messrs. A. W. Garrison, Frank Williams, Frank Spencer, James Williams Wilfred Smith and Manson McConnell.

The third group represented the world.

Miss Lenora Williams depicted the World.

Miss Winnie Phillips—China.

Mr. Burton Sharp—Canada.

Miss Faye Andrews—India.

Mr. Harry McAdam—Africa.

Miss Muriel Milligan—Japan.

Throughout this presentation Miss Olive McConnell rendered a very beautiful solo, "Joyful, Joyful, we adore Thee."

The pastor, Rev. F. G. Joblin then took charge of an impressive Reception Service when twenty new members were added to the roll. Those coming by letter were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ira and Jean from Picton United; Mrs. Raymond McConnell from Eldorado United; Mrs. Kenneth Weaver from Bridgenorth United; Mrs. Elwood Johnson from Campbellford Presbyterian; and the new ones entering the church were: Mr. and Mrs. Orno Sharp; Messrs. Irvin Potts, Norman McConnell, Burton Sharp, Herbert Smith, Harry McAdam and Bert Jeffs; and Misses Anna Sharp, Vera McAdam, Phyllis David, Edna Hubble and Winnie Phillips. Along with the pastor and superintendent of the Sunday School, the Senior Elder of the church, Mr. Wilfred Smith, offered the right hand of fellowship.

The offering was gathered by Messrs. H. Smith and N. McConnell and dedicated by the Superintendent followed by a prayer hymn. This offering goes to the council to help needy Sunday Schools in various ways.

The offering amounted to six dollars and forty cents.

Miss Vera McAdam rendered a lovely solo in fine voice, "My Mother's Songs."

The Superintendent addressed the congregation, commenting on the mothers and very few in the audience were dry-eyed.

Following this the pastor briefly spoke on "The Great Debt We Owe Our Mothers." A large number of the elderly people of the community who have been compelled to remain at home during the winter, were in attendance, also a few visitors.

This splendid service closed with the chanting of "Just As I Am"' and the Benediction.

Miss Eileen Phillips of Belleville, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips, and attended the Mother's Day Service at Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen were dinner guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Montgomery.

Mr. Herb Higgs, of Harold, spent Sunday at Mount Pleasant and attended the Special Service in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harvie, of Brighton, were recent guests at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Irvin Reid.

Mr. Edward Montgomery spent Sunday at Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thornton visited relatives at Halloway on Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Honey, of Welcome, spent Saturday with Mrs. John Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan, James, Ray, Gordon and Gerald, of West Huntingdon, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Donnan, Douglas and Ronald, of Ridge Road, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp and attended the Mother's Day Service.

The wonderful rain which came on Sunday was a great boon to the farmers. The grass looks greener, and it will also be of great benefit to the newly-planted gardens, crops and flowers A good warm, refreshing rain was badly needed to completely wash the earth and give everything a spring-like appearance.

Rochester, N.Y., May 15 (CP)—Mrs. Hugh Martindale of Prescott, Ontario, is bequeathed $500 under terms of the will of William H. Gitsky, former hotelman, which was probated today. The estate totalled $246,147

STIRLING CHURCH HOLD MOTHER'S DAY SERVICES

Scouts Present Program At St. John's A.Y.P.A. Meeting

Stirling, May 16—Mother's Day was observed in St. Paul's United Church on Sunday with Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor conducting the morning services. The choir rendered the anthem "How Amiable" and Mrs. J. G. Butler sang feelingly "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," a fitting solo for such an occasion. Rev. Rowland delivered an inspiring and uplifting sermon in which he addressed his remarks to the parents in the congregation. A Mother's Day rally was also observed in the Sunday School and an attendance of one hundred and fifty was recorded. The evening services were in charge of Fred Joblin while the boys of Dr. Walt's and Mr. Fred Elgie's Sunday school classes numbering twenty-eight in all acted as choir for the service. Frank Butler read the Scriptural reading from Luke 2, following which Bobbie Jones led in prayer. Excellent seven minute talks given by Lloyd Rowland on "How the Church Benefits the Community," by Harry Vandervoort on "What the Church Expects of Me," and Desmond Jackman on "Mother." "Take Time to be Holy" was rendered by the male choir with the quartette composed of Ross Shore, John Munro, Jack Potter and Reginald Clarke taking the second verse.

Mother's Day was also suitably observed in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where the entire front of the church was lavishly decorated with a profusion of blooms placed there by members of the congregation in honor of their mothers. Those contributing flowers were Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Baker and family, Mrs. D. J. Bissonnette, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hammond, Mr. William Dermedy, Mr. F. T. Ward, Mrs. H. Tulloch (Mrs. A. L. Hough) Mr. H. Tulloch, (Mrs. H. M. Tulloch), Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. The first Stirling Troop of the Boy Scouts visited the St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening and presented the programme for the evening. The meeting was held in the Agricultural rooms with President Gerald Craven presiding. The President opened the gathering with a word of welcome to the Scouts and the reminder to the members of the final meeting of the season which will take the form of a social evening to be held at the home of Mrs. Thos. Cranston in the near future.

Scout Master Tom Ward then assumed charge of the meeting and opened the programme with an expression of the appreciation of the Scouts in being present and being given the privilege of presenting the entertainment at the meeting of the A.Y.P.A. The Scout Master then gave a brief but comprehensive treatment of the subject "The Origin of Scouting." The first musical number was a coronet duet, "The Old Spinning Wheel in the Parlour," which was beautifully rendered by Jimmie Ward and George Duffin. Carl Mumby contributed to the programme a highly entertaining talk on "Babies." A musical quartette composed of Ray Williams, Reg Matheson, patrol leaders and Scouts Jerry Sprentall and Harold West was the next feature. Assistant Scout Master Fred Hulin was next called upon and delivered a most interesting and educatinoal address on the history of Rawdon Township. This proved a veritable revelation to many of the audience who reside in the said township. Jerry Sprentall rendered a beautiful piano solo.

At this juncture a token of appreciation was presented to Rev. A. S. McConnell, a capable scout leader with an enviable record by the Stirling Troop. A humorous skit "Soup to Nuts" enacted in a splendid manner by Arthur Gould and Clifford Holmes was heartily applauded by an appreciative audience. Musical selections included a violin solo by Reg. Matheson, a quartette composed of Reg. Clarke, John Munro, Jack Potter and Ross Shore singing "In the Evening by the Moonlight," and as an encore, "Down by the Old Mill Stream." Jack McCann with his guitar was a most welcome addition to the programme. Bob Luery then tied six types of tenderfoot knots which were explained to the audience by Arthur Gould. A talk "The Principles of Scouting and their Meaning" was delivered by Fred Joblin in which he clearly and definitely set forth their ideals and aims of every true scout body. A musical trio made up of Reg. Matheson, Harold West and Ray Williams brought the programme to a close. In accordance with the Scout custom, the meeting closed with the National Anthem. Here upon in order to show their appreciation for the evening's programme, the A.R. P.A. gave three lusty cheers for the Scouts and their capable Scout Master. Lunch was then served and after a social half hour the gathering dispersed.

Keep on the SUNNY SIDE

HAVEN'T you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

The Romantic Runaway

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

"About how old is he anyway?" Billings asked as if to make conversation.

"Twenty-one or two, I would suppose. Ah—he is a wonder! A Stoic, a Spartan. He shakes the head to many ladies who seek him." To illustrate the guide shook his head as does an absent-minded individual, vaguely troubled by the buzz of a fly. "Always Juanito [illegible] not in love until she comes. [illegible]—ah! He is captivated. He succumbs completely! It is a pretty affair and all wish him luck".

"Why doesn't he go to the old man and ask for the girl?" Billings questioned between puffs. The coquina-paved grade was steep. Twenty-one or twenty-two—that was the right age. Hang it, he was getting excited about the affair! His heart had plunged as he heard the boy's age.

"Go to him? To Field? Field would buy a nobleman for his daughter to wed! Good or bad, it would not matter."

"Hum—" said Billings.

They were in the fort then and under the shadow of a great wall. "Here," the guide began oratorically, and then suddenly stopped. He said in a harsh whisper, "There is Juanito himself. He must have followed her here! They say he trails the car when she rides in it!"

"Where?" asked Billings.

The guide nodded.

"Let's mosy over there. Easy and casual like."

"Mosy?" the guide echoed stupidly.

"Vamos. Move along. I want to get near him but don't want to be caught. See?"

"Ah, the intrigue!" The guide smiled, showing a flash of white teeth. He took up his lecturing, perhaps a little over-loudly. "If the Senor will step this way I will show him—"

Billings stood quite near to Pablito as he looked at a spot in the wall where, the guide said, a [illegible] had once dislodged a stone to [illegible] a way to freedom.

Billings studied the young man casually. A darned good-looking young fellow, he was. Tall and broad of shoulder with clear, blue eyes. He seemed to be watching the gate as though looking for someone. Then Billings saw the two women who had passed him nearing. The one who was Field's daughter lagged so that for a moment she was behind her companion. Billings saw her shake her head violently at Juanito.

He neared the young man. "Pretty rough time they had here, wasn't it?" he asked Pablito. No one brought up near Cienfuegos, Billings knew, would speak English without an accent. He waited Juanito's reply tensely.

"Yes, very bad." Billings heard and knew that the story about Tia Julia and Cienfuegos was a lie.

"This is my first trip here," he confided. "I think we kind of thought in the United States that all that happened in this war was Roosevelt riding around with his boys."

"Is that so?"

"All before your time, I guess."

The boy was looking after the girl. He had not heard.

"They say," Billings continued louder, "a stranger ought to see Cienfuegos, too."

"Oh yes. Quite a sight."

"I have a friend who has a sugar place near there. His name is Green. Josiah Green. I wonder if you can tell me which way his place lies? I want to look him up—"

Juanito said absently that he was sorry but he could not. Now Billings was utterly certain that the story about Tia Julia was a lie. He had learned the day before that Josiah Green's plantation was a large and famous one. Any boy reared at Cienfuegos would know of Josiah Green.

"Well, I'll ask elsewhere. Thanks just the same," Billings said. Then with great interest, contrasting sharply with the indifference of his other words, he put a question to the guide about how many—exactly how many—men had been shot in Morro by the Spaniards.

CHAPTER XXXII

Billings' quest was rewarded. In that slender, high tower of winding stairway where the shrill voices and breathless gasps of tourists echo he lagged behind near the daughter of Jim Field, ostensibly to buy post cards. The smartly attired older woman whom the girl addressed as "Marcia" seemed to consider it amusing that her companion wished to buy post cards. Billings had noticed that the older one's eyes always seemed above the heads of the other tourists and that she spoke as though she and the girl were quite alone.

"You go ahead," the girl had suggested, "and I'll catch up with you. I want to get some cards."

"Dear child, not really!"

"I always send them to Nannette—She used to be my nurse."

"Oh, I suppose such people would adore them. Well, I'll wait—"

"No, don't, Marcia. Please! I'll catch up with you in just a moment. I'd really rather not delay you, please. It's so wonderful on top I want you to have all the time you can there—"

Billings was unfolding a panoramic view of Morro Castle and the harbor. "How much are the colored ones?" he asked. He was thinking that the girl was "not so slow" although she had let her nervousness reveal itself by intensity.

A moment later Juanito appeared. The girl spoke in a whisper but Billings overheard.

"You mustn't let her see you! A friend of hers—I can't explain now—but she mentioned your name in a letter and——" She grew silent then, looking at Billings, and shook her head.

"These brown ones— how much are they?" Billings questioned loudly. Without turning his head he saw Juanito kiss the girl's hands, first one and then the other. He saw him hold them for an instant against his heart as he looked adoringly down at her, kiss them once again and then drop them. Almost immediately she was gone. The young man sighed a little, and turning, recognized Billings as the man who had been eager to know how many, "exactly how many," Cubans had been killed by the Spaniards in Morro Castle.

He nodded, favoring Billings with one of those smiles that were famous in Havana and that had aroused in many a feminine heart a leaning toward an indiscretion that had not flowered. Then Juanito was gone.

Billings paid for his cards and went up the stairs. He stood close to the two women, overhearing their conversation, but he got nothing from it except Estelle's discomfort over Marcia's light attitude toward the history of Morro. The older woman seemed much amused by the guide's vivid description.

"It is very real to all Cubans," Estelle protested. "You see, a war is real when your uncle or your father was killed in it. And the Spaniards were brutal to Cuban boys as well as to men. It was—really Marcia—quite horrible."

"Darling, you take all this so seriously—" Marcia complained.

Estelle said nothing. She hated flippancy of this sort and the men and women who were her father's friends seemed always to be flippant about everything that was real. She had seen one Cuban woman who evidently understood English wince at Marcia's words and she realized that if Marcia had known she had caused this hurt she would not care. They were a selfish, cruel set whose only real emotions were anger over a maid's stupidity or clumsiness, dissatisfaction with a dress that was "a mess" or a meal that did not happen to please them.

She was tired of it all, Estelle realized—tired to the point of nausea. "But I'm going to get away from it" she thought confidently. "I'm going to get away from it" Pablito's face flashed before her at the thought.

If Juanito was Sir Aubrey's son, Billings was considering shrewdly, there would be trouble ahead. Already he had connected Juanito with the boy who had escaped from Jim Field's camp after murdering Ted Jeffries and stealing the famous Jeffries pearls.

Threads have a way of tangling but of leading, at length, to one ball.

When Pablito accused Beau of having killed Jeffries the older man was calm.

"Who's going to prove it?" he demanded.

"I might."

"And how, sweetheart? I ask you how!"

The two had not exchanged any but the most meager words since that day. "Aw, this is hell!" Lottie had burst out at more than one silent meal as she moved impatiently, slamming down a heavy glass or pushing her chair away from the table.

"Let him treat me decently and I'll return the favor," Beau murmured once, to which Pablito did no more than to ask the slatternly girl who waited upon them for more butter. The situation, as Lottie said, was "pretty bad". "It'll end up in a smash for all of us if you don't bring him around, Beau," she stridently and unhappily prophesied.

"Look here, sister, you tend to your knittin' and I'll tend to mine," Beau answered. "See? I'll manage everything. What could he do, anyhow? If he wants to pull out, let him I can get along without him but he can't do nothing. Nothing! See? What's he got on me? Not a thing in the world. Nobody knows I was there but they do know he was. And they know it was his knife that done it, too!"

Lottie saw but she was not satisfied. Under the few hours that were happy for her there was always an undercurrent of uneasiness.

For a long while Pablito had been anxious to know something about his father. The thought was coupled in his mind with the name of Concepcion Villaverde y Blanco—a name Angela had repeated when he was a tortured child and which he had never forgotten.

He wanted to know about his father because of Estelle. She had said she didn't care about his parentage. She had been sweetly insistent about it. More than that, she had bared her own shame in order to lessen his.

"I know my father," she had said clearly one night when they had met at the edge of Jim Field's grounds, "and I know he is not a good man. Your father could not have been worse. And, anyway, what difference does it make? What difference can anything make to us when we care so?"

Then she had cried a little against Pablito's coat pocket and he had murmured those extravagant things which lovers say.

But still the wish to know about his father persisted. He wanted to see the woman who had cast him into a childhood hell, a woman whose married name he had learned with a bit of questioning.

He started out early one afternoon before the hour for calling. He did not wish to encounter visitors. The house was in Vibora on la Calle San Anastada. He was glad the house was not in the fashionable Vedado. A servant there might have made his reaching La Senora more difficult.

Concepcion Villaverde y Blanco had not, he decided from her address, married too great a fortune.

He made his way quickly through the twisting, narrow streets that always amaze tourists. Then at length he paused before the door. But he did not step out of his car. The man who had talked with him at Morro Castle was standing near the house. A servant had told him that La Senora was out and had not invited him inside to wait. Her own sweetheart happened to be boldly occupying the big salon at the moment, thus making an unusual discourtesy.

Billings saw Pablito stop and then start his car again and drive on. "That settles it" he thought. "And I wasn't so damned slow this time!"

Hailing a fotingo, he directed the driver to take him to a telegraph office. He would cable Sir Aubrey and wait for his arrival. Then together they would talk the situation over and decide what to do.

"This is a pretty kettle of fish—" Billings thought, swaying from side to side as the cab lurched.

CHAPTER XXXIII

The gossip about Juanito and Estelle finally reached Lottie. "I'll spoil her face!" she promised shrilly as she stood, arms akimbo, looking down at Beau who lounged in a deep wicker chair.

"Aw, show a little sense!"

"It means we'll be kicked outa here," Lottie said craftily. That might reach Beau, she thought.

"A lot you're worryin' about that" he commented. "Kid," he said easily, "we got our rake-off. I know how you feel about him, Lottie, but he don't lean your way an' that's all there is to it. You might as well make up your mind about it. It ain't your fault an' it ain't his."

"I'll kill that girl!"

"Now don't talk crazy! You got enough to keep you the rest of your days—with what you can pick up easy. You don't wanta go knifin' anyone—"

"Don't I?"

"Aw, have some sense!" he advised again, much tried and showing it.

I always thawt liver and onions was the goal of your existents and the dreem of your life and the fondest figment of your imagination, she said, and pop said, So it is so it is, and that's just where the nitemare comes in.

Well, I may be dents but as far as I'm concerned you're the ony one among those present that knows what you're tawking about, ma said, and pop said, It's simple enough, cant you picture my horror and consternation when I woke up and realized it was all an empty dreem and that I was far away from liver and onions as ever?

Why you crazy thing, we had liver and onions ony 3 days ago, do you call that far away? ma said, and pop said, of course I do, 3 days is 72 hours, 72 long 60 minnit hours why it's an eternity.

Well of all the crazy nonsensical ideers, ma said. Now just for that I'm not going to have liver and onions, she said, and pop said, See, what did I tell you? I'm not a bit surprised, I knew liver and onions was as far away as the poles and as unattainable as the moon. I was rite all a time, he said.

O hush up you you were not, we'll have liver and onions tonite, at least it will solve the supper problem, such a man my lands, ma said.

And she called up the butcher and pop left for his office whisseling like somebody that felt better instead of werse.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Whether O-lo-a, the princess, still half believed Tarzan was a god, or thought through him she might see once more her exiled lover, she did not raise an alarm. After bidding her slave fetch food for Tarzan, the lovely daughter of Ko-an turned sadly away toward the palace, her thoughts filled with her loathsome marriage to Bu-lot, that would take place on the morrow. When at dusk Pan-at-let brought food Tarzan put the question he had feared to ask the princess. "Tell me," he said, "what you know concerning the mysterious stranger supposed to be hidden in A-lur."

Hesitating and frightened the girl replied: "Among the other slaves it is whispered that a strange she is hidden in the temple. Lu-doh wants . .r for a priestess; the king wants her for himself; yet neither as yet dares taken her, for fear of the other." "Do you know where she is hidden in the temple?" asked Tarzan. "No," replied Pan-at-lee. "I do not even know the truth of this rumor." Tarzan nodded. "Thank you, Pan-at-lee," he said quietly. "You may have helped me more than either of us know." "Would I could do more for you," answered the girl simply, as she turned away.

When night had fallen, Tarzan donned his disguise, swung into the trees overhanging the Forbidden Garden, and dropped to the ground. Moving through the shadows he made his way to that ornate building whose purpose the high priest had avoided telling him. More than ever, he believed it contained the solution of his quest. Finding the entrance and windows of the weird structure ingeniously locked, he feared it would be too risky to use his strength against them, and, after going around the little edifice, he cautiously climbed to the top of a wall surrounding it.

His disguise was bulky and awkward so he now discarded it. "Possibly he thought, "there is an opening in that domed roof." As he guessed, there was, and unbarred, but not large enough to admit his broad shoulders. Then suddenly there came to his nostrils a scent that stripped all civilization from him and left him a fierce and terrible bull-ape of the jungle. So quick the change, he almost gave forth the hideous challenge of the tribe of Kerchak, but stifled it just in time. Within the apartment he heard the high priest's voice, and the one answering Lu-don brought Tarzan to the pinnacle of frenzy.

CHEESEMAKERS EXHORTED

Trade Commissioner. "His insistence on the same quality day after day, and as long as that quality he has started to produce is given him all the time. It doesn't necessarily be of the highest grade, but best."

To carry the idea further, better goods may even be supplied, only to have him complain, he declared.

This condition is not peculiar to cheese alone, it was explained. In nearly all other lines, whether the overseas consumer is interested, the same parallel is found. The importer, generally a man of wide experience and keen tastes, is pretty well satisfied with variety and he has thus a better chance to dispose of the several lines at a profit.

Now New Zealand had outstripped Canada in the race for markets, Mr. Orend Britain in respect to the cheese industry was aptly explained by Mr. Wilson.

"It is merely because they could provide greater volume. They could book orders ahead, and they the importers every assurance that their would be delivered as they were filled, and every one was satisfied. When we had the small volume, was unable to do this. Wholesalers were unable to get their orders filled on time. Even though the guarantee was, and still is, for Canadian cheese, they were forced to purchase they could get volume orders filled. Volume is the important factor in this matter."

It was not for quality that New Zealand drew its favored. It was pointed out. "New Zealand cheese is not bad; many times it actually good. It's level quality is no inducement to the overseas consumption. In this matter, Canada still holds the lead," stated Mr. Wilson.

Marked in Steadon

A ray of hope for those connected with the industry in this country was conveyed by him. With the rise in the price of meats, more cheese will naturally be eaten. This will tend to broaden and enlarge the open market. The bulk of meat comples directly with the sale of cheese. When the price of meat is easier, at a lower price, more cheese will be sold. Meat prices have again risen, with bacon leading the list. The only factor remaining to hinder sales is that beef is still low in price.

But for the fact that Canadian cheesemen have insisted upon quality in manufacture, Canada would have fallen out of the race for last altogether, maintained the speaker. "She has maintained her position because that quality has been paramount. If she didn't have that, then, with the small volumes of only six and seven months of the year, Canada's position would have been. Keep up your quality and gradually increase your quantity. And unless we can get greater production—intensified production—then we have no hope but to be a small, stationary market.

"Through intensified production we can increase the size of our shipments. We can and must give our markets that on the other side the assurance that we can fill any volume of orders required. We have that, and we have assurance that they can have fully matured cheese for 52 weeks of the year. New Zealand, within the next few years will be able to handle all the requirements of the markets in Great Britain. But Canadian cheese that has gained such an enviable place on the counters of stores throughout the country and has won such fame among aficionados, needs only a little harder push to recapture the lost ground."

Not Many Complaints

Glass, wire and ties were cited by the speaker as the principal items that have been found in export shipments to the Old Country. Only fifteen registered complaints have been made during the past ten and one-half years, but the one experience has left an impression that is hard for the purchaser to forget. On a few instances, importers handling the cheese have settled with complainant for small sums. In other instances, such as the chain lunch customer, a wide and important market had been lost. One other lunch room proprietor complained of foreign matter in a cheese bought by him, but was unwilling even then to give up Canadian cheese.

"In the past it has been hinted that the reported finding of these files and other things in the cheese has been a carefully worked out bit of propaganda to give our competitors an edge," said Mr. Wilson, carefully choosing his words. "So far we have been able to get the registered number of the factory of the cheese complained of and we have been loath to blame an innocent man for it, but, I would like to comment on the statement that the complainants have not made any specific complaints for fun, or through any ulterior motive."

There is no artificial remedy for this. It will work out. The only means cheesemakers in this country have of combatting further complaints is to take more precautions and to be more careful and exercise absolutely necessary from now on. In the past the mixing of foreign matter in the cheese has been a mere accident that has happened only in isolated cases, but the has suffered with the publicity, through the carelessness of one man. Keeping the windows closely screened, using clean factory brushes, protected thermometers and washing the manufacturer of the cheese very closely is the only means the makers have to assure themselves of perfect cheese.

"In this matter we haven't just a day to day job, but a job which requires yearly, determined effort. The cheesemaker must be his own grader and inspector throughout the work. Only in this way is he sure."

Cordial Relations Exist

In a brief resume of marketing conditions abroad, Mr. Wilson stated that the most cordial relations exist between this and the Mother Country. Every advantage was being offered Canada to recapture the overseas market which she had lost through lack of quantity production. The remedy, he told his listeners, from now on lay solely in the hands of the makers themselves.

In concluding his address, Mr. Wilson urged his listeners to address him on any point he had overlooked or which needed clarifying. "If I don't know the answer myself, I'll simply tell you so," he reminded them.

That any foreign matter ever been found in any New Zealand cheese?" asked a member of the audience.

That is a difficult question to answer," replied Mr. Wilson. "It is the habit of the trade to extol the competition. But, to my knowledge, I believe that so far no complaints have ever been made regarding this cheese."

Mr. W. J. Mahoney, Belleville, requested the speaker to take back to England with him a picture of the producer in this country at the present time facing weather and land conditions that have not been paralleled in years. "Many of them are desperate right now. They need help in the worst way. If there is any hope of the overseas buyer loosening up his purse strings and overlooking a few cents more it should be the time to impress him."

On the request of Mr. James S. Cook, cheese exporter of the city, Mr. O. G. Publow, former chief dairy instructor of Eastern Ontario spoke briefly on the need for special care in handling the cheese to keep, on the executive. One delegate at the meeting referred to him as "the father of the cheese exhibit in Belleville." Well Orent isn't quite old enough for that honor but he has done yeoman work to bring the standard of exhibit to the high level it now enjoys. His decision to retire from the game was most regretable.

After being accepted into the league Mr. Domenico announced that his new team would wear a new safe uniforms, and while he would manage the team, Harold Bawden would be field coach. Some interesting work has been done in the training of the players in accordance with the schedule. They seemed to think a spell at the bat was the thing while the majority of the clubs are desirous of getting as many games as possible at Central Park on Coleman Plan where new bleachers have been erected. One cannot help but think that the latter is the matter as all persons sitting in the stand at Central Park are to be cash customers. Some interesting games in the original schedule have been cancelled and the Belleville and Central Park instead of the original schedule. Mr. Domenico announcement as to these changes will be made later. The opening game of the senior league was left at May 30 with Orrill meeting the Cobourg Dry team. The play-offs in the Wall Street league start on Central Park next Monday evening. Mr. Crawford, Ex-Airport boxer, crawls thru' the ropes at the Airport tomorrow night he will be seen in the colors of the Eagle art-Warner-Alemite A.C. Crawford is matched to meet Jack Kelly, the stabl- at the Alemite and joins with Fred Lewis, Reg. Bevan-Langman, Gordie Morris and other in the same club. Rumor has Richard Wheeler-Airport-Cahan fighter also coming to Belleville and linking up with the new east end club. Manager Jack Kelly has put on its feet Manager Allen says that he intends staging an outstanding boxing card here, bringing in three or four good fighters from Toronto to meet his boxers. "All that a bout with Wheeler against a good boxing card here, bringing in three or four good fighters from Toronto to meet his boxers. "All that a bout with Wheeler against a good boxing card here, bringing in three or four good fighters from Toronto to meet his boxers. "All that a bout with Wheeler against a good boxing card here, bringing in three or four good fighters from Toronto would be a sell out in this man's town. It's a rough, rugged fighting game and a crowd pleaser."

Today when Collegiate Institute held their annual field day a new procedure will be tried by the officials in charge, whereby some of the track events would be interspersed with field events in the morning and vice versa in the afternoon. Instructor Laughlin feels that it is too much to ask youthful athletes to run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. 880 yard dashes as well as the one and two mile grinds, then to run the least two of the dashes will be run in the morning. The relay races are will also be used in the girls' field day. Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., has been engaged as official starter and Miss Ester Bullett will be clerk of the course. According to information from the collegiate authorities were coming in rather slowly until the instructor intimated that the meet might be dispensed with if more entries were not forthcoming. Answer: The entries at once boomed and a goodly number of athletes will face the barriers today.

Goods news was passed along by the Belleville Rod and Gun Club officials today when it was learned that reduced prices for shells had been made possible for 1934. The Dominion Cartridge Co. the matter is was fri that senior baseball would be soon at popular prices and therefore will be more in the reach of the grandstand. Ladies will be admitted free to the stand. The idea is an extra charge for the grandstand with a reduced general admission fee was inaugurated by the Peterboro club last year and met with decided success. The president and manager of the club feels that the turf will worth a trial here, so now we have better ball at lower prices. In passing it might be said that Carl Casey, who pitched for the Belleville in 1932 and the Victoria in 1933 has been working out faithfully with hopes of returning to the senior fold. Casey's manager was in conference with Vaughan Jack at Madoc yesterday. Jack has been working out at home and will be set out to practise here this evening.

If any local boxers are contemplating taking part in the boxing card at Cobourg tomorrow night they should think twice before appearing there. Large number of the proper sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union, that is according to the Canadian Press dispatch received yesterday. There seems to be a little misunderstanding over the territorial rights between the Ottawa Valley branch and the Central Ontario body. The O.D. body merely threatened suspension of all fighters appearing on the card, but it might be well to "keep out of harms reach."

The latest baseball news talk us that either the Napanee A. team or Cobourg is to appear in Peterboro in an exhibition game on May 24th. Napanee are playing at Kingston this evening while the actual date of the Belleville at Peterboro has not been set, altho Monday seems to be the logical date.

WALL STREET SOFTBALL

In a wild free hitting game the Delaney Bearcats finished the regular schedule in the Wall Street loop by handing the Grills Garage nine the short end of the count by the score of 19 to 16. On various occasions both teams had the ball game well in hand taked away in the bag only to have one team or the other interfere with a batting rally that turned the tide of battle, "the victory assures the Bearcats of a play-off position with the league leading Grills team for the league title, which opens Monday night at Central Park.

After scoring eight runs in the first three innings the Bearcats had their lead in the fifth when the Garagemen staged a batting rally went into the lead, which they held until Coach Bawden, piqued by the loss of his pitcher, Donkle, doubled to drive in the winning run in the last half of the fifth. Ted Bawden, with Johnny Bawden hurled for the winners, while Jack Ellis pitched for Grills outfit used three hurlers to no advantage, Ellis, Bell and Bowen.

George Arliss Reopens in "Rothschild"

"The House of Rothschild", George Arliss' latest picture coming to the Belle yesterday and, here is. Based is a picture of which Hollywood may be justly proud. Yesterday's large audiences were the most enthusiastic with which it has been this reviewer's privilege to view a picture in many a movie moon.

In describing this film, one naturally turns to superlatives, and you will agree when you see it that (and see it you must!) that it is unquestionably George Arliss' best film, and perhaps the most important picture to come out of Hollywood this season.

The story, which Nunnally Johnson based on the play by George Hembert Westley, is an ideal subject for Arliss, feeding as it does the fascinating history of the Rothschild family, from poverty and obscurity resulted in their sensational rise to wealth and power, and producing for Arliss the role of Mayer the founder and later, his son Nathan, the head of the family.

Although the film focuses on the meteoric career of Nathan enabling the Allies to conquer Napoleon and the Rothschilds to attain their end, it happily follows the recent trend of such pictures to stress the intimate, human side of epoch-making events. Here is where the characters of the people who were the leading actors and actresses in them.

Thus, the family life of the Rothschilds.....the love of Nathan for his wife Hannah and their love, in turn, for their children, the duel of the Duke of Wellington's aide, Major Fitzroy, with the Rothschild embus it with added warmth and charm.

Arliss's Nathan Rothschild stands out as one of his lovable characters to stand beside "Disraeli", "Old Dutch" and "The Millionaire". Other touches of the people who were the leading actors and actresses in them.

The production is beautifully mounted and handsomely produced with Arliss' usual flair for detail, and the final scenes in the cotillion ballroom, with all the Napoleonic atmosphere in Technicolor, are truly magnificent.

The cast is so huge and imposing that it is impossible to mention the individual credit to each of the supporting players who contributed such outstanding portrayal, but special mention must be made of Boris Karloff as the villainous Ledrants, Loretta Young as Julie.....she has never looked as enchantingly beautiful Robert Young as Fitzroy, C. Aubrey Smith as Wellington, Helen Westley as the mother of the Rothschilds, Florence Arliss as Hannah; Reginald Owen as Herries and Arthur Byron as Metternich. The superb direction of Alfred Werker, especially in the scene making "Rothschild" the most distinguished banking house in all season, and perhaps of any season.

"THE DEVIL DOLL"

On the same program with the above excellent attraction is Wall Disney "Sg Pad Wor", his newest cartoon classic and a happy second to his "Three Pigs" of last year the Belle News with the latest world wide events and a sweet comedy on bridge appropriately titled "Contract Bridge". Tomorrow and Friday will hold the boards at the Belle until Friday and is one picture you must see.

Announcement of Date by Premier Henry after Legislature is Dissolved

Nominations Will Be Held on June 12 in All Ridings

ISSUE MANIFESTO

Expect Campaign From Now to be Violent and Bitter

Toronto, May 17—Tuesday, June 19, is the date of the Provincial general election. Announcement was made by Premier George S. Henry at 5 o'clock this afternoon, following a meeting of the Executive Council here yesterday afternoon. Lieutenant-Governor Bruce had signed the order dissolving the Eighteenth Legislature.

Nominations on June 12

Nominations will be held on Tuesday, June 12, and advance polling on Saturday, June 16, and Monday, June 18. Writs were sent last night to Returning Officers in the ninety constituencies of the province.

The fateful documents in his pocket, the Prime Minister left the Parliament Buildings soon after 6 o'clock yesterday, and went direct to the Government House. There at 8.55, Dr. Bruce put his name to the Orders-in-Council.

In announcing the date Premier Henry said that the Conservative manifesto was not yet ready for publication, but would be issued within the next few days.

Forecasts of polling day had been given, as in week, to-day, June 20 or 21 had been favorites with the prophets, and it is known that the Cabinet choice had split for some time between the two. Within the two days preceding the announcement the odds were adjusted to the nineteenth.

Third Since 1923

The forthcoming election is the third which, during the present Conservative Administration has faced since it came into power in 1923, it is the first since Hon. George Henry assumed office as Prime Minister, late in 1930.

The now-dead Eighteenth Legislature was born on Oct. 20, 1926 in the thick of the stock market panic that intensified the depression. Premier G. Howard Ferguson saw his victory as "a mandate authorizing the immediate undertaking of the great program of expansion which he would have put out to build a greater and more prosperous Ontario". Premier Henry, the later relief of the destitute was becoming the Province's greatest problem, and Mr. Ferguson, High Commissioner to London.

Of the 112 seats elected in 1926, only 96 retained their membership by dissolution. The others were gone, or, in a few cases, had resigned on by-elections. Two members had died. Of the 96, fewer than 70 are contesting seats this year.

The four and a half years of the Eighteenth Legislature's existence is a record for the present Parliament lifetime. During the term the Government introduced 'guillotine' to add an extra year to its administration; period of redistribution of the membership from 112 to 90.

Many Are Nominated

Announcement of the election date finds Government and Opposition candidates already in the field. Hon. Peter Heenan, Liberal and Liberal-supported aspirants have been campaigning in numerous sections in various parts of the Province. Many of the Provincial Conservative organizations got under way later. In only half a dozen ridings, as yet, has the standard-bearer not to be named, while about twenty more Conservative conventions remain to be held.

The sparring between Government and Opposition chieftains has been active before the opening of the campaign proper, and there is every indication that the fight during the next month will be violent and bitter. The Conservative effort to make liquor the dominant issue already seems dashed, and beer is being relegated to a minor place in campaign speeches.

HON. GARDINER OPENS FIGHT

Wonders Why Prince of Wales Does Not Come to Canada

Prince Albert, Sask., May 17 —(CP)—Campaigning in the Saskatchewan general election, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Liberal Leader, replied today to the query why the Prince of Wales had not paid a recent visit to Canada.

Mr. Gardiner, delivering a full-length address last night, remarked the Prince of Wales used to make regular visits to Canada, but "now he visits his "Ex" ranch at Pekisko, Alta., but really by the trade agreements Canada and the United Kingdom."

Mr. Gardiner observed the Prince had not come to Canada since Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was elected to power because he realized it was being used by Mr. Bennett for electioneering purposes. Instead, he said, the Prince was going to Australia, South Africa, Australia and other countries, which refused a visit preferences to trade with Great Britain.

Mr. Gardiner promised an immediate survey of indebtedness of municipalities, period if a Liberal government were elected. If it were found part of the debt burden was due to the farmers' poor seasons the days when they answered the Provincial call to the front for the Allies, he would ask the government for equitable treatment for municipalities. Lower interest rates through amortization, free seed grain and drought overhauls of the road building policy was promised.

INVESTIGATE WRECK NEAR KAMSACK, SASK.

Engine Topples Down Embankment on a Curve

Kamsack, Sask., May 17 (CP)—Investigation was underway today into the wreck of a Canadian National Railways freight train here last night which resulted in the death of the engineer and serious injuries to two of the crew.

Joe Clark, the engineer, of Dauphin, Man., was killed as the engine toppled off the high railway embankment at a curve and hurtled to the bottom. Two firemen recovered several hours later from the wreckage.

Joe Clark, fireman, and Roy Cunningham, also of Dauphin, Man., were both seriously injured when they jumped to themselves. Full extent of their injuries has not yet been determined.

The cause of the grading at the curve was believed to have been the cause of the accident. Clark was ploughed down the embankment when he jumped off the left side of the locomotive cab and was hurtled to the bottom. Cunningham recovered several hours later from the wreckage.

MacArthur cited seven instances in which he claimed he was libeled, and asked $250,000 damages for each.

The suit was filed yesterday in the district of Columbia Supreme Court.

LARGE MEETING

Chairman Hydro Commission Speaks on Improvements Needed

Unequivocally denying that members of the Belleville Co-operative Workers' Association which, he heads had been opposed to relief work at Zwick's Island, and that, accordingly, a street-cleaning, members of the organization had been "knocking" the project, President J. E. Baldwin at a meeting of that organization held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms last night, declared the fact that the minutes of a previous meeting of the Association, entered on October 20, last, contained a resolution definitely endorsing the action of the city on the subject, and explaining the stand of the Workers' council on the matter.

"These insinuations are being circulated by persons who are evidently afraid to come out in the open and say openly what is behind them," Mr. Baldwin in disposing of the matter. "We have never been against that or any other project that has been put up by the city and the United Kingdom."

But he regretted the Prince had not come to Canada since Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was elected to power because he realized it was being used by Mr. Bennett for electioneering purposes. Instead, he said, the Prince were going to Australia, South Africa, Australia and other countries, which refused a visit preferences to trade with Great Britain.

Mr. Gardiner promised an immediate survey of indebtedness of municipalities, period if a Liberal government were elected. If it were found part of the debt burden was due to the farmers' poor seasons the days when they answered the Provincial call to the front for the Allies, he would ask the government for equitable treatment for municipalities. Lower interest rates through amortization, free seed grain and drought overhauls of the road building policy was promised.

GREAT BRITAIN ASKS WAR BE STOPPED

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Correspondent)

Geneva, May 17 (AP)—Great Britain called on the world today to "stop the war" between Italy and Ethiopia in South America.

Six nations promptly fell into step and all eyes turned to the United States to see whether the country would do to smash the war in its own backyard.

Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, asked the Assembly of the League of Nations to cable 17 nations at once to "stop the war" and to prohibit arms and ammunition to the two small countries locked in a death struggle in the Chaco region of the South American continent.

Delegates of the British move was immediately pledged by the representatives of France, Italy, Soviet Argentina, Australia, and Czechoslovakia.

Hugh Rowlison, United States Minister to Switzerland and observer at the League of Nations, said he had not yet instructions from the Government at Washington.

Jane Ward, upper right, and Ann Williams, lower, left, have been held in connection with the kidnapping. Police say James Kirk; lower center, and Roy Williams, right, have confessed.

RESCUE PARTY IS BLOWN UP

Second Explosion in Mine is Most Disastrous

Brussels, May 17 (AP)—Fourteen men, members of a rescue party of 20 year up the mine at Marcinelle-au-Pont, were killed today by a second explosion in the Patureges Au Pief Mine.

They were caught by an explosion of firedamp as they sought the bodies of three miners unrecovered from the former blast. The whole population of the mining area was thrown into consternation by the new tragedy.

GAVE SHIP WIDE BERTH

New York, May 17 (AP)—Captain J. W. Binks today took a special investigating committee that his ship, the Olympic, was making knots an hour when it rammed the Nantucket lightship last Tuesday morning.

Binks said that when he passed over the lightship a wide berth.

"I thought that I was two miles away from the lightship at the time of the collision," he declared. "I had ported 10 degrees to bring the Olympic further away from the lightship, then, to my horror, I saw it dead ahead."

BRICKLAYERS' UNION SEEKS PROTECTION

Protest Importation of U. S. Workmen For Construction

Toronto, May 17 (CP)—Claiming they are in a position to supply any skilled or highly-technical labor needed, the Bricklayers' Union of Canada has protested against importation of United States workmen for the proposed alterations to the Canadian Sumsaas Company's plant at Port Colborne.

At the request of the Union the employment branch of the Ontario Department of Labor instigated an investigation today, it was announced.

Preserved Jams as Frauds, Stevens Probe is Told

Ottawa, May 17—(CP)—In the purchase of preserved jams the public is being more or less defrauded, M. M. Robinson of Hamilton, for the Ontario Growers Markets council, told the Stevens Mine Buying Committee here today. Jams are made and sold by some manufacturers as strawberry, raspberry, peach jam, apricot jam, in some of which, he said as little as 10 per cent of the named fruit is used.

"There are a few dead-birds to three-quarters of the quantity of pulp in the same amount of jam had seriously curtailed the growers fruit market. The price of fruit had been forced down below the cost of production and the growers were facing the necessity of operation at a loss or go out of the business in which all their life savings were invested.

"This has been brought about by the make buying of the larger stores and chains demanding cheaper products and the desperate competition between manufacturers to compete for this big business," witness went on. "If the manufacturer does not submit, the chain stands idle and overhead eats him up while his competitor, who does submit, is at least unloading his stock and saving on its overhead. In years gone by the jammers used to buy their berries or other fruits and fruit pulp from the farmer in large labor force. Now they canno do this as they do not know the quality of jam they will have to manufacture to suit the buyer. Fruit pulp is sent in into fruit-pumps or freeze it in cold storage and manufacture it up again or order of the price quality demanded by the chain store buyer. This, public standards and cold storage etc, adds to the price spread between the grower and the consumer."

Recently a group of growers made some inquiry into the jam situation. Before they were through they were dumbfounded with the revelations, lower, left, have been held in connection with the kidnapping. Police say James Kirk; lower center, and Roy Williams, right, have confessed.

Pulled Teeth with Pliers and Made Plates from Aluminum

Gainsville, Ga., May 17.—(AP) of the job myself.

—Stanley Patterson lives in the mountains near here, he has never ridden a train.

When the teeth began hurting he came to Gainsville, but drove to the dentist's chair made him nervous and he went home before his teeth could be pulled. His grandson pulled—or rather, knocked out the—one tooth.

"He got a horseshoe nail and hammer and knocked it out," Patterson said. "Then I decided I'd make some pullers and do the rest to rock candy.

"When I finished pulling all my teeth I went to the county seat here in Gainesville for him to make my plates. He made 'em all right but they were too short length out, so I decided to make some of my own."

Using the dentist's plates, Patterson made a mold on a brick. Then he melted aluminum from the kitchen——"a dipper boiler or just anything"——and poured it into the mold. Now he had a set of grinders with which he is able to chew anything from livelisted

HEPBURN TO RESIGN SEAT AT OTTAWA

June 19. Election. Date Eagerly Awaited by Both Parties

COUNT DAYS

Liberals To Have All Candidates in Field in One Week

Toronto, May 17 (CP)—The men who guide Ontario's political parties today scanned their campaign programmes and counted the days until the trek to the polls will start to decide those who shall govern the Province for another four years. Premier George S. Henry started his drive swiftly a band of campaigners when he announced polling day as June 19, earlier than most forecasts.

His announcement was met with "delight" by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, who immediately announced he would resign as Liberal member in the House of Commons for West Elgin to devote all his time to his Ontario campaigning. He declared he not only expected to add to his fifteen followers in the Legislature but that the people of the Province would get an end to "reactionary Tory Government headed by George Henry."

Premier George S. Henry who had 84 members in the Ontario Government that was dissolved last night by Lieut.-Governor Bruce, moved through order-in-council, set June 19 for the official nomination and advance polling June 16 and 18. He did not issue his manifesto which is expected to be a lengthy one, and contain important announcements of policy of the Province.

Mr. Hepburn's resignation as a House of Commons member will be in Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's hands and will be presented to the Speaker of the House the day after the official nomination day. After completing arrangements for Russell, Leeds, Glengarry and South Renfrew conventions, Mr. Hepburn will leave for Welland and Port Colborne, where he will launch his fight for election in Ontario.

Liberals expect to have all candidates in the field within a week.

Bullfrogs Being Groomed for Contest to Decide Best Leaper

Sonora, Calif., May 17 (AP)—A mammoth bullfrog, leaping champion of his green-backed kingdom, eyed his competitors warily today as they were groomed for the sixth annual jumping frog jubilee to be held in the historic gold mining town of Angel's Camp next Saturday and Sunday.

For two years the mammoth frog has leaped greater distances than any other croaker, but he may have to stretch himself to retain his honors. The competition appears strong.

Strict rules have been drawn up for the contest, in which many frogs will jump in four separate arenas. The contestants must jump in the area to which they are assigned as the committee feels it would be confusing to have the frogs leaping to any place as the idea struck them. Another rule specifies that a frog will be permitted only one minute to "take off."

LANTERNS PLACED BY WORKMEN TAKEN

Mr. E. T. Austin, manager of the local water works department, reported to the police the loss of a number of lanterns placed along Moira street recently. Mr. Austin informed the police that a string of lanterns had been placed along the ditch on Moira street on Tuesday night. Next morning those lanterns had either been extinguished or stolen. The majority of the lanterns were put out, thus giving passers by no adequate warning. Three of the lanterns were reported stolen. After investigating the case Sergeant Hoolch ascertained sufficient information and evidence to acquaint himself with the whereabouts of the culprits. The police expect to have the lanterns returned to the waterworks department before nightfall.

RAIN HARBINGER OF WARM WEATHER

A soft summer rain which pattered over the city and district during the night was looked upon by the weather wise as being a certain forerunner of warmer weather to come, and a means of breaking the cold weather jinx and freezing temperatures that have held the district for the past week or so. With the change came a pleasing rise in temperatures from almost freezing in the early morning to a high point of nearly 80.

BARBER SHOP AND STORE ENTERED

Forcing a rear door open by the use of an iron bar the premises occupied by Bert Juby's barber shop and cigar store some time last night, stealing only a small quantity of tobacco. A similar attempt to break and enter Mr. Bertram's general store at Shannonville was frustrated when the rear door held without the efforts of the robbers when they endeavored to pry open the back door of that establishment.

Provincial Constables Kelly and Wren investigated the cases this morning and after going over the immediate ground found sufficient clues to assure them of leading to the culprits. No attempt to open the cash boxes was reported. After the unsuccessful attempt to gain entrance to the Latone store the robbers dropped an iron bar.

ONLY FAIR LUCK IN PICKEREL FISHING

Chilly Water And Cold Atmosphere Drive Fish to Deep Water

Attired in warm clothing and hip rubber boots, and armed with their pickerel poles and rods, a goodly seeming smile of optimism, dozens of disciples of the city sallied forth yesterday on the first day of the opening season on pickerel to the Bay of Quinte streams of the back section as well as the waters adjacent to the city.

They reported only fair luck on their return last evening. Chilly waters and colder air have forced the fish into deeper water, and are suited for the most part in slim catches. It is believed, that plenty of pickerel are in the water, but warmer weather is needed before dependable catches may be made.

Angling in the Trent River on Tuesday Martin Harvey caught four fine specimens. The largest weighed five pounds and was caught on a dependable deep down bait.

Pickerel were also to be found in the bay of quinte near Big Island. It was reported by one other fishing party of the city, who returned late yesterday afternoon with several good fish.

Letters to The Editor

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

I am writing to call the attention of the public to a concert and entertainment of outstanding merit to be given in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute on Wednesday, Thursday, May 24th. The six months the members of the Belleville Concert Orchestra have been assiduously practicing to prepare a program that will when presented next Thursday night afford the music lovers of our city an opportunity to hear what is best in the realm of vocal and instrumental music when clothed in the travel to the great centres of population.

I speak for this laudable enterprise a public response that will be worthy of the effort that has been expended by way of preparation and offer encouragement to those who are so unselfishly devoting their talents to the presentation of this exceedingly attractive and wholesome form of entertainment.

GEO. O. TICE, Mayor.

CENTENNIAL DATE MAY BE CHANGED

Belleville, May 17, 1934.

To the Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,
City.

Re Belleville Celebration.

Dear Sir:—

Nomination day is the 12th and election day the 19th of June, and as the attention of so many persons will be absorbed by the elections, the suggestion has been made that the Celebration be postponed for about a week.

His Honour Judge Deroche is Revising Officer for the County of Hastings and Mr. Revising Officer for the City of Belleville. This, with my other public duties will prevent me giving attention to the Celebration.

If the Celebration goes on upon the dates selected, namely June 18th to June 23rd, everyone will have to be made with someone to take care of the great mass of details which will arise almost daily from now until the Celebration is over.

I would suggest the selection of some reputable citizen of experience who can give time to this work. I, therefore, with Worship the Mayor but he informs me that he has so many duties that he could not take the full responsibility.

A meeting has been called at the Committee Rooms for Friday night to consider this matter, and I would be glad to see a good attendance.

We have secured an offer from Johnny Walker, the well known promoter, to bring ten of the best world's wrestlers to stage a contest here during the celebration.

Mr. Walker offers to "Tiny" Rogers, chairman of the Aquatics committee, four tickets for each number of amateur swimming events and boat races.

Allan Meagher, chairman of the land sports committee has arranged for a number of interesting events.

C. E. Argue, chairman of the Midway committee has arranged for one of the best midway proditions ever exhibited in Belleville.

William McMullen, chairman of the pageant committee has planned on a first class pageant displaying historical incidents from the Indian period to date which a number of characters in early history of the County will be introduced.

Yours sincerely,
W. C. MIKEL.

TRACK RIPPED BY DERAILMENT

Undercarriage Equipment Drops Down But No One Injured

Hamilton, May 17—About $1,000 damage was done when a freight train, travelling from Toronto to the Niagara Falls district, was derailed this morning on the C.N.R. main line just west of the Wellington street intersection.

The accident was caused by some of the undercarriage equipment on the third car from the end of the long train dragging along the right-of-way. The switch to a siding was thrown, and the three end cars instead of following along the main line, were diverted in the siding. Couplings broke, and the cars ripped up the tracks, buckling them in fantastic grapevine shapes and ripping great holes in the surface of the earth.

No person was injured. The cars were loaded with a heavy cargo of nickel destined for Port Colborne.

Traffic was maintained on a single line, and wrecking crews hoped to have the south track cleared by this afternoon.

MOTORISTS FINED FOR ALL NIGHT PARKING

After repeatedly warning motorists relating to all night parking in the down town area in Belleville police automobile crews have placed notice stickers on their respective cars this morning requesting them to report at the police station, where upon arrival all received summonses. The majority of the delinquents pleaded guilty without as much as appearing before His Worship, Magistrate Mikel. The fine being set at two dollars, without costs. The informations were laid under section 13 of by-law No. 2767 of the City of Belleville, which prohibits all night parking on local streets.

One Toronto motorist decided he would defy the by-law and pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Mikel in today's police court. The accused man admitted leaving his car in front of a local hotel all night, but assured the court he had been informed by the officer that it was perfectly within the law, providing he had left the car off the street before 3 a.m. today. Later the accused man admitted the constable may have been referring to all night parking on the market square. He paid a two dollar fine also.

"We have repeatedly warned the motorists relating to this all night parking, without avail and I would suggest that the fine be increased if this practice is not discontinued," added Chief Kidd when informing the court that the streets must be kept clear in order to give the city sweeper a chance to operate at night.

FLIERS ENJOY HOSPITALITY

Hope to Have Plane Repaired in Next Two Days

Ennis, Irish Free State, May 17 (CAP)—Irish hospitality took the edge today off the impatience of Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cedric Dalebill, resting at delay in repairing the plane in which they were forced down on a projected New York to Rome flight.

While mechanics from the Baldonnel army airprome at Dublin swarmed over the crippled plan in relays in a field near Lahinch, the fliers strolled about this quaint village, where they were feted last night by the Chamber of Commerce. They were at a dinner which lasted past midnight. Ennis is County Clare's biggest town.

The army mechanics started work on the big orange monoplane sat down, hoping to complete repairs within two days and enable the airmen to hop for Rome before the end of the week.

Crowds of curious milled about the craft, still resting where the fliers landed Tuesday night at the village of two miles from Lahinch.

Chief damage appeared to have been done to the undercarriage when the plane, named the Leonardo da Vinci, crashed into a sand bank in the landing.

EMPIRE DAY'S IMPORTANCE

Admiral of the Fleet Earl Jellicoe, G.C.B., O.M., G.C.C.O., as president of the Empire Day Movement, has sent a message to all parts of His Majesty's Dominions, a copy of which has been received by Col. W. N. Poston who is in charge of the activities of the movement in this part of Canada. The president notes the economic improvement during the past twelvemonth with a steady diminution of the unemployment which has been the cause of such anxiety for the past few years.

The road to our old prosperity may still be lengthy but the spirit which has enabled our people throughout the Empire to overcome the formidable difficulties which confronted us two years ago will unquestionably remain to enable us to meet any troubles yet before us. Unity, comradeship, and sympathy between the people who compose our great Empire are, and ever will be, essential to its strength and prosperity," he says.

"The well-being and happiness of 493 million people depend upon Empire loyalty, and undoubtedly the peace of the world is largely affected by the influence which the Empire can exert upon international problems. For this influence our combined strength is necessary.

"The Empire Day Movement exists to impress upon the people of the Empire their responsibility in these days.

"May this Empire Day be celebrated with one thought in each mind: that our Empire, with God's blessing, shall grow and strengthen and increase in the cause of world peace and prosperity."

That puts the case in a nutshell for the Motherland and the Dominions. The individual citizen has a part to play. A national observance means a great deal.

Though Britain celebrates as Empire Day what we know as Victoria Day, namely May 24th, there is no confusion. Adult Canadians to the younger generation will make their duty on Victoria Day, and a little of their zeal can cast its shadow before, even on May 23rd, when the children celebrate.

WORLD TRADE AND PEACE

International business is a most effective means to make international friends, Harvey S. Firestone of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company stated recently in an address on the building of international goodwill through world trade. His opinion is that many of men gather around a table and there is certain to be better understanding, no matter what language they may speak or how widely separated their interests may be. International business can be the round table of the world where a citizen of any country on earth may find a place to sit and talk with the rest. It can be a vital medium through which international goodwill may be stimulated and strengthened through the years to come.

Mr. Firestone cited the work of organizations as the Red Cross, the Near-East Relief and the International Y.M.C.A., the latter of which is pursuing its fine human aims in fifty-four countries. He sees a powerful influence in this organization which has spent millions in money and forty years in devotion and effort to build Christian character and good-will among the nations of the earth.

WHY A GARDEN ?

Why bother with a garden? is a questioned answered by Mrs. J. H. Shearer of Poole, Ontario, in Home and Country, the official magazine of the Ontario Women's Institutes.

She answers that those who "do not bother" with a garden "miss the real taste and flavor of fresh vegetables, they never know the saving in dollars and cents, they never know the health and happiness of real work and what is serious, they do not know that they are not being honest with their children."

Mrs. Poole declares that to maintain present standards of health and efficiency, our homes will have to awaken to a sense of their responsibility to their children. A garden need be for no other reason in our country who are not physically fit and mentally and morally sound, for when a child has a well-developed body well-functioning, and a sensible of being pure and honest in all things is more than half solved. A child with a sound body has a one hundred per cent. chance of becoming a worthwhile man or woman with good mind and clear morals, provided the parents know how to train him or her to make decisions and to respect the rights of others."

She points out that the successful farmer is the man who looks on land, to the scenery of each individual animal or fowl, to the production and procuring of the proper foods to develop their bodies, and remarks that there is nothing more pathetic than to see a man displaying a fine herd of cattle, while one or more poor developed and untrained children stand beside him.

Farmers are finding a solution of the problems of health and training and the values of foods, as they turn to the garden.

Besides the health-giving character of the garden Mrs. Poole tells how to grow and store carrots, beets, cabbage, onions, squash, cauliflower, celery, parsnips, dried beans and potatoes which will feed a family for thirty-five weeks from the first of October to the first of June. She points out how eager children are to help in the planting of the garden and how they watch to see "if the seeds have come up". Children, she says, grow to a real acquaintance with their parents in "our garden".

Here is how she describes our garden:

"A garden which means all the family of six besides gifts of garden produce to neighbors and friends, is 125 ft. long and 60 ft. wide (north sloping because they have no choice in this). It provides an abundant supply of all the vegetable listed in the budget, as well as cucumbers, parsley, mint, sage, dill, broad Windsor beans, lima beans, brussels sprouts, kohl-rabi and rhubarb. There are also three apple trees, one pear tree and one alm tree in this garden. The flower garden adjoins this garden; no, it is not a perennial border, just a flower garden where annuals, perennials, shrubs and wild flowers grow and gladden the passer-by as well as the neighbors and family yet, and it provokes many a family discussion and always rouses as has to yield to the majority.

"There are many such gardens, with even a better record of production than this one to be found throughout Ontario, but, alas, there are in this same Ontario thousands of farm and village homes where there are children and no gardens."

FOR ME.

Enough, enough for me
As island in the sea
Where no ships come;
But only morn and night
And screaming gulls in flight
And wave and foam.

No great joys blossom there,
No misery or care,
In calm or storm
Still mounting wave on wave
Hastes ever up to love'
Cold sands, and warm.

No autumn and no spring,
No mating birds to sing;
But, wave and stranger,
Enough, enough for me
An island in the sea
Time does not change.

—Aline Michaelis,

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME is not popular in Kingston Penitentiary, according to reports from that institution, and is said to have had something to do with the recent escape from there. The inmates say that they have to go to bed an hour earlier, and in broad daylight, and their rest is interfered with. Early to bed, and early to rise makes convicts healthy, if not wealthy, but does not make them wise, apparently.

IT COSTS more to float a mine than to sink one, apparently, judging by the high pressure salesmanship operating around Toronto in connection with the hectic days of 1929 and thereabouts.

LIGHTSHIP NANTUCKET, placed on dangerous shoals to warn the ships hastening homeward of death and danger, sending out radio beams, fell victim to the dangers of the sea, and in warning the giant steamship Olympia to keep off the shoals was struck by that great vessel, cut in two, and sank with the loss of seven lives. It is alleged that the very warning radio beam used to appise vessels of danger drew the Olympia directly to the lightship and was the cause of the collision, but that's a matter for the scientists to determine.

WITH THE DATE of the provincial election finally set the last disturbing question has been rubbed off the slate and we can sit back and watch the politicians do the worrying.

NUDISTS ARE SHOPPING, not for clothes, but for a nice little island in the St. Lawrence where they can sit all day in the sun clothed on nothing but their own skins. Reports in the Montreal French New York City where most of the Yankee nudists hibernate during the winter. Seems as though among the thousand odd islands between Brockville and Kingston there should be one secluded enough to obviate the necessity of dressing for dinner.

MAN'S SHORT MEMORY

"The horrors of the Great War," General E. J. Higgins, international leader of the Salvation Army, observes in the London Daily News of recent issue, "are receding from the mind of the present generation, and unless it is possible to create a will to peace based upon the moral and spiritual convictions of the peoples of the world, passions will be as readily aroused as in 1914, and we shall find ourselves launched upon a 'next war' that will be absolutely catastrophic—indeed, the grave of civilization."

If you think General Higgins' analysis is wrong, says Rotarian Magazine, you need but ask any boy or girl under twenty to give his or her impressions of the Great War. Quite likely you, whose recollection of the "war to end war" is so keen, will be surprised. Despite history books, even the realism of moving pictures, a glamor of romance seems to be increasing in the picture of war carried by young minds.

Perhaps, as a cynic once remarked, man is the animal that has no memory.

Judge—Mose, is your wife dependent upon you?

Mose—She sho is, judge. If I didn't go out and get de cabin's she'd have a mighty plum to death.

Schoolmaster—This makes the fifth time I have punished you this week. What have you to say?

Bobby—I am glad it's Friday, sir.

Before he went away on his annual holiday the manager of a small zoo left instructibns that he should be advised by post every morning as to how the city cricket team was progressing during his absence.

On the second morning he received an express letter. He hastily opened it, and read:

"Everything O.K. except that chimpanzee seems to be pining for a companion. What shall we do until you return?"

"Gal," pleaded a colored suitor at the conclusion of an impassioned proposal, "if you don' marry me all I go crazy!"

"Humph!" sniffed the unmoved belle. "An' who's gwine fix it out?"

JEALOUSY IS NATURAL PART OF ALL WOMEN

Men Are Also Jealous But Not to so Great a Degree as Women

(By Lecia E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.)
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Jealousy is a perfectly natural part of a woman's emotional nature. This forces her great desire to be first. To be first means that she has captured her mate and that he holds her in esteem beyond all others. When the danger looms that she holds the first place, she becomes suspicious. This suspicion breeds jealousy.

One would conclude that the desire to be first would carry with it strong masculine desires, even downright selfishness. On the other hand, everybody knows that women yearn to sacrifice themselves. Self-contemplation is more superficial than is fundamental. Because women make sacrifices, they do it for something. They love and think in turn, really means pleasure for themselves. Besides it makes them feel important. Even here the desire to be first is not to be denied.

Every woman wants to make happy everybody for whom she is personally interested. She is really but little interested in persons outside her intimate circle. Hence, if she believes them to be unhappy. The fact that she is so absorbed desires to spread happiness to the persons of her choice also accounts for the jealousies with which she surrounds them. She is unyielding in spite of anything that touches or threatens their welfare.

Women, of course, are jealous of each other. A woman may even be jealous of another whom she cannot possibly be her rival or influence her career happiness or well being in any way. She may be jealous of another's superior social position, her wealth, her children, almost anything that is regarded as wish to possess herself.

Men are also capable of jealousy. A man can become madly jealous of a rival in love. However, the man's rival does not hurt his pride as much as the man who is able that he will not be jealous for long. Even when a man is beset in millionaire's wife or any other accomplishment, his jealousy does not amount to the height as does a woman's nor does he bear his rival actively for any great length of time.

Man is accustomed to seeing values in perspective, and from a more or less impartial point of view. Woman, however, is not. She is a creature of intuition. A woman will make every issue a personal matter. She tries always to live by anything upon, which she has centred her interest. If a mere woman is the cause of that, he will not blame the man who has beaten him but he will try to improve himself so that he may stand a better chance of success the next time. A woman in similar circumstances will find refuge in nursing here jealousy, even going so far, sometimes, as to plan revenge regardless of whether the other woman deserved success or not.

DR. RISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

In this spring and early summer one should eat plenty of green, fresh mixed raw salads, which Dr. Risch ritually is popular, but also such seasonable greens as dandelion and water cress. Although some people do not favor the latter, because of the bitter taste, it may be said that that can be disguised with certain salad dressings. Besides, the bitter taste is of itself an advantage because it helps to create appetite and makes other food eaten taste better.

CHOIR PRESENTS MUSIC FESTIVAL

Mother's Day Services Held in Madoc Churches

Madoc—The choir of Trinity United Church presented a very entertaining musical festival at the regular morning service in honour of Mother's Day. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers and pink and white blossoms. Under the capable direction of Mrs. Leslie Ashley the choir rendered the following program:

Anthem—"Lord, I Will Praise Thee."

Solo—Miss Gertrude Bedford, Abbot, Reddick and Fletcher—"Mother of Mine, My Night."

Solo—Mrs. Geo. White—"Just For Today."

Anthem—"He That Dwelleth" the best solo by Mr. W. Fletcher.

Musical Monologue—"Home" Edgar Guest, Abbot.

Solo—"Mother"—O. J. Ross.

Anthem—"March On Ye Soldiers True."

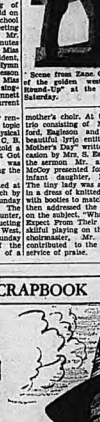
At the regular evening service the Rev. G. Ross Kerr dedicated his address to "An Old-Fashioned Mother." The choir sang "Hark, Hark My Soul"; Miss Fair; an appropriate solo "My Mother You" and Mr. and Mrs. Abbot, a beautiful duet, "Abide With Me."

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Ashley and Mrs. Robt. Bristol spent Sunday in Whitby attending the golden wedding of the former's grandson, John Archibald Ashley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashley, of Whitby. The celebration took place at Oshawa spent the week-end in Madoc.

Some of the friends of Mrs. Breakell called at her home on Monday evening to wish her many happy returns of her 80th birthday. Mrs. Breakell has lived in Madoc most of her life and is in good health.

Mr. Don Kinlock of Oshawa was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fisher, in Madoc.



Mr. and Mrs. Phillis Pulford, of LaSalle, N.Y., spent the week-end in Madoc.

Mrs. A. H. Watson has returned home after a visit to Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The regular weekly meeting of Trinity United Church was held on Wednesday last in the Sunday school rooms of the church. The meeting opened by singing hymn 168. Mr. Hayes led in prayer. Minutes were read and approved. Miss Ethel Bell and Mrs. Ashley were elected look charge of the program. Hymn 167 was sung. The Scripture lesson was read from Acts 3, 1-10 by Miss Lillian Connor. All joined in singing Hymn 92, Miss Loreen Bennett gave an interesting talk on current events in Mission work.

Mesdames Bell and Ashley rendered a lovely duet. The topic "How Jesus Ministers to Physical Ills" was taken by Mrs. R. B. Hamm. Miss Eileen Kelly told a story entitled "The Boy With Four Colours." The meeting was brought to a close by repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

Mother's Day was celebrated at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church by the congregation and the Sunday School worshipping together. The pastor, the Rev. W. J. Hunter, was ably assisted in the conducting of the service by Mr. Geo. West, superintendent of the Sunday School. A special feature of the celebration was the singing of a mother's choir. At the offertory a trio consisting of Mesdames Bedford, Ragleson and Nicol gave a beautiful lyric entitled "This Is Mother's Day" written for the occasion by Mrs. S. Ragleson. Before the sermon Mr. and Mrs. Clell McCoy presented for baptism their infant daughter, Marolyn Jean. The tiny lady was suitably arrayed in a dress of knitted shell pink silk with booties to match. The minister then addressed the Sunday School on the subject, "What Our Mothers Expect From Their Children." The skilful playing on the organ of the choirmaster, Mr. Geo. Mayhew, contributed to the success of the service of praise.

S.R. Foreman becomes Deacon Services at R. E. Synod Meeting

Impressive Service at Emmanuel Church Wednesday Evening

Mr. S. R. Foreman, of Toronto, was made a deacon in the Free Church of the Reformed Episcopal Church in Canada at a meeting of the First Synod of Canada, held in Emanuel Reformed Episcopal Church on Wednesday evening. Bishop George Marshall, who is rector of Emmanuel Church, officiating.

The service of ordination was impressive and a number of clergymen took part.

At eight o'clock the service opened with a hymn announced by the Rev. Geo. Buckingham. Due to the unavoidable absence of the Rev. Dr. James Semple, the Rev. W. H. Hall of Belleville, read the Litany, followed by the second hymn.

Bishop Marshall opened the exhortation by the text taken from St. Matthew's Gospel, 9th Chapter, verses 36, 37, 38: "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith He unto His disciples, the harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth labourers into His harvest."

The Bishop's short sermon took the form of advice and encouragement to the ordinand, Mr. S. R. Foreman, of Toronto. He touched on the need for sympathy and understanding on the part of the teacher of the Gospel, and upon the dangers and temptations that beset the paths of the young men in their work for the Church. He closed with a short prayer for guidance and help for the ordinand.

Following the next hymn, the Rev. Harold Reid said a few words of encouragement to the ordinand, as from one young minister to another. After the Rev. Mr. Reid's brief talk, the Rev. Mr. Scaife presented the ordinand, Mr. Foreman, to Bishop Marshall. Following a few minutes of silent prayer, Bishop Marshall led the congregation in prayer. Special collect was then made, and a hymn was sung, announced by Bishop Marshall.

Immediately after the hymn, the service for Holy Communion was commenced. Bishop Marshall and the Rev. Mr. Scaife took part in the Communion service. The Rev. Dr. Semple read the Collect. Mr. S. R. Foreman was taken to the rail by the Rev. Mr. Scaife, by whom he was presented as ordinand, and questioned by Bishop Marshall, according to the Article for ordaining Presbyters. In the Communion Prayer Book, the ordinand answered all questions, then read a prayer from the book and the Communion service was continued.

After the service a prayer was made by Bishop Marshall, benediction was given, and the Doxology was sung.

Yesterday at five o'clock the standing committee of the First Synod of Canada commenced their meeting. Those present were: Bishop Marshall; Mr. Evan Barlow; Mr. Pr'd'ent Ketcheson, of Emmanuel Church, Belleville; Mr. Gallagher of Christ Church, Deseronto; Rev. G. W. B. Scaife, of St. Nathan's Church, Toronto; Rev. G. O. B. Buckingham, M.A., of Chicago, Mr. Bottrell, of Kingston, and Mr. Burrows, of St. David's Church, Ottawa. Matters of importance to the Synod were discussed. The meeting adjourned for tea and resumed afterwards.

The standing committee resumed this morning.

Sam Could be a Fireman if Blue Coat Made a Man

Sees His Own Kin Folk Heading for 'Kaintuck' in Rick-looking Cars And Hopes For Lift

His classic countenance creased with the crescent grin of a chap who needed to be friends—or one who wanted to ask a favor, Sam Johnson, colored, the only bright beam of light on a dull day for firemen of'g No. 1 Firehall South of the city, on Wednesday afternoon.

Sam, long enough at the ball to rest a pair of weary feet that have carried him in slow and painful stages from Old Kaintuck'.

"Boy, is mah dawgs bahkin' " breathed Sam as his plump form flowed onto a bench near the upper end of the park while the tired and dusty owner surveyed with critical eyes a pair of very ragged shoes whose soles gave fair promise of soon getting the owner back on his feet again. "Boy", sighed the remembered form once again as the survey of the shoes completed itself of its own accord, and concentrated upon other nearby objects.

Dawgs Firmly Rooted

"All the way from Kaintuck ah is just gotta go back dah 'cheah sonn, but ah feel as if ah could plumb rest mah weary bones fo'cheah. An' ah'm gwine hankin fo' dis yere country shall iffen ah gits back. Seems jes as if ah'll nevah make it somehow. Nevah see such dogpone times as dese yere. An' mah feet is plumb busted, dere is gunn to all no account. Kain't walk in 'em no mo'. Kain't get nuw one, Ah'm nobody got any second hand ones they could give me. Ain't nobody mo'nah's got a pair o' bebbens. Tried 'em all, ah did. Thin by me 'cheah." A dusky face lifted in the general direction of a blue-coated fireman who stood nearby as the inflection of a soft Southern voice rose in hopeless sounding monotone. Sam's shoes were undoubtedly gone. But firemen of the local station could offer little help to a man who were the "shoes" and insisted on keeping up a continental hitch hike in fast disappearing leather. "Tough", commented one who stood nearby.

Sam left Kaintuck' last September with a small pack on his back and a deep-rooted desire to see the world. Since then he has had more ups and downs than an elevator operator in a metropolitan skyscraper. Two months during the late end of last summer he spent in the salmon canneries along the Pacific Coast. He encountered blustering gales and blizzards in a long trek across the western prairies heading for Ontario during the early part of the winter. By the time really cold weather had arrived he was settled, working for his board on a farm in Northern Ontario.

In Business

Several weeks were spent at Sudbury where he was general roustabout for a mining company. He saved his pennies, bought a portable shoe shining outfit and attempted to eat regularly through the proceeds gained from that occupation. But police in Ontario are a heartless lot and in almost every town he was shoved on to the next one. Finally he lost out all. He finally traded it with a Chinaman for a meal west of Toronto and took over the land the travel fever had left him, and a deep and longing yen for his blue hills of Kentucky possessed him. He intends to make it back thereon if his shoes hold out. And if they don't hold out he'll keep his feet in potato bags, which will be soon, unless some Samaritan with shoe sizers find fan reserves a pair of cast offs.

The trouble is, Sam explained, while folks won't take him seriously. Yes he had tried the old time method of rapping on doors and asking directly for a job. But size eleven shoes that were no longer needed by their original owners.

Can't Be Serious

"They genully laugh at me. Sometimes they won't come to the door at all when they see who ah is. Sometimes again dat ole debbil dat come out and offers me a boy, is ah sick of bein' bahbeet at! Is ah tryst of bein' fanned at when ah ask foh shoes! Tain't no use no-mo'."

A late afternoon sun cast slanting rays over the park benches. Autos purred along the broad street opposite the hall, to disappear round the bend on the highway. Foreign liceneas were mixed with the familiar black and white ones of this Province. Now and then a gleam of recognition passed in Sam's eyes as a car bearing the plate of some well known State flashed into view and out again.

"Yeh, dat mah kin folks," he repeated softly. "They's headin' foh home. Maybe sittin at! ah kin set a lil; part of the way. Mebbe some white gwine slow up 'ere 'cause the road fetesh ah. So to brahfvo' mah feet rest, ah kain shoes to fit next town. Kain't tell what all might happen. Yes and yeah"

Gypies Read Map

He produced a well thumbed and grimy road map. He carefully traced the road to Kingston and beyond. "Heah's wheah I cross de 'ribeah. Heah's wheah ah git on de ferry. Only 'ill ways to go now; only 'ill ways."

Sam rose. Pulled a tattered blue form-fitting coat around weil filled shoulders and reached for a hat that had dwindled to a mere blanket and handkerchief. As a final gesture, a battered felt hat was pushed back at a jaunter angle. Sam was off.

"Bye, boy". So long, gen'mun." Even a limp could not hide an ivory smile of hope. "Only 'ill ways now". And, shoes or no shoes, Sam will make it. Next address, Kentucky.

"Bye, Sam," waved the blue-coated firemen.

LARGER LEAKS ALL REPAIRED

Wastage of Water is Considerably Cut Down

Hundreds of smaller leaks bubbling and gushing from breaks and strains in the underground system of the local waterworks department are still accumulating for considerable wastage of city water, but with the repairing of the larger leaks carried out by the department during the past few weeks, the abnormal wastage of well over one million gallons per day has been materially cut down. According to an estimate made today by Manager E. T. Austin, at least 800,000 gallons per day at present are being saved.

"Tracing the main leaks has been responsible for that saving, but for a time, it appeared as if we would never be able to get them all," stated Mr. Austin. "Just now, with the larger breaks well in hand we are concentrating on the smaller service leaks that are still giving trouble. We expect to cut down the consumption of water at least another half million within the next week or so."

The present auxiliary motors that have been connected to the turbines have been closed down and only the ordinary pumps are being used to care for the present demand. Consumption, however, is still high, according to the figures given out.

On May 4, total consumption was placed at 3,038,000 gallons per day. Yesterday, the consumption had been reduced to 2,360,000 gallons. The highest day's consumption was on February 26th when a total of 3,624,000 was reached.

Thirty-six service leaks and seven main leaks have been repaired since the start of the work, following the expansion of the system after the extraordinary contraction of the pipes last winter.

TOILET TABLE REFLECTIONS

Young girls have a forceful, compelling yen to look alike. If you've ever watched a flock of them flutter out from the door of a high school you'll know that their ambition is fulfilled. It is a social mistake to wave from the accepted style, unless there be a lipstick of certain hue or a hat that hangs emulate the hat that by the skin of its teeth. To be different, they fancy, is to be left in the lurch when there are doings and sleepings and eatings.

It is evidence of a woman's intelligence and good taste when she dislikes in making herself unlike herself from the crowd. She keeps in the fashion picture, you will say does. The styles of the moment are the clothes, but her own ideas are the cream that she puts on them. She is not content to be a cartoon copy. She will be an original masterpiece of loveliness in the cartoon way.

She studies herself. She is aware of good points and bad ones. If she didn't face the disqualifying factors she'd be whooped. She does her best as clearly and with as little bias as she sizes up the woman next door. She knows the type of clothes and what sort of material she has with which to work. That's half the battle.

If she has a bad feature that is interesting she plays it up. A large mouth may be a big feature. Yes it may make a woman vivid and gracious looking.

A beautiful woman with perfect features and a lovely brow can be sneer at waves and ringlets. She can flaunt them. Bright lights and brush it straight back front and

BY HELEN FOLLETT

Mark my words, ladies of the beauty chorus, it isn't the woman who spends the most money who puts up the most elegant appearance. Not a-tall. It is the femme who is well assembled, not glib to gether piece-meal. She doesn't trek round the shopping district with a train of the woman with wreckiteers, and unconcern. She thinks of her face, figure, complexion and hair raiment as elements of one composition which must be well balanced.

She endeavors to run true to her own type. She must not be one saw with the woman who has the face of a madonna and the frame of a witch, or the one with the feather bed shape who wears a juvenile hat, or the grandma person way past sixty who buys her frocks in the misses' department.

Blessed with good taste and unfailing judgment any woman can put up a chic and distinguished appearance. Yes, and for a small outlay of money.

When eyes are set close together, she also parts her hair a little more friendly than the middle line. Eyebrows should be penciled at the top ends by the subtle use of the crayon that makes a second line to the eye lamberquin.

Another trick is to use rouge on the eyelids, sweeping it out over the temples and cheek bones. Keep the hair off the forehead, if possible. Have plenty of white space between the eyebrows. Such a one type who is entitled to do plenty of tweezing and tinting.

Whites of eggs form an excellent shampoo for silvery hair that has taken on a canary tint.

Fluff up six or seven, less than that won't make a thorough job of removing surface dust. Begin with a prolonged brushing, using strokes of the egg white, rinse, use more, rinse again, and then dry with the washbowl which has been filled with tepid water to which a few drops of lemon juice are added.

Certain dyes do not interfere with a permanent. Pure Egyptian henna does nothing to the hair except to boiled wave from being a success. Diluted peroxide will turn the trick and the applications have not been harmful. Ammonia, however, will do no damage to hair shafts. The cautious operator makes a test curl. Then if you have been using any coloring agent, make a combination when you make your appointment.

DELICATE FROCKS FOR SUMMERTIME SHOWN AT C.D.S.

Many Attend Delightful Revue of Newest Fashions

Ushering in the Fashions for summer days and evenings, the Style Show held yesterday afternoon at the Canadian Department Store, introduced to the women of the city the daintiest of wearables for the approaching season. For sports, for afternoon and for evening wear, correct and charming costumes were displayed, making the show one that developed into real smart wear. Mother would appear suddenly to allow the wearing of such delightful creations.

Six local mannequins displayed the dresses, the show being held in the ready-to-wear department of the store. The young ladies taking part were: Mrs. M. Brooks, Mrs. V. Byrne, Miss Dorothy Osmond, Helen Findlay, Patricia Kerby and Jeanne Tye. The hats and hose and accessories were also from the Canadian Department Store and added just the proper finishing touches to the ensemble of finery.

Many new and appealing notes for the fashionable were suggested by the costumes shown. In colours alone, shown yesterday, a striking frock was a trim model of pale green with gay floral impression, and a tailored model to contradict this idea by developing into a fresh flat brown organdy. Equally appealing was the white frock with swagger velveteen coat in flame shade, the perfect summer evening wrap.

For semi-formal wear, two colorful indeed, trailing clouds of organdy, one in pale green, and one in long full skirts. These models brought the revue to a close and the program was then repeated for latecomers.

IVANHOE W. I.

The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. Cronkhite on Tuesday May 8th with a very good attendance. Mrs. J. C. Sills took charge, the meeting opened by singing the Ode and prayer. Then Oh Susanna was sung. Several answered the roll call with some interesting helps to make the meeting a success. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. E. T. Sarles and she also gave a report in full of the year's work which was very gratifying. Rig-a-jig was then sung and Mrs. Sills gave an address and thanked all the officers and those who helped in any way to make the year's work easier for the president. Mrs. J. Clement was called and took the chair for the election of officers. Mrs. J. C. Sills was re-elected as president and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered her for so ably filling her office. Most of the old officers were also re-elected Very agreeably was the spirit of the meeting and a splendid paper was then given by Mrs. T. Fleming on "Home Economics". Miss A. Fleming then favored with a solo. Mrs. J. Clement then gave a humorous reading in keeping with the season on "Dad and Mother's disouting over new things the house designing time" which caused much merriment. Mrs. W. Cronkhite invited the ladies home for the preparation of the year's program and the committee was arranged as follows: Mrs. Sarles and the rest of the world go by" was sung and the meeting was dismissed for the usual way. Lunch was then served and enjoyed by all.

Board Room Gossip

Winnipeg, May 17 — No rain is reported in moisture or northern States. Good rain overnight at Edmonton, balance of Canada fair. No export reported and market reacting from yesterday's spike which was unexpected and rather rapid. Weather map is a little more favorable but prospects are still behind last year. Argentine shipments are reported as increasing this week. Long European holiday from Friday till Tuesday is likely to curtail foreign business for time being and market is headed to be governed by weather conditions.

Kirkland Lake, 81.

New York, May 17.—While many technicians are still bearish the Street is a little more cheerful partly as a result of the silver situation which is regarded as a little more favorable to those who have silver and partly because a number of stale bull accounts have been either reduced or liquidated.

SILVER AND SPECULATION

That the silver bill has been long worked out at Washington is no longer a matter of doubt, appeal in an allegation made in bankruptcy petitions of the Grand Trunk Co., edited by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, remarks:

"The publication of the lists of holders has led to the silver speculation out of its camouflage and pretended desire to stimulate foreign trade and into the light of day where as being part a project to benefit silver producers and for the real attempt to ensure profits to speculators", the bulletin adds.

TRIBUNE GRAIN LETTER

In more parts of Manitoba soil drifting has been so severe that roots could not be kept down even with scrapers and had to be shovelled out by hand. Crop reports on winter wheat were spoiled. The Miller Tribune Letter estimates Germany said condition in the soft Red Winter States were rather favorable but hard winter belt has suffered a wide variation. Some are as were reported "generally relieved by recent rain, others are going back daily and have already been damaged beyond repair."—Winnipeg Tribune Letter.

TOMATO MEN FACE CRISIS OVER CANNING

Quebec Industry Blamed For State in Rest of Canada

JUGGERNAUT SEEN

Quebec Wage Scale in Canneries is Attacked

OTTAWA, May 17.—(CP)—Tomato growers in Ontario could be facing a grave crisis due to the development of the Quebec industry, Manning Industry, M. M., Robinson of Leamington, Secretary of the Ontario Growers' Markets Council, told the Stevens Committee on Mass Buying here today. A rate of cents of labor in Quebec "and the willingness of the people to work for that rate of starvation wages" were the reasons given. Growers in Ontario could not down their products in British Columbia and Nova Scotia "because of production on the Pacific Coast, said Mr. Robinson.

Ten years ago, witness said, quoting Tom Bradley, British Columbia publication, Quebec packed 25,000 cases. Last year 1,000,000 cases were packed and 4,000 canning licenses were issued. This year more licenses would be issued.

"A juggernaut of commerce has been created in Quebec based on the rolling over and flattening out the cost of living and canning industries of British Columbia and Ontario," the publication continued, "in Quebec the companies lease canning equipment to farmers. The farmers are large and everyone works. Neither women or men are known to be paid."

The Quebec wage scale, where it could be figured out, ran about $1 for a 14-hour day, or about seven cents an hour. Women and girls of 18 to 23 cents an hour for an 10-hour day, while British Columbia paid 30 cents an hour for an 8 hour day.

Competition in Wages

"As a problem in mathematics," Mr. Robinson continued, "how can 30 cents an hour compete with seven cents an hour, or even 22 cents an hour?"

Forced by Quebec competition to sell at less than cost of production, Ontario growers were agitating for a marketing scheme, a formula code, and the licensing of canners throughout Canada. Conversations had been made looking to a conference between the Federal Minister of Agriculture and the Ministers of Agriculture of Ontario and Quebec, but no definite decision was being awaited from Quebec.

Mr. Robinson emphasized in his brief the seriousness of the plight of the Ontario tomato, gardener and horticulturist. Many of their difficulties could be traced, he said to chain stores and canners, he said.

"These people have not directly responsible for a policy of bearing down of prices to producers," witness said Mr. Robinson "until they have at last succeeded in placing the fruit and vegetable industry in jeopardy".

Uniformity in maintenance of the cost sheets of canning companies had been one of the chief aims in stopping the price war among these organizations," said the Leamington alliwn to the large buying interests." Fifty-three canning companies were operating in Ontario, and at a recent conference it had been recommended that regulations be issued governing acreage, started and a uniform scale of wages in the canneries of Ontario and Quebec.

Some Ontario canning companies were paying "wretched wages". Mr. Robinson said.

TELLS OF ORIGIN OF MOTHER'S DAY

Sunday School Program Well Attended - at Carrying Place

Carrying Place—A very pleasing and interesting Sunday School concert was presented in honour of Mother's Day, May 13th, to a fair crowd at the United Church hall on Friday evening last. Rev. R. P. Swayne of Consecon acted very capably as chairman and interspersed humor between the various numbers on the program. An opening chorus, "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung by the entire Sunday School with Mrs. C. Weller at the organ. Then followed a short period of community singing, and with Mr. Sandy Greig leading, old timers such as "Annie Laurie" and "My Old Kentucky Home" were enjoyed. An enjoyable recitation was given by little Miss Velma Barker in which she declared that the time and come when her mother was no longer able to take the stick to her, but that it had already come and went right to it." A pantomime song, "Home, Sweet Home" followed, and was very capably portrayed. With the stage set showing a family group sitting at home by the fireside, a prodigal young man looks longingly at the home he has left until at last, inspired by thoughts of his loved ones, he resolves to lead a purer and a better life. The singing of Sandy Greig's was done by Mrs. S. Church, while the part of the young man was played by Mr. Norman Wesse. Another recitation followed, this one by Mrs. Gladys Barker, and then Miss Lela Black gave a very descriptive and very sincere paper on the origin and meaning of Mother's Day. The celebration of this day, said Miss Black, is now a national observance but only a few years ago the very name was unknown. It was in Philadelphia in 1908 that a Miss Anna Javis, a Sunday School teacher, whose mother had passed away, resolved to celebrate the date of her mother's death by a little program with her Sunday School class. The following year, so popular had her idea become, the day was set aside for observance nearly all over the city. From that time on the celebration of Mother's Day became of national interest. In England the observance of Mother's Day was not national until 1913. This day, said Miss Black, should be a day for the home, a day of joy. Continuing, she said that mothers must also contribute to the success of these observances by visiting and holding themselves worthy of honour. Mothers need to be understanding mothers, who are pals rather than mere disciplinarians. If a mother enjoys the full confidence of her children, at the end of all during the year should be one of happiness for her. Mother must "get the leg instead of the wing of the chicken." Quoting a poem on service, Miss Black stated that the only real joy was joy in service. As examples of those whose lives were devoted to service of new York the names of Dr. Charles O. Fulton, missionary to the cannibal islands of the South Seas, and of John MacDougall, Indian worker and teacher in the Northwest of Canada, were recalled. In closing the speaker urged a deeper consideration of others for a real understanding of the significance of Mother's Day.

Following Miss Black's interesting address, a motion song, "Spring Fairies" was given by four girls, Misses Erma Gould, Dorothy Herrington, Madeline Gilbert and Jean Weller, with Mrs. Weller accompanying. A very pleasing dialogue followed, "The Wrong Miss Parkington". Characters in the play were Miss Lucille Weller as Miss Adelaide Parkington; Miss Nora Hennessey as her maid Sadie Herrington; Miss Marion Hanborn as the maid, Josie; and Mr. Sandy Greig as the hero, Jack Carew. The difficulties in securing suitable topposing were clearly shown, to the amusement of the audience. A reading by Mr. Norrington was next given, followed by a song by Miss Jean Weller, and a recitation by Miss Margaret Weller, Mrs. F. Green read very expressively a sad and touching story entitled "A Mother's Regret." A silver collection was then taken and the concluding number on the program, a dialogue entitled "Mother's Helpers" was well presented. The cast included Miss Lela Black as Mrs. Brown; George Le Noir as Peter, and Lloyd Hennessey as John, her two small sons, and Reta Herrington as the educated cousin from the city. The sketch was well and convincingly acted. Credit for the arrangement and preparation of the program, as well as for the writing and direction of the last dialogue, goes to Miss Lela Black, who has worked unstintingly in the interests of the Sunday School. A fair sum was realized from the evening's entertainment.

Mother's Day has come and gone for another year, bringing with it red flowers and white, pleasant memories and poignant regrets. And for some, sorrow. A large number of Sunday visitors made their way slowly and reverently through the cemetery where, all too often, mother lies.

Much-needed rain arrived at last over the week-end, the first instalment being received on Thursday night to the tune of a rather thunder storm. For quite a few minutes it was a really rousing storm, for more than one family fearing the vicissitudes of the storm arose from their beds prepared for the worst. Others, and these were few, slept peacefully through the bombardment without hearing it. Sunday, no real damage is reported hereabouts, although an account in the Daily Mail and Empire still spills a large piece on the picnic grounds at Twelve Corners' Point not ten feet from the dancing pavilion. Mrs. Groff, owner of Point, who with her daughter and family is staying at the hotel, was alarmed of course, but no real harm was done. Near Picton the same storm is reported to have been one of the worst in years.

Mrs. Frank Grills, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Herrington, suffered a badly gashed scalp when at school early on Monday morning he fell against the iron framework of a seat striking his head. No one was near him at the time, but somehow in swinging on his hands between two desks he slipped, and a sharp edge of iron inflicted a clean cut in his scalp just behind the left ear. After first aid had been rendered by the teacher, Reta was sent home, but later day finds him hock again, apparently as good as ever.

Sisco, pastor of the United Church at Cardinal for the past five years, has accepted an invitation to take charge of the congregation at Millbrook, Ontario, making an exchange with Rev. W. W. STORMS BOOST WAGES

Brandon, Man., May 17.—(CP)—Dust storms today were boosting the expenses of the Manitoba Department of Highways. Because of severe dust storms of a week ago, highway maintenance gangs have been increased to shovel off drifts of sand and dirt on the roads west of here. A road scraper could make no progress, the drifts being packed solidly.

Consequently, many a sowing is given up for dead before they are ready but time to grow, and when the seedlings do come they are not recognized.

Tiny flower seedlings are easily destroyed by the wash of rains across the bed. They are subject to other hazards which will usually destroy them unless the gardener has discovered and is taking care of them. Neglect is a well advised if he sown his flowers in a seed bed. The seed which can be planted. The bed should be surrounded by a border curb two inches high, which will keep rain from washing over it.

When the seedlings appear they will be recognized because they are in the row, and can be identified from the label. The planter will be quite familiar with the appearance of the different leaves. The Rev. E. W. Rowland, the unfortunate individual who was supposed to be the boarder another year with the assurance of being able to tell the seedlings from weeds.

Perennial flower seeds should be planted in a seed bed. They should be transplanted as soon as they have formed their true leaves and planted in rows to grow through the season before being placed in the border.

DEMONSTRATE SCOUT PRINCIPLES

Life And Work of Chief Scoutmaster is Outlined

Stirling—The First Stirling Troop of the Boy Scouts visited St. Paul's United Church Young People's Society on Monday evening and staged a splendid programme. The President, Mr. Harry Stalls was in the chair and after the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and prayer by Rev. E. W. Rowland, extended a hearty welcome to the scouts and their worthy Scout Master, Tom Ward. Scout master Ward then assumed charge and after appropriately voicing the scouts' thanks, proceeded to give an interesting sketch "The Origin of Scouting" in which he gave a most comprehensive treatise of the life and work of Lord Baden Powell:

The opening feature of the program was an instrumental solo, "Asleep," by Gerald Sprentall, and Mr. Mumby in his own inimitable style gave a humorous monologue entitled "Babies" after which the quartette composed of Ray Williams, banjo; Reg Mabbett, violin; Mr. Cryer, ukulele; and Gerald Sprentall, piano; gave a delightful "Artist" selection. Holmes and Arthur Gould like the amateur comedians they have proved themselves treats of the first performances, staged a most entertaining skit in dialogue form. The next feature was the rendition of Franz Schubert's "Serenade" arranged by Reg Mathieson on the violin accompanied by the piano by Gerald Sprentall.

Some of the principles essential to Scout training were set forth in the splendid demonstration of First Aid and Life Saving carried on by the Scout Troop gave. The principals in this demonstration were, Rev. E. W. Rowland, the unfortunate individual who was supposedly suffering from an unhealthy number of fractures; and Doctas Richardson, Ward, Mabbett, Williams, Holmes, P. L. Fred Joblin gave a demonstration in which he showed how to transport an unconscious patient on a stretcher improvised from two poles and a blanket. Doctor Richardson gave an exhibition of knot-tieing showing a wide range of tools.

Reverting one again to the musical, Jack Mumby rendered a humorous yodelling selection after which Douglas Hillendale sang a pathetic song. Ray Williams and Reg Mathieson gave a duet, backed with violin and guitar accompaniment following which Carl Potter Ross Shore, Reg Clarke and John Mumby sang in harmony, "In the Evening by the Moonlight", So well were the members of the quartette received that they were encored singing "Down by the Old Mill Stream." Fred Joblin gave a talk entitled "Further Principles of Scouting" in which he set forth the Scout law in ten distinct points. Scout Master Tom Ward then rendered a clever test in story form which gave rise to much merriment. Calling the house to order for the Scout benediction, Mr. Carl Barton of Round Lake spent the past week with relatives at Bethel, Belleville and Mount Pleasant and attended Y.P.S. Friday evening at Mount Pleasant.

Why We Fail With Flowers

Failure with annual flower seed is likely to be due in most cases to one of two causes—the time they take to germinate and the thinness of the seedling plants.

Annuals will germinate quickly, such as sinmias, which come up in a few days, any seed for most garden makers. But larkspurs take three days; petunias, twenty; sweet peas fifteen, and in general there is a great variation in the time it takes flower seeds to start growing, with many varieties the rule much longer than the beginner is likely to suppose.

Consequently, many a sowing is given up for dead before they are ready but time to grow, and when the seedlings do come they are not recognized.

Tiny flower seedlings are easily destroyed by the wash of rains across the bed. They are subject to other hazards which will usually destroy them unless the gardener has discovered and is taking care of them. Neglect is a well advised if he sown his flowers in a seed bed. The seed which can be planted. The bed should be surrounded by a border curb two inches high, which will keep rain from washing over it.

When the seedlings appear they will be recognized because they are in the row, and can be identified from the label. The planter will be quite familiar with the appearance of the different leaves. The Rev. E. W. Rowland, the unfortunate individual who was supposedly suffering from an unhealthy number of fractures; and Doctas Richardson, Ward, Mabbett, Williams, Holmes, P. L. Fred Joblin gave a demonstration in which he showed how to transport an unconscious patient on a stretcher improvised from two poles and a blanket. Doctor Richardson gave an exhibition of knot-tieing showing a wide range of tools.

Reverting one again to the musical, Jack Mumby rendered a humorous yodelling selection after which Douglas Hillendale sang a pathetic song. Ray Williams and Reg Mathieson gave a duet, backed with violin and guitar accompaniment following which Carl Potter Ross Shore, Reg Clarke and John Mumby sang in harmony, "In the Evening by the Moonlight", So well were the members of the quartette received that they were encored singing "Down by the Old Mill Stream." Fred Joblin gave a talk entitled "Further Principles of Scouting" in which he set forth the Scout law in ten distinct points. Scout Master Tom Ward then rendered a clever test in story form which gave rise to much merriment. Calling the house to order for the Scout benediction, the singing of the National Anthem. Following the program, the executive of St. Paul's United Church served a dainty and bountiful luncheon to the scouts.

An enjoyable evening was spent in bridge with Miss Betty Hadley receiving the honors. The hostess then wheeled in a baby-carriage lavishly trimmed in the bridal white and well filled with gifts. The bride-elect was then called upon to open the gifts revealing a kitchen shower in shades of cream and green. Miss Hadley thanked the girls for their kindness, after which the latter entertained the guests to the dining room. The daintily arranged serving table at which the hostess presided assisted in the serving by Miss Mary Haggerty, was centred with a miniature bride arrayed in the traditional veil and orange blossoms. BOAT UPSETS THREE SAVED

All But Losing Grip on Upturned Boat When Help Arrives

Numbed by the icy water, and clinging precariously to their upturned craft after it had capsized in a heavy wind on the Bay of Quinte, some distance east of the city late yesterday afternoon, three local youths were rescued from their dangerous plight by Pat Longhurst, Bay Bridge Road resident, who sped to their help in a small sailing boat in spite of the threat of danger to himself. Arrived at the boys' plight by Mr. Fred Doucet, neighbor, who had observed the boat capsize through field glasses from his own home near the bay bridge, the rescuer borrowed the former's sailing punt and set out in spite of the heavy waves. Nearing the overturned boat Mr. Longhurst managed to load the capsized sailors on board and returned with them, toeing their craft. They had set out in the direction of Mimosa when a stiff wind blew up heeling the boat over. The boys had clung with fast weakening grip to the craft before help finally arrived.

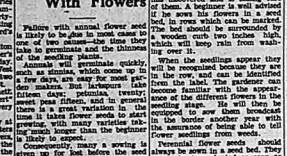
POWERS STOP WAR IN CHACO

Concerted Action by Great Powers Expected Immediately

London, May 16 (AP)—It was learned authoritatively today that a group of world powers including Great Britain and the United States planned shortly concerted action to end the war in the Chaco between Paraguay and Bolivia.

These powers are considering measures of repression which would include political, financial and economic phases.



The action is being seriously considered here, in Washington, and Geneva. It is regarded as possible that the League of Nations itself may take action shortly.

A high authority asserted that the action would "be aimed at both Governments equally."

GULLS HAVE FEED ON SHAD FISH

Thousands of tiny shad-like fish, sheading in a dense solid mass in the shallow waters of the Mare River at the south end of the city late Wednesday afternoon, provided a delectable feast for scores of gulls and herons which swooped and swooped above the water. The birds fought and screamed as they dove repeatedly, bringing the small fish up in their bills, swallowing them and diving for more. The tiny silvery fish were unidentified by waterfront men and fishermen, who observed them. Their appearance in such a dense mass in the river is also a mystery that has led to much speculation.

Backache is the most persistent symptom of kidney troubles. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills entirely rid the system of the poisons which cause backache, lumbago and other painful and dangerous disorders. Used once or twice a week they restore the healthful action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Every Day this Salesman Knocks at 6,500 Doors

. . . and ALWAYS Finds Somebody Home

It's putting it mild to say that the Ontario Intelligencer is a welcome salesman. If it ever fails to show up at a front door our circulation department gets a nasty phone call. Yet the Ontario Intelligencer doesn't cry, ahead of everything else, to be a salesman. Its main purpose in life is to inform and entertain, as any well-written, well-edited newspaper should do. Meeting its readers on their own terms, it lets them sell themselves—the secret of good salesmanship the world over.

That's why the Ontario Intelligencer is one "business visitor" that's accepted socially by most any family when it is in a social mood. It interviews each buying member of the household when the sales-resistance bars are down. It is accepted by them all as an old family friend. Which isn't hard to understand. For the Ontario Intelligencer bears the stamp of reliability. Readers depend on it—from Mother with her recipe-problems down to Junior who mixes sports with his comics.

IT IS BELIEVED.

And it will sell more merchandise for you for that reason alone.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE ELLE

George Arliss Gives Wife Credit

For Large Share of His Success Like so many other men who have achieved fame in their chosen professions, George Arliss gives his wife credit for his success as a stage and screen star.

In his own book, "Up the Years From Bloomsbury", Mr. Arliss frankly confesses that his wife really made all the important decisions of his career.

Mrs. Arliss was, once upon a time, Florence Montgomery and the first the man who became her husband when both were members of the Stock Company of the Theatre Royal Margate. He was attracted to her because she had "nice arms".

It was Mrs. Arliss who induced him to come to the United States with Mrs. Pat Campbell's company a decision that resulted in the debut of Mr. Arliss to one of the most enviable positions in the stage and screen world. He intended to stay four months in America; instead, he has remained over twenty years, with only occasional trips to his homeland for short vacations.

When it came time to go home at the close of Mrs. Campbell's tour, Mrs. Arliss said to her husband, "We must remain in America, and you must become a star."

So they did, and George Arliss became a star on August 18th, 1908, acting in Franz Molnar's "The Devil".

The romance of George Arliss and the former Florence Montgomery has been one of the most idealistic in the history of the theatre. He proposed to her when both were caught in a sudden shower in London, and took refuge in a deserted theatre, and from that day to this they have been divinely happy. Mrs. Arliss appeared with her husband in several of his stage plays, and also appears in most of his films. However, he stipulates that she must portray no other role than that she plays in real life, which is that of his happily wedded wife. She is exactly this in "The House of Rothschild" at the Elle today and Friday, which has incidentally been pronounced Arliss' best vehicle to date and the finest film to be made in Hollywood this season. In the film, as in life, she is not only his beloved, but his adviser as well.

George Arliss is a quiet, good-natured, soft-spoken English gentleman, but there is one thing he will not tolerate from interviewers, and that is any questions concerning his domestic life.

Such questions are really superfluous. If marriages are made in Heaven, as someone has said, then the angels laid special benisons on the romance of George and Florence Arliss. They have been married over thirty years, and they are still as much in love with each other as they were on that far-off rainy day, when George popped the question to Florence.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Rafter Romance" and "King of the Wild Horses"

A beautiful girl shares the same seating, sleeping and living quarters with another person for several months, only to discover that her room-mate is a man. This embarrassing but laughable situation confront Ginger Rogers and Norman Foster in "Rafter Romance," an RKO-Radio Picture coming to the Capitol Theatre today.

The story of "Rafter Romance" concerns Mary Carroll and Jack Bacon who find themselves destitute and forced to share an attic room in a Greenwich Village house of which George Sidney is landlord. Jack, a night watchman who only gives Mary the room at night, and she is a stenogirl, leaving the room free for Jack's occupancy during the day.

They meet without their residence, fall in love, prepare for marriage and then are foiled by laughs and drama when they learn each other's identity.

Laura Hope Crews and Robert Benchley play some rare comedy in the supporting cast of "Rafter Romance", William Seiter directed.

Nothing more genuinely thrilling in outdoor pictures has been produced since the silent days than "King of the Wild Horses," in which Columbia presents Rex, the famous black stallion, in his talking debut as king of two thousand wild horses, with an excellent cast and thousands of Navajo and Hopi Indians. The picture is showing now at the Capitol Theatre, making the first talking screen appearance of Rex, King of Wild Horses. Columbia has produced this thriller with the intention of providing the thrill of a great herd of wild horses in their native state as the swift-moving

Every Indian role among the two thousand in the picture is played by an Indian, except two, the parts of the two young lovers, Red Wolf and Wacima in which William Janney and Dorothy Appleby were cast. Columbia spent four weeks casting more than seventy-five players in Hollywood before finding Miss Appleby and Janney to be the perfect types for their roles. The Navajos, in fact, insisted on having for a Navajo until the third day of production, when someone saw him taking off his make-up.

Two "head men" of the fifteen who govern the 50,000 Navajos are cast in important featured parts. They are Seginetzo and Teddy Nez. The roles of white men, government officers and the heavy are played by Wallace MacDonald, Harry Semels, Fred West and Art Mix.

TORONTO WINS DOUBLE BILL

(By the Association Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs Lave, at times, been almost dead in the shuffle as Rochester Red Wings built up a commanding lead in the International league race, but now that Rochester's streak has been shocked, the Leafs loom as a real contender.

Since starting its long home stand against Clubs from the bottom sector of the league, Toronto has won 11 games and lost six, the last six victories coming in a row as the Leafs walloped the Syracuse chiefs in both ends of yesterday's double-header to sweep their series.

That record hardly looks as impressive as Rochester's 11 successive home victories, but it left the Leafs only two games away from first place after the Red Birds ran into their fourth straight defeat at Newark's hands yesterday.

The stars gave a highly impressive performance in the twin bill, which, incidentally, showed Syracuse down into seventh place as Buffalo came back into fifth.

Newark made its third straight victory over the league leaders the most decisive of all, shutting out the Bisons 7-0 on Ed Wineapple's one-hitter and Rochester had taken a 9-3 decision from New York Yankees in an afternoon game.

The Albany-Buffalo game was postponed to-day, as the Bisons might take a 9-2 beating from New York, giants in an exhibition while rain weather halted the Baltimore-Montreal contest.

KI-Y SOFTBALL

Although close to twenty teams have already posted entries in the Ki-Y Softball League, Secretary Morden feels that there are no doubt additional players who will want to get into the loop and to these latter he would issue a cautionary word. On next May 25th, will be the final date for the acceptance of entries for all divisions of the Ki-Y League and the drawings of the schedules will then immediately. That means prompt action on the part of those teams who have not yet registered. Registrations will be received at the office of the Y by any member of the staff any time during the day and up until 10 p.m. Also managers or captains are requested to obtain their players' registration blanks and turn same in promptly before the signing of their players.

Warning—Saturday the 19th—the deadline for Ki-Y entries.

HELD HIM BACK

He'd work up to standard—no one could do it better. But when promotions came along, other men were given preference! No explanations. He didn't shave as clean—or as often—as he should.

(Day By Day)

Another annual B.C.I. & V.S. field day is over with old and new champions being crowned and the laurels of track and field awarded for another year. The weather was anything but suitable for a field and track meet as a stiff north west wind blew all days, handicapping the runners, while the bleak cold weather, that ensued all but paralyzed the athletes as they stood around awaiting the next event. Some adequate protection should be afforded the athletes at the regional meet on Saturday, if they are to be expected to perform under such conditions as prevailed yesterday. The warm sun's rays that showered over the athletes during the wet periods would not come amiss.

Only two of last year's champions stood the test and repeated "Wally" Hilton again won the senior boys' title, while Marion McLean easily romped home to win every event in the senior girls' class. The battle staged between Hilton and Jack Morgan, who incidentally finished second to Wally in the senior series, was gruelling as well as interesting. Both boys gave their all to neither being disgraced in victory or defeat. They are two good athletes and a credit to the school they represent and should make a swell team to represent the local collegiate at the regional meet here on Saturday. The girls' events were run off according to schedule and now that they have been granted a quadruple schedule they will have to dish up a brand of ball, that will keep the fans on their toes and talking about the game all of the time. A few changes from the triple schedule were noted, especially the settling of the opening of the season in Peterboro. At the request of the Peties it was announced in the official schedule that the O.B.L. issofar as Peterboro is concerned, would be held on May 26th with the Ponies as the visiting team. Incidentally we understand that the Peties have stolen a march on the boys in this respect, as they have lined up a fast Toronto team to play an exhibition game in the Littlock City on May 24th. Of course the Nationals open at home versus Oshawa on Victoria Day when a double header will be played.

President Charlie Meagher of the Belleville Nationals announced yesterday that the local seniors would unofficially open the season at Peterboro in an exhibition game versus the 1933 intermediate finalists next Monday afternoon. The game will not commence until about 5.15 p.m. thus giving local fans a chance to rally to run over and take a peak at Jack Whiteside once again in the baseball togs. Manager Mills will use three pitchers, and two complete infields in order to observe the different players under fire. It is decidedly evident the Nationals' new uniforms will be ready for Monday or not. It is to be hoped the locals can don their new suits on Monday, as benefitting will the chances of the uniform jinx for the opening day of May 24th. With the acquisition of a pourtrade schedule the Nationals have exactly ten home games, which, if a person was to attend and sit in the grandstand it would cost Mr. Fan the sum of $5.50. The Nationals' executive have published season tickets, good for all scheduled league games and a seat in the grandstand, all for the small sum of two one dollar bills this a person purchasing one of these season tickets will be saving $1.50 during the season. It looks like a tempting purchase to say and all who are interested in senior baseball.

In regard to the request of the local Crystalac juniors, relating to a possible interlocking schedule with the Bay of Quinte Loop teams, the issue was flatly turned down by the clubs concerned. Mr. Gibbard informs us, however, that his team and the Brighton club, are both willing to help the local juniors along as they will play an exhibition series with the Crystalacs. Of late Ernie Gibbard has been working overtime endeavouring to help the newly formed Prince Edward County League get started. Apparently the Picton Club is doing some missionary work over across the bay as a new baseball loop was recently formed, including Wellington, Bloomfield, Demorestville, Cressy and others. This league is contemplating a class "B" intermediate rating in the O.B.A.A. Of course the Picton "A" club would be at liberty to draft any players developed in such a league. Apparently some changes have been made in regards to Norman Gibbard A-Kingston Pony game, as these clubs are not playing until Friday. Originally it was announced that the Gibbards would play in Kingston on Wednesday.

Ralph Morden, physical instructor at the "Y" announced yesterday, that Saturday night would be the dead-line for entries into the Ki-Y baseball league, scheduled for this season. To date a fairly large entry list has been received in the various classes while more are expected. Saturday night sees the Ki-Y boys loosfar as entries are concerned.

At Queen Mary School grounds Bridge Street Methodists put on work in the initial frame and scored eight of their nine counters. Horometer And Pitch-blende Still Horses to Beat For Guineas

(By Dan Burritt)

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, May 17.—(CP)—In the shadow of the deserted grand stands at Woodbine Park, nominees for the King's plate today were given their last opportunity to show qualifications that would justify their entry in North America's oldest continuously-run turf fixture Saturday afternoon.

More than a score of candidates, galloped, cantered around the oval and broke into sprints under the anxious eyes of trainers and owners but there was nothing among the early performers to convince observers that R. S. McLaughlin's unbeaten gelding Horometer would be given any stiff competition, except from his co-entry, Pitchblende. Pitchblende, trained on behalf of R. W. R. Cowie who twice has received the Royal Silverware from the Governor-General in behalf of the King, admittedly is a speedy three-year-old, but no one around here will attempt to class him with the top-hravy favorite.

The wise ones but point to the performance of the McLaughlin candidate, a colt with Brooklyn blood by Trainer Harry Giddings, which easily shattered the plate record of 2.11 3-5 it established last year, with an impost of 130 pounds. The favourites were put through their paces today but there was no serious trial given them. They have shown what they can do.

Weed Out Slow Ones

Weeding out of the slower ones already has begun but the list of those who will go to the 'post will be definitely known until scratches are announced Saturday morning.

Names of five candidates were removed in a group with cancellations by Harry C. Hatch of his stable and the trackmaster is a close audience between his Trainer Lloyd Gentry and the Canadian Racing Association. Easter Hatter, the light and dark blue main hope in the famous Ontario fixture, has been shipped to Detroit along with the others, and doubt was expressed in racing circles that Hatch entries would be seen this year on any C.R.A. tracks.

Probably a dozen or more of the 41 nominated will lineup at the Woodbine barrier Saturday and those who appear to have been picked include T. L. Corinthour's Papalico Mrs. L. L. Charlton's Sweepings; Mrs. G. Hogarth's Missouri Jim; Ryland H. New's Imadel; Riverdale Stable's Thermal; E. F. Seagram's entry Irish Gold and Cindy Pratt, and W. H. Wright's Speygold and Sam Worthy.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

By KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

Marcia sat by Estelle's bed. The girl had suddenly become ill when she heard Marcia planned to go to the Field's for Christmas. She had asked Marcia to stay with her, Estelle had stayed, but she had grown worse.

She knew that Estelle was only pretending to be ill, and she had frequently shown little dottie for Estelle's company. She had been an irreproachable hostess but Marcia had always felt that Estelle did not like her.

Well, it was she!! find out what it meant, Marcia, decided. Meanwhile—

"Shall I read to you, dear?" she asked.

Estelle said that would be very nice. As Marcia hunted for the book, Estelle thought of the letter of your going Monday—it is Monday, isn't it?"

Marcia smiled. Quite obviously Estelle was getting out of the way.

"I might stop a bit longer," she said with hidden malice, "if somebody begged me to—very hard."

She saw Estelle's color harden at this. "What's to?" Marcia asked innocently, "Oh, I'm not staying."

Then Field recognized Juanito as Carlito, the boy who had run his car. Estelle had been instrumental in arranging the fact. He had won heavily on the race, and Juanito was no good anyway," Field thought. If he had not been drunk, he would not, the scenes and moving air him that make a scoundrel out of him.

No, he would not give Pablito away. But before the passage of a few days, he had put a check on his decision.

Carlito was in the hall with a letter in his hand as Field entered. Pacific, always leaning forward, made the mistake of holding the letter inside.

"What have you there?" Field demanded.

"Nothing, Sir."

"Let me see it."

"It is—a letter from the sweetheart of one of the servants. I take it to him."

"I said let me see it."

Carlito answered slowly, "Mr. Field, it is a letter from a lady—"

"Do you want me to knock you down?"

Carlito felt Field's strong, blunt fingers tighten on his arm. A moment and the letter was in those same fingers.

A letter from one of the servants—addressed to my daughter!" muttered as he slit the envelop. He drew out the folded sheet, beginning, "My own dearest," and ending, "Juanito."

Field laughed. "God!" he exclaimed, "this is a find! And I thought she was mild as milk!"

He threw half in his hand, he got up the stairs and made his way, without knocking, into his daughter's room. She was in her night things and a negligee, standing by a window. Field smiled on her with that smile he always gave those wholly within his power. "I have a letter that is directed to you," he said, and his voice strength was increased by her sudden pallor.

"How long has this been going on—and how far has it gone?" he continued.

Estelle did not pretend to misunderstand. Field's keen, sly eyes followed her. No hand nor lay in the dry, faltering way of those who are badly frightened. "I love him—as I never thought I could love anyone—"

"Ah!" he murmured. "Sit down. We must have a little talk."

Trembling, she settled in a low chair and he dropped to one that faced it. She wished shrinking that he was not so near. Then he laughed suddenly, easier by the silence for a time and then he upped his wants shut. "Time's up, but not for you, I'm to you."

Estelle moved, swaying, toward the door. "I'll go and tell him immediately. Once she sat back, as it unable to go on. Her father picked up the sheet on which she had written the message. "All right," he commented gruffly.

She rose then to her slender figure that had momentarily. By blazed into anger.

"I hate you," she said slowly in a voice that was too quiet to shall never stop hating you. My mother hated you. Any woman who knows you will hate you. Because you are cruel and merciless. If you are much like me, I'll leave your hand on mine I will leave you forever. And remember, please, that I, too, keep my word. Is that understood?"

He tried to laugh but the laugh was a failure. "I shall be glad to get along in some manner" he muttered with a poor imitation of jauntiness. Estelle gave him a flaming look of hatred and then she, too, smiled—but it was a sneer.

Field pounded down the stairway, pallid and shaking from the force of his passion and the Estelle's words had given him. Carlito was responsible for this, he thought. Carlito who had carried notes between Estelle and Pablito, "Kerry!" Field heeled. Kerry came, alarm on his face.

"Kerry, that boy Carlito out of here." Field roared, his voice breaking.

Kerry swallowed hard and then grinned. "But his wife is in labor," he said.

His employer's face softened that, screaming vituperation and very sort of retail filth. "It is not his fault, but misconduct." He wanted the couple out and out now! Kerry could not and would throw them out himself!

The first-born was delivered near a roadside hedge and his wife, struggling too long and being delicate, did not recover. She bore twins, who had died dismissal by following Carlito in his trouble ranged around the house wailing. Carlito, in the centre of a high blast and covered again the cold face of the young wife, who, for the first time, did not answer his appeal.

Kerry, making his way cautiously toward the grass house, thought he would not care to be in Field's shoes. "I'm not manage by the word that way," he thought grimly, shaken by all that he had seen and heard.

"It was terrible!" he said to his wife, who was the housekeeper.

Alone, Field paced the length of the room he called his office. He was still trembling, heard also the echo of his daughter's voice as she gave him her ultimatum and her opinion of him. His severe loyalty of the waiting and summoned Kerry to have the boy whatever was done and bolted.

Kerry did this, his mouth grimly set and his eyes cold.

"They're out!" Field questioned briefly, harshly.

"Yes. The wife is dead. The child, a girl, will live it is not certain. It lies all night."

"All for tonight." Field heard himself answer. He bolted the door after Kerry and dropped to a chair by the desk. His fingers found a small paper cutter, then suddenly laid it down, shuddering at the shaking of his hands.

That night Pablito received Estelle's note, delivered by one of the Field's chauffeurs.

"I have changed my mind," said the man. "Our she is crying wildly in her room. Juanito, who has been turned out with him died in the night. Estelle, I cannot leave her."

"My God!" For a moment Pablito forgot Estelle and himself.

Then the man again got into the car to disappear into the dark and Pablito was left with Estelle's letter in his hand and a heart beat as he read it. He knew what the note meant to her. She must be made to know in some way that he understood this. In some way he must show her, even that, together with the fact that he would not give up Marcia. He looked down the road that Juanito had turned to follow. It was black tonight but not as black as the road before him, with only Benn able to save him. Benn who needed to give his own life if Pablito were to live his to the utmost.

"God!" he whispered.

When Dr. Aubrey arrived in Cuba in response to Billings' telegram he was met at the dock by Billings. Billings appeared somewhat constrained. Luck saw him and hurried to his customary with unusual haste and, in a cab, they sped toward the Inglaterra.

"If you don't mind I'd rather wait until we're at the hotel."

Sir Aubrey answered absently. He had often before felt a rush of affection for this man who was the only friend his dull nature understanding. Now he rose to it. CHAPTER XXXIV

Jim Field spoke slowly, eyes on the girl. "If you want to save your Pablito," he said, "you'll write him a letter saying that his all over—that you never did care for him and the whole thing is a mistake. Otherwise we'll read of his being dragged in that chair. We'll read about it—after it's all over—"

Estelle moved, swaying, toward the door. "I'll go and tell him immediately. Once she sat back, as it unable to go on. Her father picked up the sheet on which she had written the message. "All right," he commented gruffly.

TARZAN OF THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Tarzan heard the high priest's demanding voice and the woman's despairing, disdainful words answering Lu-don in the room beneath, he threw aside every consideration of caution. Drawing back his mighty fist, the ape-man struck a blow upon the bars of the small window near him. It sent the bars and the casing holding them clattering into the room. Instantly Tarzan's face appeared through the opening, carrying the hanging of antelope hide with him to the floor below.

Leaping to his feet he tore the entangled pelt from about his head, only to find himself in utter darkness and silence. He called aloud the name of his foster-mother—Tarzi! Where are you?" but only the echoes of his voice answered him until he called. With outstretched hands he groped about, sensing him- self for not seeing with greater caution. Stumbling blindly, he suddenly felt the floor tilting beneath him, and down, down into blacker darkness. His body struck a smooth surface and slid rapidly along this inclined chute.

As the ape-man hurtled downward, from above there came a taunting laugh, and the voice of Lu-don-ul-Ohio!" Tarzan came to a sudden and painful screamed after him "Return to thy father, O Dar- stop upon a rocky floor. Before him was an oval window crossed by many bars. Behind it the moon- light played upon the blue water of the lake below. He caught a faint but familiar odor in the air of the chamber. It was unmistakably the odor of the gryf! Motionless, now, Tarzan stood listening every muscle tense. At first he detected no sounds.

Presently from the far end of the enormous chamber he heard the shuffling of padded feet along the stone pavement. Nearer it came until he could hear the very breathing of the beast. Evidently it was attracted by the noise of Tarzan's descent, and was approaching to investigate. He could not see it, but he knew it was not far distant, and that, confining- ly, there reverberated through the gloom the sound of the gryf. Quickly the ape-man sought to shake the intrusive shape which he well knew no living creature could withstand.

At 10.00 a.m. the special programme was carried out by the school under the direction of the superintendent, Mr. W. S. Gordon. The room was tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion.

The church was well-filled as the morning service. The various classes of the Church School accompanied by their teachers occupied the front of the church. His discourse contained numerous examples the influence which they have exerted over their children during the past the years. Just before the minister concluded his address the choir and congregation joined in singing the two verses of "Home Sweet Home". At the conclusion of the sermon, bouquets of flowers were presented by Misses Vera Erickwater and Alice Hutchison, on behalf of the congregation to Mrs. J. C. He is to be congratulated on this venture which will be another beauty spot in Tweed.

Bertram of the General Staff of Kingston, who complimented the cadets on the fine showing especially with regard to the physical drill which he drew his special attention for the fine excellence. The names of the boys are to go to Mr. Thos. Colman, B.A., the instructor. A cup is also to be recommended by Capt. Witnesses said there were six men and a woman in the robber gang and that one of the three men who entered the bank "looked like Dillinger." He carried a machine-gun.

The car, a robbers fled, Jerry Stutman, manager of the bank, stepped on an alarm button. Police responded immediately but the bandits had disappeared in two automobiles which headed toward Detroit.

State police and sheriff's officers raced along the highway which leads to Detroit after the bandits had followed, but apparently the fugitives had made their escape.

Kirk Boland, a cigar store proprietor, said that the woman who connected Dillinger. Fugitive desperado with the robbery. He said one of the bandits had a scar on his face. Boland said he was transacting business in the bank when the robbery took place.

The man whom he said resembled Dillinger and many carried a machine gun with which he covered the bank employees while they scooped the money into sacks, while the other two men, armed with pistols, invaded the cashiers' cages, scooping up all the cash in sight.

There was $100,000 in the money consignment delivered at the branch bank before the robbery, but these had put most of the money sacks away in the vault when the bandits entered.

Owl, Stealing Chickens, Caught, One Trap Fastened on Each Foot

Burr's, May 18 (Special) — For the benefit of Mrs. Clifford Hubbs, who has been missing hens from his henhouse and thought a fox was taking them.

Several were found lying around dead. He set a number of traps near the hen house in hopes of catching the thief. On the morning of April 24 just three weeks ago, one of the traps was missing and the nocturnal visits stopped. Later the hen house of Mr. Bride Hough was honored by a visit from the wily thief. They closed all the openings to the hen house and he called on four feet.

Hearing a commotion among the hens early Monday morning Mr. Hough arose and discovered a large owl trying to get through a wire-covered window and that night he fastened a trap to a pole and set it up near the hen house. This (Tuesday) morning a large brown owl had one foot in the trap and the missing trap on the other foot. So both feet were shod alike with iron shoes.

He had a wing spread of about four feet.

ARE ENTITLED TO FAIR TRIAL

Comment of Probe Member Upon Evidence in Cheese Spread

Ottawa, May 18.—Just before the tobacco probe closed here yesterday, the committee heard mostly relatives of witnesses.

The Excise Act might have been violated by certain manufacturers who claim the trade practices of the tobacco trade in Montreal have been unfair and unethical, Mr. Bell, K.C., counsel for Imperial said today. He referred particularly to the section under which a license could be revoked when a manufacturer made a sale subject to the condition that the purchaser or consignee shall not deal in the goods of any like kind provided by another manufacturer or dealer."

This section was read by the chairman when one of the independent manufacturers, John Hughes was on the stand. He said he had not been aware of it before.

Witness, discussing electioneering, said: "I was told by Mr. Bell that I could get the case of Dan Peace of Hamilton. He said, 'Get prices on the products of other manufacturers, send them to me, and I will endeavor to cut prices on Imperial's products.'"

The matter of summoning the men who had been mentioned as answering the advertising matter of the independents was again discussed. Mr. Bell said it was serious. He said about twenty should be summoned since they were the consignees. Some members of the committee were in favor of calling the list.

Entitled to Fair Trial

"It seems to me that no matter how rich these men are or how bad they are, they should have a fair trial," said F. J. Young (Lib., Wentworth). "We are here to get evidence if."

The committee would decide its list of witnesses today, said Mr. Stevens.

Spectre of Outlaw Crosses Police Path

Chicago, May 18.—The spectre of Public Enemy No. 1 entered into the path of the army of man-hunters in the Loop district today.

Reports that federal agents had been warned of a secret visit to hideout Dillinger used after he and his pals had shot their way out of Michigan City, Indiana, Bohemia Wis., resort, spurred the hunters.

The secret service said he may have found the farm house where Mrs. Edward Shouse, mother-in-law of Paul banker, had been held prisoner.

The locale of mine hide-out was not disclosed. Dillinger, native of hilly country, settled early in Wisconsin's rich farm land district.

SASKATCHEWAN VOTES JUNE 19

Announcement Made by Premier Anderson on Saturday

Regina, May 18.—(CP)—Saskatchewan today was buried in political campaigning after Premier J. T. M. Anderson announced during Empire Day address in Regina that the provincial election will go to the polls.

Announcement yesterday by Premier J. T. M. Anderson, that the general election will be held June 19 and dissolution a week later found both Opposing Conservative and Labor (C.C.F.) Party with as many candidates in the field as the Conservative Government forces.

Less than half a dozen seats in the Saskatchewan House are held by the three parties with possibly a few independents. Most see straight fights. The possible straight fights may develop in Humboldt, Moose Jaw County and Regina but by all other constituencies there will be three and four-cornered battles.

Excepting the constituency of Athabaska, where voting will be delayed a month, 54 seats will be at stake when the House which was reduced from 63 to 55 seats by redistribution. For the 54 seats the Conservatives and Allied Government forces have named 51 candidates, Liberals 52 candidates and the Farmer-Labor forces have 53 in the field. A few other independents and United Front nominees make a total of 157 nominated to date.

At the close of the last Legislature April 7, the party standing was: Conservatives, 28; Liberals 26; Progressives, 4; Incependents, 5; vacant 2. Total 63. Tomato Growers Protest Prices Paid by Canners

Contracts With Companies Are Called Very Unfair

FARMER HELPLESS

Ottawa, May 18 (CP)—Tomato growers were compelled by their helpless financial condition to sign onerous contracts, Conservative member, H. W. Hunt, Brighton, Ontario, charged before the Stevens' Parliamentary Price Spreads today.

"Tomato crops cannot be grown at the prices paid by the canners," he declared, "but three years." the Northumberland County grower told the committee. The financial condition of the producers has reached a state where they had to go to the banks with their year's contracts with canning companies to borrow money to pay the growing bills, Mr. Hunt said. The bank manager had informed him he had contracts "one foot high" held as collateral for loans to tomato growers.

These contracts with the canning companies were very unfair, said witness. They were not really contracts at all, but were forced by a mutual agreement.

"The growers are rather amazing." Hon. H. H. Stevens, commissioner, interjected.

"What is the reason the growers have to sign an agreement of that kind," witness was asked.

"The farmers are helpless," Mr. Hunt replied.

The farmers had to have contracts with the canning companies in order to get money from the banks to grow crops.

"Do you know of any instances where a farmer was told by a bank to get a contract with a canning company in order to get seed from the canning?" questioned Sam Factor, K.C., Toronto Liberal counsel.

"I could give numerous cases," replied witness.

Mr. Hunt stated field men who represented the canning companies were appointed by agent for fertilizers.

"If you do not sign their fertilizer contracts they do not give you a factory contract," witness answered replied. He believed these field men were paid officials of the canners.

SOUTHOXFORD BY-ELECTION BROUGHT UP

Conservative Candidate Says Money Used to Win Riding

McRUER UNDER FIRE

Henry Claims Letters Written Before Control Board Formed

Toronto, May 18 (CP) — The South Oxford Federal by-election captured by the Liberals, today again was drawn into the Ontario general election campaign, premier Campbell Grant, Walkerton lawyer, and Conservative candidate in the Bruce, charges the Liberal victory was captured through money and influence of tobacco firms, who exerted the influence to steer their disapproval of the Stevens' Mass Buying investigation.

Mr. Grant's charges came last night when addressing a meeting nominated for the Ontario general elections, June 19. Mr. Grant was selected Conservative candidate for Bruce at the Port Elgin convention when Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, was the chief speaker. Mr. Macaulay criticized Mitchell P. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, for "his lack of courage and irresponsibility".

Other candidates nominated were Charles R. Harrison, Conservative candidate in Grey South; J. W. Cowherd, C.C.F., for Brantford; Gordon C. Cale, Conservative for Toronto Woodbine; Mrs. Beatrice Whyte, C.C.F. for Windsor-Walkerville; Duncan Cameron, C.C.F. for Lanark-Sandwich, and Reeve R. P. Hamilton, Conservative, and Miss F. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, appeared before the convention in North Bay where Mr. Harrison was named Conservative candidate for Nipissing-Sturgeon Falls. He stressed the importance of the mining industry in building up Northern Ontario and declared Ontario's mining industry "second to none" was only $8,000,000 short of equalling the value of the province's field crops.

Premier Simore Philpott at the Windsor-Sandwich and Windsor-Walkerville conventions, Controller Den Linden and was first reported have been directed against Premier Hepburn, declared that Conservatives would be returned to power in Ottawa, Toronto and Windsor, and that Ontario would not be saddled with a Communist government.

Death Can be Marble Rolling on Street Bird, Wheel or Possibly Dollar Bill

By DALE HARRISON

New York, May 18—(AP)—Death is a marble, rolling on the street. Death is a baby sat, pursued his "genius" into the pavement yesterday. It rolled under a coupe, and a woman, who had no time to confess, not seeing the child, pulled a lever, the hopper descended.

Death is a bird.

Mrs. Margaret Cross was watching a sparrow. A cat pounced upon it. The sight so unnerved Mrs. Cross that she took a few drinks, to forget. Drinking, she delayed getting dinner for her cab driver husband, Alexander. There was a scarred, their marriage license, neatly framed was torn from the wall, ing, and became a weapon that struck her down. The police, at any rate, say that is how she was killed and why her husband is held for homicide.

Death is $1.

With $1 Eugene Ruggiero, 16, bought a canoe. Then his friend, Vincent Ruggiero (a cousin) and Salvatore Ruggiero, 15, rode for a ride last night. The canoe upset. Eugene swam ashore. The others were drowned.

Death is a wheel, turning, thinking.

Nine year old Robert McAfee, hitching a ride on a trailer slipped and fell. His little body was directed under the wheel, turning, crushing.

RADIO BOARD IS ATTACKED BY E. A. WEIR

Unexpected Dismissal on Charge He Calls False

REPLY SOUGHT

Relaxation of Restriction on Small Stations Sought

Ottawa, May 18 (CP)—Abolition of the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission as at present constituted and reorganization with a distinct division of authority as between commercial broadcasting and administration, with a voluntary board 'of' Directors, was recommended in the House Committee today as a means of solving the broadcasting problem in Canada. E. A. Weir, former director of Canadian National Railway Broadcasting who was secured by the Commission as programme director at its inception and later dismissed, was the witness.

Mr. Weir aired a strong personal grievance against the commission while, said, if allowed he private its present course, would ultimately destroy public support broadcasting in Canada. Because of his issue with the commission being Mr. Weir said he had been charged by the Commission with disloyalty, and he claimed that the recital of good reasons for his dismissal by Commons in defense of the commission, had been left out.

After only a few months with the Commission, he said he had been given to understand that his position as programme director was to be permanent, he had been gradually demoted and eventually dismissed on a charge which he claimed to be false in every detail.

He was decided to ask the commission to prepare a brief in reply. This he had not been permitted to do, said, and it is possible his will be the only reply to the charges which matter addressed at noon, as the matters in the case are closed, and there was no time for considering a reply, Mr. Weir declared.

Dr. O. E. Coldert, secretary of station CKCK, Regina, made a brief plea for relaxation of restrictions on small stations, and criticized by the Communist. He was then, appeared before the committee to allege unfair treatment at the hands of the Commission.

Mr. Weir's recommendations for reorganization were as follows:

That the present broadcasting commission be abolished and a new one be set up with the most outstanding citizens in the Dominion on it, but not too many to be unwieldy, enough and unselfish enough to take no salary. It should be in the same way as they serve the National Gallery Board, and it should have great enterprises in this country, but the politicians should not be asked, otherwise they would immediately subject the government of the day to unwarranted pressure from self-seekers.

That the administrative and executive functions of the board be vested in a general manager to be later being conducted by one general manager who will be responsible for all operations and be answerable to the board.

LUMBER STOLEN FROM A YARD

A thief or thieves, who evidently scaled a high wall at the rear of the lot and worked under cover of the darkness, made off with a considerable quantity of pine lumber from the lumber yard of R. P. White, 14 North Front street on Wednesday evening. It was the second theft from the same yard in the past several years. Clues left by the nocturnal raiders are being followed in the hope of ultimate recovery of the lumber.

COLLEGIATE BOYS PARADE

The Belleville Collegiate Cadet Corps presented an impressive appearance this morning on the first dress parade of the season, and reflected great credit both upon Cadet Instructor J. Howard and Edgar Jones, the commanding officer. The school band in their dark blue uniforms formed a pleasing contrast to the khaki of the rest of the corps, and their inspiring music did much to make the parade a success. After drilling before the Collegiate, the corps returned by way of Pinnacle Street to the Armouries.

TEACHERS ASKED TO CO-OPERATE

Numerous complaints have been received by Aldermen of the city council from citizens, that school children in many cases on their way to and from school show wanton disregard for the lawns and flower beds of the city and spoil much shrubbery by making short cuts across peoples' grounds. A request will probably be made the Board of Education asking teachers in schools to co-operate in the matter by instilling a respect for the rights of its citizens and the lawns and gardens of their owners.

C. TREVERTON RESIGNS POST

Presentation Made to Retiring Officer of Corbyville Plant

Marking his retirement with a demonstration of appreciation and good fellowship, employees and officials of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at Corbyville on Thursday noon gathered in the cafeteria of the plant to bid goodbye and good luck to Mr. Chas. Treverton, assistant general manager of the company, who this week announced his resignation from active service with the company.

His retirement marks the end of twenty-two years' service with the company, ten years of which were spent as an officer of the Canadian Excise branch. To pay tribute to his sterling work, while connected with the huge plant, and the esteem in which he was held, and expressing their regret at his departure, fellow officers and employees on Thursday made a presentation of a handsome club bag, a pen and pencil desk set and an initialled military kit. The presentation was made on behalf of officers and workmen by Mr. W. I. Cole of the Excise department who accompanied it with a warm address.

Mr. Treverton's connection with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company first started in 1912, when he was made superintendent of the blending department. Five years were spent in this important department, after which he was transferred to the Excise department. In attaining this position Mr. Treverton was highly complimented by examining officials upon the high marks made in the qualifying examinations. They ranked among the highest in the Dominion, he was told.

Questioned today following his official announcement of resignation, Mr. Treverton declared that the first thing in order was "a good rest." "After that I'll be able to decide better on the next step."

During the years, that he has been with the company many extensive changes have been made in the huge plant. Considerable building was carried on there in the years between 1922-24, described as boom years for the company. Of late years an extensive business has been carried on in industrial alcohol and products following up and enlarging upon the trade, that had been made during war days, when the first commercial step was taken.

Mr. Treverton is a son of the late ex-Alderman Samuel H. and Mrs. Emma Treverton. He was born in Belleville and received his early schooling in local public and high schools. His interests have always been devoted to Belleville, where he has spent the greater part of his life, and where he has gained a wide and intimate circle of friends. He is particularly known in sporting circles and as an ardent fisherman and boating enthusiast.

Letters to The Editor

Tomahawk P.O. Alta., May 11, 1934
Ontario Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:

Through the kindness of some friend unknown I have received copies of the old home town paper, April 18-21st and read with deepest regret of the death of my old comrade "Art" the wise Major Johnson. Also through the columns of the Ontario Intelligencer I read some time back of the death of our friend and councillor of "war days", Tim Jordan, R.S.M. of the old Battalion of "Twenty Woners". I was pleased to note that in both cases these old friends had become members of my old Militia Battalion, 15th A.L.I. wherein I was onetime a Colour Sgt. of the company by Capt. Holton. I have many times regretted leaving the "Queen of the Bay" but this western country seems to grip one so that it is hard to leave, especially when the kiddies are born and raised in its great spaces. Greetings from old subscribers, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Berry to the Editor and all old comrades and friends in Belleville, Ont., especially thanking the one to whom I am indebted for the news first mentioned above.

Yours truly,
E. Berry, Lieut.

FIREWORKS ON THE HOLIDAY

Kiwanis Club Lines up Best Card Since Bouts Started Here

Fireworks de luxe are promised for Belleville's next show of light heavy wrestling, under the auspices of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, at the Armouries on Thursday night next. In fact, the line-up for the evening's entertainment looks so promising, that most of the ordinary May 24th fireworks are likely to be outshone by the grappling display on this occasion.

Main honors on the evening's card will be held by two of the outsanding most outstanding grrel most outstanding grapplers in their class today in the persons of Jackie Nicholls of South Bend, Ind., and the "Black Panther", of New York City's famous Harlem Belt. On a recent occasion, these two maulers were pitted against each other in a wrestling display at Windsor, Ont., and through their own ring efforts they succeeded in panicking "Big Time" sports writers, such as Lou E. Marsh, of the Toronto Daily Star's famous "Pick and Shovel" column, and Phil "Darky" Daniels, who writes another column in the Sports Weekly. Marsh was so enthused over the antics of the dark gentleman's (and his opponent's) that he devoted almost a full column to his "ravings" in the matter. When these opponents, then, stack up against each other here next Thursday night, the customers have every right to expect that the entertainment will be of the variety, which shows all the speed skill, science, thrills and action for which light heavy wrestling has come to have a name in the centres on the continent where the sport has been introduced. An additional guarantee is implied in the announcement, that while the "Panther" is known for his clean, above-board wrestling strategy his opponent has in the past garnered more renown through his reputation for being one of the worst "bad-men" in the game.

As usual the card is being arranged by Matchmaker Tommy A. McClure, the demon speed-boat driver from Toronto, and Tommy this time promises, that even if his attempts are only half successful the card he is trying to arrange for the delectation of the Belleville fans on this Empire Day occasion, will be of the super deluxe variety.

FLOOD LIGHT AT CENOTAPH

Council Recommends That Petition of Veterans be Accepted

A lighting device, which will floodlight the Cenotaph memorial for the fallen soldiers at Memorial Park with a continuous bath of soft light throughout the night will be seriously considered by members of the city council on Monday evening next at the regular meeting, following recommendation passed last evening at committee meeting of council that a floodlight be installed.

The resolution is the result of a petition made city council for the light by a deputation of returned soldiers of the local branch of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada.

The recommendation calls attention to the fact that: "After many requests from the returned soldiers of this district for som elighting device in the nature of a floodlight at Memorial Park where the Cenotaph is located, it is hereby recommended, that a suitable light be installed at this park at the location decided upon by the Hydro Electric Commission, Soldiers' Committee and the chairman of light".

A recommendation, that the tender of Thomas Harris, local contractor for wrecking the old Ferry House be accepted at the price of $50.00 was also passed.

Other recommendations to be passed on were:

That a section of the line fence at the rear of Mr. Bateman's property at 139 George Street be constructed according to the engineer's report of May 17.

That the Chairman of Fire have four pumps made, cost not to exceed $8.00 each.

LINSEED, CORN CROPS AIDED

Argentina Will Cease Loans to Wheat Farmers

London, May 18 (AP)—A definite arrangement whereby the 1933 wheat agreement will be saved from collapse and Argentina will be permitted to export about 20,000,000 more bushels of wheat this season than the agreement calls for was said in wheat circles today to be virtually consummated.

An important announcement by the Argentina government, that it will entirely or virtually cease to encourage by production of linseed and corn instead was expected to be made simultaneously according to the same source.

The announcement of this new policy is hoped for either at or from Buenos Aires or by Thomas A. Bryden, of Argentina, in Paris.

It was said that the final approval of this agreement now rests with the governments at Buenos Aires and that there are strong indications it will be accepted.

The proposed permission for Argentina to exceed her quota would be arranged through a "loan" of quota among Canada, the United States and Australia. The United States and Australia would each yield two parts of the Argentine increase and Canada would yield one part.

RADIO BOARD AIDS TOURIST

Reciprocal Programs Cross Border For Advertising

Ottawa, May 17—(CP)—The Canadian Radio Commission has undertaken a two-fold programme to aid the tourist industry. Natural attractions of Canada are being sold to United States through reciprocal programmes with an American net-work; and Canada is being sold to Canadians through programmes written particularly for home consumption.

A detailed outline of the commission's activities as an adjunct to tourist expansion was presented today by Hector Charlesworth, Commission Chairman, before the tourist committee of the senate.

The commission's interest in advertising Canada's natural attractions on radio to aid tourist expansion began in 1932, Mr. Charlesworth stated. "Hands across the border" programmes had been designed to interest listeners in the United States, but there was also though given to interesting each part of the Dominion in every other.

George R. Graham, Kentville, M.P., general manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, said expansion of the tourist industry was practically without limit. The industry had a direct bearing on national prosperity. The witness favored a federal bureau to co-ordinate the present work of provincial and private organizations.

CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

Fixing of the election date for the nineteenth of June has set in operation all the forces which will converge upon that date to decide the political fate of the Province of Ontario.

Both parties have been at work for weeks and months and in the field are a good many of the candidates who will come before the electors. Neither party has been hesitant about this matter, neither Liberal nor Conservative as the general notion of the date was clearly imbedded in the minds of the people as being somewhere about the twentieth of June.

The mere fact of setting the date however has not only set the official machinery at work but it has brought that definiteness into the campaign to spur up the parties.

One of the most interesting campaigns Ontario has ever had is to be closed within five weeks, but those five weeks will be filled with interest, the political skies reflecting every cast of thought during the next few weeks.

RODEOS

England has not eliminated the possibility of rodeos shows being staged in London and other places, but the cowboys have to act within new restrictions. The British consider that the rodeo is not on this side of the Atlantic are a little rough and England has softened the recipe.

It is ten years since a rodeo was put on at Wembley and ten years ago it was not too successful. One can understand how this type of show was not quite appealing to the sporting customs and likes of the English people who are trained to other forms of entertainment where horses and other animals are concerned. The act can be said without disparagement to Englishman, American or Canadian. Possibly if anything can be said it might be said on the basis of English reception of certain moving picture scenes of rodeos and wild-west shows.

Of course England does not go in for bull-fights and possibly the sight of steer-roping may be considerations of the atmosphere of the blood and sand arena.

Canadians know rodeod and admire them for many demonstrations of skill but in England the claim has been made that the treatment the animals receive in roping or throwing wrestling is often painful causing broken limbs and even necks.

Ten years ago Englishmen objected to certain allegedly cruel features. Exploitation of pain has been banned by law, for Parliament has passed special legislation which prohibits wrestling with and the roping and riding of beasts, exhibited as unconscionable. But the Englishman has put no ban on horsemanship, and Canadian riders will be able to give as much demonstration of riding as they like for the admiration of the English public.

Everyone knows how much an Englishman loves animals, even if some might call steeplechase racing cruel and dangerous enough for man and the horse the Englishman loves, for some folk war against the fox-hunt of the Old Land.

Yet wrestling with beasts in the arena and roping and riding of them may possibly not be the highest sport, it does appeal to the developing instincts of a child and may not to the adult men or women who has caught a glimpse of the milder treatment of animals.

CANOEING IN CANADA

Canoe trips in Canada are one of the features of the outdoor life of this country which Canada will give up for no one. This exercise of grace and stamina so closely linked with the beauty of motion in the sunlight and of waves, and trees and so soothing to the weary heart is something of which Canadians must be proud.

Canoeing is one way to speed a vacation, it is different from the humdrum or ordinary rest for our widespread system of lakes, rivers and streams open up an infinite choice.

But it also gives the modern man an opportunity to gain something of the spirit of the French and English pioneers who opened up the vast trade over hundreds of miles of waterways more than two hundred years ago. The modern individual is challenged by these glorious routes to live again the life of the pioneer and voyageur.

Canoeing is a test of resourcefulness and it develops mind and body.

SIDELIGHTS

INTO HER HEART

Sometimes for years men tend one garden plot.
Breed beauty there in rare, exotic flowers,
Among the rocks carve out a fern-filled grot,
Plant purple hyacinths, trail lvied bowers.
With patient toil they make the rich earth bloom
And woo its treasures as a lover woos
His darling's kiss. From dawn till twilight's gloom
They fill their garden's canvas with fair hues.

But nature is more patient still than they;
She knows each tireless gardener must depart.
And when at time's command one turns away
She takes his garden back into her heart.
How soon the wilful vines run riot there!
How soon each rose assumes a wildwood air!

TWO KIDNAPPERS IN CALIFORNIA plead guilty and take a life sentence preferably to a trial and possible capital punishment for kidnapping with violence. The millionaire Gettle, of Los Angeles, was seized and hustled over a ten-foot fence, inflicting injuries which could have been charged against the kidnappers. The defendant in the breach of promise action was a singularly ugly little man.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said his counsel, "you've heard the evidence of the plaintiff, and doubtless you've admired her. Now, do you believe this enchanting, this fascinating, this captivating, this accomplished girl would favor the advances or listen, save with scorn, to the amorous protestations of the wretched and repulsive creature the deformed and degraded defendant?"

His client tried to interrupt.

"Silence, sir!" replied his counsel, in an undertone. "Gentlemen," he continued, "do you think this girl would ever have permitted an coffer of marriage to be made her by this miserable atom of humanity, who would have to stand on a penny to look over twopence?"

The jury thought not. Verdict for defendant.

BUSINESS MEN OFTEN OFFICE BOYS AT HOME

Mother Was Boy's First Boss And Wife Succeeds Her

By Louis F. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features) Syndicate, Inc.)

It is astonishing to note how many really capable, virile and dynamic men there are who become as subdued as lambs the moment they set their feet inside the doorsteps of their own homes. They may be powerful in the business world and their employees actually may fear them but when the wife is around not only do they become strangely silent but what they say loses all its weight and prestige.

When a man is afraid of his wife it does not necessarily mean that he does not love her. On the contrary, his fear may be the best outcome of his love.

In the courting stage men not only idealize the woman of their choice but they often over-idealize her to an absurd degree. Despite disillusionment afterwards, some of the old hero worship sticks. They find men continuing to revere their wives with a devotion that, when their common sense tells them they are making fools of themselves.

The mother complex by which every man is dominated is an important factor in this connection. The mother is the boy's first boss. It was she who first corrected him, taught him such words "don't." And since every man tries to find a substitute mother when he marries, he naturally carries over to his wife many of the attitudes he bore his own mother when he was young.

Another factor that tends to make every man afraid of his wife is his realization that women have an uncanny way of guessing things when things that he has tried to hide. Men consider women as being highly suspicious individuals and often husbands feel guilty even when they are innocent of deceiving.

Few men understand women. The average husband looks upon his wife as a sweet, mysterious, puzzling being, sometimes much more difficult to comprehend than Einstein's theories of relativity. This frightens him. He feels that he had better not try to have his own way too much that it is the part of wisdom to let well enough alone.

Men women enjoyed such humility on the part of their husbands there would be no need of bringing up the question at all. But such meekness is exactly what women do not like. They may try to intimidate their husbands but at the same time they are praying that they will not succeed. What they are attempting to do, really, is test the strength of the male whom they have accepted as a life's partner and whom they hope will be able to withstand feminine intolerance of whatever kind. If the husband is bluffed into silence they despise him with all their heart. But if he fights back and tries to be as fearsome a person in his own home as he is in his business world then the wife becomes his willing slave.

The wise husband will recognize the feminine weakness for fear he bears all women and will take the necessary steps not to show it. Nor will the wise wife try to take advantage. Thus will the big boss remain the big boss where he is—to call external appearances—and everybody will be happy.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Both ripe and green olives are nutritious and make a fine tid-bit relish a taste for them. One can usually accomplish the distasteful by eating half a dozen olives, one after the other. Once, too, serve to create appetite. When chopped fine they add zest to a salad, while in certain alcholic drinks, such as a dry Martini cocktail, they have just the right flavor. A tablespoonful of olive oil after the boy's meal increases weight and helps elimination.

Boxing Bouts at Airport Provide Thrills Aplenty

Wrestling on Card Steals Show From Boxers

Trenton, May 18 (Special)—The several hundred fans who attended the fifth boxing and wrestling card at the Airport last evening, were treated to some real classy bouts.

The show was sponsored by Relief Project No. 38 by permission of Wing Commander L. S. Breadner, D.S.C. The judges of the evening were Mr. J. A. McFee of Belleville; Dr. J. E. Reston and Mr. Clarence Saylor of Trenton. Sgt.-Major Overton of the R.M.C., Kingston, handled the boxers, while W. G. Harrison of the R.C.A.F. looked after the wrestlers.

Bill Adams, former Ontario 160-lb. champion of Oshawa, was the matchmaker and trainer. Sgt. Major Wimberly again announced the contestants as only a sergt-major can do while Sgt. O'Neil handled the bell.

Wrestling Steals Show

The wrestling seemed to steal the show as it did throughout the country. Bill Goodman of Toronto, tangled with Fred Berry of Timmins in the first grunt and groan contest. Goodman gained the first fall as he pounced on Ripley after six and a half minutes. Goodman's tactics were booed especially when he continually pulled the wool locks of Ripley. Neither gained another fall at the fifteen minute limit.

Jim Saylor of Trenton, ex-Intercollegiate and Dominion champion returned to the ring to meet Bill Redquest of the Toronto Y.M.C.A. at 126 lbs. Redquest was booed for his backward tactics. Saylor he scrambled under the ropes to walk around the ring using his arms. He took severe punishment as Saylor dodged his wild swings and then tossed Request over his head. Redquest had plenty of strength and after all but down, worked loose from Saylor. With only seven seconds to go for the fifteen minute limit Saylor gained a fall with a body hold.

Referee Harrison could not part the entangled arms of Wheeler each other with Harrison's leg solid in the chicken. Wheeler was finally and bound as he left the ring.

Little Joseph Wheeler applied the fatal scissors hold in the closing seconds of the bout. Opponent, Joe Holly of Kingston, couldn't get away and went out with the count before the fans really got settled down to watch them go for a scheduled five minute encounter.

In the semi-final tilt J. Gorman took a close decision to Dick Heisley, the latest lad from the Limestone City. Gorman hammered in at the start as did Heisley, but in the fifth round Gorman's condition showed signs of weakening and the decision went to Heisley who was beating Gorman to almost submission.

Both Lads Tough

Smith of Campbellford, landed a hard blow in lieu of the S.E.A.C. of Belleville in the final round of the Belleville lad. Both these boys were tough with Smith getting the final break. Smith mixed many punches as Lucas ducked them at the first. Both aided their ground and Lucas took some hard shots on the head with not much trouble. In the last round Lucas came in to meet a hard one in the eight places for the finish.

The Woods-O'Neil canlo caused the laughter when Woods danced around with his shoulder in that "come up and see me" attitude. O'Neil placed many jabs punches on the former's nose and the blood flowed freely. In the second Woods connected on O'Neil's head and he stayed down for an eight count to get his bearings. O'Neil was the best boxer while Woods danced around and took it all to gain a decision.

The poorest decision of the evening was called in the Thorne-Mancale go. The tilt opened tame with both too cautious. Thorne made many swings to miss but Mancale was down to his scrapping style. The last round both boys bore down and it ended a good fight although a draw decision could have at least been a draw as the boss of the ring showed.

The opening bout was won by Bill McComas of the South End Club, Belleville, over P. Insley of Point Anne. Insley continually rushed in to clinch and this didn't give McComas a chance. He uses both hands effectively and won a popular decision.

Wrestling fans and the followers of the leather pushers were all satisfied with the show and the next one will be eagerly awaited.

Results

R. McKenna, Belleville, decision over J. Gorman, Ottawa; 5 rounds, 135 lbs.

Howard Wheeler, Oshawa, K.O.'d Joe Holly, Kingston after 45 seconds of first round of a five round scheduled match; 126 pounds.

Wrestling

Bill Goodman, Toronto, gained one fall after six and one-half minutes and 15 minute time draw from Ripley, Timmins at 170 lbs.

Jim Saylor, Trenton, gained one fall-on fourteen minutes and fifty-three seconds of fifteen minute limit over Bill Redquest Belleville Leaking over the field day results one is struck with the fine record turned in by Marion McLean in winning the senior girls' title for the third year in succession. Marion is a natural born athlete, enjoys sport for sports sake and is a thorough sportswoman in every particular. The fact that she won the title in her second outstanding of the feat of winning every event in which she started and all that regarded to entitle her to the honor. This is not detracting in any way from the other girls who competed but Marion should be proud of her title and the school should be proud of Marion.

"Wally" Hilton also comes in for a word along with Jack Morgan. These two boys fought it out to the the title in just as outstanding a manner as the former. Hilton and Jack Morgan was the first to take the winner's hand. That is the beauty of Collegiate sport, it makes you great either winning or losing and that is the spirit we like to make for better manhood and citizenship. Every champion deserves a boost but sometimes the losers carries off the honors. Here's hoping, that field goes on to bigger things.

"Peeney" Mills and his charges have been handicapped by the bad weather in preparing for the opening of the ball season but at that they have had more spring training than is usually the case. It looks as if the team will not be in the running in this year's race with Williams as the chief threat. Killing Birds for Sake Bounty Called Unwise

Toronto, May 18.(CP)—"I don't like the idea of employing children to take life in any form," commented J. McNab, director of the Toronto Humane Society, today in connection with the offering of a bounty to St. Catharines' children to kill starlings and crows.

In St. Catharines a theatre has offered school children tickets, as guests of the Lincoln County and St. Catharines Game and Fish Protective Association, for 10 pairs of starling legs or two pairs of crows legs.

"I don't think anyone would object to children killing rats, however and starlings nuisances, so even greater nuisance, in my mind," Mr. McNab said.

Fashion Flashes

Something new for the bride is to be found in a beautiful fan made of wire on which are nothing but fresh flowers. One model is of blue delphinium and pink begonias. While violets and pink sweetheart roses make another floral scheme.

We are going out far more this season than was the case last year. And so we can find use for a lovely white crepe dress with a printed design of delicately pink purple pansies. This is worn with a loose coat of pansy purple velvet.

Look fresh even when alone in the country. An attractive morning is a skirt in thin woolen in a tiny check and plaid design in gray, green, red, and black. With it is worn a white silk shirt with red buttons and a silk kerchief scarf in the same design and colors as the skirt.

Look grand when you go to an important party. A gala evening dress has been made of a dress of black crepe with gloves of matching fabric. It has a bolero made entirely of little black flowers, sewn closely together. A band of the flowers also outlines the centre back of the skirt right to the tip of the long train. The flowers also edge the gloves.

Quite detached when necessary are the cuffs and the collar of the afternoon frock in pleated beige georgette. The Buster Brown collar, and the cuffs which fall open, end at the elbow, are of beige fur. The fur set can, of course, be worn beautifully with other dresses and suits.

A welcome discovery is that a black satin evening frock can appear time and time again during the season with different accessories. A black satin sheath with a ballet neck and long bands crossing the back decolletage which reaches to the waist has a broad band of stiffened black horsehair at the hemline and around the train.

Holds My FALSE TEETH
Tighter and Longer

You tried several kinds of powders and pastes and found they did not hold FALSE TEETH. I found the one powder that does not thin out or wash away, but forms into a gum-like seal that gives a remarkable degree of comfort and security, and helps you feel safe and sure. Thanks to a simple discovery, my plates fit my gums as they should. Don't be ashamed of loose-fitting false teeth. Don't let them slip, rock or irritate. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, Inc. of the gums. At any good drug store.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Controlled by Fortune Tellers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My wife and I had been married only a short time when she started to sic me for divorce because of a foolish misunderstanding and some little quarrels. Now that the case has come up, and the hearing is only a little while off, she has decided that we should make one more trial of living together. But, due to the fact that she has consulted five different fortune tellers, and that two have told her she will not be happy, she hesitates.

She tells me that one very high-priced fortune teller told her we would be able to get along. Now, I don't believe in fortune tellers, and I do believe that married life is a question of give and take and can be made what you choose to make of it.

I love my wife, and she loves me. But did you ever hear anything so foolish as to allow the paid predictions of fortune tellers to keep two people apart?

S.

If you will forgive me for saying so, it seems to me that your wife is more in need of a mental specialist than a soothsayer. Your fortune tellers have told her she will not be happy with you, but three have told her—among them the most sensational—that she will be happy. Why should any sane woman permit paid fortune tellers to direct her life?

I agree with you that marriage is a question of give and take, and that we make of it what we put into it, in the way of consideration, sacrifice, and always a sense of humor.

She's Not The Petting Kind"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with a girl, but am not at all sure whether she cares for me or not. If she would it is possible for me to discover her real feelings for me, and how much in fact her I care for her? I do not know whether she takes things—such as having a boy in love with her—seriously or not. She's not the petting kind, and I'm devoutly thankful she is not. I believe this is one of the reasons I care for her. I'd be very grateful to you.

E.

It has been my experience that girls usually know when they are loved, and there are so many ways in which the whole matter betrays itself.

What, are this girl's tastes? Is she fond of sports, does she like to read books? Does she cook or flower? Few girls can resist flowers, especially in the spring when blossoms are so lovely. And of course, all girls like to have dates. Do you invite this girl out daily to movies, theatres and concerts?

As she's not the petting kind, very likely she enjoys being with a boy who treats her respectfully.

She's Not Really Old-fashioned

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Do you think I am foolish in hoping to meet a good, respectable boy, who will, on his part, want a nice old-fashioned girl? I am not old-fashioned in the sense that I would want to wear crinoline hoop skirts, and flowers in my hair, but I just can't make up my mind to be like these girls who appear at least to be fast. I like good times, the same as any other young person, but after all, people have to respect each other, and I fail to see why a boy and girl can't respect each other if they don't have decent, clean thoughts.

Must I continue to be out of luck because I can't find the kind of boy I'd like to have—one who would appreciate me?

Perplexed.

I am very sure, my dear young friend, yours is a very reasonable ambition. You're doubtless impatient at seeing so flashy affairs between boys and girls, and with which you have no sympathy. You're quite right in believing that the only sound basis for all human relationships is founded upon mutual respect, more especially if these relations are to be lasting.

Far from believing that you are peculiar, I sincerely congratulate you and wish you well.

Took Out Other Girls in The New Car

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 years of age, and as yet, have never had a real boy friend. Recently, a very fine young man in whom I became interested. At first he appeared to like me. Later he bought a beautiful car and started taking other girls out. I was hurt and very much jealous, but experience has taught me never to show my jealousy, and even with her quite "steady". He seemed to have forgotten me. But I didn't have that trait. Lately, this girl has acted as though he was even more infatuated in her than he was before. He asked me to go to a show with him, but my mother wouldn't hear of it, the result being I didn't go.

I often see him now, and he tells me this other girl meant nothing to him but that she was most anything to him now. What I can't understand is that he acts as though he is fond of me, kisses me, and then will turn around and go out with this other girl.

Let me congratulate you on the wisdom of not showing you were jealous. Your very angry remarks about the girl your boy friend took out for a ride two or three times, and going together.

That, my dear, is the reason he came back to you. No bitterness of recrimination will be exhibited by a girl. Friendship was pleasantly resumed where it had been left off.

Do too bad from your point won't let you go out with this young man sometimes, but if the worst you won't. The reason he turns around and is acting nice to some other girl is human nature; especially a young boy's nature, when all girls are attracted to him.

SUMMER BREEZES SEND MERCURY UP

Spring wafted around the corner into the city on summer breezes this evening, sending thermometers hopping upward to normal summer levels, driving ordinary bathing and coolness into the streets and filling verandahs and porch swings once again for the second time this season. It was the first warm day in weeks. Following a sprinkle of rain over the district late in the morning, temperatures began their steady rise to reach a high of over 65 at eight o'clock in the evening. With a gap of chilly weather during the early morning a steady rise on Friday was again noted, with the highest mark of 85 being reached at noon. Summer's here.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Hors. D'Oeuvres

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a dinner is being served by the host, does he pass the plate to his right or left? Does the first plate go to the hostess? If so, is the second plate kept by the guest on the right of the hostess, or does it go on around to the guest at the right of the host?

2. How is hors d'oeuvres pronounced?

B.

1. When the host is doing the carving or the serving, or both, he is given a delightful opportunity to show his "ample hospitality," and when the hostess is the honor, on his right, then the woman given the second place of honor, on his left, then the other women guests according to age of distinction or both. He serves the hostess last of the women. Next he serves the men guests, the man guest of honor first, the man on the left of the hostess second, and then the other men guests according to age or distinction or both.

2. As he passes each plate, he should mention the name of the person for whom it is intended, and whose preferences he has probably consulted before he did the serving. For instance, "Mrs. Allen, this is for you, and I hope that it is just as you said you like it", or "Mr. this is for you. You said you liked dark meat, didn't you?"

2. Hors d'oeuvres is pronounced with two syllables. The first syllable is pronounced just like the English word or. The second syllable is pronounced as if it were spelled duvr, with the u having the value of that in fur. Or-duvr.

Small Dinner Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have a small dinner party for my friends, and one I would appreciate your advice.

1. The menu will consist of cream soup or fruit cocktail, fried chicken, gravy, potatoes, a vegetable, and salad served in dessert and coffee. Should I have the soup on the table when the guests arrive? Is it correct to have the olives, celery and relishes on during this course?

2. Is it correct to serve a highball or cocktail before dinner when you are serving a fruit cocktail or soup?

3. When the meat course is served, shall I place the dinner plates and the meat and vegetables in front of my husband and he will serve everything, or just the meat and potatoes? Then pass the vegetables and gravy?

4. After he has served the plates, does he pass them to the other person. Usually sold at 7.00 to 12.50. Special sale price

5. Should the salad fork be placed next to the plate, and the dinner fork on the outside?

6. When should the salad or pie should the fork be served as the cake is served, or placed with the salad and dinner forks at the left? If it is served with the cake, should it be placed on the left or right of the plate?

7. I have no individual butter knives, so would it be correct to use the bread and butter plate anyhow?

1. If you can possibly avoid it even with increased inconvenience to yourself, don't have the soup on the table when your guests sit down, unless it is a cold soup. One of the important virtues of soup is its being very hot, and the time it takes to seat your guests will certainly cool it too much. If you decided to serve the fruit cocktail this may be on the table when your guests sit down. The olives, celery, and relishes may be on the table during the course.

2. Cocktails are the drink usually served before dinner, and if you wish to offer an alternative, you will probably find that the guests who don't with cocktails will prefer sherry to highballs before dinner. Highballs are appropriate to serve after dinner. The fact that you are serving fruit cocktails, or soup makes no difference with this serving of drinks in the living-room before dinner.

3. Since you have so simplified the items of your main course, it would seem to me more convenient for you to have all of these details placed before your husband for his serving of them.

4. He serves first the woman guest of honor, on his right, then the woman on his left, and then the other women guests, last the hostess. Then the man guest of honor, on your right, then the man on your left, and then the other men.

5. Yes.

6. The fork for the cake or pie may be placed just before these are served, or you may find it convenient to do as many hostesses now are doing, placing the dessert silverware or silverpiece above the plate as the table is set. This is an especially convenient thing to do when there is no service in the household.

7. Yes, you may use the bread and butter plate, placing for it, if you wish, the smallest she knife you have.

Chacun Son Gout

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I had dinner one evening with my boy friend, in a restaurant down town, we happened to have a dispute after ordering drinks with our dinner. My friend ordered beer and I an old- fashioned cocktail. Is it improper to order cocktails or highballs with your meals if it agrees with you.

When it comes to what we order to eat or to drink, it's a personal a matter for anyone to "wonder" as our choices and preferences. But still in the friendly discussion about your order, you and I can understand that the boy friend might cling to the usual conventional order of drinking a cocktail before dinner rather than with dinner. However, "everyone to her own taste".

CANNIPTON W.A.

The regular monthly meeting and social of the Woman's Association was held in the Canniton United Church Sunday school rooms with Mrs. Collett and Mrs. Merrick in charge of the dinner. The tables were laden with a bountiful supply of food ready to eat provided by the members. After dinner the ladies repaired to the auditorium for transaction of sewing, a short devotional program conducted by the president, Mrs. Cole, was given. The hymn, "There Is Work To Do For Jesus" was sung, and Mrs. Cole then offered prayer. Business was then discussed, some time and thought being given to planning for the coming Women's Association convention. It was also decided to help a needy family. The meeting was then dismissed.

TORONTO MINES
Close

Toronto, May 18—Selective buying proceeded quietly today and with very little effect on the price level of the Toronto Exchange mining listings. Silver lacked the interest centred in them yesterday and some recessions were boarded in the group under profit-taking. The general tone of the gold and base metal departments was steady.

Eldorado held most of Thursday's advance closing at 2.70 down actions wersahrdishrdluu SHRDL 7 cents. Nipissing fell back to 2.16, off 14 cents and Castle lost 1 to 63. Premier and White Eagle closed unchanged or higher.

Hollinger pushed up 75 cents to $17 and Teck at 6.05 was down 5 cents. Dome also closed down narrowly.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, May 18.—(CP)— The peaks of Thursday's rally were levelled off in quiet selling today that centred mainly in the oil, distillery, and metal shares. All the Interlisted shares recorded recessions in sympathy with New York's mildly reactionary tone and domestic listings trailed along, giving the board a decided majority of losses over gains at the close.

Little was heard today about Washington's progress with the proposed Silver Legislation and as Thursday's rally had a silver angle, the tendency was to await new developments. All the Interlisted issues drifted down, Nickel taking a drop of 50 cents to 27.40 and Smelters 3 points to 154. C.P.R. Brazilian and Ford A all closed on the down side.

Distillery shares held well in the morning session but surrendered fractions late in the day, Walker's common slipping a point.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Quiet profit taking in stocks today cancelled part of the gains registered in yesterday's vigorous rally.

Some support was evident, declines predominated in the late dealings. U. S. Smelting and DuPont lost more than 2 points each while issues down about a point or so included Sante Fe, Case, American Telephone, U.S. Steel, Howe Sound and New York Central. Coca Cola was a firm spot. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares

Stock Market Gossip

Silver

Financial News Bureau says—It seems quite definite that silver legislation will reach the House with the President's request for passage without delay early next week with the restrictions under the proposed legislation as regards limit of profits that may be made by private corporations or individuals on purchases of silver for their own account. It is quite apparent that the volume of trading in the silver futures will be restricted as well as purchase of metal.

Electric Auto Lite

Toledo—The Electric Auto Lite Co. plant will be closed Friday and Saturday due to seasonal decline in automobile production and the company catching up with its shipping releases officials stated.

J. Arthur Minch, Vice President, said the closing was not induced by the strike which started 5 weeks ago.

Price Bros. Dispute Settled

Montreal—Agreement has been reached among leading creditors and security holders on a reorganization plan for Price Bros. and Co. inasmuch as new agreement has approval of competing syndicates which were bitterly contesting for control of the property. The long drawn out dispute over the company is apparently ended. Meeting of various interests involved in company will be called for formal approval of the new agreement.

Granada Gold Mines

Proposal was made at yesterday's annual meeting of Granada to subdivide present holdings among four operating companies. Existing company will retain present operating area with sufficient acreage to protect all known structures on depth. Three new companies would be forced to be controlled by Granada. New Hadsel mill expected to be in operation about Aug. 1 when it is anticipated mine will be prepared for 200-ton daily production. Financial Counsel.

Carloadings Decrease 2,466

Washington—Loading of revenue freight in week ended May 12 totalled 601,739 cars decrease of 2,466 cars below previous week, an increase of 66,833 cars over like 1933 week and an increase of 84,479 cars above corresponding week 1932 according to American Railway Association.

DR. FAULKNER GUEST SPEAKER

Young Men Should Offer Selves For Public Service, Stated

An appeal was made by Dr. J. A. Faulkner to the young men of today, as the potential leaders of tomorrow, to consider all the avenues open to them not only in civic, but in Provincial and Dominion affairs. The topic of the inspiring address which Dr. Faulkner delivered before the Kinsmen's Club yesterday evening was "The Call to the Youth of Our Country."

He spoke on the part that the young men of today can play in the service of their community and of their country by offering themselves for public service. Dr. Faulkner also stated that they should not only prepare themselves for positions of responsibility, but support the older men who were offering their lives in the service of their country. The fact was deplored that many citizens take no active part in the work of the community and are not interested in elections.

In appealing to the young men of today to take an active part in public service, Dr. Faulkner said that they must not think that they were too young and spoke of the great men of the past who had begun their lives of service and devotion to duty at an early age. He recalled how Sir John A. Macdonald entered public life at the age of 31, and how Sir Wilfrid Laurier began his political career at the age of 30. Reference was also made to the even more remarkable example of how William Pitt, first Earl of Chatham, entered political life at the age of 27 and how his son, of the same name, became Prime Minister at the age of 24. "Gentlemen," said Dr. Faulkner, "it is upon your shoulders that that responsibility is falling now."

The fact was emphasized that at this time of all times, it was essential that the young men take an interest and an active part in the affairs of their country. He reminded the young men that while supporting a family and one's dependents was a very fine thing, one's responsibility did not end there. One must still think of his neighbors in particular of those who are worse off than he is.

Clear Judgment

The thing that is needed by a young man today is a clear judgment, and an active conscience. Dr. Faulkner reminded them that there is something inside of everyone which tells him what is right and what is wrong. "This something," he said, "which touches us on the shoulder when we are about to do wrong, is the God within us. Good judgment and a clear conscience is something which is given to us by God, and which cannot be taken away.

Dr. Faulkner emphasised the fact that the young men of today should take responsible positions and exert great influence in the place of their birth. He reminded them that patriotism and loyalty were two of the greatest virtues. Patriotism, they were reminded includes love and devotion to one's country, while loyalty is unstinting devotion to King, Country, and everything that makes up the country in which one lives. He concluded that it will be a sad day when any young man of ability who runs for office is held back on account of his youth.

This address was enthusiastically received by a large attendance of members of the Kinsmen's Club. Dr. Faulkner was introduced by Dr. Austin Walters, and a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Leslie Pearsall. Mr. William McIntosh, President of the Kinsmen's Club was in the chair.

A presentation was made of a wedding gift to Mr. R. Arnott by the Kinsmen's Club. Both Dr. C. Adams and Mr. R. Keel took part in the presentation.

JOINT MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Dr. Jamieson of Toronto Explains Workings of Both Boards

An extensive resume of the work in Ontario connected with the Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pension Boards was delivered yesterday afternoon at Shire Hall by the Hon. Dr. Jamieson of Toronto, chairman of the Department of Welfare for the Province, to members of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and Belleville and Trenton Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pension Boards on the occasion of their joint meeting, which was concluded late in the afternoon. Only detail business connected with the organizations characterized the meeting. It was presided over by Mr. Arthur McGie, a member of the local Old Age Pension Board.

In his address to the members, Dr. Jamieson called attention to the excellent work, that had been accomplished by the associated boards, and pointed out many of the little understood characteristics connected with the work. Welfare was a singular problem of the Province, and one in which much work yet remained to be accomplished. He cited instances and explained clearly along what lines members should concentrate.

Following the conclusion of the splendid address a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Alec Moore, chairman of the Old Age Pension Board for the County of Hastings and seconded by Ex-Alderman G. A. Bennett, member of the local Old Age Board.

The capacity of the large hall was taxed to care for the large attendance of representatives present from throughout the district.

COMMUNITY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS BY E. V. ILLSEY

Basis For Successful Organization Outlined

Madoc, May 18. — About ninety members of the Madoc Community Club and their wives attended the May meeting held on Tuesday evening in Rine's Hotel. Following a delicious turkey dinner, the president, Mr. Jack Rutherford, welcomed the ladies and guests. Musical numbers were then provided by the Madoc quartette (Messrs. Hawthorne, Bedford, Bedford and Fletcher) and by Arkell's string ensemble (Mr. and Mrs. Arkell, Miss Lillian Arkell and Mr. Earl Armstrong). The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Illsey, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Belleville, was introduced by Mr. Robert Bristol. Mr. Illsey spoke in part as follows: "The success of a community club is the lack of personal interest shown by the various members who are usually competing merchants. The aims of a club should be directed not only toward pleasure but toward physical and moral betterment. Whatever that can be done to make a community a better place to live in, healthful and sanitary, because everyone is friendly, should be done. Not only is it the duty of the club to improve things locally but as the club is a unit of the whole, its efforts should be directed toward the retardation of Canadian industries by monopolistic enterprises." Mr. Illsey commended the work of the local federal administration in its successful endeavors to restore prosperity, quoting as an example, the price in bacon of a steer, analyzed by the Canadian steer owners on the British market. He praised the Canadian spirit as shown by the present national government and reiterated the importance of the British Channel route to the prosperity of Canada. Great Britain had not only paid her debts but had established a surplus of over a hundred million dollars, truly a remarkable record. Concluding Mr. Illsey outlined the attributes of a successful community club. First, loyalty, secondly, willingness to help and lastly, helpfulness. The first is an attribute of any society. Everyone must co-operate and do their part, and loyal tolerance of each other must be shown in all cases 'each must overlook each other's faults and remember their virtues. A vote of thanks, moved by the Rev. W. J. Deacon and seconded by ex-Warden Walter Wiyrtock was tendered to Mr. Illsey. The following committee was appointed to look into the matter of holding a field day here this summer: The committee will report at the next meeting. Messrs. BANK WAGES ARE PROBED

Relations of Banks to Paper Industry Will be Studied

Ottawa, May 17 (CP)—Relations of the B. R. Whitehead, C. M. Pulp and Paper Industry will be investigated by the Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons. At the request of Major C. G. Power (Lib, Quebec South), the following witnesses will be asked to appear before the committee next Tuesday: J. H. Gundy, J. Cahoon, C. R. Whitehead, C. M. McKee, and John Stadler.

An amendment moved by Dr. Raymond Morand, (Cons. Essex East), at the last sitting, providing for a return annually from the Banks giving information respecting staffs and pay rates, was again brought up. The principle of the amendment stood previously and today the amended clause was adopted but not without fresh discussion and opposition.

Mr. Code started to read a letter from an anonymous bank clerk complaining of his low pay and slow advancement.

Mr. Duff: "Does he say why he's working in a bank if he thinks he's worth more than he receives? Does he say he intends to take to enter the bank's employ?"

The Chairman: "Probably he and all his relatives pulled every possible string to get him in the bank. When I had gone through college and university and secured my law degree, I had to work for $5 a week."

"Did you earn it?" asked Dr. Peter McGibbon, (Cons. Muskoka).

The Chairman: "I certainly did."

Mr. Duff: "I got married on $400 a year."

The amendment was passed with members announcing their intention of reopening the section when the Bill goes before the House for third reading.

A sub-committee will go to Montreal Wednesday to examine Sir Herbert Holt, President of the Royal Bank of Canada.

"Why must the mountain go to Mahomet?" queried William Irvine (C.P.A., Wentworth), when the visit to Montreal was under discussion.

"It is an act of courtesy," replied Chairman R. B. Hanson (Cons. York-Sunbury). "Sir Herbert is an old man, and he is ill."

Major Power suggested that not only the examination of Sir Herbert, but also that of all the other witnesses mentioned might be unnecessary. It should, he said.

In reply the Chairman stated that it was possible only for a sub-committee to go to Montreal.

PRIVATE OR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF BANK

Ottawa, May 17 (CP)—The contentious question of public versus private ownership of Canada's new Central Bank will come before the Banking Committee of the Commons late this afternoon. The bill creating the new institution provides that the capital stock of $5,000,000 shall be divided into shares of $100 each and offered for public subscription in Canada.

ICE TRAYS DON'T STICK

in the FRIGIDAIRE '34

AUTOMATIC ice tray releasing is just one of a host of features by which the Frigidaire '34 makes inconvenient refrigerators entirely out of date. Defrosting, for instance, is automatic. It freezes more ice—faster. It has a clever Utility Basket which groups small packages to save space. It has more room for tall bottles. It has the Servashelf for carrying dishes from refrigerator to kitchen table. Several models are finished in lifetime porcelain inside and out; have double capacity vegetable Hydrators; have shelves adjustable up or down.

THIS FRIGIDAIRE '34 MODEL ACTUALLY USES LESS CURRENT THAN ONE ORDINARY LAMP BULB

But you can't possibly appreciate how greatly electric refrigerators have been improved in the Frigidaire '34 until you see a demonstration. Won't you step in—tonight?

CANADA LEADS IN 'PHONE CONVERSATION

Makes More Use of Telephone Than Any Other People.

"Canada is maintaining its position of world leadership in the matter of telephone conversation," stated Mr. G. P. Proctor, manager of the Belleville division of the Bell Telephone Company today in referring to a statistical record just issued by the Bell system, dealing with electrical communication throughout the world, giving figures as of January 1, 1933.

Referring to the record and the usage of telephones in this country it was pointed out by the local manager, that this is only one of the evidences of this country's prominence in the field of communication revealed.

Canadians make more use of the telephone than any other people. In 1932, Canadians had 234.5 telephone conversations per capita. New Zealand with a comparable figure of 209.8 and the United States with 204.6, were the only other countries in which telephone talks per person exceeded the 200 mark. Denmark led Europe in this connection with 151.6, followed by Sweden with 127.6. Canadians made almost seven times more use of the telephone than the British report per capita. Japan easily leads the Asiatic countries but shows a figure of only 1.44. Up to and including March 31st., last year, With 21.02 telephones per 100 population in cities of 50,000 and over, Canada is second in this regard only to Sweden with 22.46. The United States ranks third with 19.12. In the smaller towns and villages, Canada retains third position with 7.96 telephones per 100 inhabitants. The United States is first with 19.17 and New Zealand follows with 8.62 based on statistics compiled up to and including March 31st., 1933. Canada's ranking in this regard emphasizes that residents of our cities and towns of less than 50,000 people are better equipped with telephones and their associated apparatus than are inhabitants of most of Europe's largest and more important centres.

Canada, with 1,241,945 ranks fifth in absolute number of telephones and is led only by the United States, Germany, Great Britain, (including, Northern Ireland) and France, in that order. But, in telephones per 100 population, Canada has 11.96 which is second only to 13.94 in the United States, while Great Britain, Germany, and France have only 4.62, 4.31 and 3.66 respectively. Some 62 per cent of Canada's total telephones and all of the telephones of the United States are under private ownership and operation. In Germany, France, and Great Britain all telephones are operated by their respective governments. Canada still leads South America in telephone development with 2.74 per 100 population. Japan easily leads the Asiatic countries but shows a figure of only 1.44. Up to and including March 31st., last year.

Road Signs Pulled Down Nearly as Soon as Put Up

Youths Mutilate And Pull Down Signs For Fun

The old bus heaves and shutters and grinds. Its sides pant asthmatically, and a spray of steam and boiling water empties from the radiator cap. Your gas is low; one tire has a slow leak. It's blasting hot and dusty and the road seems to load to nowhere. Anxiously you peer through a smudged windshield at each cross road for some identifying sign, some pointing arrow with a name on it indicating the next town, and how far. There is none. A post may mark the location, but its signs have long since disappeared. You perspire freely and your language, if alone, may become sulphurous and loud. It will refer to missing direction signs and the general apathy of officialdom in general on the occasion of the loss. You vow to cancel your class in your favorite motor club on general principles because of the lack of the vaunted service provided.

In the city a rabbit car of gleaming chromium and shiny varnish, bearing foreign license plates, gains locally some more mail, and entry of the city, comes to a brief halt and then proceeds, hesitates for a moment, while a driver and some of the occupants search valiantly through lowered windows for a missing direction sign. The driver's sayings slowly around the corner—the wrong one—and disappears in a cloud of dust, to land up fuming and frustrated in front of the local government dock or some blind alley on the outskirts of the city. In general form. Is anything but a benediction upon the heads of those who are entrusted with keeping the highways and streets plainly marked. His remarks will refer to service clubs in particular. In these he is lofted more or less by the dusty and travel tired passengers. "Service clubs, humph!"

What's the matter with these clubs, or the government? Why can't they put up some simple direction signs so that you can tell at a glance just which way to go or how far it is? Let's ask types of drivers in verbal query or in letters to the editor. Their tone carries a decided note of irritation and the feeling of a man who is not being done right by.

Hard to Keep Up

"They do put up direction signs. Hundreds of them every year, at a cost of hundreds of dollars annually. And they're no sooner put up than they are torn down again, by almost impossible to keep ahead of the thing," he stated Mr. F. C. Herlihy of this city, secretary of the Belleville branch of the Ontario Motor League, whose job is to keep track of signs and see that they are replaced when reported astray.

"But it's some task," sighed the secretary wearily, when the matter was touched. "They're no sooner up than they're torn down again. We don't know many our club place in a year, but I do know that in the territory alone is it well into the hundreds."

Investigation of one of these ordinary signs you see is just one week, according to information by the Club. Then they join the junkheap."

"You mean that people deliberately take them?"

"Most of them must watch the men putting them up. Often, a day or so later they're torn down and destroyed."

Throughout Hastings and Prince Edward County hundreds of metal and wooden signs, pointing the direction and the road are placed in position each year. Throughout the network of roads circling each county men with a full complement of signs and tools for installing them travel each year erecting them in the fond hope they will be able to return next year and find them intact. But they are never able to so. Hardly a week has gone by after they have installed them some destructive vandal has torn down, defaced, battered and thrown them by the roadside.

One instance was when the Belleville district alone was spent on painting and replacing with direction signs. In a few weeks the white paint was defaced and marked with pencil and crayon.

Witness the case of several of the larger signs, that has been placed last year at the crest of Bridge Street hill on the west side. First placed at a convenient eye level on the hill, officials found it impossible to keep them in place. As soon as they were put up they were torn down again. Later they were hoisted and secured so that at least ten feet above the ground. Destructive boys, however, managed to climb the pole, tear the signs down and throw them on the ground.

At the bottom of the hill the same trouble was experienced. Boys congregating on the corner soon made short work of them. If he came impossible to keep them in place more than a few days. In almost every case the board was found lying on the ground at or near the pole.

Just Having Fun

Not long ago a youth was observed by one well known citizen tagging and hauling all his might on one of the city stop signs. Questioning his car the citizen questioned the youth.

"Aw, I'm just havin' some fun!" intimated, that the police would be called if he did not desist promptly stopped the destructiveness.

It isn't the little boys who do the damage; it's the older, supposedly young men who think it's fun. Often they go to particular pains to do this. Imagine anyone climbing ten feet up a telephone pole to break off a sign," commented Mr. Herlihy.

Along the rural roads the same thing is experienced. There have been instances of campers and tin can tourists lighting their camp fires with the signs when handy wood was not. There have also been instances where a motorist, needing a smooth board for some purpose promptly appropriates one of these.

Most significant of all pointed out Mr. Herlihy was the damaging of the government signs along the roads. In many cases the number plate itself arrives but the other standards broken off close to the ground. Even the large ones have been mutilated with stones, and bent and broken, where possible.

"There ought to be a law; and there probably will be," remarked a local secretary. "Something will have to be done about it. Perhaps the best thing to do is to impress a severe penalty upon those who damage road signs. It is the only way to put it."

In the meantime all we can do is to replace them when we find they are reported missing. And that's some job."

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Weather Wisdom for Home Gardeners

Garden operations in the spring are governed more by calendar than by the thermometer; and this is more a deterrent than front in delaying things.

Many seeds can be sown just as soon as the ground is dry enough to work, one the deep frost is out of the soil. Spinach, radishes, onions, beets, carrots, lettuce are all hardy vegetables which pay a small attention to frost. A hard freeze may destroy seedling plants, if a warm spell coaxes them up, and is followed by a cold wave which freezes the ground again. Many eager gardeners willingly assume this risk in order to gain the advantage which early planting gives when everything goes well.

Those who wish to minimize the risk may do so by inquiring of their local weather bureau what was the record late freeze, which is of course a rare phenomenon. Figure on an average spring and sow your seed three or four weeks ahead of the late freeze record, and you will seldom have any trouble with hardy vegetables or flowers.

There are some hardy ones which cold soil may rot, even when temperature does not injure them.

CHARGES COLLUSION IN ELECTION DATES

Liberal Says Frank Admission of "Afraid of Being Trimmed"

Melville, Sask., May 18.—(CP)—Collusion between Premier Gardiner, S. Henry of Ontario and Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan in selecting June 13 as the date for general elections in both provinces today was charged by T. C. Davis, K.C. M.L.A., Liberal candidate in Prince Albert constituency.

If, on the other hand, Premier Gardiner was sure of winning. Dr. Anderson would have held our election later."

Mr. Davis added the arrangement would go down in history as the "Ontario-Saskatchewan compact," adding that both Dr. Anderson and Premier Gardiner of Ontario "eligible for admission to the soldiers' club."

He charged the date was agreed to between Dr. Anderson and representatives of the Ontario Government, who met in Winnipeg while Dr. Anderson was there to receive an honorary Doctorate of Laws from the University of Manitoba.

CHAPTER XXXV

Pabllo returning from town that afternoon, roused his eyes from the dusty road and, seeing Alec Davida, appeared to be wandering aimlessly.

"Are you looking for the gymkhana?" he asked.

"No, I'm waiting for a friend who is doing a bit of sparring. Are you the Englishman eyes the young man interestedly. "I mean Senor Junction?"

"I'm Senor Pabllo answered. He liked the appearance of this stranger. He had never seen anyone quite like him before at the gymkhana. Nevertheless he was rather surprised to see himself adding: "Would you care to come to my house to wait for your friend? I'd be glad to have you."

"Thank you," Sir Aubrey answered. "You're most kind."

"I live over that shore," Pabllo explained with a wave of his hand.

Together they crossed the road and went up the long stairway. At the top he turned to his guest.

"Since place you have here," he said with a smile.

"A little bare," Pabllo answered. "Ah, well, a man's castle." I hear he is proud of his ha ha home?"

"A bit," Pabllo answered, smiling. "Does the fellow? Will you have a drink?"

Sir Aubrey murmured. "Ah, thanks awfully! That would be good, you know."

Pabllo rang a small hand bell and a slovenly girl appeared. "What is it?" Pabllo asked Sir Aubrey.

"Eh? What?" the other questioned.

"I mean what'll you have?" Pabllo translated.

"Oh, I see, whiskey and soda?"

"I'll have one with you." Pabllo agreed. "It will be a rare disgrace for me. I take a drink only about once a year. I have to go slow to keep in training, you know."

"Oh, quite!"

Pabllo felt suddenly warmed for the first time since he had received Matilde's note. His back, lean Englishman's eyes were fixed on the South. "I unnovingly." They were frankly, almost blissfully affectionate eyes. Pabllo was conscious of a strange feeling that most people have known at one time or another —a feeling that makes it seem as if, living, we have stepped into an unreal dream.

"Hang it!" he thought. "What's come over me?" To the stranger he said, "Is this your first trip to Cuba?"

"No. I've been here once before." "Like it here?"

"So. To be frank, I don't like it much. Have you ever been in Spain?"

"No," Pabllo answered.

"All you must come! You must come!" The crisis appeared to stir Aubrey deeply. He brought glasses, a syphon and a squat, brown bottle on a tarnished tray. She set the tray on the table and disappeared into the room. Pabllo was the nobbiest sport from the syphon and the bottle hastened to Aubrey his drink. He was surprised to see that the hand was quite steady. He thought him tremulous.

Glass in hand, Pabllo motioned Sir Aubrey to a chair and then sat down himself. Sir Aubrey began to speak of Spain, of bull fights, the climate, the order and quiet. He spoke of houses which grew more beautiful as they were lived in year after year, years of great peace, of all that to him most beautiful in the land of his fathers. The only land where he could live more than exile.

"I think, if I like it," Pabllo said as Sir Aubrey's voice dropped away, "sometimes it seems to me that all my life I've been hunting for a spot of permanency. I think I was just out of reach. I haven't had much—to go on—"

Sir Aubrey's eyes fell and was surprised and embarrassed by Pabllo's words.

"You must come—whenever you're over there—I will show my place at Lower Clirings," Sir Aubrey said with a shaky nervousness. He set his glass on the tray and leaned forward impressively, laying his hand on Pabllo's knee. "I'm going to take young Alec Davida with me. I'm fond of him, you know. I'm sorry to say that all my life I've been hunting for a spot of permanency. I think I was just out of reach. I haven't had much—to go on—"

I'm sorry to say that all my life I've been hunting for a spot of permanency. I think I was just out of reach. I haven't had much—to go on—"

"All my sin!" the old woman murmured sadly. Carlito made no answer. Again his mind he was stooping over his young wife who had lain in the dust. Again he was kneeling futilely, again feeling her growing coldness within his arms.

"Shut the child!" said Carlito's mother. "He is a man. He is one who will give you much happiness" Davida looked startled at his son who, with Pield, had killed her. He would go to Pield when the man was alone. He would torture him a little while and then—

Carlito smiled and his mother, seeing the smile, was heartened. "Ah," she said, lifting the baby—"here is much in the world—even for the sorriest of us—to make the life of the ligs."

"Yes," Carlito agreed. "Each of us has his dreams!"

"I'm going to take young Alec Davida," Pield went on, "and I hope very much that he and Matilde will make a bunch of it."

"So you're beginning that?" she questioned with a lazy smile.

"Yes, I am. Looking where you are," he entreated. "You can do that much can't you?"

"Oh, I suppose so," she agreed. Carlito, another human atom of the group of which Jim Pield was the centre, heard the sailing of the Pield yacht.

His mother, of course, told him about it as they sat in her kitchen. She was holding Carlito's son in her arms.

"Already," she said, relief making her tone bright, "they are well as sail."

"Now he will come back," said Carlito who had sworn vengeance with all the hot fury of which a Latin is capable.

"All in God's time," the old woman murmured sadly. Carlito made no answer. Again his mind he was stooping over his young wife who had lain in the dust. Again he was kneeling futilely, again feeling her growing coldness within his arms.

"Shut the child!" said Carlito's mother. "He is a man. He is one who will give you much happiness" Davida looked startled at his son who, with Pield, had killed her. He would go to Pield when the man was alone. He would torture him a little while and then—

CHAPTER XXXVI

Estelle heartily disliked Alec Davida when she first met him—hard, stimulated young man with flabby muscles and a constant craving for cocktails. After a week on the yacht, however, she let him talk to her without showing her aversion and he was encouraged. Sitting beside him on the deck chair he had his own thoughts that in his bitterest squalid hours, he'd think of her and what you." Alec reflected as the girl turned away from Pabllo's stroll. "I'm not, I wouldn't look at you if I could get out of it."

The reason he couldn't get out of it was because of the state of the Davida' finances. Alec quite agreed with his mother that it was the absolutely necessary thing for him to marry a rich wife. "After that," Mrs. Davida had gone on to point out, "you can go your own way." Alec had nodded complacently. His fatty intended that. He knew Pield liked him and wanted him to marry Estelle. And his knew the reason Estelle might be by means of this marriage reach the inner circle of society she's shabby outer fringe of which Pield only just touched. Once Estelle could trace his ancestry to aristocratic forebears. The fact that Pield's family had distinguished sharply was unimportant. Alec's mother had been willing to accept considerable benefits from those of her acquaintances who wished to reach a higher rung of the social ladder, the while she asserted as them. Both Alec and his mother took prodigiously and gave nothing in return except a smile that was seared with tantalizing scorn.

Even now Alec sometimes borrowed from Pield. "Alight as well get the old fellow in the habit of coming across," he decided. He was astounded by Pield's utter lack of display of his wealth. The older man's seeing and accepting the order was more than ever certain that Alec was the man for his daughter.

"He's the real stuff," Jim Pield told to Marcia one afternoon.

"He matches the rest of the snob in New York," Marcia answered, her clear, direct gaze that showed ened by a rise of heat.

"Don't be unjust, too." Pield said quickly. Marcia laughed, admitting the justice thrust had hit a vulnerable point. "She won't ask me now," Pield went on. "She wants this marriage just as much as I do." As he spoke he nodded toward the two deck chairs which, close together, held Estelle and Alec Davida. "Alec told me his aunt had promised to put him in her private car for his honey moon."

"Estelle one who married that disgusting count?"

"Yes."

"The place is gorgeous. I've seen it."

"One of the largest in Italy," Pield who had a great respect for she.

Alec was talking to Estelle about polo. She liked it, he had observed, and he had called all that he could from the library aboard Estelle, believing he really was fond of the verse he quoted, looked at him with the first showing of interest. She had not thought that he would care for Housman. She must have been quite certain to him.

"That is one of my favorites," she said, after his voice had died away. "I don't quite want to be that comes now and then."

Alec nodded and went on speaking. He talked well and pleasingly when he cared to. He had been reared by his mother and sundry tutors in France and England and the inarticulateness general in collegiate circles was not his.

ILDEGE BLAIS PAYS PENALTY

Hanged For Murder of His Father Six Months Ago

Three Rivers, Que., May 18 —(CP)—Condemned to death for the murder of his father at Shawinigan Falls in November 1932, Ildege Blais, 25, was hanged in the jail yard here at daybreak.

The condemned man spent his last hours praying with Rev. Father Gillaume, to whom he confessed his sins before mounting the scaffold in the jail yard just as dawn was breaking. In a firm voice Blais commended his soul to God and asked pardon for his sins. Four minutes after the trap was sprung, Dr. Henri Lacroix, jail physician, pronounced Blais dead and the body was cut down.

Adelard Blais, father of Ildege, was shot by his son in a dispute involving Miss Valeda LaGuisbise, who was also shot by Ildege Blais. Miss LaGuisbise survived the wounds though a bullet which lodged in her spine left her crippled. Adelard Blais died of the wounds six weeks later.

CRAWLING ABOUT WITH LUMBAGO

Here is some useful information for anyone troubled with that uncomfortable complaint, lumbago. A woman writes:—

"For years I suffered from lumbago. During wet weather, I could only turn in bed with great effort and pain. I was so stiff and ached so much. Two years ago I had both lumbago and sciatica and crawled about for a fortnight, feeling very sorry for myself and looking 100 instead of 35." Someone said, "Try Kruschen Salts," so I did, and it have taken them ever since, with the result that I hardly ever get a hint of lumbago these days."—(O. F. C.)

Why is it that Kruschen is so effective in banishing lumbago at last? Simply because it goes right down to the roots of the trouble and removes the cause, which is an excess of uric acid in the blood. In Kruschen keep the bloodstream pure and vigorous by promoting a clockwork regularity of all the organs of elimination.

SECOND TIME IN HISTORY

Two Provinces Choose New Assemblies on Same Day

TORONTO, May 18—(CP)—For the second time since Confederation, two Canadian provinces will choose new legislative assemblies on the same day. The only recorded precedent for the situation created by choice of June 19 for General polls in part of both Ontario and Saskatchewan occurred on exactly the same date four years ago.

On June 9,936 the Conservatives in New Brunswick, led by Premier J. B. M. Baxter and the U.P.A. in Alberta under Premier J. E. Brownlee were returned to power in Provincial general elections.

In the early days of the Dominion's political history simultaneous polling occasionally took the form of voting for Federal and Provincial representatives on the same day. Nova Scotia, Ontario and Quebec started it in the Confederation Year. Canada's general election in 1867 extended over the period from August 7 to Sept. 20. Quebec had completed its polling by Sept. 8, Ontario voted Sept. 3 and 4, and Nova Scotia on the 20th. Manitoba, in one day, Sept. 15.

The only province to continue the habit was Nova Scotia. In Sept. 17, 1878, the Conservative was both provinces and dominion. Four years later, on June 24, 1882, the Dominion Government was returned while the provincial administration of J. S. D. Thompson fell before the Liberals under W. T. Pipes.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"Rafter Romance" and "King of The Wild Horses"

A delightful comedy crammed with rib-tickling situations guaranteed to evoke every laugh in your system was presented at the Capitol Theatre last night in "Rafter Romance", which is enacted by an able cast well versed in the theme of clicking roars and chuckles headed by Wee Georgie Harris, a peppery Ginger Rogers co-featured with Norman Foster and George Sidney.

The theme of "Rafter Romance" is entertainingly told in a story itself with its spicy intrigue. Mary Carroll and Jack Dunn are obliged to share a Greenwich Village attic room together —but with strictly propriety. Jack, a struggling artist, is a night watchman from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. during which Mary has the room during her no-no-less regime the other half of the day when Jack occupies it. They've never met, neither know nor see each other, but intensely despise each other, an attitude born of many notes, each noying pranks and caustic opinions sent through the mail. Strange?

Jack and Mary meet outside their garret abode, however, unaware of their attic enmity. While antipathy rages indoors, a love affair progresses outside. Both situations come to a climax simultaneously when they learn each other's real identity.

Miss Rogers and Foster are genial performers, well accustomed to the art of cinema acting. Their performances are splendid, and these roles beautifully suit their ongoing personalities. Sidney, Herbert Bunston, Laura Hope Crews, George Sidney, Perlie Rocco, Guinn Williams and Sidney Miller, add capable performances.

"KING OF THE WILD HORSES"

It's been a long time since such scenes of beauty, thrilling and stimulating action as in "King of the Wild Horses" have been brought to the screen of the Capitol Theatre where this spectacular romantic picture opened last night, with Rex, King of the Wild Horses.

If there were no plot whatsoever, and just Rex, prancing over the mesas, miraculously controlling a great herd of wild horses, making the contended horse love to his wife-Lady, fighting the villain horse Marquis, and ripping a mean and cruel man to pieces with equal facility and ease, the thrilling epic "Wild Horses" would still offer enough stimulation to attract any audience and hold it on the edge of its seats, open mouthed.

In addition to Rex, Lady, Marquis and the herd of two thousand wild horses who stampede through the granite-rocked canyons move thunderously and frictionlessly even than the buffalo in "The Trampling Herd" or the elephants in "Chang", Rex has a delicate and beautiful story of love of an Indian brave and his maiden.

Starring Noah Beery, Dorothy Appleby, the only white people involving Indian Chief Yowlachie as much like the Navajos they are supposed to represent as the Indians themselves and both interpret their roles with warmth, understanding and conviction.

The rest of the supporting cast is equally competent., Wallace Macdonald makes his villainous role terrifying and threatening as it should be., Fred West, Harry Semels and Art Mix give excellent bits. In addition, will be seen The Pirate Ship, a Terrytoon Cartoon plus Capitol News of World Events, support in smaller roles.

AT THE BELLE

Last Round-up One of Fastest Western Films

When Henry Hathaway picked up his megaphone to start his director-ing act on Paramount's "The Last Round-Up," the Zane Grey outdoor romance, which comes to the Belle Saturday and Monday, matinee daily, it marked the eighth Zane Grey novel which he has lifted out of print to screen on film.

Of all the Zane Grey fast-moving stories, "The Border Legion," from which "The Last Round-Up" is adapted, is one of the most spectacular," Hathaway pointed out.

Needs Real Acting

It calls not only for swift action, but real acting, for it has more than a story of shooting and horses. It's drama, basic drama of the dangerous days.

In the two leading male roles, played by Randolph Scott and Monte Blue call for real performances.

A quick trigger finger or the ability to ride can't carry these roles. They have to be acted, and Scott, favorited at the Paramount Studios, and Monte Blue, a most experienced player, capably handle the lines.

When Hathaway comments on players or parts, he does so with fifteen years of directing behind him. Most of those fifteen years have been with Paramount, and all of them devoted to outdoor pictures.

"The Last Round-Up" also has Barbara Fritchie, Fred Kohler and Fuzzy Knight featured. The usual full cowboy lament, "The Last Round-Up" that has swept the country is brought to the screen for the first time in this rugged story of gunplay on horseback.

"Search for Beauty"

Comedy, action, beauty and brawn are offered in a delightful manner with a novel treatment of the rather blase, in Paramount's "Search for Beauty," the second feature attraction on the same program.

In addition to an excellent cast the picture features the thirty-six girls in Paramount's world-wide quest for beauty, and [illegible] English sensation [illegible] who hails from Medicine Hat, Alberta.

Paramount's international beauty contest.

The lion's share of comedy honors goes to James [illegible] and Robert [illegible] and again as a team with sparkling dialogue by Sam Hellman that pulls loads of laughs. But they get real competition from a number of Paramount's newer players headed for stardom.

Buster Crabbe, charming blonde importation from England, Gertrude Michael, Larry Buster Crabbe, Roscoe Kearns and Sally Wing are featured. A funny Powers the Sailor Kartune and Belle News will also be exhibited. "The Wolf Dog" will be presented Saturday matinee.

George Arliss Departs

"The House of Rothschild," Geo Arliss' latest screen hit, closes a record-breaking four days' engagement at the Belle tonight. Featured with the distinguished actor are Boris Karloff, Loretta Young and Robert Young.

To miss "The House of Rothschild" is to miss the most distinguished photoplay of this season, and perhaps of any season.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Philadelphia, May 19.—(CP) Junius has tonight called Herman Fraina, after 16 months.

But it was justice, not Fraina, that was at fault and the jury knew it.

Fraina was in jail, convicted of a robbery he didn't commit. A troubled conscience—the conscience of the man who implicated him—brought him release.

A second jury reversed the decision of the first.

Cowan, Tenn., May 19.—(CP)—A snake on the mountain farm of Marshall Miller kicked over a bee hive and thereby lost its life. Hundreds of angry bees covered the animal and stung it to death.

Oklahoma City, May 19.—(CP)—A spinach argument by Attorney Phil White saved his client, Marshall Murray, charged with second degree burglary.

"Finger-prints," testimony," said White, "is about as scientific as some of our spinach health literature."

The jury acquitted Murray.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 19.—(CP) —"His patience is that of a saint in video," said Lee M. Rayner, Lowell, Fla., farmer.

So he went to President Roosevelt about it. Rayner's unconventional attempts he has made to collect $470 which he says the Civilian Works Association owes him for the use of his wheeler and dealer.

The matter was referred to the regional administrator.

Hutchinson, Kan., May 19.—(CP) —It took two years, but Miss Gertrude Bisbey has obeyed her orders.

Two years ago, while the business men's class of the Y.W.C.A. Club had charge of the police department for a day, Miss Bisbey was appointed sergeant of detectives Clark.

The formal charge said Clark was "unmarried and should immediately buy goodies and serve-ieds."

Clark and Miss Bisbey are to be married Sunday.

Philadelphia, May 19.—(CP)—No smoking is the rule in Judge Harry S. Bardwell's office, where you speak English, Hebrew, Polish Greek, Chinese, Italian, Japanese, Gaelic or Russian.

Signs setting forth the rule in each of these languages were posted after a foreigner, unable to read the English placard, walked in with a lighted cigarette.

East Hampton, Conn., May 19.—(CP)—Nine bears to do his day of fishing this year—and no worm-digging.

A pair of rabbins built their nest at Berg's lane, and in the nest he found three eggs.

So Berg says he is going to train the rabbits, and they are going to fetch fishing worms for him.

Atlanta, May 19.—(CP)—Marvin Baker, investigator for the Solicitor General's Office, has found a new traffic menace—a hit and run velocipedist.

Baker was knocked down and bruised by a tricycle as he stepped out of a store.

"Chrome on wheels," said the youthful driver and hurried on.

B. C. PREMIER GIVEN LOAN

Expect Western Province to go Full Steam to Recovery

OTTAWA, May 19.—(CP)—With an understanding between the Federal Government and the Government of British Columbia achieved Premier T. D. Pattullo is today on his way back to the coast province. Details of the understanding have not been announced but the Dominion will advance money to British Columbia to enable it to meet its obligations.

With several of his ministers Mr. Pattullo came here some weeks ago to seek a loan but at first there was a difference of view as Prime Minister R. B. Bennett thought British Columbia should effect certain economies in its administration outlays.

Returning to Ottawa after visits to Montreal, Toronto, New York, and Washington, Mr. Pattullo journeying his conferences with Mr. Bennett and on his departure for the West, last night, appeared fully satisfied with the outcome. He declared there was now no reason why British Columbia should not go full steam ahead towards recovery.

HON. T. A. KIDD AGAIN CHOSEN IN KINGSTON

Former Speaker of Legislature Nominated For Third Time

WARMING UP

Macaulay Says Liberals Seeking Saw-offs in Ridings

Toronto, May 19.—(CP)—Hon. Manford Donald, who was Liberal candidate in Brantford at the last Dominion elections, fears if the spending 'orgy' of the Ontario government is not checked the province might go bankrupt. In such a case, he says, the Dominion government would have to institute a commission form of government.

Mr. MacDonald expressed his fears last night at a Liberal rally held in Gordon where Dr. A. S. Duncan, Liberal candidate in London for the Ontario general elections, and Mayor Harold A. Croll of Windsor, Liberal candidate for Windsor-Walkerville, also spoke. The meeting urged the electors to defeat the Conservative candidates at the coming elections and Mr. MacDonald dwelt on what the Conservative provincial government's great extravagance.

Seven candidates were nominated last night. There are five Conservatives, one Liberal and one C.C.F. candidate. T. A. Kidd, former speaker of the legislature, was chosen again to represent Kingston. In Hamilton, also, the third time he has carried the Conservative banner in a provincial election.

Toronto High Park Liberals chose James C. Culnan and Toronto Riverdale Conservatives named Norman Oakley as their standard bearer. He succeeded Hon. W. H. Price in the legislature. Other nominations include: Peel, Hon. Peter Heenan; for Oxford, and J. Percy Moore, K.C., Conservative.

Government "In the Van"

Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, told the London Conservative convention that Ontario had been "in the van" in implementing the Hon. C. H. Cahan highway plan.

"We had workmen's compensation two years ahead of Liberal Quebec," he said.

Mr. Macaulay charged that Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, and Harry Nixon, Progressive leader, had "surrendered" to the highway ministers' ridicule in an effort to have the C. C. F. withdraw its candidate in Brantford riding.

Mr. Macaulay said the Liberals attempted to reach such an agreement after the Dominion C.C.F. conference and added that the "same old Liberal Machine" is at work in Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, was condemning the C.C.F.

Political Airplanes Used in Meet, Saskatchewan Leaders Really Fly

Regina, May 19.—(CP)— Use of airplanes in the provincial election campaign was increasing today but for M. J. Coldwell leader of the Farmer-Labor (C.C.F.) Party it was just one bit of tough luck after another.

Four times to date Mr. Coldwell has ventured into the air to keep speaking engagements, and only once was a flight completed on schedule. Three times he was forced down, the third coming last night when his plane encountered wind and rainstorm in the Shaunavon district.

Hon. James G. Gardiner, leader of the Liberal Party and former premier, has been more fortunate. He has made two flights, completing one last night, from Saskatoon to Quinpelle to score two successful trips.

Premier J. T. M. Anderson, Conservative leader and head of the Co-operative Government of Saskatchewan, hasn't ventured use a plane yet.

By strange coincidence, both Saskatchewan and Ontario provincial governments will go to the polls at approximately the same time—June 19 is the same day. The Ontario election has been set for June 19 and word from Saskatchewan suggests that the same day will be chosen for election in the prairie province. Above are shown the three leaders in the Saskatchewan election. J. T. M. Anderson is present Conservative Premier, James Gardiner heads the Liberal forces, while M. J. Coldwell is Farmer-Labor chieftain. Both Anderson and Gardiner are Ontario-born.

BYRD'S MEN GO TO SCHOOL

Taking Courses During Long Winter in Antarctic

Little America, Antarctica, May 19. (Via Mackay Radio)—A "back to school" movement is on today in the icy winter darkness of the Antarctic.

Exploration and scientific research are the broad fields of daily study. The idea is to prepare the men of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition for the spring and summer expeditions.

There is a course in sledding under "Professor" Captain Allan Innes Taylor, the expedition's chief of transportation. He's doing a bit of lecturing, too, on tractor operations.

There are courses in radio under Antony H. Wolte, Dr. Charles Gill Morgan is brushing the boys up on their geographies and geology. Biology and zoology also are on the curriculum.

Classes meet in the mess hall after breakfast. The big tables are pushed back. The long benches straddle swung down the length of the room. A blackboard is hung in front of the shelves of groceries.

Then, while half the camp sits at academic ease, the other shovels under the direction of executive officer Norville.

Working and studying in shifts this way, the men are fighting to hold a few square yards of surface against the burying drifts of the ever-flying snow.

And Commander Byrd? He doesn't live here any more. Yesterday, he entered the second month of his isolation at the Boiling Advance Weather Base, 123 miles by trail south of Little America.

BURY INDIANS STANDING UP

Believed Members of Algonquin Tribes of Long Ago

Gravenhurst, Ont., May 19 (CP) —The Indians when the Indians settled his dispute with the tomahawk and roamed the wild and picturesque country which is now Muskoka, are pictured in the minds of residents here today as they discussed discovery of seven Indian skeletons.

Buried standing up, the Indians whose skeletons were found were believed members of the Algonquin tribe and victims of a tribal clash which marked the lives of Algonquins, Hurons and Mohawks. The skeletons were found less than two feet below the ground which told a story of a hasty burial as the Algonquins fled in disorder retreat before a harsh-wielding foe.

Workmen digging in a gravel pit at Four Mile Lake, near Port Carling on Muskoka Lake, unearthed the skeletons. The shovel of one workman struck a skull and disclosed the remains. Dr. R. E. Joyce, Gravenhurst coroner, visited Four Mile Lake, declared there was no doubt the skeletons were those of Algonquin Indians who inhabited Muskoka about 150 years ago.

Fire of the skulls contained teeth in upper and lower jaws and were in perfect condition but the other two skulls were completely decayed. Constable Bishton of Bala and Geo. Mahon, road construction foreman, accompanied Dr. Joyce in his investigation and were unable to say if Indian skeletons as the bodies had been buried standing up.

Chatham, Ont., May 19.—People of Chatham are excited today in a state of fear over a brutal attack perpetrated on Dorothy Forrest, 16, maid in the employ of Mrs. Howard Wilson, Wellington street, as she lay in her bed early today.

Using a ladder left by painters who are at work on the dwelling, the man, after removing the bulb of a street light to darken the scene, reached the girl's bedroom through an open window. At first believing she was having a bad dream because of a pressure on her chest, the girl was startled into wakefulness when she saw a man in her room. Before she could cry out, he struck her with his fist, cutting her badly over the eye. With a leap he was out of the window and gone.

RUMORS BORIS ASSASSINATED PROVE UNTRUE

Bulgarian King Signs Decree Dissolving Parliament

GEORGIEFF NAMED

New Premier Names Group of Cabinet Ministers

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 19. King Boris, late this afternoon, signed a decree dissolving the Bulgarian parliament.

The king's action came shortly after he had proved a new government headed by Kimon Georgieff, former minister of railways, as premier.

The new Premier named a group of ministers, many of whom held the two portfolios temporarily.

Even as the decree granting parliament; rumors were circulating outside the country; that he had been assassinated.

The royal decree combines the ministry of railways, marine and agriculture into a new ministry of economics and public works and of public works and railroads under the ministry of trade and communications.

Vienna, May 19.—Rumors circulated in Budapest, Hungary, today that King Boris of Bulgaria had been assassinated but radiograms from Premier Kimon Georgieff, said Boris had signed the decree dissolving the new members of his cabinet.

Mayor Offers $100 to Catch Dog Poisoner

Windsor Executive Says Poisoner Capable of Anything

Windsor, Ont., May 19.—(CP)— Informal offer of $100 for clues to the arrest of a dog-poisoner in Windsor is worth $100 to the city, a reward of that amount has been offered by Mayor Frank H. Mitchell for the person who is responsible for proving some person deliberately set out poison for the purpose of destroying dogs. The offer is effective for 30 days.

In a statement containing the offer of reward the mayor declared: "Many of these dogs that have been poisoned recently are valuable and are held highly by their owners. The victim whether it's a valuable animal or not, is entitled to the consideration of a pet. Any one who is capable of committing such a dastardly act is anything and the only place for him is behind jail bars for a term to teach him a lesson."

Mother's Memory Leads to Arrest Negro Held on Kidnapping Threat

Newark, N.J., May 19.—A Negro formerly employed at the South Orange estate of Mrs. J. C. Lasser was held today on charges he threatened to kidnap the four year old daughter, Barbara Anna, unless paid $10,000.

Mrs. Lasser's memory led to arrest of the negro, Horace Stevenson, 22.

Police said he confessed the extortion plot.

After a futile attempt to trap the extortionist with a decoy package in Newark, Mrs. Lasser saw Stevenson loitering near the address where she had been directed to leave the money. Upon receipt of him as a houseman who had been in her employ more than two years ago and she recalled, she said that she once had heard him say that kidnapping was "an easy way to make money."

Stevenson was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Holland on charges of sending threatening letters through the mails and attempted extortion. He went to jail in default of $25,000 bond.

Automobile Production One of Healthy Signs of Times

Montreal, May 19 (CP)—Increasing indications of the rapid strides made by Canada towards recovery are seen by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice.

In a speech before the Notre Dame De Grace Conservative Club here last night, the Minister told of an increase of $11,000,000 in the past 46 days in the amount of national revenue compared with the estimated amount for the period—a steady gain since April 1 of more than $200,000 a day.

"Happy days are here again," Hon. Mr. Guthrie told his listeners. He reviewed increased carloadings, heavy gains in construction contracts, increased trade in sales of both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and higher production of automobiles and attributed everything to Premier R. B. Bennett, whom he described as the "man who led us out of the mess in which we found ourselves in the year 1930."

Canada is becoming the leadership, he said, among the nations of the world in emerging from adverse economic conditions. Employment had registered a gain of some 264,000 with 4,899 reporting addition of 153,000 men to 30th April.

Ottawa, May 19—(CP)—The market expansion of sales of Canadian products, particularly in the United Kingdom, and abroad is possibly one of the most impressive features of the present economic conditions in Canada and other countries, particularly in the British Empire, says the weekly statistical review of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

For the first two months of 1934 production of Canadian-made cars, trucks and buses totalled 48,018 as compared with 21,543, 34,535 and 46,613 in the corresponding periods of 1933, 1932 and 1931 respectively. Exports in the first four months of the current year have reached $5,580,000 as compared with $1,654,000 last year.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, May 19 (CP)— Light scattered showers have occurred in the southeastern portion of Saskatchewan and a moderate rainfall is reported from the Pas, in northern Manitoba, but the weather in the western provinces has been for the most part fair and warm. Light showers have also occurred in the western provinces while in Ontario fine weather has been fair.

Georgian Bay, Moderate southeast to fresh, fair, Sunday, moderate to fresh southeast to southwest winds, partly cloudy and much warmer, probably a few light scattered showers.

Northern Ontario—Fair and a little warmer. Sunday, moderate, cloudy, somewhat warmer with a few light scattered showers.

Ottawa and Upper St. Lawrence Valley—Moderate winds, fair, Sunday, east to southeast winds; partly cloudy with local showers and somewhat warmer; probably a few light scattered showers towards night.

"I'd like to be able to stake some of the old miners, who are living so they could get back to the Klondike and mine again," she said. "I'd like to help the Pioneer's Home up there, and be able to do little things for all the old-time friends I've met."

Elias Ketcheson at Age of 96 Firm Believer in Hard Work

Marks Birthday, Prefers Farm Work to Celebrating

REMINISCENCES

On the small side of a field on his farm on the Dundas in Sidney Township Friday, Elias Ketcheson was busy at his accustomed and exacting task of planting potatoes in the hoed rows. Today he will commemorate the 96th round of chores he still insists in actively carrying on. He was receiving the many congratulations of neighbors and friends throughout the township on the attainment of his ninety-sixth birthday. But he had little time for such expressions. The conferred title of being one of the oldest pioneers in this section held little thrill for him. There was little time for sentiment when work remained to be done on the farm. Even at ninety-six he is still convinced that hard work is good for any man.

It is brief pause from the tiring job he had chosen for himself on the farm, Mr. Ketcheson consented to rest for a few moments and pass on some of his many reminiscences with which his remarkable memory abounds. Chief among these regale the visitors who drop in for a bit of chat with the well known and remarkable old man. To a reporter of the Intelligencer this correspondent who sought him out he was especially interesting, for there was some surprise that he should be singled out as the recipient of any special attention.

"After all," he pointed out, "I suppose there are a good many in this section who are even older than myself."

"But not many who appear to look better than you do," he was told.

"I like to keep working," he added briefly. "Perhaps the reason I'm so happy if I didn't keep a little busy at something."

His eyes yet undimmed and with little help from a pair of man made years his junior, twinkled merrily as he said it. But he was quick to clear windows of the home he had helped build, when he was twenty years old, and pointed to the rolling fields of the farm which attracted his parents and to the left and right of the homestead. Clear furrowed a field which hinted at the many years that it had been under cultivation.

"I'm ninety-six tomorrow. I came here when I was ninety-five, and that clearing was done on the farm I did it." he enlightened the casual survey by the visitor was complete.

"It was a little different around here seventy years ago," he went on with a merry chuckle.

When Mr. Ketcheson took over the Dundas farm plenty of standing wood was available. The land, that is the soil, was a nuisance, yet it managed to provide him with plenty of work and some money for the labor. He chopped the trees by hand and after cutting the wood to the proper lengths sold it to the people of Belleville who needed it for their stoves. The Bank of Montreal—in the old days it was the Bank of Montreal—is the result. On contract, he furnished 2,000 cords of wood at which he received $2.00 per cord. "Which is a little different now," he said, "as it brings $6.00 per cord." Mr. Ketcheson Stewart and George Stewart were two other early settlement Belleville residents he supplied. Attention directed to the wood left him with one of the best farms in the district, and a fortune he might have was not touched. A field of sugar maples was left intact, and for many over four hundred trees were tapped for maple syrup making.

"I've always liked farming," the grand old veteran continued. "Wouldn't have been happy at anything else. And I've worked pretty steadily at it. Although it has been hard work at times. But I've enjoyed the earlier days. That was work. See those trees in the fencing over there? Every one of them had to be hauled from Belleville and elsewhere throughout Huntington before I could make the fence. Yeah the kind of work at she early farmers in the district had to back in the old days."

Interest in Dairying

But besides his work on the farm he managed to sandwich in other activities. He was secretary of the first Dundas Agricultural Society more years than I can remember. And he was also a charter member of the first patrons of industry after it was built in 1872. It was a year later that the first cheese were made there.

Township politics had little appeal for one of the district's ablest commentators on the subject. But his interest in provincial and federal ways remained keen and alive. He can't remember when he ever missed a single vote since he came of age. "I never ran myself," he added, only a lot of abuse in it for those who do, but I never missed a vote" he said not proudly. Generally Mr. Ketcheson could be depended upon to vote Liberal. Conservatism, he tickled. "And this year I'm going to vote Conservative," he added, because a few Reform votes in my time but it won't be this year."

Illness, on the whole, has been a comparative stranger to this old Dundas Patriarch. He still remembers the time many years ago, however, when he was confined to bed for upwards of two months with a severe attack of pneumonia. Although a temperance man all his life, he is convinced that doctor's prescription for brandy as the only thing that pulled him through. A run ow with a calf, however, put him on the sick list for a short while last one year ago when she bowed her head and attacked him at the barn. He was tossed into the air by her horns, and stunned when he fell back to the ground. A hole was ripped through the calf of one leg, his clothes were torn and some ribs were fractured. The doctor was called, first aid treatment given to remain inactive and quiet. But the ribs were soon back in place around his wounds and fractures. Chafing under the restrain imposed by his doctor Thursday, a few days "until things blew over" then ripped the bandages off and was around and about the work again. He is well and comfortable as soon as ever.

Son of Original Settler

Mr. Ketcheson owes his hardiness and longevity to the fact that he descended from hardier Loyalist stock. He was born near Moira in Hungerford Township, the son of Owen Rollin Ketcheson, one of the first settlers in that district. He was a many wooded wilderness, and Jane Jones' daughter of Thomas Jones, a gentleman who came to this land in the Front Township near Cornwall. Mr. Ketcheson's grandmother was Annie Myers, daughter of Peter Myers, Sr., known in local history.

Owen Rollin Ketcheson, his father, was a road superintendent of Huntingdon Township, for over forty years.

Shortly after he took up residence on the present home, Mr. Ketcheson married Mary Hudson, daughter of Charles Hudson, well known farmer of Rodlin district. Three children graced the union. Charles William Ketcheson at present lives at Davison, Saskatchewan; Mrs. R. W. Ross also of Davison, Saskatchewan and one other son Clem and Mrs. Ketcheson predeased her husband. Mr. Ketcheson also boasts of eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Today his fifth birthday will be marked with little celebration. The busy time on the farm. After the planting is over and the work is done, there may be a little party, but not now. The neighbors from throughout the country, congratulations and the usual remembrance upon one of Sidney Township's best known and oldest residents. And the activities and interest in the possibility of many more years added to the 96 looms largely.

Letters to The Editor

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,

I desire most heartily to endorse the sentiments expressed by His Worship, the Mayor, in regard to the concert to be given by the Belleville Male Chorus and the Belleville Symphony Orchestra at the Collegiate Auditorium on Monday evening, May 21.

The program to be presented will have an appeal not only to those of advanced musical education and culture but to those who may have never had opportunity to cultivate this most attractive of arts.

These two organizations desire to bring to the public at Belleville such splendid choral and instrumental music as has been available to patrons only in the larger cities. On Tuesday night, it will be presented at popular prices and, let us hope, the auditorium will be thronged to capacity for so worthy an occasion.

This concert is not for the purpose of making money but is the outcome of six months of ardent preparation and a laudable ambition to present here the greatest and the best in the realm of music.

ORIGINAL DATES FOR CELEBRATION

Committee Decide Not to Postpone Due to Election

At a largely attended meeting of the R.B.A. and U.E.L. Association, last evening, it was unanimously decided that contrary to any erroneous rumors, of a possible postponement owing to the coming elections, the celebration is an event of such importance that the original dates should be retained, namely June 24th and 25th inclusive.

A new office was created namely that of general manager and upon a resolution of Mr. J. A. Ross, seconded by Capt. Jack Watson, Mayor Geo. O. Fox was appointed to fill that office.

The appointment was unanimous and enthusiastic.

After the general meeting the pageant committee with chairman, Wm. P. McIntosh, Leslie Pearsall, and Ormonde Dewitt met in conference with Mr. McKenna and received his secretary of the McKenna Costume Co. of Toronto.

A contract for the production of a pageant was drawn up and signed.

The aquatics Committee also met and arranged for events.

Altogether things look fine now for a successful celebration on account of the Male Chorus performing on Tuesday, which is the reason for the dates of Centennial Committee, this has been postponed until Wednesday night.

School Hours Utilized for Cadet Work Decision of Board of Education

Trustee Receives Amount Given Instructors For Work

SHORT MEETING

Teachers Not Required to Live in City if Employed Here

A motion to prohibit cadet training in city public schools during school hours was lost on a vote of yeas and nays at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening.

In presenting the motion Trustee H. J. Allin called attention to the fact that he "just wanted to get the opinion of the majority of the trustees on the matter." He was seconded by Trustee R. D. Adams. Trustees Hawkins, Lent and Stephenson also favored the motion.

"Can the mover explain just why he wants to put that?" asked Mr. George P. Ostrom.

In answer Mr. Allin asked the secretary if he had figures available regarding the amount that had been spent on cadet instructors.

"We've spent $760 since I've been here, $40.00 has been spent this year."

"That isn't what I wanted," replied Mr. Allin. "I wanted to know just what Mr. Howard got from the Collegiate."

Mr Geen, chairman—"What Mr. Howard gets as a grant has nothing to do with the school or the Board. And furthermore, fifty per cent of the training is carried on after school hours. This year the Federal Government, in an attempt to encourage training among the school children is giving a one dollar grant for every cadet between the ages of 15 and 18. You can readily see the percentage is small."

"Is cadet training part of the school curriculum?" asked Mr. Ostrom.

"The number of cadets here is over three hundred. Kingston has none. We are the highest of any military district. It just doesn't seem right."

Grant Allowed All Over

"The grant is allowed all over Canada, reminded Chairman Geen.

"How much time is spent in the public schools in this training?" asked Trustee Lent.

"Just a minimum," volunteered Mr. Frederick, principal of Queen Mary School. "From now until the holidays, we will train probably twice a week for about a half hour or so."

Training at the public school had been more in the nature of physical culture than cadet, he explained.

Mr. A. E. Wilkins, principal of Queen Victoria School stated that in his opinion cadet training was well liked and had been relegated to the background in favor of a well laid out plan of physical culture which were enjoyed by boys and girls both. The cadet corps was merely a connection. "We set no time limit and are building up a wonderful course with approved and modern equipment used for all children. I believe that the chief complaint has been that girls have been losing time while the boys were out. This doesn't happen at our school."

"I've no quarrel with physical culture, but I'd like to see cadet training replaced with it," stated Mr. Allin.

"It seems to me that we've getting away from the idea first pointed out Trustee R. D. Adams. "What we want to know is what is going on in the Collegiate."

"I know for a fact that three periods were lost today (Friday) on account of the training here," commented Trustee I. Stephenson.

"I've heard of four periods a week being lost through it," commented George P. Lent. "That's half a day a week lost. We pay a teacher a good salary to carry on teaching here, and he's also accepting pay for cadet training."

Trustee R. Wallen—"This looks to me as just another way of attempting to do away with the cadet corps altogether.

Expressed Opinion Given

"But if it's part of the school curriculum or tuition fees you'll have to rescind the previous motion," legally pointed out Mr. R. J. Butler.

"Aren't we stressing this too much? Isn't the one-half hour to the open a week a rest for the pupils. Aren't the young men eliminated with the training. If it's not necessary, do away with it; if you think that the benefits are good ones, then stick with it," interjected George F. Ostrom.

"I don't know what better training for a scholar could get," said Col. W. N. Ponton in defending the training. "This is the idea of physical training. If we want to destroy the spirit de corps of the schools, then by all means do away with it. But, Belleville should be the last city in the country to sound a discouraging note in the matter. She has had a wonderful and proud service from the past to guide her. Training of the sort established a spirit of working together. It is helpful and stimulating. By all means go on."

"It appears to be part of the curriculum" pointed out the Rev. H. R. Neal. "It appears as integral as Latin with the studies. I can't see how you're going to pass the motion without rescinding the other one."

"Then, if you can find the other motion, wherein it is cited that it is part of the school work, I'll withdraw my motion altogether," promised Mr. Allin.

"If vote an amendment that it be continued," said Trustee Wotten.

"Was necessary at all," returned Mr. Harold Arrandale.

Convinced that cadet training as carried on in conjunction with physical culture classes in public schools was working to advantage Trustee Adams pointed out that the discussion should be confined to the Collegiate.

"We pay a teacher a good salary to attend to school work. We are letting him go and work for some one else, for which he also draws money. It doesn't look right. And it's pretty big at one dollar a pupil."

Should Have Split Grant

"If the government had used a little diplomacy in the matter and had split one-half of the grant with the School Board and only given the instructor half of it, then there wouldn't have been anything said. As it is, it seems to resolve itself that the grant is for the instructor."

"I want to ask for yeas and nays on the question," requested Mr. Allin as the chairman prepared to put it to vote.

With his seconder, Mr. Adams, the yeas were recorded from Geo. Dawkins, Geo. F. Lent and Isaac Stephenson. They were opposed by ten votes for continuance of training.

Motion is Lost.

Slightly startling his colleagues on the Board with it, Trustee Chas. Hawkins attempted to pass a motion that all married teachers receiving the sum of $1,000 or more per year employed by the Board of Education shall occupy and maintain a residence within the city limits for the entire period of employment. The motion was lost under the suspension of rules, the motion was lost. It had been seconded by Trustee Lent.

The motion was immediately opposed by Col. W. N. Ponton. "We don't want to narrow down to a little Belleville." We want to reach out and grow. You can't limit a profession with domestic economy. You can't limit it to 'wood and water.'"

"The matter was brought up in a recent committee meeting," stated Mr. G. A. C. Welt, member of the Vocational Board. "But there appeared to be a lot of angles to it and we laid it over. I agree with Mr. Hyde on the matter and I know it doesn't seem fair for them to make their home in Trenton, then go out of town and spend it to keep up a home. There appears to be only one solution, without actual legislation in the matter. We should intimate to all teachers that it would be preferred if they did live here while employed here."

"When there are so many vacant homes in the city as there are, it seems they wouldn't have much trouble in getting a place," commented Mr. Lent.

"You have to take into consideration also the single teachers who would be affected," pointed out Mr. Geen.

The matter will be referred back.

Board Remains Same

Board of Education, will retain their numbers. A previous motion to have the present membership of 21 reduced to ten instead was defeated when revived and voted upon last evening.

Chief defender of the present membership was Mr. George P. Ostrom who called attention to his statement that the Board was not unwieldly as at present constituted and could probably give better service to the taxpayer than a smaller one.

"I've found a lot of pleasure frafternizing with the Board with the present members, and I'd hate to see it reduced any. I see no reason for a change. It would help a bit. I move that no action be taken."

"For sixty years we have carried on as at present and we have done a fairly good job. I see no necessity for changing now," added Mr. E. J. Butler, in seconding Mr. Ostrom's motion.

"Our salaries of course will go on just the same," summerized Col. Ponton.

"Cut the membership to ten and you'll lose all public contact," warned Harold Arrandale. "His hard enough to get people to take an active interest in local municipal matters as it is."

Both motions accord greeted the motion to continue as at present.

With Mr. R. J. Butler in the chair in the Committee of the Whole the business of the Board was briefly concluded. Two accounts which had been considered by Mr. Mac-Laurin but had received no explanation by the Board were referred back.

In the report of the Vocational Committee, Mr. Lent requested to know if the same salaries as last year were being paid the re-engaged teachers.

$200 Restored This Year

"All but one" replied Secretary Findlay. A salary cut of $600 last year appeared excessive to the Board and $200 was restored to Mr. Price.

In accepting his letter of resignation from Mr. Cyril Wales, the former chairman of finance on the Board who has left the city owing to a bank transfer, Chairman E. A. Guss paid a tribute to the able and sterling work that had been accomplished by Mr. Wales not only on the Board but through his other activities in the city.

"We have lost a valuable man, not only on the Board but to the city as a whole. Always ready to tackle anything and help along in any manner he could, he distinguished himself among us. We accept the resignation with regret which is even greater than the regret that Mr. Wales is leaving," stated Mr. Geen.

On the motion of Mr. Wotten and seconded by Mr. Ostrom a letter of appreciation and embodying the feeling of the Board will be sent to Mr. Wales at his new address.

Given Use of Grounds

Application by the Ki-Y League for the use of public school properties for softball practice and the C.D.S. for the use of the Queen Mary School grounds on Tuesday and Friday evenings, was granted with reservations. The latter to stand responsible for damage and must accept the final okay of the principals and chairman of each school.

"I don't like the tone of either of those letters asking this favor," mused Col. Ponton. "One letter wants a precedent over all other teams because they have been in the field the longest; the other letter wants the exclusive right for a certain night. I don't like it. I find in giving them this favor we mustn't forget that there are six acres of playground in the city."

"Do we think it wise to let the grounds be used when they are supposed to be for our school children to play on," asked Trustee Adams.

R. Wotten defended the efforts of the teams to find an available place for practice. "It's all good for the sport and we ought to try and boost along."

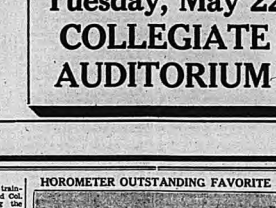
A communication from the city engineer promised the board that the slow and warning signs being prepared for installation near the public schools as a traffic safeguard for the children would soon be in place.

"They're on the way now," said Mr. Allin.

Also the appointment of the Playgrounds Committee for the summer made by Mr. Wotten on behalf of Trustee George Sprackett was received, claimed, assisted by Mr. Moncrieff and R. D. Adams.

With a vacancy as chairman of the Music Committee caused by the resignation of Mr. Walter Hall, Mr. Wotten was chosen to fill that post. Appointed on Rev. Harold Reid was added to the committee.

Several other appointments left vacant will be filled, Mr. Cyril Wales's successor to be named by city council.



Present were: Chairman E. A. Geen and Trustees Allin, Harrison, Graves, Arrandale, Wotten, Col. Ponton, Lent, Hyde, Butler, Neal, Hawkins, Ostrom, Stephenson, Wotten and Col. Ponton.

"When is the next regular meeting of the Board asked Col. Ponton, evidently thinking ahead as usual to the summer time.

"June 15th, next," replied Secretary Findlay.

"We'll have lots of chance to vote in, then," said the Dean of the Board countered. "We'll still have four days to go."

Belleville Noted for It's Fine Singers

Belleville is blessed above most other communities in having a number of fine musicians, vocalists and instrumentalists. This is not merely an empty local boast for it has been commented on time and again by people who have no particular interest in Belleville and have their home roots in other places.

Belleville's wealth of musical talent will be in evidence Tuesday evening, May 22, in the annual concert of the Belleville Men's Chorus which, under direction of Ross Hunter, has developed into one of the finest musical organizations in Canada.

The chorus will be assisted by the Belleville Symphony Orchestra of thirty-one instruments which will make its first public appearance and will no doubt duplicate the triumph of the Men's Chorus.

A good deal could be said about the Belleville Symphony Orchestra, but all local citizens will no doubt attend the concert Tuesday evening in the Collegiate Auditorium and learn for themselves that too much could not be said about it.

The Belleville Men's Chorus consists of twenty-five vocalists banded together to study the best in music individually and collectively these singers have given their services freely to many community enterprises for pleasant diversion and ask nothing in return except a fair attendance at this annual concert the object of which is to raise funds to buy new music and pay general running expenses.

Every Belleville citizen should be proud of this splendid musical organization and show that pride by attending the annual concert—incidentally enjoying one of the finest entertainments of the season.

Poppy Magic for Your Garden

"Poppy magic" and all the allusions to flash and delicacy contained in their infinity of grace and charm are yours if you will plant this lovely flower this spring. Those "visionary tints" of which the poet sings, painted on your garden floor like crystal speaks which sparkle in the sun, will lend an atmosphere of soft and quiet finish.

Plant them to roam at large in your garden in any nook and re-sow themselves with an unending will not to be surpassed by any other annual, and following the June plantings are they, that will prove a happy flash before the later gilds of annuals have had a chance to bloom.

Shirley poppies are the most satisfactory. There is considerable work to be done in thinning the tiny seedlings from the lawn after the fall-broadcast seeding, but the final effect is well worth the trouble.

Fall or winter sowing over the frozen ground will produce the same effect if people germinate during cool weather and myriads of plants pack around the parent stock when they may be thinned. They germinate easily, and if many of them are pulled up by the roots after the blooming season, the seeding will not be too prolific.

The Icelandic poppy, known by this name because of their abundance in that northerly country, are next in popularity with the Shirleys. They too, will naturalize, but need a well drained bed, where they will give a brilliant flash of orange and yellow.

The old-fashioned peony flowered opium poppy is becoming popular again. The rose and pink varieties of this big flower are ideal for planting with delphiniums, and their blooming season is longer than the Shirleys, although the number of blooms is somewhat smaller.

This is a good time of year to sow the poppy seed. Certain plants should be sown among the delphiniums about a foot apart, and most of the others need about as much space. Opium poppy seed, by the way, is excellent for sprinkling on biscuits or coffee cakes; it is called mohnkuchen in German.

The number of copies in your garden will determine to a great extent the amount of color there is lavishly and then thin well, as well as pull up a few to prevent too profuse growth in the spring.

BALLOONING

The Piccards are well known, one of them, Jean, having been in the week with a test balloon which landed at Thamesville. This twin of the famous Prof. Auguste Piccard, the heroic Belgian stratosphere explorer, is planning to make the trip into the upper spaces himself this year.

To the business man and the general citizen these flights are largely mysteries, but not to the scientists who have a way of enjoying themselves all their own. They have not only the terra firma to deal with and to delve into but they are also at liberty to fly into the cold icy spaces miles above the earth to seek facts.

In the economy of nature these explorations bring results which have effect sooner or later on the lives of every person living in the civilized countries at least. The immense reservoirs of knowledge can never be completely filled but every bit of knowledge which is added to the content of the human mind clears up so much error or adds some new connection or link to the knowledge of the possessors and which he can use for the good of the race.

All that science finds may not be immediately utilized. Prof. Auguste Piccard in his chilly flights may not be able to find a way to fly through inter-stellar space but while he is investigating that possibility he is bringing new facts to earth, where man deals with them.

HITCHERS NOT WANTED

One of the romances of the road is falling into disuse and contempt—hitch-hiking, according to the American Automobile Association. "Thumbers" are still to be found of course, even hereabouts where they try to get rides into and out of the city and nearby towns but the nuisance is abating.

One reason is clear. Old cars are cheap, when they can be bought for a song. But the main reason is the hitch-hiker is not encouraged for he became a pest and in the hitch-hiker might at some time blossom with all the guns and armaments a full-fledged bandit. So the good and the bad were passed by. No man was going to take a chance, particularly the lone driver whose comfort looks so appealing to a hiker, but is really so tempting to a "bad egg" to seize the car or bang the driver on the head.

So the hiking industry goes down in disgrace.

Yet the remaining hitchers on the road are getting shrewder. They have hours when drivers are "easy" they have psychoanalyzed the driving class and find that after a good meal the driver is likely to be better natured and likely to offer a ride. The late day before nightfall, a weary time may tempt a driver to take in one of the weary walkers who may or may not turn out to be an undesirable guest.

PASSION PLAY

For half an hour last Sunday radio listeners who prefer the best in music were afforded one of the opportunities which are not freely scattered about even in these days of economic blessings. For a full half hour broadcast from Oberammergau, the scene of the Passion Play which for three hundred years has held sway, the messages of the famous Lang family, including Andrew Lang who for many years played the part of Christus, and a son now in the United States. Then the play began with an overture to the great religious dramatic event, with the first scene including the arrival of Christus in the Temple at Jerusalem, an intensely dramatic scene as it was carried over the air and then the final scene.

The Nazis have not interferred with this world famous play in the most renowned of all German villages and there will not be introduced any anti-Semetic feeling in the production of the Jewish characters nor will there be interference with the sacred role nor the parts of the other actors to make the play conform to the recent Germanic wave of patriotism and anti-Hebrew feeling.

The people of Oberammergau, though Nazis, will not allow their political feelings to influence the presentation of the play honored for three hundred years. The Passion Play is too deeply imbedded in their hearts.

The broadcast gave those who have never been at Oberammergau a faint impression of the intense emotion of this unique play.

KIDNAP PUNISHMENT

Are the big bad men, the bandits and kidnappers, afraid of adults? If not why do they wreak their revenge chiefly on children?

Psychologists have a job to get at this kink in the make-up, this perversion of the kidnaper.

A ransom was asked in the case of Wm. F. Gettle, a broker, and was not paid. He was not injured. A little girl June Robles was kidnapped and put in chains in a hole under a cactus bush and her ransom was not paid. Both were recovered. No one knows what the torture and anguish the child went through will mean to her in later life. Brutal savages could not have worked so fiendishly as the men who were disappointed in not getting the demanded ransom.

The kidnappers of Gettle have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

The first duty is to get the kidnappers of the child and then to decide what to do with them. The death penalty is not too severe, it is felt by many, but it carries a danger—inhuman brutes may kill their victims to try to escape a conviction of more than bring a heavier penalty than kidnapping. It is suggested that the lash be resorted to.

But kidnapping must end. Those who know the people of the United States realize that they are now ready to stamp out this form of crime, which is often worse than death.

SIDELIGHTS

ONE ROOM

Your life is like a house of many rooms
Well-planned, with art and care;
A spacious place where beauty ever blooms
And peace goes softly there.

Your life has faith and friendship, pride and power
And certitude of fame;
There wisdom brings the splendor of its dower,
Hopes warm you with their flame.

But my life has one room, and one alone,
In it one treasure stored;
Yet it is rich as the abode you own
With all your varied hoard.

For in my life love floods and overflows,
With joy brims walls else bare;
Such bliss it brings as only love bestows,
What more have you to share?

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES.
Peace Propaganda, and all the many agencies working for peace on earth and good will to man, continue apace, filling the air with conversation and the newspapers with many words—while war, real, bloody and destructive, wages in South America, the Gran Chaco war between Paraguay and Bolivia, which is making business good for the armament makers of all nations. Now there is a distinct proposal to stop shipment of arms to the belligerent nations of South America. Great Britain leads through the League of Nations in asking an embargo on armament shipments to South America and six nations hear the call and fall in line. Now the big nations should step in with the big stick, take the firearms away from the little nations and let them fight it out with their fists, if they like, in the good old British style. Speaking seriously this is the first real gesture for world peace made thus far and may be the beginning of a real determination on the part of the nations to forget petty jealousies and dollar diplomacy and get down to real humanitarism which will put a crimp once and for all in the world's deadly manufacture of arms and ammunition.

NO AGE SAFE FROM TYPHOID FEVER GERMS

Take Precautions by Being Immunized Against This Disease

By Louis E. Block, M.D., Ph.D.,
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

If the average person were fully aware of what a serious disease typhoid fever is, he probably would not hesitate for a moment to have himself immunized against it. Three injections under the skin, each a week apart, and with no more pain than the prick of a pin —that, frankly, is all there is to it.

Although young people seem to contract typhoid more readily than older people, no age is really safe. The germ causing it—a "bacillus" may be found in water, milk, celery, beans or fruit—uncooked and in most any food that may become contaminated by coming in contact with water containing the typhoid germs. Flies, too, feed on water that flows or rises near infected sewers and always be held under suspicion. It is believed that flies may carry the bacilli from contaminated materials to human beings, the person feeding them material later carrying the germs to the mouth and swallowing them.

The disease is primarily an intestinal inflammation, and early symptoms may not appear for from eight to twenty-three days after infection. Usually, in the beginning, the patient feels only slightly ill—headache, a dizzy feeling. Keep being marked. Later chills and fever develop, a severe headache, pains in the abdomen, constipation. In some cases bleeding from the nose may be an early sign.

Toward the end of the first week of the disease, purplish rose-colored spots appear on the abdomen. This rash is quite characteristic of typhoid.

Other more serious symptoms may develop later. There may be complications in the intestine which may actually lead to perforation of the bowel wall. This complication usually proves fatal. Lung trouble may also develop. Nerve symptoms and convulsions are common.

Typhoid is a most serious disease. Not only does it run into weeks of severe and prostrating illness but it is difficult to cure, because, as already mentioned, there is always the possibility that it may end fatally.

One shudders to think how many thousands of lives would have been lost during the Great War because of typhoid had not all soldiers been injected against it immediately upon enlistment.

Typhoid is an ever-present danger unless immunity or desirability has been established. Particularly is there danger during the summer months, when people go camping, visit new places and drink water and milk from sources they know nothing about.

When in doubt as to the absolute purity of drinking water, it is always the part of wisdom to have it boiled. One should also be careful about bathing in polluted or suspicious waters. Care should likewise be exercised concerning berries and vegetables that are to be eaten raw, and the same applies to oysters and clams.

In conclusion let it be emphasized that the safest course of all is to have yourself injected against typhoid. Then you won't have to worry at all!

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Although pie is not a suitable food for persons suffering from sluggish digestion or for those who wish to reduce, it must be remembered that the digestibility of pie depends largely upon the crispness and thoroughness with which the crust is baked. Pastry or other foods containing the pie usually does not cause the indigestion. In fact, stewed or baked fruit ingredients are both nutritious and digestible.

STRANGE BIRDS FROM TROPICS REACH CANADA

Saint John, N.B., May 18—Some strange specimens of nature's handiwork will bring life reached Canada when the Canadian National liner "Lady Nelson" arrives here recently from the British West Indies. They arrived with C. A. Carnell, construction engineer of Montreal, Que., who maintains a bird sanctuary on the outskirts of that city. Mr. Carnell intends to make a test to see if the strange ornithological exhibits of the tropics will acclimatize themselves.

Four species of the exotic bird life of the tropics are represented and if they are to birds in all. Four are of bright green plumage about the size of an English sparrow; four are blue colored about the size of a small egg; one is an acrobatic bird of varied hue which daintily holds its food in one claw while pecking away with its sharp corners of the head and usually hanging upside down or at an alarming angle from its perch; another is a haughty looking bird of the size of a hen, a curved back about eight inches long, as compared with its own height of about six inches.

NIGHTMARE AT LANTIC FLIGHT ENDS IN IRELAND

Describing their trip as a "nightmare", George Pond and Cesare Sabelli were forced down in Ireland after a flight across the Atlantic that was supposed to end in Rome. The two pilots reported that terrific weather and fog made it impossible to know their directions and that several times they were forced down right in the wave-tops. In addition they experienced on two occasions engine trouble. On one of these, when the gas line clogged, Sabelli risked his life to climb out on the plane and connect the spare gas tank. To his bravery Pond acknowledges their lives. Though forced down in Ireland they still had gas left and the plane was only slightly damaged. They expect to complete the journey. The monoplane Leonardo da Vinci and two pilots are shown above, George Pond, left and Cesare Sabelli, right.

Scenes After Tragic Collision Off Coast

These are the first pictures taken following the tragic collision of the transatlantic liner Olympic with the lightship Nantucket in a dense fog off the New England coast in which seven members of the crew of the Nantucket met their deaths. Top, left, is a close-up of Captain G. W. Braithwaite, skipper of the sunken vessel, injured in the collision but among those rescued. On the right the flag of the Olympic is shown at half-mast as she entered quarantine at New York. Below is a scene from the tragedy showing the rescued members of the crew on the Nantucket's crew. The lightship Nantucket was struck near to the side of the liner through the fog. The Nantucket sank immediately.

STEAM TRUMPET PUT ON ENGINES

Organist Half Century Ago Devised Warning Signal

Toronto, May 19.—The locomotive whistle can claim a musical pedigree for it was designed by an organist just over a century ago following a collision at a level crossing between a train and a farmer's cart on the Leicester and Swannington Railway in England. Following the collision the organist designed a "steam trumpet", which was fitted to the engine, states the Canadian National Railways. In addition to serving as a warning the locomotive whistle is also used as a signalling device in the operation of trains, certain combinations of long and short blasts conveying a message to railway workers. In the early days of the telegraph the whistle on a steam locomotive stepped into the breach to maintain communications and the "operator" was none other than the famous electrical wizard, the late Thomas Edison, who about that time was somewhat of a youngster and employed on the Grand Trunk at Port Huron. The telegraph system across the river to Sarnia had broken down and in a sudden burst of inspiration Edison jumped on a nearby locomotive and started sending the Morse code by means of the steam whistle. The railway employees on the opposite side of the river first wondered what the celebration was all about but an operator happened to recognize certain combinations of sound and came to the conclusion that somebody was trying to send a message, which was the case, and communication was established until the telegraph system was put in working order.

THIS COLLEGE BEAUTY FOOLS 'EM

HERB POHLE

If you don't believe the old saw is about appearance being deceiving, make a careful study of this beauty and you may be sadly disillusioned. A very lovely appearing person, you must admit, but the fact is "she" is no lady at all—merely Herb Pohle, one of the performers in the annual production of Harnefool, all-male dramatic troup, at the University of Wisconsin, at Madison.

PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS

By WILFRID EGGLESTON

Parliament hill hears titlewise as Premier Bennett, so I am told, is very popular with his secretarial staff. He is quick and efficient, and although he lets off steam occasionally, his bark is always worse than his bite—as an executive's prerogative, should always be.

He came in one morning at 9.15 o'clock. (I can't imagine what made him so late that morning) to find on one of his assistants engaged in perusing a copy of the Ottawa morning paper.

"Young lady," he stormed, "is this what the nation is paying you for, —to sit here at a quarter after nine reading the morning paper!" And other appropriate remarks.

The young lady, who had passed through these minor ordeals before, felt quite safe in replying, "Yes, sir," Mr. Bennett. It wouldn't have happened if you didn't wear rubber heels!"

The prime minister's remarks before the Empire Festival about exits and re-entrances were given wide publicity, but an ambiguous remark about the province in which he resided for a quarter of a century did not seem to reach the papers.

Commenting on Thursday on a play "Derelict" which revolves around a sensitive architect who had lived in Alberta 25 years, was not unemployed and out of luck, and who indulged in some revolutionary sentiments, the prime minister is reported to have expressed some scepticism: "I tried it difficult to believe," he said, "that the said architect could have lived for 25 years in Alberta and still remain sensitive." Probably Mr. Bennett was thinking of the tough hide needed by such architects of fate as himself.

The House of Commons is not only a dull affair to listen to, a lot of the time, but it leaves much to be desired as a field for sports spectacle. I'gather from the reminiscences of the old-time gallery correspondents that around the turn of the century it was much more picturesque, chiefly on account of the hirsute or tonsorial decorations with which virtually every face was adorned. There were—so they say—infinite varieties of the King Edward beard, the handlebar moustache, the Dundreary, the mutton-chop and all points 'twixt, but those days are alas! faded away. It is difficult these days for the House even to put on a good display of coolabraush moustaches. Sir George Perley being the most imposing beard, I should say, and there are a few with somewhat inferior pretensions. Dr. Hurtubise of Nipissing runs Sir George a fair second, and the president of the C.O.F. is not far behind. The Champlain beard is affected by one of the French members, Messrs. Carroll or Sel. R. S. White, Jacobs and Motherwell are among the few who would not look too badly out of place in a group photograph of the 1900 members. But the leaders of the Conservative party and the Liberal party set the style by smooth-shaven faces, and many cabinet members and ex-cabinet front-benchers conform to their leadership

Did you know.....that "Malaria is still the greatest killing disease in the world.....that plague carried by fleas annually kills hundreds of thousands of victims.....that hookworm infects 60 per cent. of the earth's population and is the most important of all imperial diseases"? I didn't either, till I heard a fascinating address delivered by Dr. T. W. M. Cameron at MacDonald College, Quebec, and published by the National Research Council.

In that connection it is safe to say that much important and little known research work is being carried on both at the Ottawa laboratories and elsewhere in Canada, encouraged by the National Research Council. Working on serums, one scientist has isolated what seems to be a highly satisfactory antitoxin for poisoning, which among so many people.

This serum, if injected into the patient renders him insensible to the effects of the plant. An interesting sidelight was revealed to me in this connection by a National Research scientist. He knows of a woman who is so ultra-sensitive to poison ivy that every time her husband goes into the woods she suffers an attack! Apparently he brings back on his clothes or skin, infinite particles of the poison ivy which comes into contact with her skin by direct contact or by their presence in the air. Other people can plunge around through the woods with complete immunity.

A friend of mine facetiously suggests a way in which would-be senators might make sure of their appointments. He recalls the device which was adopted on an aspiring host who was given some kind of assurance that if he made a large contribution to the party funds of the party then in power in Great Britain he would, in a later honors list be dubbed Lord Black. He decided to avail himself of the proposition, for ten thousand pounds, in favor of the party, signing it: "Lord Blank".

I saw last week.....John R. MacNicol perusing with interest a small facsimile of what seemed to be a new design for a Canadian flag.... in view of MacNicol's own strong views on the subject, I'm sure he didn't design it himself. It was a combination of the Union Jack and the tri-color. The first upright column, red in color, was occupied by Jack in the upper portion. The second column, which was white, had engraved on it a colored maple leaf, while the third upright strip was blue....

FIRE LEVELS LARGE AREA

Believed Incendiary And Causes Loss of $900,000

Newburyport, Mass., May 19 — (AP)—A fire, believed incendiary, swayed through the river front section of the city today destroying factories, homes, stores and a shipyard filled with valuable private yachts.

It levelled an area a quarter of a mile square and caused damage estimated by conservative observers at between $700,000 and $900,000.

Four hundred persons were thrown out of work with the destruction of the Fisher Shoe Factory and a dozen families were made homeless by the burning of their dwellings.

It was the most destructive blaze in the long history of Newburyport and for two hours it swept onward, unchecked. It was augmented from a score of surrounding Massachusetts and New Hampshire communities, apparently coming as far away as Salem, 36 miles to the southward. Many conflagrations were reported. Both were firemen and took no one by surprise. Neither is in a serious condition.

The fire began in a long, wooden, abandoned building, formerly a shoe factory just before two a.m. It was brought under control shortly before four o'clock. Sporadic bursts of flame still shot from the shattered remains at daybreak and at intervals smoking heaps of debris glowed.

The belief that the fire was set by an incendiary arose earlier as events during the late evening appeared to have been planned at close intervals just about midnight. The first was for a fire in a garage. Then came a call for help in a mattress in a nearby dwelling. Both fire officials and were set. The third was a false alarm.

CRIME DRIVE IS STARTED

President Roosevelt Seeks Support of All Citizens

Washington, May 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt called on all citizens of the United States in marshal support today for the Federal Government's war on crime.

While the Department of Justice girded itself with new weapons to wield against criminals, the President said:

"I ask citizens, individually and in organized groups, to recognize the facts and meet them with courage and determination."

Public intolerance of the evil-doer, the President asserted, is needed to bolster the drive on interstate crime.

In signing six bills yesterday to strengthen the forces of the Department of Justice, President Roosevelt signalized the action as 'an event of the first importance.'

"So far as the federal government is concerned," he said, "there will be no relenting."

"Then there is one thing more. Law enforcement and gangster extermination cannot be made completely effective, but as a substantial part of the public looks with tolerance and even admiration, permits public officers to be corrupted or intimidated by terror, or applauds efforts to romanticize

MARMORA TALENT PRESENTS PLAY

Bonarlaw—On Friday of last week the Three-act Comedy Drama, "Where's Grandma" was presented by St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. of Marmora in the Orange Hall at Springbrook, under the auspices of St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, and despite various other attractions in nearby towns the attendance was good.

All the players were well suited to their roles. "Grandma" was played my Miss Marjorie Hudgins, Gerridon—Blake by Miss Hilda Phillips and Bob Blake by Mr. Norman Smith and their acting was a good interpretation of the roles of the older folks, while George O'Neil and Miss Margaret Johnston as Jack and Carol Worley and Miss Fay Bushard as Lucy King acted well the roles of the younger generation. Miss Dorothy Lumsden played the difficult part of Arlene Truesdale in a very creditable manner while Miss Stella Bailey and Randall McIlville as Dahlia and Midnight, black face characters, kept everyone laughing and brightened up the whole play, which was very interesting from beginning to end.

Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, Manager of the play, in a few congratulated upon the splendid performance. All those acting did splendid true dramatic ability and the result of Mr. Caldwell's careful training.

After the play excellent music was furnished by Clarence McKeown and "Curly" Gibson and both round and square dancing were indulged in, Mr. Ritchie Mason acting as floor manager.

Cake and sandwiches were provided by the ladies.

Necks Demand Their Share Of the Beauty Treatments

(The Beauty Box)

Glenda Farrell

The low cut neck of this smart, Russian blouse neglige, shows Miss Farrell's lovely, smooth throat, the reward of constant cart.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Is it possible that soon a cut of best amateur make-up artists can't see below their chins? Looks that way, judging from the recent beauty races are divorced. Complexions lovely ivory, necks clingy-crêpey.

The competition has to do with creaming care which doesn't extend to the collar bone as it should. Oily cosmetics tend to keep the epidermis fair because they protect it against the browning effects of sun-light and wind. Why not carry the neck a break?

Powder shudders finish at the chin line. No need of spreading it along the neckline of the gown but it should extend far enough so that the throat will get its fcast of scented caddiness.

"Mother thing: necks age before faces. The more creasing and pulling they get the longer they stay youthful and firm.

So that the hair when laying on complexion powder. A gauze band is convenient: this can also be used when the face gets its quota of cleansing cream during the beautifying half hour at bed time.

Unless something is done to protect the forward hair line from picking up powder, there is bound to be a gray dull film there. Untidy, too, for the back of the head—out of sight to those who have a way of sizing up the pretty dollie—and those that aren't pretty.

If the lady who does her own hair bleaching would keep her locks silky and soft and natural looking, she must apply peroxide only to the roots. If she keeps on applying it to the whole length of the hair shaft she will be carrying a crown that is of an unnatural blonde shade.

"Yes, madame, there are those highly ones among us who are using black enamel on their fingernails. Let 'em. Nobody cares. But it does seem as if that's carrying nail decoration beyond the limit if not some sense.

Green and purple are bad enough in fact, the men of the realm express displeasure over gory looking claws. It is used just the same, while goes to prove that what the men have to say doesn't mean much after all.

Nail axes utilized with silver and gold aren't as bad as they sound, especially if the nail proper is varnished with coral or deep rose.

When a Child Leaves Home

By LISA GRENELLE

Jimmie hangs around his mother's skirts too much. There are too many women in the family, savvy—a widowed mother, two sisters, two older sisters. How can Jimmie grow up to be a man in such surroundings? What he needs is plenty of male companionship. In short, what he needs is to get away from home.

Uncle Ben raves that the boy is a disgrace and something must be done about it—camp or boys' school where the nonsense will be knocked out of him—and that there is no time to lose if Jimmie is ever to become a man.

And, of course, Uncle Ben is right, for the boy is too timid, too sensitive, lacks aggressiveness and initiative and other boyish traits. He's too soft.

So a season at boarding school or camp is planned, and Jimmie is torn from his mother's skirts to be tossed into the cold, cruel, impersonal and intolerant atmosphere of a group of strange masters and kids, where there is no escape, directly from the emotionally repressed ultra parental, soft atmosphere of his mother's home.

ROUGH TREATMENT

It is thought that this treatment will make a man of Jimmie, but it's more likely to finish him—to shove him further into his shell and to instill in him such a fear of other boys that he will never get over it. At the least, it is sure to set up all sorts of inferiority complex, because, with his background, he cannot meet on equal terms with his school or camp mates on any grounds, physical, mental or emotional, and in a frantic effort to escape the strange dreadful world he will become more and more ingrowing.

Have you any idea of the terrible cruelty of other boys toward a sensitive, soft lad from home? What lengths their bullying will take them? Do you know the real question of a temporary bad time for Jimmie, but of scarring his for life? Prejudices and fears, never against his kind; permanently implanted in him.

Yet Uncle Ben is right when he says that the boy needs to be toughening; needs to be thrown with other males and with boys more and older.

It is unquestionably bad for boys to be brought up, petted and pretty-pussied by doting and indulgent female relatives. But it is suicidal to change a child's environment suddenly, preparing for training him for the change.

LIBRARY CORNER

The autobiography of a Scottish doctor, a keen student of life in the highlands, "Memoirs of a Scot of the Years" by Halliday Sutherland, just published, reminiscences in the Scottish Highlands, student days in Edinburgh and Shetland Islands, visits to Spain with experiences of civil fighting and service as ship's surgeon during the war, offer a rich store of adventures and interest. Dr. Sutherland has mastered the art of the novelist in his description of the dramatic moments of his life but at the same time possesses his narrative with a human philosophy. "Arches of the Years" has been often compared with the reminiscences of Dr. Arnold Bennett in "The Story of Sau'Michele" and Hilaire Belloc's "The British Sau'Michele." Although Dr. Sutherland's are equally rich in incident, the style of "Arches of the Years" is more and critical where "Arches of the Years" reveals a literary style of grant good-nature. In the words of an American reviewer "There is a pleasant fireside atmosphere."

From the stories told by him through its individual members we have a clear picture of the Universe in the book by Sir James Jeans, "The New Background of Science." Himself one of the most the leading interpreters of science for the student of to-day's reader, the author, in his present volume discusses the question of whether man can be regarded as being of the same stuff as the rest of the universe and yet retain his freedom. The book provides us in intelligible path through the mazes of relativity, quantum theory, and wave mechanics, which form a new twentieth century background in contrast to the idea of the nineteenth century. In speaking of scientific research, Sir James says: "It is no longer a desert which we explore from the detached position of the aeroplane; we can only explore it by sampling it, and we raise clouds of dust at every step."

The call of spring is a call to sportsmen of all kinds, promises next season's fishing to be good. This sport has been more or less overlooked as a topic for a book but now a member of the Fly-Fishers' Club, who has been an enthusiast for more than fifty years, comes forward to the appreciation of his hobby in "The Fisherman's Life" (Macmillan). G. W. Maunsell offers his counsel, knowledge, and experience pertaining to fishing for perch, salmon, sea trout and pike. Among the headings of chapters which he has arranged his subject are wet and dry fishing, natural insects, evening and night fishing, worm fishing and spinning and bait fish. It is a riverside book which every fisherman will want to read on the bank when the fish are not taking.

Dedicating his volume to the Canadian author Raymond Knister, one year dead, Leo Dennedy has collected his poems which have appeared in many leading Canadian periodicals in "Poems." "The Shrouding" although the subjects chosen are often concerned with death in its various aspects, the poems themselves are not at all morbid, and, lest one should become too morbid, Weapons Against Death, Hare, indeed, is a young poet of promise.

Beauty . . . By Helen Jameson

RESTFUL SLEEP IS THE BEST COSMETIC

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)
(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It does seem as if there is no woman more generally witless and heedless than the one who lives in a delirium of activity, cuts down on her sleeping hours, and forfeits those that could be gained at the beauty shop will knit her all together again. No skilled fingers, no beautifying magic, can accomplish what mama Nature does when she closes the shutters of our eyes and buries herself making necessary repairs.

Restful sleep is a luxury. Blessed indeed is that woman who drops into slumber with her conscience at ease and awakens in the morning brimful of zest. Her cheeks carry the color of a little child, eyes are sparkling, nervous system behaving nicely. She is not among those who look into the mirror, behold a biddy-bewildered face that would stop a clock, and wish to goodness they could fall in at a decent hour, get rested for once.

The midnight prowlers are everywhere. If they're not out stepping they're dancing or sitting and raiding the icebox or getting goose flesh over the latest murder mystery. Why, even women don't appreciate the beautifying effects of a good night's rest, I don't know. To curl up in a comfortable nest, float off to dreamland, don't seem to suit them.

Regular hours for sleeping will do more to keep a woman young and sassy than all the skin foods and rejuvenators in kingdom come.

Green Vegetables For Over Weekend Much in Demand

Belleville's Saturday market was well attended today, and the array of this was mild and delightful. Lettuce, rhubarb, onions, radishes and beet, greens were all five cents a bunch, and there was an abundance of transplanting vegetables, onions being sold at five cents and tomato plants for 15 cents a small box. Asparagus sold at the rate of three bunches for 25 cents, turnips were 5 cents each. Hardy perennials were also much in evidence being sold for 10 cents, and the seeds were sold at the same price per package. These plants are in great demand for the gardens that were damaged this winter.

Eggs suffered a slight drop in price being sold for from 16-17 cents per dozen. Butter varied, for the most part from 23 to 25 cents a pound.

Seed potatoes sold at $1.25 per bag while the regular price for potatoes remained at $1.50 per bag. Apples sold, for the most part, at last week's prevailing prices; apples were $1.75 a bag. Pswis were sold for from 75 to 85 cents apiece, while some were priced at $1.00.

The market also included ducklings, which were two weeks old and sold at 20 cents each, turkeys and other wild flowers, fresh fish and the usual variety of tempting cook-consecration, a ceremony performed on August 31, 1834, by the Rt. Rev. C. J. Stewart, then Bishop of Quebec. The church, started in 1831, was opened for worship in 1831.

TORONTO MINES
Close

Toronto, May 19—Volume of trading in mining shares fell off sharply today and prices were irregular as the week concluded on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Quite heavy selling of Maple Leaf was in evidence at lower prices and some profit-taking put Eldorado back a little but elsewhere price variations from Friday's close were narrow.

Trading held at 217 on light volume, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves held small gains and the other big golds were unchanged. San Antonio added 4 cents and Little Long Lac was off 2.

A slightly better tone was exhibited by Falconbridge and that issue closed higher while other base metals were quiet. Noranda and Mining Corporation closed unchanged.

TORONTO STOCKS (CLOSE)

Toronto, May 19.—Today's Industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange hung up a record for inactivity for a year at least. None of the usual dozen recorded only a sale or two and prices barely moved a way from Friday's closing.

Distillery stocks, usually among the most active, had fewer than a dozen sales among them. Walkers Common had changed at 24¾, Distillers Seagrams at 15¾ was down a half point, Industrial Alcohol dropped ¼ to 11¾ and Brewers and Distillers was unchanged.

Industrial leaders maintained a show of strength with Wabasso up 10 cents, Steel Co. of Canada and Ford "A" up ¼.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, May 19.—The stock market today experienced one of the dullest sessions since early last fall and mildly mixed prices ruled in the indifferent trading. There was some scattered week-end profit taking, but most offerings were absorbed without difficulty. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 220,000 shares.

WHOLESALE POULTRY

Toronto, May 19 (CP)—Wholesale prices on poultry as supplied by the United Farmers Co-Operative Co. here today were in order of live "A" grade and dressed "A" grade: Chickens, 5 pounds and over 2 1-2 lbs. 17c; 1 3-4 to 3 1-2 lb. 15c; hens over 5 lbs. 13 and 14c; 4 to 5 lbs. 11 and 13c; 3 to 4 lb. 10 and 12c. Old roosters 8 and 9c.

Board Room Gossip

Newery Gold Mines

Carl Erickson, managing director of Newery gold mines in a wire received at head office of Maple Leaf Mines, Limited, states that the shaft is in full swing on No. 2 and 3 veins on the 125 ft. level. First samples assayed, he says, gave good values. The last round in the drift on No. 3 vein showed free gold. Samples also in crosscuts on 250 foot horizon. Diamond drilling is being continued, Mr. Erickson states and No. 3 hole is expected to cut eastward extension of vein No. 3 at 1pm within the next day or so. No. 1 hole cut vein 4 feet wide at 250 foot levels extension for an additional 300 feet.

Paymaster Consolidated

Paymaster Consolidated is arranging for larger development operations at its property in Porcupine gold area. In this connection pipe line from Lake Lady Belle shaft is being dewatered and will be completed prior to October 1 at 1,200 level. At present two large ballasts are working on a 24 hour schedule. It is planned to sink approximately 20,000 cubic feet of underground workings to be dewatered, as well as some 33,000 cubic feet of stopes on various levels underground.

Car Loadings

Ottawa—Carloadings on Canadian railways during the week end of May 12 continued to reflect increased business and maintained the cheerfulness upswing which began at the beginning of the year.

GEEN'S DRUG STORE
Open Sunday

Loadings since the opening of the year are approximately 150,000 more than for the same period of 1933 and slightly greater than for 1932.

McDONALD—In loving memory of Alexander McDonald, who passed away May 19th, 1931.

May God, who taketh care of all,
Whose eyes do never sleep
Beneath His arm almighty wings,

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hill was hard to climb,
So He closed father's weary eyelids,
And whispered "Peace be Thine."

GARDENVILLE DEFEATED 17-6 BY CONSECON

Carrying Place Anglican Church Being Renovated

Carrying Place—Braving a chilly wind which blew off Waller's Bay numbing spectators and players alike, a large crowd turned out on Monday evening to see Consecon defeat Gardenville 17-6 in a five-inning game on the latter team's home grounds. With all the pomp and ceremony of a true big-league opening, league officials started things rolling when the first ball was tossed by Dr. O. VanLeven of Consecon, President, who promptly smacked it over second base for a nice single. Apparently deciding to get away with a bang, the visitors pounded out a barrage of hits including two homers with the bases populated to score eleven runs in the first inning. Play on the part of the Gardenville team was loose, resulting largely from nervousness, since to a number of players this was a first season game. However, they displayed plenty of promise as more than one play made during the game, and many will be in better form before the season ends. Play was called at the end of the fifth inning by Umpire W. LaTour, and since a league rule calls for at least a six-inning game, this one will have to be replayed in the near future. In the Consecon line-up several changes have been made which should be to the advantages of the team; and the addition of two new faces to the roster will add to the batting strength of the outfit. For Gardenville several Carrying Place players are holding positions, while the remainder of the team is made up of men playing their first organized softball.

Nearly a score of willing workers gathered at St. John's Anglican Church on Friday afternoon last to assist in the cleaning and re-decoration of the church and its grounds. Men rake and shovel and with dust-cloth and broom clean the pews, each and thoroughly made, and things soon began to look different. Even the church carpets were taken up and removed to the trash pile, work work was washed, windows were cleaned, brasswares was polished, stoves and stovepipes were taken down and cleaned, and a general house-cleaning was given the interior, while outside flower-beds were made when the sod, paths were marked out and levelled, and a rustic seat was put into place on the lawn. Work has been going on each day this week at the church under the direction of the rector, Rev. Canon Arthur Strather, and of members of the Ladies' Guild. It will be remembered that the play "Parishioners' Convention" presented by a cast selected largely from the membership roll of the Guild and given earlier this year at Consecon and Redcerville as well as locally, was intended as a means of raising money for this redecorating project; and the success of the venture is a credit to all who took part in it.

The glow of a large fire somewhere in Gardenville alarmed a few early on Wednesday evening when dense clouds of black smoke rolled across the sky. However it turned out that the flames were rising from the mash which was getting his annual burning off.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Joyce of Consecon spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Gould and family.

The erection of the new house on the Dr. Titus property near Waller's Bay is going on apace. Meanwhile Mr. M. Mr. Harold Herrington, assisted by his father, Mr. Wesley Herrington, completed the shingling of the south side of the Consecon Methodist parsonage last week.

A more or less mild epidemic of influenza seems to be sweeping the community of late, the symptoms of which are reported. Cold and unpleasant weather is doing much to foster the development of sore throats, and mild weather will surely be needed when it arrives.

Mrs. J. O. Dusenbury is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ormand Whitaker, and Mr. Whitaker in Montreal. Mrs. Dusenbury made the trip in the Quebec city more than a week ago, and will remain for several days yet before returning to her home here.

Mr. Clayton Gould was so unfortunate as to lose several day's work last week as the result of being kicked by a horse while at the home of Mr. C. Humphrey in Consecon. However, he is once again on the job, and no serious injury has resulted.

ANOTHER ONE OF THE DRAKE HEIRS?

In good condition again after the bridge it received at the hands of Ellen Gillespie, the heart of John Jacob Astor is, according to gossips, now palpitating at the feet of Miss Ellen Tuck Prandi, charming member of New York's younger set, a debutante of the same vintage as Miss Gillespie.

On Wednesday evening friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fargey met at their home to say good-bye previous to their departure for their new home. The address is as follows:

Dear Friends,—In this old order changeth, yielding place to new. It is with the deepest appreciation in our minds that we come in upon you this evening in this informal way, as we have not come to say "good-bye" as we still hope to see you often. But we wish to show something of our appreciation of your services in this community. You have both been a part of the community life of this neighborhood for more than a score of years and now since your departure is so near it is difficult for us to believe that you are actually moving. We thought you had become a permanent fixture. We assure you that you will always be pleasantly remembered by your Ridge Road friends. We earnestly hope you will be as happy in your new home as you have been here and that every success will be yours. We ask you to accept this gift and as you see it in future days, it will remind you of your many friends in Rawdon and vicinity.

The tables were artistically arranged with vases of roses, carnations, tulips, and other cut flowers. The Women's Missionary Society of the church was in charge of all arrangements for the event. Following the luncheon, a suitable introduction to the program of the evening was the singing of "Path of Our Mothers" after which the president, Mrs. W. L. Anderson spoke briefly welcoming one and all to the banquet and expressing her appreciation in having present Mrs. Hunter of Madoc as guest speaker. The speaker gave an illuminating address on her work and personal experiences in South Africa where she, along with her husband, was engaged in missionary work in connection with the Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. A. Koffend in suitable words thanked the speaker for her enjoyable discourse. As the mission band contribution under the direction of Mrs. Harper Rollins, Doris Jaundrith sang sweetly "If I Keep Whispering God Is Love". The trio stayed aloft for nine hours, reaching a height of 9,000 feet before being forced aground by heavy winds. Prof. Picard is pluning a stratosphere flight this summer. He is a fellow brother of Auguste Picard, famous Belgian stratosphere scientist.

SUGAR TAX REDUCTION

Comment Heard Locally on Change of Date

Local wholesale dealers are prepared to take it on the chin.

With the announcement that the reduction in the sugar tax from 2c to one cent a pound would go into effect next Sunday at midnight, instead of July 1, has not been received favorably by local wholesalers handling sugar, judging by the comments voiced this morning.

It was pointed out that many of them had held off buying and stocking up with sugar until after the budget had been brought down, and then anticipating that the reduction would not go into effect until July 1, as the budget stipulated, had proceeded to obtain the stock necessary to carry on business until the first of July. Now with the date changed overnight, many of them find themselves stocked up with sugar on which they must take at least one dollar a bag.

"It was a little unexpected," stated the manager of the National Grocers today when questioned. "Of course we could make up with sugar, and now we stand to take a loss." Other wholesale sugar dealers are in the same boat."

CRITICAL DAYS IN WEST CANADA

C. N. R. Crop Forecast is Issued From Winnipeg

Winnipeg, May 19.—The next two weeks will be most critical ones affecting crop prospects in Western Canada. The dry weather with high winds has caused much damage to top soil drifting. Wheat seeding is practically completed and that of coarse grains well advanced. Transhoppers are beginning to hatch in some districts, but elimination measures are well in hand. The northern empire of the Peace River reports conditions very prospects are excellent, according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Colonization, Canadian National Railways.

In Manitoba high winds and some frost have been generally experienced, but on the whole crops are not doing too badly. Good warm rains, however, are required to force growth and would be of great help to both crops and pasture. No damage reported from grasshoppers.

In Saskatchewan, practically all seeding is completed with the exception of some oats. Wheat is making fair progress, but the dry weather and soil drifting are doing some damage. Rain is needed to stop dust storms and help grain germination and pasture.

The Regina district reports grass-hoppers are hatching fist and poison bait is being prepared for them. But so far there has been no damage from this source. Conditions in the Saskatoon division are fair, but rain would be very welcome to stop soil drifting and provide surface moisture. Grass-hoppers are appearing in some sub-divisions and distribution of poison bait is in hand. In the Prince Albert division crop conditions are from fair to poor. Rains are badly needed over this territory, but particularly in the south. No damage reported so far from soil drifting.

From southern and central Alberta come reports that weather seeding is generally completed and condition are favorable. High winds are rapidly drying out the soil, but no damage reported. The invariable in common with rest, requires rain. The Edmonton territory reports the weather has been warm and dry, with seeding well advanced, except wheat showing above ground and no damage from any source.

BUS PASSENGER AWARDED DAMAGES

Vehicle Crashed Into Truck With Injuries to Passengers

Windsor, Ont., May 18 (CP) — Harry Gerdon, Windsor chauffeur, awarded $800 and costs in his damage action against Canadian Greyhound Lines, Ltd., in a Canadian Supreme Court before Mr. Justice Kingston.

The action resulted from an accident on Highway No. 2 on March 5 when a bus, in which Gerdinne was a passenger, crashed into a truck. He sought $5,000 damages.

A second action resulting from the same crash is being heard now. The bus line seeks damages from M. Besciaro and Frank Cesare, both of Detroit, owner and driver respectively of the truck.

RELIEF, NOT BEER IS ASKED BY WOMEN

Concrete Proposals on Unemployment Urged in North York

Toronto, May 18—(CP)—Instead of "offering the people cheaper beer which even if given free cannot feed and satisfy unemployed workers and their families," the provincial government should adopt a concrete and progressive policy regarding unemployment and take immediate steps to institute legislation, both provincially, and federally, for unemployment insurance on a non-contributory basis, declared George S. Henry was told today by a delegation from the North York United Workers Association.

The women asked for an increase of 50 percent in the food allowance, institution of a $250,000 public works programme, payment monthly of $10 in cash for single men, instead of vouchers to women for clothing and $3 a week for single unemployed.

QUINTE BRANCH W. I.

The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Branch W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Ketcheson on May 8 with a large attendance of members. The opening ode was sung followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Minutes of the last meeting, also of the last annual meeting were read and adopted. A vote of thanks and tokens of appreciation were given to the hostess, Mrs. Ketcheson and to the secretary, Mrs. G. Frost, for their services during 1933 and splendid success during the past year. The following officers were then elected for the year:

President, Mrs. C. Ketcheson; first vice-president, Mrs. J. Megginson; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Boulton; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. Frost; cemetery secretary, Mrs. Roy Westfall; directors, Mrs. Boulton, Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mrs. W. Jeffery; press reporter, Mrs. B. Bonisteel; pianists, Eva Boulton and Ruth Bush.

Business was discussed after which a dainty lunch was served and the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

Examinations at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School will commence on May 29, and, except for intervals between, will continue until July 11, members of the Board of Education were informed in the monthly report submitted by Principal P. C. MacLaurin.

A large number of students are expected to write on the final Departmental examinations, both pass and honour matriculation papers.

LITIGANT DIES BEFORE MOTION IS GRANTED

Son Proved Dead After Being Missing seven Years

Toronto, May 19 (CP)—A motion to have a long-missing son pronounced dead was won by Mrs. Elizabeth Wright of Owen Sound a few hours after she had died.

Harry Paterson, son of Mrs. Wright, was last seen by his mother in 1923 and wrote to her, for the last time, from Bermuding, Col., in 1926. She made a motion, through her counsel to have her son pronounced dead with a view to disposing of the proceeds of a $430 life insurance policy of which she was beneficiary.

A few minutes after the motion was started before Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, counsel for Mrs. Wright said he had received word from Owen Sound that she died. The case continued and the motion was granted.

MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA

Reports Increased Business

April Sales Higher

The number of new policies paid-for in April 1934 exceeded by 30% the number for April 1933.

Policyholders Add to Insurance

Approximately 5,000 Canadians applied for and received Mutual Life insurance policies in amounts ranging from $500 to $120,000 and aggregating many millions, between January 1st and April 30th, 1934.

One-half of this business was taken by present policyholders—a splendid endorsement of the results of their original policies.

Payments to Living Policyholders Three Times Greater Than Death Claims

Death Claim payments in 1934 already total $1,128,954

Payments to LIVING POLICYHOLDERS in Dividends, Matured Policies, etc., in the same period amount to $3,745,438

An EXAMPLE of how MUTUALITY PAYS

($5,000 Endowment at age 55 Years —Issued in 1904 at age 23)

THIS MAN PAID

30 Annual Premiums of $139.75 ..... $4,792.50

HE RECEIVED IN BENEFITS:

Face Value of Policy $5,000.00

Accumulated Dividends 3,223.20

Special Extra 1928 Dividend 23.00

..... $8,246.30

HE GAINED $3,453.70

This is a return of $17.80 for every $100 of premiums paid. If the assured had died at any time while the policy was in force $5,000 plus the accumulated dividends to that date would have been paid to his beneficiary.

It is to YOUR advantage to insure in The Mutual Life of Canada—the only Canadian life insurance company that since its organization (1869) has operated on a mutual basis—there is no capital stock — ALL profits from all sources belong to policyholders, who own the company in its entirety.

CHUCK KLEIN POUNDS PILL IN BAND BOX

Against Old Team Mates Hits Third Homer in Two Days

YANKS LOSE

Senators Only Eastern Team to Win in The American

By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer

The Phillies forgot something when they sold Chuck Klein to Chicago Cubs. The bill of sale should have contained a clause making it a high crime for him to visit Baker Field again.

For the second year in a row, the great slugger annoyed his former buddies no end as the Cubs, pacesetters in the National League, bombed their way to a 9-5 decision over the Phils yesterday.

He had contributed two home runs and a single to the Cubs' one-sided victory in the opening game of the series Thursday and yesterday he added his 12th homer out of the park with two on in the first inning and later added a single to help the cause along. His batting average for two days in his old stamping grounds was .714. Klein's homer burst, of course, but it was circuit drives by Tuc Stainback and Debby Hartnett that featured the Cubs' six-run drive in the third inning when Ed. Holley was driven to cover. With all this hitting behind him, Guy Bush had no trouble rolling to his seventh consecutive pitching victory.

Pittsburgh maintained its hold on second place, driving young Charlie Perkins to the showers with a five-run attack in the first inning and winding up with an 8-5 decision over Brooklyn Dodgers. New York Giants found the fourth starting pitcher they've been looking for in the young and left-handed Al Smith although he failed to win. Poor support by his team-mates and the gilt-edged pitching of Sonny Fey sent Smith down to a 2-1 beating by Cincinnati Reds after the youngster allowed only five hits. Boston Braves belted Jim Winford for three runs in the first two innings and turned back St. Louis Cardinals 6-3.

American League

Meanwhile, the Western clubs of the American League, led by Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers, were giving the east a fine shellacking. The Tigers slugged Red Ruffing and Harry Smythe for 15 hits, including five doubles and a triple, smashed the mighty New York Yankees for the second day in a row, 10-8, and cut the New Yorkers' lead to three games.

St. Louis Browns moved into a virtual tie with Washington and Philadelphia for fourth place as they tripped Boston Red Sox again 11-4, battering out 17 hits of which the usual light-hitting Oscar Melillo contributed four. Bucky Harris some stopped the Red Sox with 8 hits and fanned eight. Joe Cascarella, unbeaten in four games, gave five base on balls in the first inning, forced three runs across the plate and paved the way for a 5-4 victory over Chicago White Sox. Jimmie Foxx's seventh homer was the first ever hit into the centre field bleachers at Comiskey Park.

Washington clalked up the only eastern victory, beating Cleveland 3-1 behind southpaw Walter Stewart's neat pitching.

DORIE DETON TO BATTLE STRATTON

Supporting Bouts of Wrestling Show on Holiday Best Procurable

That the high tenor of the main attraction of Belleville's next card of light heavy wrestling, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, in the armouries next Thursday night, will not be marred by inferior supporting bouts, is indicated by the announcement by Matchmaker McClure, that he has succeeded in securing the services of another duo of topnotchers to fill the second main-bout frame. In this set-to, over the two-falls-out-of-three route with a time limit of one hour, Waller Stratton of Chicago, one of the wiliest and craftiest mat performers in his class, will stack up against Dorie Deton, the Salt Lake City lad who made such a favorable impression on Bellevillians through his excellent showing here on the Kiwanis' card of light heavy grappling. Stratton's craftiness combined with the superior skill which Deton has already shown to the local fans, are the customers' implied guarantee that the match will not be the least impressive in the evening's entertainment, and all indications are that even more than the supporting matches this set-to will be productive of all the skill, speed, science and action for which light heavy grappling has come to have a name in the centres on the continent where it has been featured.

The first main bout, both of them go over the two-falls-out-of-three route, with one-hour time limits, will bring together Jackie Milburn the South Bend "Thunderbolt", and the "Black Panther" of New York City's famous Harlem Belt—two lads who recently succeeded in stealing a light heavy show in Windsor, Ont., with such skill that even the Windsor sport writers, such as Lou E. Marsh, of the Toronto Star, and Dardy Daniels, of Sports Weekly, raved about the event in their respective columns.

An interesting slant on the Belleville show can be observed the day by one of those Toronto light heavy fans who is enthusiastic about the lighter-than-heavyweight wrestlers that the tracts all over the province to catch their shows. Said the fan: "Belleville, to my knowledge, is the only place on the continent where the faithful fans are urged Big Time rassling entertainment at the LOWEST prices in force anywhere."

McLaughlin Color Bearer Ready for King's Plate

Horometer is Class of Field, Many Owners Declining Issue

By DAN BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, May 19.—(CP)—Horometer, R. S. McLaughlin's evertempered three-year-old was primed today in an effort to dispel any doubt that may have arisen regarding his chances in the 75th running of the King's Plate at Woodbine Park this afternoon.

Entered with five best three year olds and over that Ontario could produce, the unbeaten son of Hourless-Star Pal will go to the barrier as one of the heaviest favorites ever chosen in the exclusive fixture of Canadian turfdom. Generally selected winter-book favorite, Horometer's popularity increased overnight when he covered the nine-furlong plate course in 1.54 3-5 to shatter the record of 1.55 1-5, established by R. W. R. Cowie's galling little filly, Queensway in 1932.

The McLaughlin color bearer, which won easily each of its five starts as a juvenile, staged his spectacular trial just as racing followers were tossing their interest on the co-entry, Pitchblende, another three year old that will represent the Cowie Stable in the quest for the Province's silverware and $2 guineas from the King, the Ontario Jockey Club has added $7,500 to the value of the race, now considerably since 1660.

Coupled in another entry are W. H. Wright's Sam Worthy and Speygold, picked for show position, while Papaico, making his second start in the plate under the colors of T. S. Cochenour, and E. P. Seagram's Dandy Feast complete the entries for the race, the fourth on the opening card at Woodbine.

Dull clouds hung low over the course this morning but there appeared be be no immediate threat of rain, though scattered showers were forecast. Even a possibility of rain failed to deter the faithful and track officials predicted the largest attendance in years.

Golf Facts

NOT THEORIES! By Alex Morrison

Simplifying a thing is the most difficult task you can set your partner.

It's doubly difficult in golf for this is a game complicated by life itself. It's complicated to most players because they have acquired so many false notions, so many bad habits about the swing.

Eliminating these notions and habits is a tough job mainly because these players can't bring themselves to believe that the successful swing is really a simple motion.

The first step toward improvement is to firmly convince yourself that the correct swing is simple.

Then, train yourself to follow the most simple positions and movements you can find.

Final preparation for the exhibition tilt with Picton intermediate 'A' team was held last night at the local grounds by the Nationals and Manager Mills will give every player a chance on Monday afternoon. This workout should key the boys for the grand opening of the baseball season on Thursday when the Oshawa Dukes will be the visiting club with a doubleheader. Opening ceremonies will be brief as the fans want to see the team in action. Who the starting line-up for the Nationals will be has not been determined but it is almost a certainty that Williams and Mills will be the battery for the opening tilt.

Our Kingston contemporary claims that the Ponies will be as strong or stronger than last year when they were senior finalists but from this angle it hardly seems possible. The Ponies will feel the loss of McQuade and Compeau and the two taken in to replace these players will not give the same performance over a year as the two that left, and that is not detracting from their ability. With the exception of St. Louis, the hurlers will be smarter with one good hurler at least on the lineup. The first test of strength between the Ponies and the Nationals will take place on May 30 and no doubt Manager Mills will hold Williams for that game to try and break the jinx held by the Ponies over the local team.

The wrestling show prepared by the Kiwanis Club for the holiday evening attraction should be the best show ever staged in this city. Tommy McClure has arranged an excellent card of three bouts with the headliner being the Black Panther and Nichols, the Indiana Thunderbolt. The second bout brings together Stratton and Deton and this should be a shaker. The prelim is just as good and in all it promises to be a swell evening for the fans.

AMELIASBURG WINS FIRST HOME GAME

Defeat Newly Formed Rossmore Club by 16 to 18

Mountain View, May 19—(Special)—Ameliasburg won their first home game of the season last evening, defeating the newly formed Rossmore club by 18 to 10 in a seven-innings tussle. The Rossmore squad looked quite snappy in their new uniforms of Red and Blue but the uniforms were not sufficient to save them from a beating. Ameliasburg has practically the same team, that operated last year but they seem to have gained experience and will be hard to stop for the league lumbing. Caulfield for the visitors was the only player to hit for the circuit and it came when Ameliasburg put on their big rally in the third frame. Rossmore used two hurlers to stop the avalanche of hits to no avail. Batteries—Brickman, Clarkston, Thompson, Foster, Reddick, Thompson, White, Smith, McCreary and Orton.

Ameliasburg—Snider, Cretney, Barber, W. Cretney, Dulmage, Crosby, Montgomery, Caulfied, and Cretney.

Scored by innings:

Rossmore	0	2	1	0	4	1	2	—	10
Ameliasburg	4	0	0	1	4	0	0	—	18

Batteries—Rossmore, Brickman, Thompson and Charlton.

Ameliasburg—Cretney and Snider.

Umpires—Adams and Brickman.

The Romantic Runaway

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

"Our tastes must be the same," he said with a suddenly flaring ardor that seemed genuine. "They must be or I could not feel— as I do."

She made no answer. She had turned her face away again.

"You pallid little bourgeoisie!" he thought. "Do you honestly think I'm enjoying this?"

"I'll try not to annoy you again, Estelle," he promised, "but it's difficult to keep silent, feeling as I do. I've never cared for anyone like this before. It's—well, it isn't easy! But that's selfish of me. All I want is for you to be perfectly happy—that and to be near you some times. You don't mind my saying this, do you?"

He waited, leaning across the arm of the chair toward her. She turned her head and he was surprised, but not touched, by seeing tears in her eyes. He said a quick, apparently distressed, "What is it, dear?"

She told him she was very unhappy and that she was lonely. He, too, had been lonely, he confided. Always he had been lonely until he had met her.

Privately he was thinking, "So it's going to be as easy as this!"

Then he stifled what would have been a yawn and felt his jaws ache from the effort. Lor, he was dead for sleep! But he had to go on with this farce.

"You haven't told me whether my being near you annoys you, Estelle. I really want to know. I want to know terribly—"

"Oh, it doesn't annoy me," she answered. "Nothing seems to matter much to me lately. But I don't want you to hope that I will change my mind about you, for I can't. I'm never going to marry."

"If I believe that I'd make a lovely splash in the sea out there!" she heard. She said almost petulantly, "Oh please, don't talk like that." And again she turned away her face.

The yellowed calendar leaf above Pablito's desk read, "June." He tore the leaf off. Already it was the fifteenth of July and, for all he knew, he might have become a year older. He had no way to count the years since he had no certainty of his birthday.

He had been sitting at his desk writing to the man he had come to know as Sir Aubrey. They had written several letters to each other. Now, his letter sealed in its envelope, the old tangle was plaguing him again. If he were to escape, he would have to pull Beau and Lottie into it. In their way they were his friends. He had for them both a genuine affection that had persisted in spite of many trials. Then, too, if he were willing to sacrifice them who would believe him? The evidence was clearly against him. Besides he could not do this to Beau and Lottie even for Estelle.

He wondered where she might be now. He had had no word from her. Each night he dreamed that the next day might bring him some message, but each day held nothing beyond the usual routine. "I must stop hoping like this," he decided on those bad days when the pain in his heart seemed too sharp to be endured. But he could not stop. Gossip told him the Field yacht had touched many shores and now was under steam in the Mediterranean. He thought of Estelle looking on fringes of palms, low pink and blue houses, or a misty line of far, blue mountains. But thinking of her was not enough. He was more the man and his hunger had grown with his capacity for suffering.

One thing he was spared and that was any doubt of her. He did not so much as question the fact that she would wait for him, just as he would wait, until they could be together.

The clubs were empty of tourists who enjoyed a good boxing match and no one came to the gymnasium during the summer. There was nothing to do—nothing but to wander down to the harbor entrance to hear the band play or motor into the country. At neither of these pastimes could he escape his thoughts.

With the idea that a change might do him good he took a trip to Camaguey and on to Santiago but the ache only increased. He thought so frequently, "Estelle would like this—"

Twice he had visions of her that seemed so real they made him catch his breath on a sob as they faded. He dreamed of her continually and thus waking became agony. He would dream that she was in his arms and then, awakening, find them empty.

He grew thin. His face was haggard and his eyes shadowed.

"Honest, you hardly eat anything, dearie," Lottie complained at every meal.

CHAPTER XXXVII

One evening in late summer Pablito appeared in the doorway of Beau's sleeping room. "Beau—" he said.

"Come in," the other invited. Beau was stretched out at full length on the bed. He added, as Pablito closed the slat door behind him "Hand me a cigaret, wil you?"

Pablito rummaged about the bureau in the old, slow way that had been his immediately after their escape from Field's camp. Beau had noticed that this manner had returned.

"A match—" he prompted.

Pablito supplied the match and held it, cupped between his palms, as Beau lit up. "Well, what's the trouble?" Beau asked then.

Pablito dropped to a chair by the bed. He ran his hands through his thick, light hair. Then, elbows on knees and eyes averted he began to tell Beau slowly and falteringly about Estelle; of how she was forced to comply with her father's demands because Field believed Pablito had murdered Jeffries.

Beau raised himself on one elbow. "Hell, kid," he questioned, aggrieved. "What can I do about it? I love life myself."

"I know," Pablito admitted wearily, "I don't know why I'm talking. I wouldn't have you give yourself up—you know that. But I'm about half-crazy with things as they are—"

Beau broke into this monologue. "Look here, kid! You'll get over being so choosey in time. Women, they're all alike—"

"Not when you feel as I do."

"Well, all right. Have your own way about it, but just the same they are. Look here— I didn't want to tell you what I know, but I guess I'll do it. Maybe it'll make you stop this mooning. That Field dame's engaged to a guy named Davids—"

Pablito sat back, eyes unbelieving.

"I seen it in a New York newspaper," Beau confided.

"Did you —save the paper?"

"Yes, it's in the bureau drawer there. The top one. Under them socks. Well, maybe it's in the other drawer. Oh, my God, you ain't looked! Try the next one."

Pablito found the newspaper and sat down to read. It was there, just as Beau had said. Beneath a portrait of Estelle, a little smeared in the printing but all too clear, he read: "Society has been expecting the news for some time. Mr. Alec Davids who has been cruising with Mr. and Miss Field on Mr. Field's yacht—"

Pablito found he could not read it quickly. He had to go back to the beginning and start over again. The words arranged themselves crazily. But at length he had finished the entire, rather wordy paragraph underneath the portrait.

He stood then, trembling and clutching the newspaper. He stared down at Estelle's picture, then abruptly left the room.

Beau called after him to say something about the man named Billings, who had called that day. Billings had said he must see Pablito about a matter that was important.

Later, though not much later, Beau, who was still in bed, looked up to see Pablito once more before him. Pablito was wearing a suit that had been made for travelling and not a Cuban evening.

"Gimme a cigaret—" Beau ordered. Pablito gave him the package. As she stopped with a lighted match burning blue beneath his palms he said slowly, "I'm leaving Beau".

"Where you goin'?"

"I don't know."

"What about your letters?"

"There won't be any letters you need to forward. There'll be none that matter." Pablito smiled as he spoke. It was a smile that Beau did not exactly like.

"My God," he thought, "the kid is hit!"

"Look here, Kid," he protested, "that Billings was here again today. He said he's got to see you. Seemed to be all het up about something. Came all the way from New York to see you, he said. You can't go without—"

Billings was probably selling something, Pablito decided slowly and heavily. He remembered that Billings looked like a salesman—the sort who always come all the way from some very distant point to sell some one thing to one particular man.

"Tell him I never buy oil stock," he answered. Then he thought of Sir Aubrey and the fact that Sir Aubrey had been Billings' friend. But the Englishman could have written anything he cared to tell him, Pablito decided surely.

"Honest, I think you're makin' a mistake," Beau persisted. "I had a kind of feelin' when he come that somethin' real important was up. He sort of looked that way. When 'll you be back, Kid?"

"I don't know."

"Well—so long. We'll miss you!"

Pablito went down the stairs and out under the blackness and the twinkling fires that made the Cuban sky. He had not said good-bye to Lottie. His lips were no longer Estelle's but he would not touch them—even casually—to any other woman's lips. He could not do that yet.

"Oh, God!" he whispered harshly, although his God was far from him. This was more hideous than the awakening from any dream he had ever known.

Estelle did not see the announcement of her engagement in the New York newspaper but she and her father returned there and the big stone town house was once more opened. There she became acquainted with the news through the congratulations of her friends. She denied the truth of the engagement ardently. Too ardently, it was murmured with smiles.

"But it really isn't true!" Estelle repeated. The year that had passed since she had left Cuba had wrought unpleasant changes. She was less certain now that even Pablito could measure up to the standards she had once believed were his. She could not, with the new wisdom she had acquired, believe that anyone could be as good as she had supposed him to be. She was less certain about everything, in fact, except the misery with which she must be surrounded while she lived with her father.

Occasionally she realized that her only escape lay in marriage. As she thought of this she also realized that Alec Davids was kind. Very firmly she believed this.

"My dear," he asked often, "how much longer must I watch you suffer from your obstinacy? You don't know how it hurts me when I want to make you happy!"

Alec had passed the period when he had thought this game so easy as to be uninteresting. Inwardly now he fumed at Estelle's "devilish stubbornness" and more than ever he was determined to win her. He almost hated her because of the way she kept him dangling with her repeated withdrawals. "Well, she'll learn a few things," he vowed, "after I've got her where she's going to be!"

"Keep up your heart, my boy," Field would encourage him warmly. And with sly keenness he would disparge Alec in Estelle's hearing. She seemed to look at Alec more gently after these attacks on him by her father. They made her wonder if after all, it wouldn't be better to say "yes" to Alec and have it over with.

TARZAN THE TERRIBLE

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

There was no avenue of escape for Tarzan. Behind him lay the placid waters of the pool, while down upon him thundered annihilation in the shape of te hideous gryf. Its mighty body seemed already towering above him as the ape-man turned and dove into the dark waters. Perhaps it was the last blind urge of self preservation to delay his final moment; perhaps those cool grey eyes had caught a slight possibility of escape. In either case the waters closed over him, laving but a swirl of ripples marking the spot where Tarzan of the Apes disappeared from sight.

In her prison quarters in the Temple of the Gryf, Lady Greystoke faced the leering high priest of A-lur. During the silence of night he had come to claim her, determined to make her priestess of Pal-ul-don before Ko-tan, the king, could take possession of her radiant loveliness. Though hope had left her, haughtily she repulsed Lu-don, neither shrinking from his greed nor cowering. As he would have touched her, she cried: "One of us shall die before ever your purpose is accomplished." To this, Lu-don, now close beside her, laughed mockingly, so sure was he of his prize.

As he reached for her arm, something crashed through the grated window and a human figure dove into the room, its head enveloped in the skin hangings which its impetuous entry had carried with it. The woman saw surprise and terror come into the high priest's face. Then she saw him spring forward and jerk a leathern thong hanging from the ceiling. Instantly there dropped from above a cunningly contrived partition. It fell between them and the intruder, leaving the only lamp upon her side of the descending wall.

Faintly from beyond the wall she heard a voice calling. Whose it was and what the words she could not distinguish. Then she saw Lu-don jerk upon another thong and wait, as though expecting something to happen. A moment after, he smiled, and with another movement again raised the partition to the ceiling. She saw a dark shaft's opening, and heard him shout down it some mocking phrase. Then he closed the trap, arose and like some stealthy beast, advanced upon her. "Now, Beautiful One!" he cried, and then quite a different exclamation escaped his cruel lips.

CARIBOU INCREASING IN GASPE REGION OF QUEBEC

Montreal, May 19—Caribou are rapidly increasing in the Gaspe section of Quebec, states C. K. Howard, Fish and Game Development of the Canadian National Railways, who made the statement on reports received from various sections through this territory. Gaspe Peninsula is the only section in Eastern Canada where caribou hunting is now permitted and this section was only opened to hunters two years ago after a close season of five years which affected the entire province of Quebec. In the York River area of Gaspe Peninsula, one trapper reports that caribou are very plentiful in the area and, before the close season was enforced, several outside caribou heads have been secured in Quebec after hunting of these animals was again permitted.

AT THE BELLE

"Search for Beauty" and "The Last Round-Up"

The leading beauties of the Hollywood Beauty Contest, held at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, are the cast of fun and spectacle in Paramount's "Search for Beauty" at the Belle today and Monday, matinee daily.

Featured in the picture are the thirty perfect young men and women chosen from among the 178,000 contestants in the nation-wide search for beauty conducted by the leading country of the world in Paramount's quest for beauty and talent.

"Search for Beauty" embraces a serious theme lightly treated in an amusing manner to provide grand entertainment, with Buster Crabbe and Robert Armstrong provoking hearty laughs.

The picture is unusual in a number of respects, but aside from the excellent comedy of Gleason and Armstrong, Crabbe, former Olympic swimming champion, makes his first leading role in a straight feature picture. He plays opposite Carole Lombard in the characterization with his "King of the Jungle" characterization.

"The Last Round-Up"

"The Last Round-Up" the country's favorite tune is introduced in motion picture form at the Belle on the Paramount production of Zane Grey's novel of that name, to be played on the Zane Grey novel, "The Roaring Legion."

From opening sequence to thrilling climax "The Last Round-Up" holds the interest throughout for minutes of swiftly moving adventure. Fun, thrills, a gold mine.

It brings Randolph Scott to the screen in his best performance as an outdoor hero in portraying the role of Jim Cleve, the strong man of the west, who, through circumstances beyond his control, is framed, finds himself a member of the notorious Dalton gang and calls-rustling Border Legion.

Barbara Fritchie, Paramount's pretty new screen discovery, is introduced in a leading role as Joan Gilmore.

Monte Blue, hero of many hard-riding dramas returns to pictures as Kells, two-fisted, straight shooting cowpuncher and foe of Cleve.

The Legion make a disastrous try at a gold train, but Scott and Kohler then stage a three-cornered duel with the rustlers' leader and it is from this situation that Galloway draws a breath-taking climax.

A new Sailor Puppy Reppy the Sailor Katrine and the Puppies and Little Nemo will be the attraction on the same program. The last "Puppies" shows starts nightly at 8.30 p.m.

THE DRAMA

Second Form Collegiate Students Produce Plays Before School Audience

Richard Logie gave evidence of exceptional talent as a producer and as an actor in his interpretation of the character, Jeff Cameron, in the three act play, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," which the Second Collegiate of Belleville presented on Friday afternoon. The part was difficult and Logie held the interest throughout. Francis Brandrib gave a splendid characterization as the Bishop, while Betty Anderson as the housekeeper, Mme. Magloire, Osborne as the maid, gave convincing performances. This play under Miss Billings' direction was the outstanding part of the program.

Another part of this programme which was presented by the second form girls was the farce, "The Rival Belles." B.C.I.V.S. Literary Society, was a comedy of errors. Certainly Miss Cook dealt with the reactions of three distinct types. Miss Patterson, Collins, Miss Prudence (Barbara Collins) and Miss Penelope (Arthenea Crull), to a telegram which announced that Tom would arrive after six o'clock. Their theories as to whom Tom could be varied from the belief that he was a little boy to the belief that he might be an old man, and included the hope that he was a young officer. All three act upon their respective theories only to find in the end that Tom was a distinct attractive cat. The difference of character of the three elderly ladies was well brought out, and Miss Bunting, who directed this play is to be congratulated on her success in this difficult task.

A coloured presentation of scenes from "Twelfth Night" with effective costumes was given by Miss Thompkins. The part of Olivia was taken by Lorraine Bell, that of Malvolio by Robert Kidd, of Sir Toby by Eugene Gerrish, of Sir Andrew by Russell Collins, of Fabian by Donald Peck, of Maria by Jean Shorey, and of Feste by Audrey Poole. The characterization was cleverly made, and well received.

A reading, "The Photograph Album", was given by Rita Wilkins, and another delightful part of the program was a piano solo by Miss Grace Mills. The school orchestra, under Mr. Ross Hunter's direction, formed an important part of the program. Jack Carmichael, president of the Literary Society, and chairman at this meeting expressed the appreciation of the Literary Society to Mr. Hunter, and the orchestra for their splendid assistance on all occasions.

Mr. Sets were simple and effective, reflecting great credit on Miss Jack. Jeff and his stage crew which consisted of Albert Wood, Ernest Moon and Kenneth Bray. Miss Rose Dunham presided at the piano, assisted at its usual high standard, and

PAUL MUNI IN "HI NELLIE!"

"A newspaper story that's different."

That is the report preceding the Warner Bros. production, "Hi Nellie!" starring Paul Muni, which comes to the Capitol Theatre next Monday for three days.

One of the "different" features of "Hi, Nellie!" is its star. No previous film with a city room background has featured a player of the theatrical importance, both on stage and screen, of Muni.

For Muni himself, "Hi, Nellie!" is a departure, too. Following the powerfully dramatic but somewhat characterizations he has contributed to the screen in "I Am a Fugitive", "Scarface" and "The World Changes", his role in this fast-moving, lightly handled and breezy story is said to represent as amazing contrast.

For the first time in his motion picture career, the star essays romantic leads. The picture also contains thrills and hilarious laughters. As the hard-hitting managing editor of a big New York daily, he finds himself suddenly "in love." He has not failed to handle a sensational story in the publishing commercial, however in this instance is the love interest of the newspaper. He has to turn on guilty and innocent alike to get the fascination with his "King of the Jungle" characterization.

MISS O. FULTON WINS NURSING GOLD MEDAL

Dr. G. H. Stobie Relates History of Nursing at Graduation

Fourteen nurses who have completed their training in the Training school of Belleville General Hospital, received their diplomas last evening when the annual graduation exercises were held in the Collegiate Auditorium in the presence of a very large number of interested citizens. The graduating class included Misses Ella Meeks, Moscow, Bernice Belanger, Rosemont, Quebec; Dorothy Merrill, Shelly Parr, Belleville, Olive Fulton, Trenton; Belle Berry, Gananoque; Fulton, Thompson, Oshawa, Mildred Dixon, Belleville, Mildred Hamilton, Tarker, Gertrude Powell, Brighton; Helen Walker, Campbellford, Phyllis Howard, Mount Anne, Edith Alexander, Trenton and Nina Hamilton.

The coveted gold medal for general proficiency, awarded by the Hospital Board of Governors was this year by Miss Olive Fulton, Trenton, while Miss Belle Berry, Gananoque, received the silver medal, the gift of the medical staff.

The audience stood as the nurses in their white uniforms and carrying beautiful bouquets of flowers, filed in and took their places on the stage where Dr. G. H. Stobie, superintendent, Miss Mc Indoe, official head and matron and several members of the training class. The platform was banked with marguerites and fern and the rich colors of green and white made a background for the uniforms of the nurses.

His Worship Mayor George O. Ketcheson presided at the meeting and in his interesting address he referred to the fact that Belleville was the standard of the training school of which Miss Alice Fine Work or Miss McIndoe and Dr. Stobie.

The program was as follows:

Hymn—"O God Our Help In Ages Past." Prayer, Dr. Scouper; Chairman's address, His Worship Mayor; Medal took "The Florence Nightingale" Graduate Nurse"; Presentation of diplomas and pins; Solo, Miss Dorothy Merrill; Presentation of Hospital Board's Gold Medal, Miss Olive Fulton; Presentation by Mr. Ackerman; Presentation of Medical Staff's Silver Medal, Belle Berry, presented by Dr. Flynn; Presentation of Prizes; Prize awarded for best practical work in Dietary Department, Margaret Wilson by Miss Burke; Prize awarded for Operating Room Technique, presented by Dr. Dinnewore; Prize awarded for Obstetrics, Laura Thompson, presented by Dr. Stobie; Prize awarded for Medical Nursing, Hamilton, presented by Dr. Hall; Prize awarded for Public Health, Belle Berry, presented by Mrs. Shaw; Prize awarded for Surgical Nursing, presented by Miss McIndoe; Prize awarded for Obstetrical Nursing, presented by Dr. Connor; Reading, Miss Mc Indoe; Address, Dr. Stobie; Solo, Miss Reddick; God Save The King.

Modern Nursing

In his address to the graduating class Dr. Stobie gave a most interesting outline of the development of modern nursing methods.

While the care of the sick is a very old practice, he said, modern nursing is contemporary with modern medicine and is the outcome of the development of the past fifty years.

Recent development of wide hospitalization for the care of the sick nowadays of a patient acutely ill being focused outside a hospital through the urgent demand for improved nursing service. Nurses trained and in many cases of children, and the women engaged in nursing, with the development of mass, did not provide a very proud nursing accomplishment. It was a wonderful achievement to have raised the nursing profession to the dignified plane where it is today.

In Germany was started the first real school of nurses in 1833. Here Florence Nightingale attended and through her influence the profession was made dignified, servant nurses being replaced by well-bred and well-trained women with high esprit de corps in the profession.

"The training of nurses was the first step towards the greatest of all the qualities of the modern hospital—cleanliness," pointed out Dr. Stobie. He referred to the part that this played in demonstrating how infection could be controlled by antiseptic measures.

The surgical operation today is a monument to Lord Lister. He changed hospitals from "havens of horrors to havens of hope".

Dr. Stobie referred to such leaders in the nursing profession in Canada in Miss Snively of Toronto, Miss Livingston of Montreal, and Miss Jean Gunn, also of Toronto, and a native of Belleville.

In answer to those who hold the idea that the nurse "is born, not made", Dr. Stobie showed how personal aptitude and scientific training were complementaries and not contradictories. Sympathy alone could not correct ills, good training and competence were necessary. Hard work the mastery of exacting technique and scientific studies are requisits of nurse graduates.

Pittsburgh, May 21—(CP)—Patrolman Carl Woods found a car parked on "no parking" zone. Thinking he ought to get a ticket, he found another tag already was on the car.

But investigation disclosed that the ticket was two weeks old, for the date was stamped on the new one.

Four hours later he found the same car on Fifth Avenue. The old and the new tag were there. Again Woods added another.

But he suspected that the motorist had dodged a lot of tickets by using his own.

PARTY LINES WITHDRAWN IN HOUSE BILL

Sweepstake's Bill to be Introduced on Tuesday

MARKET BILL

Due For Advancement After Being in Committee For Weeks

Ottawa, May 21—(CP)—With two definite immediate objects before it, parliament resumed its sessions today for a short week's work of Thursday, May 24, will be a holiday. The Marketing Bill, still in committee of the whole in the House of Commons, is due for advancement and tomorrow a decision may be reached as to whether lotteries may be conducted in Canada with the blessings of the law.

Notice has been given of the introduction of the public works bill to authorize a programme of building amounting to some $50,000,000 and bills to provide additional credits for farmers and to provide facilities for them to compromise with their creditors as well as a new election act. Indications are, however, they will not see the light until the end of next week. The bill is approved. It has been the subject of lengthy debate.

Two bills respecting lotteries are before the House. One, passed by the Senate, would allow them for the aid of hospitals. The other, reported unfavorably in the Commons, would permit them for any charitable, or educational purpose of a public character.

Party lines will be forgotten when the debate begins Tuesday and a free vote of the House will be the result.

The committees will be active again this week. The Agriculture Committee, probing the desirability of establishing separate grades for parnip wheat, meets today and the Mass Buying Committee is due to continue its investigation into the canning industry and the profiteering of the fruit and vegetable growers.

With the new Bank Act already approved the Banking Committee is now at work on the Bank of Canada Act, the title which will set up a central bank, and this week will be embroiled with the question of bilingual currency. Under the Act all currency will be issued by the new central bank. The note issuing privileges of the commercial banks are to be withdrawn gradually.

PROBE TOLD FAITH BROKEN

Witness at Mass Buying Probe Says Only Two Companies Fair

Ottawa, May 21—(CP)—Investigations into two phases of the fruit-growing industry were suggested to the parliamentary price spreads committee today by H. L. Craise of St. Catharines. He proposed inquiry into the high price of fertilizers, particularly the spreads between dealers and farmers, and the fact that Ontario growers paid more than Quebec farmers. And he said the price-maintenance system of the "can monopoly" should be investigated.

The agreement of Canadian canners to buy 100 tons of asparagus at 10 cents per pound was made at a conference at which a representative of the Canadian Department of Agriculture sat in, said Mr. Craise. It was the Government that put the canning companies had played the game. They took all they required —150 tons at 10 cents. The other canners broke faith. When the Canadian canners went to purchasing its 100 tons at 10 cents, this company was also buying asparagus at the lower prices.

Canned Asparagus

Up until last year importation of canned asparagus from the United States was very heavy. In 1932 imports were 893,000 pounds but in 1933 this had dropped to 413,000 pounds.

The duty on asparagus was 30 percent under the general tariff. Between April 15 and May 1, however, the duty was increased to three cents per pound."

The duty on canned asparagus was increased 3 1-2 cents a pound by the Government, Mr. Craise. This benefited the canners more than the farmers.

"I am in hope," said the asparagus farmer, "if the Marketing Act is passed, this whole situation will be ironed out.

"You hope the industry itself will be able to help itself?" asked Mr. Somerville.

"Do you contemplate any reduction in production?" asked E. J. Young, Lib. Weyburn.

"No, I do not think so."

In the Niagara Peninsula, fruit growers were making profits on plums, pears, peaches and grapes, Mr. Craise said. He blamed, in all his crop had "just gotten by" to the last five years.

"As great deal of our trouble can be traced to the fact the working man has no money," Mr. Craise said.

"Then" said Mr. Young, "can you tell me how conditions can be bettered by increasing purchases?"

Mr. Craise complained of the treatment received by Ontario peach growers on the 1931 crop. Junk before the season opened, said witness, Canadian canneries imported 15 cars of peaches in a very short time. The peaches were allowed to ripen and were then canned.

While the peaches were ripening, the canners offered the Ontario growers three cents per pound "to keep the growers' hides".

Immediately the big cans of imported peaches were sufficiently ripe for canning, Mr. Craise stated, could only get two and one-half cents per pound.

PETER SMITH VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK

Former Provincial Treasurer in The Drury Government

CATTLE BREEDER

Involved in Financial Scandal While Acting as Treasurer

Stratford, Ont., May 21 (CP)—Peter Smith, one-time Ontario Provincial Treasurer in the United Farmers' Government of Hon. E. C. Drury, died here today at the age of 56. He suffered an attack of heart disease.

Mr. Smith, widely known political figure of a decade ago, was a United Empire Loyalist member of the Ontario Legislature for South Perth from 1919 to 1922. He served only one term in the Legislature. He was defeated in the 1923 elections by 43 votes.

Previous to his election to the Legislature he had been clerk of Downie township from 1900 to 1911. He served in the same office in that office from 1914 till 1920.

He retired as cattle breeder and his farm was considered one of the show places of this district. Mr. Smith, while he was in the city was involved in a financial scandal which resulted in the downfall of the Drury regime of securities of the Provincial Securities Company and those from other sources in a banking scandal which involved the Provincial treasury.

The sensational inquiry in 1924 by a Public Accounts Committee Mr. Smith was committed to serve three years in Kingston Penitentiary, while Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., through whose influence the scandal was made, was committed to the County Jail for six months and Charles R. Matthews, Jr., Deputy Provincial Treasurer, was committed to serve two years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Peter Smith was nominated by an Ontario Criminal Assize Court and sentenced on October 24, 1924. He was released on ticket of leave in May 1926.

Ordered to Pay Fine

He and Jarvis were ordered to pay jointly a fine of $600,000, which was reduced considerably after Jarvis appealed against sentence. He made restitution of $100,000 to the province and paid a fine of $60,000.

Mr. Smith appealed against the charge of conspiracy on which he had been convicted, but the Appeal Court dismissed the appeal.

In the investigation which preceded the Public Accounts Committee found, among other things, that the province had been paying outstanding bonds of companies which had failed to the extent of $1,000,000 that persons selling the bonds had made large profits at the expense of the government.

The report contained a finding of the treasury department that the province had lost, on the purchase of 41 subscribed for by the province, duty-free bonds in England thru' Aemilius Jarvis & Company the sum of $570,020.

Looted Treasury

The committee found these methods had enabled Drury to loot the treasury of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Persons profited by the laxness of the administration of the treasury department by obtaining the extra interest on bonds purchased and payable in New York funds and by higher premiums on duty-free bonds and selling them in the province at the higher exchange and at par exchange.

Smith was ordered to pay a fine of $100,000 for his part in the conspiracy through which the deals were carried out. His health failed before he was released from prison, but he recovered thereafter.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Robert Smith of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Peter Smith, Jr., of Stratford, and three daughters, Mrs. J. L. Grosch of Stratford; Mrs. Arthur Rost of Chicago, and Mrs. Alfred Cole of Toronto.

Modern Names for Dog Pets, Towser, Fido, Sport are Gone

Records Show Boston's Predominate in Dog-town

FEW HUNTERS

Although honored through the usage of decades, the traditional family name of "Towser", "Sport" and "Fido" for the four-footed family pet is about to disappear. In their place have come new and modern names in keeping with the times.

"Towser" is now called "Jack." "Sport" may be summoned to his evening meal by the name of "Pat". And even staid old "Fido" may now rejoice in the brisker but less euphonic appellation of "Jerry," a casual survey of the police record book for dog licenses at the local police station discloses.

And with the change in names, the type of family dog now harbored by local owners has also undergone a change, startling in some aspects. Collies are still to be found in the city, but they are not the shaggy-haired large-brained type. They are of an inbred, smaller breed, and are far outranked by the alert appearing police dog. The poodle, a relic of the days of the family album and the stuffed birds in the glass vase in the front parlor has almost disappeared. In his place has come the more showy and frisky toy bulldog. Bostons predominate. The challenging bull terrier has also fought himself into extinction, owners have little time for law suits and complaints of neighbors these trying times. He has ceded his position in dogdom to the less aggressive greyhound or other showy breed. Big dogs are scarce. Families now prefer just a medium sized pet with "a certain air." Hunting and working dogs dear to the hearts of sportsmen are kept only by a few. Since the ban on hounds in deer season, that bugle-toned dog is likely to die off. Only the popular and active beagle remains to thrive and hunt rabbits in local woodlots.

"There's sentiment in this matter of dogs," explained Police Sergeant Arthur Harman Saturday, on duty collecting fees for licenses. The family pet, he inferred is kept for the boy of the house. And, when his coppers aren't many enough to buy the needed tag each year, mother or dad generally come to the rescue.

Curiously enough, pointed out Sergeant Harman, the majority of the tags each year are bought with small change. He well recalls an instance of where one local citizen plunked a small bag on the police desk. Inside it were two hundred coppers, enough for the license. Fido, or rather "Jerry" is constantly upon the owner's mind. When a bit of loose change is secured, it is popped into the family bank "to pay for the license next year." And instances of small boys entering the station with only part of the sum to pay the tag are not unknown. How many times the sum is made up by the police themselves was not revealed, although it is not done as a regular matter.

"There will always be dogs. They fill a place that nothing else can. They may be a nuisance and sometimes a bother, but we'll always have them," commented one veteran policeman.

Indication that their numbers are not decreasing this year is offered by the fact that this year shows a considerable gain in number of licenses issued over the year before. "And people are paying them with better grace and a bigger smile."

FRUIT MACHINERY LOSES SCRAP IRON

When the officials of the Fruit Machinery Company opened their foundry early today a large quantity of scrap iron was missing. The police were notified and after checking up the matter with the company's officials it was discovered that nearly 150 pounds of scrap iron had been stolen from the rear of the foundry yard. It is believed by the officials that the robbers backed a truck into the rear yard of the Fruit Machinery Company and made off with their loot. A complete description of the stolen iron was available and turned over to the police, who are still investigating.

POLICE COURT

A small, uninteresting docket was presented at Monday morning's police court, held before Magistrate Mikel. A local motorist paid ten dollars for operating a motor vehicle with defective brakes. "This is the third case the police have discovered in a week and I might say this driving of automobiles and trucks with inadequate brakes is becoming a menace and must stop," stated Chief Kidd after the accused man had pleaded guilty. The fine was paid.

A newcomer to the police court pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and had his case enlarged for one week for sentence, thus giving the accused an opportunity to raise the necessary fine. "This man was drinking, what the boys call "rubbie-dub", pointed out the Chief.

The majority of the poll tax delinquents have paid their tax, according to Tax Collector T. E. Ketcheson. "There are a very few outstanding cases now, Your Worship, and we expect to have them cleared up by the end of the month or they will have to suffer the penalty of the law," said Mr. Ketcheson.

No motor accidents of a serious nature were reported to the local police nor to Traffic Officer L. B. Byles over the week-end.

HYDRO BOARD MAKES REPLY

Electrical Dealers' Complaints Are Answered

The Hydro range campaign was given attention by the Belleville Commission today as it was felt that some consideration ought to be given the projected drive for the installation of electric ranges. Some time ago the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission gave public consideration to the problem but whether anything is to be done or not by the Ontario Commission is yet to be determined. Meanwhile western municipalities have taken up the question and it was deemed advisable by the local commission to plan to bring who is well versed in the present scheme in Toronto to speak to the Belleville Commissioners at a meeting to be held in a few days.

The question is concerned in a measure with financing of the purchase of new ranges, but is chiefly an effort to extend the use of power.

It is believed that there are many prospects of sale of electrical ranges should such a scheme be available here.

No Free Power

A communication from the Ontario Hydro in regard to Mr. Mikel's appeal for free delivery of power at the Victoria Park on the occasion of the centennial pointed out that free delivery was impossible owing to the fact that the consumers of power are supposed to secure energy at cost and any free delivery would merely make the Hydro customers pay, which would not be permitted. The suggestion was made that as the event is of a civic nature it might be possible to secure civic funds to pay for the installation and the delivery of power.

Manager Scott gave Mayor Tice estimates on the cost of bringing power to the park. The communication from the Ontario Hydro Commission will be handed over to the Centennial Committee.

Protests Answered

At today's meeting, the local Hydro Commission made reply to some complaints made to the Hydro by electrical men connected with the Retail Merchants' Association. Mr. E. Logan was present as chairman of the committee dealing with such matters, and Mr. M. W. Wright appeared as their representative.

Asked by the commission if any complaints had been secured in writing over the name of the complainant, and Mr. Wright said that none such had been secured.

However the Hydro went on to deal with the complaints. The first was that the Hydro was in a position to force payment of bills for merchandise bought at the Hydro shop and that the commission was thereby using its power monopoly to compel payments for shop bills. The answer was that while a merchandise bill went out with the power bill, purchasers of merchandise were not forced to have their lights cut off because they did not pay their merchandise account. Not one instance of power cut off for non-payment of merchandise was on record, said Mr. Scott, manager.

Metre Reader Too Busy

To the complaint that the metre reader had opportunities in the houses to investigate the opportunities for the sale of electrical appliances, the manager said that one man reads the metres and delivers the bills and had no time at all for trying to find out what possibilities there were for sale of other electrical equipment.

To the complaint that the Hydro was able to finance more cheaply the sale of merchandise, Mr. Scott stated that the only sales extended over a year for payments were in refrigerators, and that six per cent interest was the rate charged on time payment accounts.

Answering the complaint that the power consumers passing through the Hydro office to pay their bills might have a chance to look over lamps and other electrical devices, the manager stated that it did not follow that because a person was first interested in one store he bought his electrical needs in that shop.

Shop Pays Way

The chief complaint of course was that the Hydro shop was able by reason of lower overhead to sell cheaper. Mr. Wright said it was the belief of some of the retail electrical dealers that no charge was made for light, heat, rent, taxes, salaries and so forth in the shop—"that it does not cost the shop a red copper".

Electrical dealers complained that they could not afford to light up their shops as well as the Hydro but it was pointed out that all charges are made against the shop for labor, for store room rental, for sales tax, for electrical inspection, for salaries, for lighting and heating, for general office expenses, for rental, for insurance, for taxes—a total of about $5,000 a year charged to the office for the retail end of the business.

"We are running this business for the benefit of the city. Our work is to sell as much electricity as we can to bring the rates down," said Mr. Scott.

"We have saved the city over $215,000 since we have had the plant," remarked Chairman George A. Reid who referred to the fact that the city once had a gas stove sales room and after a time in answer to protest of merchants disposed of their stock of gas stoves to dealers, with the result that the sale of gas stoves fell in the city.

Mayor Tice referred to this condition, indicating that the Hydro sales shop was one of the best means known for the boosting of the sale of electric energy.

Cooking School Praised

He also said: "One of the finest things ever done for Belleville was the electrical cooking school in Belleville which one thousand women could attend."

"Do you people solicit business outside the city?" asked Mr. Wright. To which Mr. Scott replied: "We sell wherever we can. We were out at a cheese factory along with three representatives of other firms on a prospective sale."

STRIKE THREATENS GREAT LAKE SHIPPING

A strike of tugboat men at five Lake Erie points, which is expected to spread to other ports, threatens to cripple shipping on the Great Lakes at the opening of a season promising the heaviest traffic in several years. Members of the Tug Firemen and Linemen's Protective association and the Licensed Tugmen's Protective Association are demanding an eight-hour day and restoration of the 1929 wage level. This photo shows the freighter Amazon only half loaded, being towed hurriedly out of Suyahoga river at Cleveland to beat the deadline in the strike.

MAN BETTER GET ANOTHER DOG

"Say, what'll I do, I bought a dog tag last week and my dog died over the week-end?" was the question heard by the police sergeant on the desk at the police station this morning, when he answered a telephone call.

The officer seemed rather puzzled for the moment, but after perusing over the matter for a moment suggested the man (it is believed the voice was that of a man) purchase a new dog for his recently acquired, but now somewhat useless, dog tag.

"I thought I might get a rebate," came back a disgruntled reply from the unknown party, who then hung up apparently in disgust.

PETER HEENAN OBJECTS TO GOV'T RULING

Meetings in Northern Camps Banned During Elections

MANIFESTO COMING

Premier Henry And Cabinet Will Visit Every Riding

Toronto, May 21.—(CP)—Premier George S. Henry is expected to place his government's election manifesto before the electors and then prepare for his official campaign tour for the Ontario general elections in which the voters go to the polls June 19.

Constituencies were rapidly approaching the end of their nomination meetings and by the middle of next week all government candidates are expected to be in the field. There were six Conservatives nominated during the week-end and one C.C.F. The Liberals have a few more nomination meetings to complete their full standard bearers.

Mitchell F. Hepburn will journey to Windsor today to continue his campaigning, which he has promised "will include two meetings a day until voting day. He also speaks at Sarnia on Friday after the Welland meeting.

Conservatives nominated today at, one more than the Liberal choices. The Co-opgative Commonwealth Federation candidates number 18 and there are seven Communists and six Independents. North Wellington Conservatives meet at Arthur today to name their candidate and South Wentworth Conservatives gather in Hamilton. Premier Attorney General W. H. Price will speak. Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Ontario Minister of Highways, will appear at the Windsor Conservative meeting.

Many Chosen

Candidates chosen during the week-end were: R. P. Randle, Conservative for Brant; J. Duff Brown, Conservative for East Kent; John S. Craig, Conservative for Lanark; Hon. Paul Polson, Minister without portfolio, Conservative for North Essex; William O. Weichel, Conservative for North Waterloo; Duncan McNaughton, Conservative, Lambton; and Howard Ellis Brown, C. C. F., Welland.

Liberals have decided to enter a candidate in the South Wentworth riding and will meet May 25 to name their candidate.

The Dominion government has announced a ban on meetings in unemployment relief camps of the Department of National Defence in Northern Ontario during the election campaign. Similar action was taken, when the British Columbia general elections were held.

Hon. Peter Heenan, former Liberal Labor Minister, who planned to tour the north during the election, intends placing his objection to the ruling before the House of Commons.

Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, who addressed the Rideau Club meeting where Mr. Heenan was named East North Cenotre candidate, predicted the Ashfield power development would be "the greatest yearling investment that this province has ever had" within five years time. He said he would be proud to say he had "put over the Ashfield deal."

HON. MEREDITH DIES AT 87

Former Chief Justice of Ontario, Retiring in 1930

London, Ont., May 21 (CP)—Funeral services for Hon. Richard Martin Meredith, former Chief Justice of the Ontario Supreme Court who died here yesterday, will be held from the home at 10 o'clock today morning. The services will be private and will be conducted by Very Rev. Canon Norman Tucker. Burial will be in Woodland Cemetery.

The former Chief Justice who spent 40 years on the Supreme Court Bench, had been ailing since last fall for months ago. His health began to decline and four days ago pneumonia appeared. He grew gradually weaker and died yesterday morning.

The former Chief Justice retired from the bench in 1930. He was 87 years of age, member of a brilliant family of which Chief Justice Meredith, K.C., is now the sole survivor. He is London city solicitor and a brother of the deceased.

Since his retirement the noted jurist had spent most of his time in his garden among the flowers he loved. His retirement came long after he was eligible to enter the lists at times receiving full emolument from the Bench after years of service. He was determined to remain as long as he was able to perform his duties.

The bitter winters told on the aged jurist and two years ago he felt the chill climate severely. A few months ago he was stricken with a cold which led to his death. Noted brothers of the former Chief Justice predeceased him in recent years. They were Sir William Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal; Sir William Ralph Meredith, another Chief Justice of the Ontario Supreme Court and Edmund Meredith, K.C., of London, famous criminal lawyer. They all were sons of John W. C. Meredith of London.

RAINFALL IN WEST HEAVY

Winnipeg, May 21 (CP)—Already given a fairly good soaking in many places, Western Canada farmers were due for more scattered showers today.

And it was the rain that counted so far as many districts were concerned. Parched and dusty, the prairie land would need steady, growing grains were having a hard time until week-end rains in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta brought much-needed moisture.

The forecast for Manitoba and Saskatchewan said scattered showers, cloudy and cool weather would prevail today with occasional showers. Northwest winds were forecast for Alberta, with a few scattered showers and cool weather.

Manitoba and Alberta received generous rains yesterday but in Saskatchewan there was a combination of rain and dust storms. Cloudy skies over the mid-western province gave hope a heavier rain would fall today. A short rain at Saskatoon was followed by a dust storm at night but in the south the order was reversed—morning dust storms be followed by rain.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Nespawa, Man., May 21 (CP)—Victim of an explosion of compressed air, the body of Charles R. Parrott, 37, was found yesterday in the basement of a gasoline service station here.

Parrott was in the habit of sleeping in the building and had gone to the basement last night. Investigation indicated the safety valve on the barrel connecting the air compression system had been left off and the continually increasing pressure had caused the explosion. Pipes were twisted badly by the force of the blast.

PECULIAR MISHAP

The little lad in Washington D. C. who drew several thousand people by getting his foot caught in a pipe and nothing on this Paul Revering, aged five, of Halifax. Watching a band, the little fellow got his foot caught in a pipe, and the combined efforts of police and firemen couldn't get it out. Finally the city hall was called and preparations were made to cut away the sidewalk. Just before the digging started, a passerby noticed that the pipe was a water pour water down the hole. They did, the foot came out, and several hundred people who had tried for some time had red faces.

BATTLE BUSH FIRE

Sudbury, Ont., May 21 (CP)—Seventy-five men today were battling a serious bush fire in Mottat township near Stupart on the Canadian National Railways.

The blaze which had been burning since Friday got out of control early today and 50 fighters were enlisted here and rushed to the scene by train.

AIRPLANES SEEK SHIP

TRTBHAR, May 21.—(CP)—The Japanese Air Squadron base here was ordered out today to make a thorough search of the S.S. Amur for the steamer Chilliwi which reported May 12th that he had been fired on from the Russian frontier.

The order for the search came when the ship failed to arrive at Heino on schedule.

FIVE KILLED IN ACCIDENTS OVER WEEKEND

Five Others Lose Lives Through Other Causes

WOMAN DROWNED

Another Hangs Self in Cellar Due to Ill Health

(By The Canadian Press)

Traffic accidents took a toll of five lives in Ontario during the week end, six other lives claimed through other causes. One man died from a self-inflicted shotgun wound and a woman died from hanging. Three children were included in the death list of 12 persons.

Thirteen-year-old Frank Zderchik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Zderchik of Waterford, drowned yesterday in a pond into which he became frightened and jumped into shallow water from a boat which he was attempting to pilot. His body was found by two men who jumped into 20 feet of water to bring it to the surface.

The two other children, Paul Revering, aged 5, and Catherine Victor, aged 5, met their deaths on Toronto streets, the former struck by motor truck. Paul died shortly after being hit by a motor car. Lenore was injured fatally by an automobile as she crossed the street.

Another motorcycle mishap claimed the life of 18year-old Irene Connor of Toronto, who was thrown from the rear seat of a skidding machine and suffered a skull fracture. Sam Willis driver of the motorcycle, was injured.

Search parties spent 24 hours looking for Clarence Yule on his father's farm in Perry township. They found his body in a swamp, a shotgun beside it, and the side of his face and neck blown away. The coroner decided an inquest unnecessary.

Found Dead In Cellar

Mrs. Mary Pearis in ill health for some time, was found dead in the cellar of her Hamilton home, her body hanging to a beam. The wife of Mrs. Walter Poole of Galt was taken from a mill race at Ayrs.

A hurtling auto claimed the life of John Lawrence, 20-year-year New Lowell and injured David Craddock and Harry Leaman, also of New Lowell, when it overturned, assulted, plinning Handy beneath it. Leaman walked to a farmhouse nearby to walk a mile to New Lowell and obtained relief.

A. R. McArthur, 36, of Brantford, lost his life when a train struck him over five times near Ancaster. Jack Semmlin of Hamilton was injured seriously.

Fourth tenth victim was Joseph Leviller, who died from an eye injury, suffered when a splinter entered the optic while he was concentrating on a block floor. The eye was removed but complications re-

"Business as Usual" Slogan of Officials after Disastrous Fire

Property Damage of 10 Millions and Injury to 1,500 at Chicago

UNKNOWN ORIGIN

Convinced However Fire Started From Carelessly Tossed Cigarette

Chicago, May 21—(AP)—Livestock poured into the Chicago stockyards today despite Saturday's disastrous fire which injured some 1,500 persons and caused property damage estimated from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000.

"Business as usual" was the slogan of stockyards officials as workmen set about to clear away the charred ruins for the rebuilding with improvements of the district's approximately one eighth of a square mile.

The cause of the blaze, which levelled scores of private homes, several flat buildings and more than 1 dozen major structures including the International Amphitheatre, home of the International Stock Shows, was undetermined. Some investigators, including O. T. Henkle, general manager of the stock yards said they were convinced the conflagration had its origin in a carelessly tossed cigarette.

Henkle said he did not believe there was any truth to reports that the holocaust was the outgrowth of labor troubles.

Fire Chief Michael Corrigan, leader of an army of 2,200 fire fighters who succeeded in checking the flames only after scores of them had been injured, said that spontaneous combustion might have been the cause. Another theory suggested a spark from a locomotive.

Chief Corrigan said he feared for a while, that the flames would reach Lake Michigan.

"When I arrived at the yards the fire had gathered terrific force," he said. "It was coming towards me so fast and the air so hot no human could stand in its way.

"We tried to cut off the fire within the yards, but every few minutes it seemed to give us the orders to uncouple and move back. I kept in communication with division marshals by messengers. Men were stashed to the roofs of buildings in the path of the flames to wet them down. Our job was to hold a water curtain in front of the oncoming walls of fire and this is what we did."

The prolonged dry weather added to the handicap of the fire fighters.

Livestock Pens Burned

In addition to the International Amphitheatre, 40 per cent of the livestock pens were destroyed, were the Livestock Record Building, the Livestock National Bank, the Stock Yard Inn with its well known Saddle and Sirloin Club, all the property of the Union Stock Company; the Drovers National Bank buildings and the Drover's Journal Building with its radio station.

Among the buildings damaged was the P. Newman Packing Company plant, a big warehouse of the Omaha Packing Company, the Independent Packing Company and the Levi Plexier Packing Company.

The damage to the stock yards alone was estimated by general manager Henkle at $4,000,000 or $6,000,000.

Although the fire was the largest since the great fire of 1871, which virtually wiped Chicago off the map, there was no loss of life as a direct result of the blaze. One fireman, however, was killed as an indirect result — that of Walter Blumfield 32, who died apparently of excitement, when the flames swept to within two blocks of his home.

Most of the injured received minor wounds. Although some 500 required hospital treatment. Firemen got out in time themselves.

The police estimated that no less than 15,000 sightseers rushed to the stricken area yesterday to view the smouldering debris. Some of them drove from Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

HOW DOES HE KNOW LIPSTICK IS HARMFUL?

Senator Neely of W. Virginia Asked Embarrassing Query

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Senator Neely of West Virginia, just after making an eloquent speech in the United States Senate about him views on lipstick, found himself asked an uncomfortable question.

Considering the Copeland Pure Food and Drug Bill, the West Virginian inquired if it did not forbid "the excessive use of the ammoniable lipstick."

He contended that "three ounces" use of lipstick has greatly increased the world's troubles," and added "lipstick is not healthful for women. It is not safe for men."

"Does the Senator, asked Copeland of New York, "wish to temporize on the subject at any great length?"

FATAL WORK

M a city of 26,500 persons were wiped out, a hundred of them killed and the rest injured, in an earthquake, the public would have an exact idea of the highway cost in life and limb of the past three years in Ontario.

Ontario has no earthquakes but her loss is through motorcars as great. Earthquakes are rare, even in other lands where there is settlement of the earth's crust, quakes do not occur every three years.

And yet with this story of a holocaust on the roads that pass our doors there is not a cry of horror, because deadly accidents take off the victims one by one or two or three or four at a time on the roads we are so familiar with. Have we become callous to death and suffering and to the loss in millions in property and in labor?

One cannot prevent earthquakes but the nations can prevent slaughter under motorcars. Yet warned as they may be, personal safety is chance and are killed or kill on the paved ways.

In the years 1931-33 in Ontario 27,046 accidents were reported, causing death to 1,476 persons and injury to 24,602 and three million dollars in property loss. The population of scores of villages wiped out yearly!

That, if the result of an earthquake, would be a big quake with a big loss. It is only the death of the people we know. We cannot prevent quakes and were terrified and horrorstruck when we hear of men, women and children buried or bruised in the collapse of buildings or the splitting earth. But if an automobile collapses, causing a fracture of a skull or the severance of an artery, or the loss of eyesight, or crushing, what if we are to be the next to die? And yet these are the things we as drivers can prevent and must prevent.

One would think that there should be a league among the men who drive—that they should see to it that no member of the driving clan is hurt by another driver. Well, if that were brought about there would be no accidents. Or if not that, then with another motor vehicle is the cause of 39.3 per cent. of all accidents, collision with pedestrians is next at 31.6 per cent., non-collision (such as overturning or running off highway) 7.4 per cent. Collisions with fixed obstacles or bicycles registered 12.6 per cent.

To collide with a railway train is most fatal as might be expected, with 24 deaths in each 25 per cent. The death toll was next highest in the non-collision class but the collision type with whom we have to 7.6 per cent. or about 52 per cent greater than for all types.

The chief mark of civilization is the value it places on life, and its chief boast on setting up safeguards to life and limb. Governments do their part. Let motorists do theirs.

The reckless driver is sooner or later caught in an accident. The law of averages must catch up. Today the increased number of motorcars, and other traffic, and the competition of situations for room and faced within a short time, combine to make driving more than mere gear shifting and steering. The driver, to be worthy of responsibility, must be everlastingly alert, must know the fundamentals of safe driving, and practice them, must have regard for the rights of others, keep his car in good mechanical condition and must aim first of all safety.

One novel finding after analysis of all these figures is that taxicabs and busses have the lowest fatal rate.

The blow-out, the puncture, the glare, the poor brake, have caused many deaths.

A DIRE CONSEQUENCE

A man was executed in 1887 in Kazan, Russia, as a plotter against the regime of the Czar. His name was Alexander Ulianov, and he had a brother who later was known as Lenin.

It was the execution of Alexander which started Lenin on his revolutionary career," comments the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph. "It made him an implacable and sleepless foe of Czarism; thereafter he schemed and plotted and worked night and day for one aim—the overthrow of the Czar's government."

Somehow the Russian imperial government missed Lenin. If they had "got" him they might have prevented the Russian revolution.

These facts about Alexander Ulianov were found in the official archives in the town of Kazan.

The Czar had failed to exercise executive clemency. Had he reprieved Alexander there might have been no revolution, but for thirty years the shadow of that execution was preparing the end of imperialism in Russia and of the Czar Nicholas and his family, and a turmoil in Eastern Europe, the end of which is not yet comprehended or seen.

The choicest pleasures of life lie within the ring of moderation.—Tupper.

A HILL IN MAY

O, for a blossomy hill in May,
Swept by a wind that blows care away!
A hill so steep that you climb with a gasp
And catch at a sapling with frantic clasp
Just as you pull yourself up to its crest,
There to be master of east and west,
There to be lord of the north and the south,
And to glimpse the river winding forth
Out of a fold in the hills below,
Bright as a ribbon you see it flow!
There to lie, prone in the waving grass
And gaze at the sky where white clouds pass;
To catch the sudden flash of a wing
As a lark goes by, too swift to sing!
Never a fear there and never an ill!
O, for the blossomy breast of a hill!

HABITS WHICH BRING ABOUT POOR MEMORY

Run-down State of Health Mostly Responsible For Failing Memory

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Longevity
(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

When memory begins to fail it does not take long for the average person to begin to worry. And yet the cause may be simple enough. Some of the factors we should consider, really, is that no one is good for a period of time.

Much of the commonest causes for poor memory is a run-down physical state that has permitted what I "fatigue substances" to accumulate in the tissues. Such debilitating factors are: Boredom, really—are to be found not only in substances in the nerve cells as well. Not enough sleep, lack of exercise, too much work without interruption, a sluggish intestinal tract, poor circulation, even inadequate elimination through the skin and kidneys—any one of these may indirectly affect the memory.

Faulty habits of concentration are another cause, although it may be said that the processes already enumerated may be responsible for poor attention, as well. Usually also, when we are worried, fear, do not remember as they should. Our thoughts are on other things. The result is a feeling of impression, consequently, poor memory.

Psychologists, who divide the mind into two great divisions the conscious and the subconscious—recognize a third division which they call the "foreconscious". This foreconscious is the place just underneath the conscious and just outside the focus of attention. Here, thoughts and impressions may linger for days before they are finally submerged into the subconscious part of our thinking—in other words, from the subconscious where they are more or less permanently stored in the memory.

It is believed that while thoughts may linger in the foreconscious they may be brought to the surface at any time by the will. If, on the other hand, thoughts finally drop down deeply enough into the subconscious it may then be impossible to resurrect them.

In reality, the mind is not composed of layers, nor is it correct to state that thoughts are stored away at different levels. This conception, nevertheless, helps to make it clear why we remember some things but promptly forget others.

The determing factor—aside from difficult or faulty habits—has to do with the emotional content that goes with thinking. If, for instance, our subsequent thoughts are of a pleasurable nature, it is usually possible to recall them. Contrarily, disagreeable thoughts, worries, anxieties, and the like, are held fast in the subconscious, and after a while we find it extremely difficult to recall them.

The mechanism involved is a self-protective one. Were we to remember every day all the mental disturbances that most of us have subject to, our conscious mind would be unable to carry on because it would be too disturbed. Poor memory may be a means of helping us, of giving us peace of mind.

The thing to do, when poor memory prevails, is to try to discover the cause and, if possible, remove it. As a rule, physical factors can be corrected more readily than mental ones but even the latter will respond if thorough and sincere introspection is practised.

ONE MAN DIES IN BAD FIRE

Sydney, N.S., May 21 (CP)—One man died today and a second lifts war flung into the balance as flames raced through an old wooden structure in Sydney's coke ovens district and trapped three coloured men on its upper floors.

He was encircled by fire in the flames rather than burned to death in the ground. He was dead, burned beyond recognition, when firemen crashed into the bedroom to find him lying across his blazing mattress.

One flight up, Mariano Mastilini chanced the jump. A human torch, he leaped out of a blaze of flame to the sill of his bedroom window. Horrified spectators saw him hesitate a moment, then fall in a curtain of fire. Then, with a prayer on his blackened lips, he dropped toward the street, 35 feet below.

Halfway down his body struck a string of telephone wires bounced upward and then toppled twistingly earthward again. Unconscious, when he was picked from the sidewalk he gained consciousness in a moment and the silent crowd heard his loud prayers as his doctors carried him into an ambulance.

This "Hospital-Tested" Tonic Helped Them to Well and Strong

"I wish from my heart," writes Mrs. Louis Mondou of Oak Point, Manitoba, "I could persuade every person who is run-down to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. About a year ago I was suffering from a run-down system. Any little exercise would cause me to tremble, and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room but my fifty feet without being exhausted. "Then I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes I am as well and strong as ever."

You, too, can regain a weak, run-down system with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This is the same tonic that restored Mrs. Mondou to a leading hospital with a group of other patients who proved a remarkably efficient builder of rich blood, strong nerve-muscle, cleansing and enriching the blood of poor, thin, pimply skin, and revitalizing their systems with vim, vigor and vitality, bringing them feel like new people.

HUGE ATTACK IS REPULSED

Major Gribble and Capt. Howard in Charge of Defense

A theoretical attacking enemy was theoretically blasted and routed from its position of assault and routed with heavy loss in the vicinity of Carrollton and surrounding district on Sunday by the display of impregnable force put up by the local regiment of the Argyle Light Infantry, who spent the day in tactical manoeuvres under the critical and experienced eye of Major G. L. Salmon, G.S.O. of Kingston Military Headquarters.

'It was a most successful and highly significant regime carried out in a perfect military manoeuvre" was one sentence written into the reports by the G.S.O. who complimented the men and officers of the local corps on their display.

Responsible for the success of the defence of their position were Major Beverly Gribble and Captain Howard of the local corps, who had completed the plan of defense. It was then left to Major Hubert Jones to carry out the plan.

Over one hundred and sixty strong, men and officers of the Argyle Light Infantry had marched to Carrollton early in the day and had deployed in that district waiting for the expected attack by the Black Army, who marched from the north, intent on taking the consolidated position. The resistance and superior generalship displayed by the local corps was too much to overcome. The theoretical enemy retreated, disorganized and beaten into their own territory. The attack was not pressed. But the signal victory managed to gain the local officers many points by General Staff Officer, Major Salmon, who was present to view the tactics of the defending and opposing armies.

No blank cartridges were used by the men in defence of the line, but the military manoeuvres were executed perfectly.

The battalion marched to the engagement under Lt. Col. S. A. Geen, commanding officer, who afterward turned the defence over to Major Jones.

The scheme was the first one that has been held by the local corps in many years. It met with such unqualified success, that it is expected future sham battles and engagements will be held by the Argyle Light Infantry at more frequent intervals.

A full report is expected to be received from Kingston from Military Headquarters.

YOUNG DOCTOR SHOT IN CAR

Parked on Roadside With Young Woman in Machine

Detroit, May 21.—(AP)—Dr. D. W. Johnston, Jr., Wayne County Medical Examiner, was shot and killed early this morning by a special deputy sheriff in nearby Macomb County, while the physician was seated in an automobile with a young woman.

The deputy, Matthew Berger, a farmer living near the intersection of Twelve Mile Road and Schoenherr Road, where the shooting took place, told Sheriff George T. Smith of Macomb County and Assistant Prosecutor Vincent L. Fitzgerald that he fired accidentally.

Miss Anne Nixon, who was with the physician and the deputy, were fired without warning but the deputy said he fired two warning shots after ignoring what he said was a report that "there was a lot of noise" coming from it.

PHILLIP DENYES HONORED AT 92

Day's Enjoyment Marred by Indisposition of Guest

Mr. Phillip Denyes, well known resident of Trent Road, celebrated his ninety-second birthday yesterday and the occasion was marked by a party arranged by his son, Mr. Fred Denyes, and Mrs. Denyes with whom he resides. Guests who numbered forty-five were present from Odessa, Foxboro, Trenton, Belleville, and Hallway and included Mr. Denyes' daughters, Mrs. John Boyd and Mrs. Jos. Thrasher and their husbands. Mr. Denyes received many lovely gifts as well as messages of good wishes and congratulations.

An interesting event during the afternoon was the christening ceremony of Mr. Denyes' great grandchild, Gilbert Waite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wait, Mrs. Waite is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Denyes. Mr. Rev. Pirnt was the officiating clergyman.

Twenty-four guests were present at tea and spent the evening with Mr. Denyes.

You have certain fixed living expenses — rent, food, clothing, light, and other necessities. You save money every week so that these bills can be paid at the first of every month. Whatever else you buy must come from surplus savings, over and above those set apart to cover living costs. To make those savings buy the utmost value for the money is the essence of true economy.

Save to buy—then buy to save. Know what you need to buy before going to the store. Know what you can afford to pay before you start out to make a purchase. That is the one sure way to get the most for your money.

Make it a habit to read the advertisements in your newspaper every day. By doing so you will learn where to buy things you need and where your dollar will buy the greatest value. The advertisements will show you where to purchase better food, better clothes, and yet save you money. They will help you live better and enjoy the good things of life. SPINAL CORD IS SEVERED

Fracture of Back of Gordon Powers Very Serious

Hope was revived only to be lost again, by Gordon Powers of Beaucroft at the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday afternoon.

Lying in the hospital, a paralytic invalid since May 4th last, following a car accident on the Trent River, just west of this city, Mr. Powers has awaited patiently until strength had been recovered sufficiently to enable an operation to be performed by a skilled specialist to learn if he would ever walk again. The victim had been paralyzed from the waist down.

On Saturday, with a number of local doctors and friends and relatives in attendance, Dr. McKenzie, of Toronto, one of the best known brain and nerve specialists in the country, arrived and performed the operation. It was found that the spinal cord had been severed. The patient would never walk again, he announced.

The upper portion of the body is paralyzed by the snapping of the spinal cord but no movement is possible below the waist. It was reported. Otherwise, the patient is physically well.
